Introduction

Note: This introduction to Info Source is in large print to assist persons with visual disabilities.

About Info Source

This book, Info Source (Sources of Federal Government Information), will make it fast and easy for you to find out about the Government of Canada, its organization and its information holdings. It will help you determine where you should go, write or call to make government enquiries, and is likely to be the first and only step you'll need to take to locate the source of the information you want.

This book is also the key to learning how to exercise your rights under two Canadian laws – the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. This Introduction tells you what you need to know to request information under those legislations.

First, however, it is helpful for you to understand the basic differences between the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act. The information contained under each Act is different and there are different procedures to obtain it. The following pages describe the essential details.

Info Source combines and replaces the Access Register and the Index to Personal Information, two publications you might have seen or used before.

The annual edition of Info Source is complemented by bulletins and the Guide to Sources of Federal Government Information.

Inside Info Source

This book has three main components:

Table of Contents

The Table of Contents is organized alphabetically by the commonly used name of the department or agency, such as Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada or Health Canada, rather than by their legal titles, Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food or Department of Health.

Introduction

The Introduction includes:

- information about the terms used throughout the book, some essential points about the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and directions on how to go about locating information by using Info Source or by making a formal request under either Act;
- a listing of Access to Information and Privacy Coordinators, which is organized in the same order as the Table of Contents, gives you the address and telephone number of all Access to Information and Privacy offices; and
- the description of the Standard Program Records. This is a category of records of an administrative nature which have been standardized across the government.

Chapters

There is one chapter for each federal government department or agency subject to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, or to the Privacy Act only.

Except for the institutions subject to the Privacy Act only, each chapter contains:

General Information about the institution, including:

- Background
- Responsibilities
- Legislation
- Organization

Information Holdings including:

- Program Records
- Standard Program Records
- Personal Information Banks

- Classes of Personal Information
- Manuals

Additional Information including:

- Address of a central information source, as well as regional addresses, if any
- Reading Room(s)

Useful terms

Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator Each federal government department or agency has an Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator. The Coordinator's Office is staffed by people who can answer questions and help you identify the records you wish to see. The Coordinators may be contacted in person, by telephone or by letter. If you send a letter, include as much information as you can to help the staff locate the records you want and send you a reply as soon as possible.

Classes of Personal Information Other personal information not used administratively or not retrievable by personal identifier, for instance unsolicited opinions, complaints or correspondence, is described under "Classes of Personal Information". This category was included to ensure that government departments and agencies account for all personal information which they hold.

Manuals The manuals listed under this title contain the directives, instructions, guidelines or procedures which are used by the employees of a department or agency to carry out its operations, activities or programs.

Personal Information Banks Personal Information Banks provide a summary of the type of information about individuals which is held by federal departments and agencies. The Privacy Act requires that Personal Information Banks include all personal information that is organized and retrievable by a person's name or by an identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned only to that person. Personal Information Banks must also include personal information which has been or is being used, or is available for use for an administrative purpose.

Personal Information Banks – Federal Employees The Personal Information Banks for Government of Canada employees are now described in a separate publication, Info Source (Sources of Federal Employee Information). This book will be available in the office of the Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator at each federal government department or agency, federal government personnel offices and federal libraries.

Program Records The Program Records provide pointers to program information held by each federal government department and agency, and describe the subject areas covered by these programs.

Program Record Number or Bank Number The Program Record Number or the Bank Number you see at the end of each Program Record or Personal Information Bank helps the Access to Information and Privacy office to locate the information you require.

Reading Room The Access to Information Act requires all government institutions to provide facilities where their manuals can be inspected. The location of one or more reading rooms is provided under this heading.

Standard Program Records Many departments and agencies use Standard Program Records to list information on administrative subject areas which are common to many institutions, for example Accounts and Accounting, Budgets, Buildings, etc.

Access to Information Act

The Access to Information Act gives Canadian citizens as well as people and corporations present in Canada the right to have access to federal government records that are not of a personal nature. The Act complements but does not replace other procedures for obtaining government information. It is not intended to limit in any way the access to government information that is normally available to the public upon request.

Wide range of information

You can ask for information, no matter what form it is in, including letters, memos, reports, photographs, films, microfilms and computerized data. This Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assists you in obtaining it.

Using the Access to Information Act

Some information may be exempt or excluded under the Act.

- Exemptions: Exemptions protect certain types of information that could cause harm if released. For example, some information on national security, law enforcement or trade secrets falls into this category.
- Exclusions: The Access to Information Act does not apply to public information that is already available, such as publications and material in libraries and museums. It also excludes material such as Cabinet documents. Of course, the Act cannot give you access to records that are not controlled by the federal government, such as those maintained by provincial or municipal governments or by private organizations such as commercial banks and credit bureaus.

How to apply

Once you have decided to make a formal request under the Access to Information Act, there are certain simple procedures to follow:

- Consult Info Source to find the appropriate department or agency.
- Obtain an Access to Information Request Form from any location where Info Source is available.
- If it is not convenient for you to fill in a form, you may send a letter, mentioning the Act (see details below).
- Enclose the application fee (see details below).
- Send the form or the letter to the Access to Information Coordinator at the appropriate department or agency.

If you decide to submit a letter, you must state clearly that you are requesting information under the Access to Information Act, and include the following:

- name of the government department or agency you believe has the information you want;
- description (be as specific as possible) of the records you want to see;
- preferred method of seeing the records (e.g., do you want to receive photocopies of the original documents or see the originals in the government office where they are located?);
- your name, street, address, city or town, province or territory, postal code, telephone number(s) and your signature;
- date of your request;
- application fee.

Fees and costs An application fee of $5 (subject to change) applies and additional costs may be charged for each request. You will be notified in advance if there are additional costs and you may be asked to make a deposit.

Turnaround time Government departments must acknowledge your request under the Access to Information Act within 30 days. However, in special cases, they may need more time to process your request. If you feel it's taking too long, you can complain to the Information Commissioner.

Information Commissioner

The Information Commissioner investigates formal complaints from members of the public arising from the Access to Information Act. If you have a complaint about the denial of access to information, fees charged for access, the time taken to respond to requests, refusal to give access in the official language requested, the Info Source book (as well as the Info Source computer database) and other matters that relate to requesting or obtaining access to records, you may contact the office of the Information Commissioner at:

Place de Ville, Tower B
112 Kent Street, 3rd Floor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 (Ottawa-Hull)

1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

When the Information Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all information which they are entitled to receive has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division for a review of the matter.

Privacy Act

In its day-to-day operations, federal government departments and agencies collect personal information from almost all Canadians. The Privacy Act gives Canadian citizens and people present in Canada the right to have access to information that is held about them by the federal government. It also protects against unauthorized disclosure of personal information. In addition, it strictly controls how the government will collect, use, store, disclose and dispose of any personal information.

Most information available when you ask Because much of your personal information is available to you informally at your request, this Info Source book has been designed to help you pinpoint the department or agency where the information is held and assist you in obtaining it.

Types of personal information held You probably already know about many of the programs and operations of the government that use personal information such as income tax at Revenue Canada, citizenship at Citizenship and Immigration Canada and the unemployment insurance program at Human Resources Development Canada.

Some personal information is confidential The federal government must keep some personal information confidential under the Privacy Act, much of which relates to other people, national security or law enforcement.

How to apply

When you have decided to make a formal request under the Privacy Act, there are certain procedures to follow. Remember, you will find what you are looking for faster if you already have a good idea of which department or agency has the information you want.

- Obtain a Personal Information Request Form at any location where Info Source is available.
- Fill out the form and identify yourself in such a way that the government can verify who you are, i.e. that it is you, and not someone else, asking for your information. The more precise the information you provide, the faster your request can be answered.
- Send the form to the Privacy Coordinator of the appropriate department or agency.
- There is no charge to apply for information under the Privacy Act.

To change the information If you believe the information which a federal institution has on file about you is untrue or misleading, you can ask to have it corrected. Even if the department or agency does not agree to change this information, it must make a note that you have asked for the change and attach it to the file.

Safeguarding personal information The protection of your personal information and privacy is also a very important purpose of the Privacy Act. The Act states how and when the government can collect, store and dispose of personal information. It also covers specifically why and how the information can be used or given out, as well as who can use or receive it.

Giving out information The government can only disclose your information to someone else with your consent or when one or more of the criteria in the Privacy Act are met, such as to comply with a subpoena.

Turnaround time Under the law, all or most of the information you ask for should be disclosed within 30 days of receiving the request. If a time extension is required, you will be notified within the first 30 days and told why up to another 30 days may be needed.

Privacy Commissioner

The Privacy Commissioner is a representative of the people with the power to look into complaints of improper collection, use, storage, disclosure or disposal of personal information. The Privacy Commissioner can also help if you are dissatisfied with the results of your formal application or the time it has taken to see your personal information.

When the Privacy Commissioner's investigation is complete, an individual who is of the opinion that they have not been given access to all of their personal information which they are entitled has the right to apply to the Federal Court – Trial Division for a review of the matter.

You can write or call the Privacy Commissioner's office at:

Place de Ville, Tower B
112 Kent Street, 3rd Floor
Ottawa, Ontario
K1A 1H3

Telephone: 995-2410 in Ottawa-Hull

1-800-267-0441 (national toll free number)

Using Info Source quickly and effectively

Determine the correct chapter Turn to the chapter of the department or agency you think has the information, and check the Program Records and the Personal Information Banks.

If you are unsure about the correct department or agency, a telephone call or letter to any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office should provide the answer.

For persons with disabilities: Individuals who are unable to exercise their rights using regular procedures may obtain further assistance from any Access to Information and Privacy Coordinator's office.

Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada

Chapter 1

General Information

Background

The Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food was established in 1867, the year of Confederation, by an act of Parliament. The formation of the Experimental Farms System followed in 1886 and a Dairy Commissioner was appointed in 1890.

The aim of the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food is to develop and assist the Canadian agriculture and food system to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers and export markets in a manner which ensures a dependable supply of safe, nutritious food at reasonable prices; to ensure equitable returns to producers, processors and marketers; and to meet Canadian food and technological aid commitments to international development.

The Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food, the Department and agencies administer 45 acts concerning food and agriculture industries. The activities of the Department extend from the farmer to the consumer, through all phases of production, processing and marketing of crops and livestock. The Department also assists farmers through crop insurance, price stabilization and agricultural adjustment programs to alleviate losses caused by the weather, changing markets and certain other hazards. While the collection and use of personal information is necessary for the performance of most activities, it is especially important for the following activities: research; regulation and licensing of imports and exports of livestock and plant products; control and eradication of animal diseases; and administration of the various loan and subsidy programs.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food is to promote the growth, stability and competitiveness of the agri-food sector through policies, programs and services most appropriately provided by the federal government to assist the sectors to maximize their real contribution to the Canadian economy. The Department's responsibilities embrace most aspects of the agricultural industry. It carries out research into the physical and economic problems of agriculture; inspects and grades farm products; and carries out programs aimed at keeping our crops and livestock safe from disease and insect pests. The Department enforces laws governing the sales of feed, fertilizers and pesticides; and assists farmers through measures such as price stabilization and crop insurance. It also provides consumer-oriented food advisory services and supervises race track betting.

Organization

■ Audit and Evaluation Branch

This Branch provides senior management with accurate, objective and timely information and advice on program effectiveness, efficiency and relevance. The principal activities of this Branch include: developing corporate policies for the audit and evaluation functions, developing annual and long-range plans and schedules for audit and evaluation, and conducting internal audits and program evaluations of departmental programs and operations primarily on the basis of management needs and priorities.

■ Canadian Grain Commission

The Canadian Grain Commission administers the Canada Grain Act through the recommendation and implementation of grading standards for grain, the licensing of grain elevators, the inspection and weighing of grain, the economic and statistical monitoring of grain handling and storage systems, research into the quality of cereal grains and oilseeds, and supervision of grain futures exchanges.

■ Co-operatives Secretariat

Provides federal focus on issues of interest to Canadian Co-operatives and a link between the co-operative sector and the many federal departments and agencies.

■ Communications Branch

The primary purpose of this branch is to provide communications services such as research, media analysis, advice and planning, and communications management to the department.

■ Corporate Services Branch

This Branch assists operating branches in achieving efficient, effective and economical delivery of departmental programs through provision of administrative and financial systems, consulting and library services, informatics services and standards to the Departmental Programs. The Corporate Services Branch, through corporate, branch and regional units, assists all management and operational elements in the Department in fulfilling their responsibilities for program delivery. It provides assistance, interpretation and direction to operational branches to ensure that central agency and parliamentary requirements are met. The branch also handles inquiries about Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada and the Canadian agri-food industry.

■ Departmental Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the correspondence, briefing and activity scheduling systems for the Minister, Deputy Minister and Associate Deputy Minister, for tracking and reporting on major current issues of concern to the Department, for Parliamentary Relations, and for providing secretariat services to the Departmental Management Committee and the Executive Committee of the Department.

■ Farm Financial Programs Branch

Farm Financial Programs is a business centre for managing the federal partnership role in supporting farm income. The Branch is involved in the negotiation of agreements, the guarantee of loans and the development and monitoring of programs. To carry out this role, the Branch negotiates farm income support agreements with the provinces and producer organizations. Federal/provincial agreements are carried out under the Gross Revenue Insurance Plan, the National Tripartite Stabilization Program, and the Crop Insurance Program; all of which fall under the authority of the Farm Income Protection Act. Federal agreements with producer-organizations are arranged under the Advance Payments for Crops Act, the Agricultural Products Cooperative Marketing Act and the Farm Improvement and Marketing Cooperatives Loans Act. This set of programs offers protection against market, production and revenue risks, guided by the principles of partnership, protection and reliability. To ensure that the agreements are effective, the Branch has development, monitoring and evaluation programs in place. This ensures the agreements result in actuarially sound programs which meet the changing needs of a dynamic industry.

■ Food Production and Inspection Branch

This Branch consists of the Animal and Plant Health Directorate, the Food Inspection Directorate, the Pesticides Directorate, the Assistant Deputy Minister's Office and the Canadian Pari-Mutuel Agency. This Branch protects the health of the Canadian plant and animal resource base; maintains and improves the marketability of agricultural and forest products; protects the wagering public at race tracks and assists in maintaining a viable racing industry and has the mandate for federal agri-food labelling and fraud prevention.

■ Grain Marketing Bureau

Coordinates and carries out trade development activities and contributes to the development of trade policy for grains and oilseeds products. It has close relations with various Crown agencies and quasi-governmental bodies involved in the grain industry and the private grain trade. It administers the Grains and Oilseeds Program and, in conjunction with the departments of Agriculture and Transport, provides support to the minister responsible for the Canadian Wheat Board. The primary objective of the Bureau is to encourage sustained and orderly growth in the production, processing and marketing of grains, oilseeds and their products.

■ Grains and Oilseeds Branch

This Branch provides direction and support required for the efficient and effective delivery and development of both domestic and international grains and oilseeds policies, programs and services. It contributes to ensuring the quality of standards and high worldwide reputation of Canadian grains and oilseeds through regulation of the handling industry. It contributes to stabilizing the income of grains and oilseeds producers from short-term market instabilities, providing grains and oilseeds industrial development assistance, and providing a focus for the federal relationship with the co-operatives sector. The Branch is organized into five areas: the Grain Marketing Bureau, the Co-operatives Secretariat, and the Priorities and Strategies Directorate, all located in Ottawa; the Livestock Feed Bureau, located in Montreal, Atlantic Canada and British Columbia, and the National Grains Bureau (NGB), located in Winnipeg (Western Grain Stabilization Administration and Net Income Stabilization Account are part of the NGB).

■ Human Resources Branch

The Branch promotes and facilitates, in partnership with managers, the optimal management of Human Resources towards the achievement of departmental objectives. The Human Resources Branch develops and administers human resources policies and programs and provides staff training and other related services for a staff of over 11,000 employees of the Department, at various locations across Canada.

■ Livestock Feed Bureau

Ensures the availability of adequate feed grain supplies and storage space to meet the needs of livestock producers in eastern Canada and British Columbia, contributes to reasonable price stability for such supplies, and assists in equalizing feed grain prices to livestock feeders in eastern Canada and in British Columbia.

■ Market and Industry Services Branch

The Mandate of the Market and Industry Services Branch is to work with the agri-food sector to enhance its global competitiveness and in so doing, increase the sector's share of both domestic and international markets for agriculture and agri-food products. It is comprised of 14 main responsibility centres – five headquartered in the National Capital Region and 7 regional offices. The international Markets Bureau develops, implements and administers activities and programs that facilitate the export of agri-food products and assist exporters to develop markets. The Agricultural Industry Services Directorate provides the services and coordination needed to ensure that Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada effectively commits resources to meet its clients' need in such areas as market access, export market development, market readiness and sector competitiveness. The Food Bureau provides intelligence about, and service to, the processed food industry – including agri-food and seafood – by maintaining a thorough knowledge of the food and beverage industry, and the consumers and markets that this industry serves. The International Trade Policy Directorate improve and secures market access for agri-food products; improves trade rules; and works towards reducing unfair competition in domestic or foreign markets. The National Marketing Programs Directorate administers marketing legislation and programs that facilitates and support the primary and post-farmgate sectors to participate and compete in domestic and international markets. The Strategic Planning and Policy Coordination Division coordinates Branch strategic planning and policy activities and feeds into the departmental strategic planning process. The Management Services Division provides support and advice related to operational planning, resource management, human resources training and development, information systems and general administration. In the regions, the seven regional offices are accountable for the implementation of regionally-based Branch programs and coordinate departmental approaches within each province.

■ National Marketing Systems (NMS) – Federal-Provincial Task on Orderly Marketing

This unit is sunsetted. The major focus of the NMS unit is to work with industry, governments and other stakeholders to redefine supply management in the post GATT era by July 1995. To adapt to globalization, the poultry and dairy sectors must work towards second-generation supply management and deal on a priority basis with productivity, competitiveness and the development of domestic and international markets.

The work of the Federal-Provincial Task Force on Orderly Marketing falls under the National Marketing Systems. The Task Force was established by Ministers of Agriculture and Agri-Food in December 1993. The Task Force submitted an action plan and a progress report which were approved by Federal-Provincial and Territorial Ministers in March and July 1994. Ministers have established objectives for the work of the Task Force and the five review committees established for each of the supply managed industries:

- provide an opportunity for fair returns to efficient participants in the sector;
- develop a fully market responsive sector, from production to consumption;
- enhance competitiveness;
- provide for the orderly removal of barriers to progress;
- ensure that all stakeholders play an appropriate role in decision-making;
- manage fairly the resolution of regional tensions;
- stimulate growth and investment in the sector.

Reports from the Task Force will be submitted to ministers in December 1994 and in the period leading to July 1995 outlining the consensus of industry and government stakeholders on identifying specific framework for managing the sectors in the future.

■ Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA)

Administers the NISA program in which individual producers make deposits to an individual account and contributions are matched by the federal and provincial governments. The producer is entitled to make account withdrawals when his net income is low.

■ Policy Branch

Policy Branch is the departmental organization that provides the focus for the development and coordination of policies, strategies and programs consistent with government objectives for the agri-food sector within the overall economy. The goals of the Branch are: to integrate federal efforts (in consultation with other program branches of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, federal departments, provincial governments and the agri-food industry) in farm development, farm finance, income, production and market risk, agricultural adjustment, and commodity policies; to develop sectoral commodity strategies and market outlooks; to coordinate strategy and policy planning in the Department; and to support other departmental activities by providing economic analysis and data, commodity information and policy support. This is carried out through the sub-activities of Policy Analysis and Evaluation, Economic Research and Analysis, Policy Coordination and program delivery. Policy Analysis and Evaluation develops policy options for the Department, analyses economic factors that affect the performance of the agri-food sector, ensures policy impacts in term of adaptation and environmental sustainability and establishes strategic directions to guide the Department's operational activities. Economic Research and Analysis provides short, medium and long-term forecasts of economic activity in the agri-food sector linked to the external economic environment and trade for use in policy evaluation. Policy Coordination integrates economic and social developments and overall government objectives into the policy planning and development process. Program delivery involves in managing the federal partnership role in supporting farm income. The branch is involved in negotiating farm income support agreements with the provinces and producers organizations. Federal/provincial agreements are carried out under the Gross Revenue Insurance Plan (GRIP), the National Tripartite Stabilization Program (NTSP), the Net Income Stabilization Account (NISA) and the Crop Insurance Program; all of which fall under the authority of the Farm Income Protection Act. The Branch Administers the NISA from Winnipeg and Livestock Feed Bureau From Montreal.

■ Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration (PFRA)

Agricultural productivity, farm diversification and economic stability and growth on the Prairies are enhanced through a variety of soil and water conservation and development programs. The investigation of degradation problems and the promotion of solutions serve to conserve the soil resource for present and future use. Dependable water supplies for agricultural and other related uses at the farm, community and regional level allow greater variety of agricultural activities and render the economy less sensitive to drought. Operation of community pastures on land not suitable for cultivation and distribution of tree seedlings to promote farm shelterbelts assist in conservation of the soil resource. Operation of water storage and irrigation projects and the development of new water resource projects in cooperation with the provinces enhances economic security and provides development opportunities on the Prairies.

■ Research Branch

The Branch carries out research aimed at controlling threats to the safety of crop and to human and environmental health, for the public good and adding value to products, for competitive advantage. The Branch focus is on research that benefits Canada but would be unprofitable for a private organization to undertake on its own. Specifically, the Branch's research is directed toward reducing the cost of producing and processing food, improving the quality and safety of food products, advancing environmental practices that sustain agricultural production and transferring technology.

■ Western Grain Stabilization Administration

Presently in the process of finalizing the program by collecting overpayments made to producers who participated in the Western Grain Stabilization Program during previous years.

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program to prevent the introduction and establishment in Canada of foreign plant pests detrimental to the Canadian agricultural and forestry industries. Topics: Import permits; port inspection statistics, commercial; port inspection statistics, non-commercial; quarantine and decontamination; importation of agricultural and forest products. Storage Medium: Airport inspection file is machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 155

Importation of Animals / Animal Genetics / Animal Products

Description: Information on the control of animal bird and animal pathogens imports to prevent animal disease from gaining entry into Canada. Topics: Veterinary inspection reports; quarantine station activity reports; imports protocols; risk assessments; import permit applications; import permits; laboratory diagnostic test results, import of animal pathogens; imports of game farm and zoological garden animals; imports of pets; feathers; skins, hides and wool; imports of birds; fertilizers; tankage; plant products; insects; others (tropical fish, amphibians, worms). Program Record Number: AGR FPI 015

Ingredients in Pesticides

Description: Information on the evaluation of pesticides and on suggested precautions for their use. Topics: Product chemistry; toxicology; metabolism; residues; environmental chemistry; toxicology and efficacy.

Program Record Number: AGR FPI 135

Inspection and Compliance

Description: Information on the development, implementation and monitoring of a national field compliance program for registered pesticides. Topics: Monitoring; investigation; enforcement; verifications, sampling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 140

Inspection and Enforcement

Description: Information on the inspection and enforcement of standards governing seed quality.

Topics: Seed inspection; violations and detentions; crop inspection; grading; diseases; seed testing. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 100

Inspection and Monitoring

Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of dairy, fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, honey and maple products and certain other products; and on related establishments. Topics: Product inspection; establishment inspection; laboratory analysis; certificates of inspection; system auditing; consultation with governmental and non-governmental organizations; violations and prosecutions; inspection fees; complaints; compliance; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 060

Inspection and Monitoring (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products, meat-by products and plant sanitation. Topics: Testing – toxicity, residues, contaminants; disease monitoring; complaint investigation; transport sanitation; inspection auditing; surveys; national and regional inspection and audits – slaughterhouses, storage and processing facilities; stamping devices; policy development; the following database: Residues in Agri-Foods Monitoring Program. Storage Medium: Files of statistics on weekly and monthly poultry kills, disease condemnations and establishment review are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 075

Inspection, Testing and Certification

Description: Information on the inspection and testing of seed potatoes, and certification for domestic markets.

Topics: Seed multiplication; seed potato improvement; inspection; enforcement; training programs; storage and transportation; testing (seed lots, field and post-harvest); inventory of varieties; assessment of varieties; complaint investigation (domestic); federal-provincial consultations.

Internal Audit

Description: Information on the results of departmental audit projects. Topics: Documentation relating to results of audits carried out on departmental programs; systems; functions and organizations. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 416

International Agricultural Assignments

Description: Information on the staffing of overseas agricultural projects carried out by Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, CIDA and various international agencies. Topics: International agency job vacancy notices (Food and Agriculture Organization, WFP, CGIAR, etc.); roster of individuals interested in international assignments; international vacancy notices – CIDA projects. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 492

International Agricultural Projects (CIDA)

Description: Information on technical assistance projects in developing countries which are managed by the Department on behalf of other aid agencies such as Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA).

Topics: Project descriptions; reports; administration guidelines. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 493

International Relations

Description: Information on liaison with international organizations, international agricultural intelligence and bilateral relations with foreign countries, including visits and missions. Topics: Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO); World Food Program; World Food Council; Inter-American Institute for Agricultural Co-operation (IICA); Memoranda of Understanding on Agricultural Co-operation; senior level foreign visits. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 494

International Trade and Markets Information

Description: Information pertaining to the export of Canadian agri-food products, services and technology. Topics: Country Marketing Environment Reports; Foreign Missions Reports; reports of seminars and technical trade missions; Canadian agri-food trade with individual foreign countries; programs and services available to exporters; export marketing companies and organizations; agri-food sector of foreign countries. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 422

Irrigation Demonstration Program

Description: Information relating to the operation of the Saskatchewan Irrigation Development Centre at Outlook, Saskatchewan. The Centre is a joint Canada – Saskatchewan facility and provides a focal point for the investigation and demonstration of irrigation management techniques that can be evaluated for a wide range of new and established crops. It provides specialized information to farmers and the agricultural industry on irrigation, drainage, special crops, fertilizers, weed control and special equipment. Topics: Vegetable Project Committee; Research Committee; Demonstration Committee; reports on various crops; land; irrigation. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 545

Land Research

Description: Information on the maintenance, availability and better utilization of agricultural land to meet current and future agricultural and food production needs. Topics: Soil management and conservation (erosion problems, tillage, reclamation, fertilizer use); soil composition (organic matter, mineral content, chemical analysis); soil mapping; land inventory (classification, surveys, mapping); soil and land evaluation; soil quality and indicators; the following databases: Agroecological Resource Areas, Canadian Soil Information System (CANSIS), Generalized Soil Landscape Maps (GSLM) Degradation File, Land Potential for Agriculture Database, Soil Landscapes of Canada. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 195

Land-Use Program – Community Pastures

Description: Information relating to the operation and administration of PFRA community pastures, the conservation of land resources, the reduction of the impact of drought, the stabilization of western beef breeding herds, the improvement in the quality of beef cattle and the provision of supplemental grazing for farmers. Topics: Pasture agreements; agreements; cattle brands; pasture breeding services; wildlife control; control of pests by the application of pesticides and herbicides; animal health; land purchase program; pasture improvements; ecology and preservation of grasslands; land development program; dugout excavation and dugout enlargement; grazing applications and allotment notices; individual service, supply and construction contract files related to each individual project file; surface leasing agreements. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 510

Market Information Service

Description: Information on the quality, quantity, price, sale and/or movement of selected commodities. Topics: Collection of prices, sales and inventories of various commodities from private sector sources in Canada and abroad; aggregation of data and relevant information concerning policies and programs in Canada, competing countries and importing nations; publishing of markets information and intelligence; liaison with private sector and other government departments/agencies. Storage Medium: Machine-readable files, hardcopy publications, and public database. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 261

Market Intelligence

Description: Market analyses on the purchasing, processing and transportation of food. Topics: Food prices; food expenditures (consumer spending); processing and retailing. Storage Medium: Food prices, pricing forecast model and food consumption are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR POL 320

Mission Review

Description: Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada underwent a Departmental Mission Review to redefine the departmental mission statement. The outcome captures the essential elements of the Department's business and its values as they relate to service to clients and to a positive work environment. Topics: May include the use of questionnaires, of panel discussions and written or oral comments all provided on a voluntary basis. Storage Medium: Paper. Program Record Number: AGR COM 336

National Farm Business Management Program

Description: Information on the development and application of farm business training materials and associated courses and other farm business management activities. Topics: Various aspects of farm business management, needs assessment, and farm business management tools development. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 487

National Tripartite Stabilization

Description: The Agricultural Stabilization Act supports producers by providing for development of tripartite (federal – provincial – producer) cost -shared programs at support levels to be agreed upon, but with a maximum federal cost of 3% of gross sales of participating producers. Once a tripartite agreement is in place for a commodity, the other support provisions for that commodity no longer apply. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 491

Operations

Description: Consists of: Media Relations; Research and Analysis; Inquiries and Industry Communications; Creative Services; Management Services and Speech Unit. Handles: media coordination; research and analysis; editing and writing; preparation of speeches for Ministers, the Deputy Minister and others when they speak on behalf of the Ministers or Deputy Minister; printing and event coordination; audiovisual and photographic services and exhibit planning. Topics: Information on the department's work that is disseminated through print, radio and videos, and public relations activities. Storage Medium: Paper, video, computer, photographs and exhibits. Program Record Number: AGR COM 340

Pari-Mutuel Supervision

Description: Information on the regulation and supervision of pari-mutuel betting on horse races. Topics: Daily pari-mutuel betting activities; pool distribution; investigation reports into alleged race fixing; betting dates; tests of totalizator equipment; race track facilities; racing commissions; conferences; betting systems; betting permits; security of bets and betting data; federal levy on wagering. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 180

Pathology Services

Description: Diagnostic service and research activities related to animal diseases, consultation and licensing for use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Topics: Diseases (agents of disease, transmission to humans, economic loss due to disease); diagnostic activities; diagnostic reagents; registration consulting service; licensing and use of biologics, veterinary and pest control products. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 005

Pest Control

Description: Relates to pest control programs, diseases and parasites of plants and animals, control methods for specific pests, test data. Topics: Policies and general information on pest control; adjuvants; hard surface antimicrobials; industrial slime; invertebrate and vertebrate pests; materials preservation; plant diseases; water biocides; weeds and plant growth control; wood preservation; biotechnology. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 081

Pesticide Research Permits

Description: Permits to conduct research on new or registered products. Topics: Policies and general information on research permits and submissions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 082

Pesticide Statistics

Description: Relates to numerical information about the number of registered pesticides, submissions, and uses. Topics: Policies and general information on statistics and product developments and registrations; and use. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 083

Plant Registration

Description: Information on the registration of storages, slaughtering and processing plants. Topics: Construction specifications; equipment; use of non-food materials and agents; storage facilities; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 080

Policy and Planning

Description: Consists of four bureaus (Agri-Food Development, Corporate Affairs, Policy and Farm Income, Food Production and Inspection and Research) that deliver communications advice, planning and strategies to client branches. Also responsible for Issues Management and Training. Topics: Public environment; all current agricultural issues and programs. Storage Medium: Paper and computer. Program Record Number: AGR COM 334

Policy Development and Coordination

Description: Information on the administration of the Canada Grain Act and the Grain Futures Act; issuing of regulations and orders; advising the Minister on matters relating to grain handling; collection of revenues; and

Prairie Farm Assistance

Description: Information on assistance to farmers in the western wheat area in the event of a district crop failure. Topics: Prairie Farm Assistance Act, 1939; claims and payments; program phase-out 1973-74; repeal of the Act, 1979; annual reports. Access: Operational records now stored at National Archives of Canada in Winnipeg; administrative and policy records stored at headquarters. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 370

Preparation of Briefing Papers

Description: Briefing papers on various agriculture-related trade policy questions for use by the Minister and senior officials of the Department. Topics: Import quotas; tariff changes; bilateral trade agreement negotiations; relations with less developed countries; food security; food reserves; other trade-related topics. Program Record Number: AGR POL 366

Producer Account Maintenance

Description: Information on transactions between grain buyers and producers under the provisions of the Western Grain Stabilization Act. Topics: Date of transaction; grade of grain; purchaser (name and location); quantity delivered; revenue paid; kind of grain. Access: Files arranged by Canadian Wheat Board permit number. Program Record Number: AGR GOB 345

Production Development Assistance Initiative

Description: Information on a financial contribution program which was in operation from 1985-90 to facilitate improvements in livestock and crop production and encourage human resource development in the agricultural sector including information on PDAI applicants and assisted projects. Topics: New production technologies, farm management techniques, skills development and leadership training. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 489

Program and Management Services

Description: Information on the development and implementation of plant health programs in the areas of Human Resources Development (including Manual Development). Topics: Compensation, public awareness, consultation with client agencies, operational planning, program audit and control, and computer systems development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 175

Program Evaluation

Description: Information on the evaluation of departmental programs. Topics: Documentation relating to results of evaluations of departmental programs, objectives; analysis of effectiveness. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR AEB 415

Protection

Description: Information on the protection of crops and animals from diseases, insects and weeds, and on minimizing environmental impact from agricultural practices. Topics: Plant disease organisms, insect pests, weeds, pesticides, chemical and biological control, integrated pest management, pesticide management. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 210

Race Surveillance

Description: Information on the surveillance of horse races. Topics: Daily supervision reports; photo finish service; race patrol service; drug control service; test inspectors' personal records. Access: Files arranged by racing event and date. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic print. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 185

Records of Performance (Livestock)

Description: Information on recording and evaluation systems to promote production, efficiency and quality. Topics: Breeders; genetic improvement; livestock growth rate, reproductive performance; beef, sheep and swine production. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 430

Registration and Fees (Pesticides)

Description: Information on the registration of pesticides under the Pest Control Products Act. Topics: Application for registration; chemical; specification forms; product labels; registrant correspondence; pesticide registration review; technical and scientific data in support of pesticide evaluation; evaluation and registrations; the following database: Regulatory Information on Pesticide Products. This database is provided to the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety. Access: Files arranged by registrant code and registration number. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 130

Registration and Product Standards (Meat and Poultry Products)

Description: Information on standards for the processing, grading and marking of poultry and poultry products, red meat, and animal products. Topics: Sanitation and building standards; grading standards; poultry packaging and labelling; import and export requirements; animal products (furs and wools); policy development; consultation with industry; egg quality data; egg solids. Storage Medium: The egg quality data and egg solids files are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 030

Registration, Licensing and Arbitration

Description: Information on the registration of fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants, dairy plants, and fresh produce warehouses; the licensing of dealers and brokers; and the arbitration of disputes. Topics: Registration of establishments – dairies; fresh and processed fruit and vegetable, honey and maple products processing plants; fresh produce warehouses; licensing of dealers and brokers; suspension or cancellation of registration; list of registered processors; arbitration boards; complaints; policy development.

Regulatory Communication

Description: Includes guidelines and procedures relative to the dissemination of technical information via various media. Topics: Regulatory communication; computer systems; presentations; publications; regulatory information by telephone. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 051

Regulatory Liaison

Description: Relates to national and international aspects of pesticide management, coordination of policies and regulatory activities. Topics: Regulatory liaison with: federal, foreign, international, national and provincial organizations and governments. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 052

Relief Assistance Programs

Description: Information on crop loss assistance programs that cover emergency situations not provided for under ongoing crop insurance programs. Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; crop loss assistance program details; federal contributions to programs; soil moisture and crop condition reports; audit reports.

Program Record Number: AGR FFP 360

Research Branch Activities

Description: Includes general correspondence relating to agricultural science, university and provincial programs. Topics: Research activities of federal departments and agencies as well as provincial governments; in-house research programs; communications and reporting; goals and objectives; expected results; industry collaboration on scientific research projects. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 211

Research Branch – Study Data Base

Description: This data base contains information on agricultural and food research studies underway in Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada – Research Branch. Topics: Computerized input and retrieval system for scientific information on agricultural and food studies undertaken at research establishments. Program Record Number: AGR RBR 221

Resource and Environment Programs

Description: Information on environmental issues related to agriculture and programs to encourage environmental management of resources. Topics: Soil and water conservation management studies, wildlife habitat/agriculture interface, environmental assessment and review processes, National Soil Conservation Program, Green Plan initiatives, Environmental Sustainability Initiatives, Land Management Adjustment Program, and pesticide price monitoring. Storage

Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes.

Program Record Number: AGR MIS 490

Scientific Analysis

Description: Information on analytical tests to ensure conformity with established quality-assurance and safety standards for certain products and facilities. Topics: Requests for analysis; analytical reports; test results; product safety; sampling programs (quotas); provision standards; consultation with national and international, governmental and non-governmental organizations; methods of analysis; statistics; laboratory accreditation protocols; audits; check samples; quality assurance protocols. Access: Files arranged by date sampled, laboratory number or by commodity, region, date and type of test. Certain files are kept in regional laboratories.

Storage Medium: LIMS computer database contains samples received and reported, tests requested and performed, and computer-generated certificates of analysis are machine-readable. Additional data stored in Personal Computer Databases in the Agri-Food Safety and Strategies Division. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 065

Seed Potato Programs

Description: Information on the planning and maintenance of a national program designed to provide seed potatoes of a class and quality that will meet the demands of both domestic and export markets. Topics: Seed potato certification standards; import requirements of foreign and domestic markets; export and domestic certification standards. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 161

Seed Projects

Description: Information on the characteristics of seed varieties, foreign and domestic movement of seed, and availability of adequate supplies. Topics: Seed varieties; importation of seeds; exportation of seeds; statistics; contract multiplication; international liaison. Storage Medium: Seed inventory and seed sealing are machine-readable. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 095

Seed Standards

Description: Information on the development of new or amended seed quality standards; packaging and labelling. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 105

Shelterbelt Program

Description: Information relating to the operation of the Shelterbelt Centre at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, established in 1902 by the Department of the Interior and transferred to PFRA in 1963. The program involves the production and distribution of tree seedlings for farmstead and field shelterbelt plantings throughout the Prairie provinces. Topics: Water supply; roads and utilities; irrigation; buildings; landscaping; domestic water agreement with the Town of Indian Head Land; shelterbelts; infields and farmsteads tree distribution policy. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 550

Showcase Herd Maintenance

Description: Information on a showcase herd of beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and horses maintained to demonstrate to the local urban visitors, tourists, visiting producers, rural and urban youth and foreign delegations, modern Canadian agricultural technology and practices. Topics: Production tested under the National Record of Performance Programs and type-classification for dairy and beef cattle; technical information for promotional purposes for represented livestock species; foreign exhibition promotional program for livestock. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 435

Sire Loan Programs

Description: Information on financial and professional support for the identification, promotion and improvement of genetically superior breeding stock through the loan of superior sires. Topics: Procurement of sires; loan arrangements; guidance and advice – breeding, feeding and management of livestock, progress evaluation; breeder associations. Storage Medium: Hard copy and/o computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 440

Soil Conservation Program

Description: Information relating to analyses and discussions of soil conservation and land degradation issues on the Canadian prairies, together with activities that deal with such problems at farm and regional levels. Topics: Project reports; local conservation organizations; soil conservation committees; Dryland Salinity Control Association; individual service; individual project files; agreements; applications for assistance; letters to government agencies and farm organizations; conservation workshops; soil conservation and degradation; unproductive land; economic and regional development agreements; the following database: Crop Residue Survey. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 560

South Saskatchewan River Project

Description: Information on the construction, operation and maintenance of the Gardiner and Qu'Appelle River Dams forming Lake Diefenbaker in accordance with an agreement between Canada and Saskatchewan dated July 25, 1958. Topics: Policy; agreement; damage claims and adjustments; educational arrangements; photography; publicity; inaugural ceremonies; water analysis; buildings and lands; equipment; finances; personnel; development boards; contracts; dams and reservoirs; irrigation; power facilities; recreational facilities; reports on climate, economics, engineering, power, soils and recreational features. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 525

South-West Saskatchewan Irrigation Projects

Description: Information on the construction of twenty-seven water storage reservoirs and six irrigation projects in southwest Saskatchewan. Four of the reservoirs have been turned over to the province while the remainder continue to be maintained and operated by PFRA. The irrigation projects are located at Consul, Eastend, Maple Creek, Rush Lake, Val Marie and West Val Marie. Topics: Assignments and agreements for sale of land; letters patent; drainage; irrigation; leases; application for land; spring runoff records; land levelling; letters to debtors; individual project files; individual construction contract files related to the project files. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 530

Special Income Assistance Program

Description: The purpose of this program is to provide financial assistance through federal-provincial initiatives for the benefit of agricultural producers who have experienced dramatic income reductions in 1990. Information on the manner in which provincial governments distributed the federal contribution to producers. Topics: Producer eligibility, payment rates, program conditions. Storage Medium: Paper. Program Record Number: AGR GOB 832

Stabilization Payments and Levies

Description: Information on stabilization payments to grain producers and levies on grain sold. Topics: Stabilisation payments list, levies. Access: Files arranged by Canadian Wheat Board permit number. Program Record Number: AGR GOB 350

Standards and Labels

Description: Information on the development of and compliance with standards and labels to ensure quality, nutritional value and safety of agri-food products. Topics: Label review on microfilm; approved Canadian and foreign labels (machine-readable list); packaging; food standards – formulas and preparation; additives; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 085

Standards and Specifications

Description: Information on guidelines, specifications and standards on seed potatoes. Topics: Standards and labelling; laboratory facilities; transportation; storage; seed potato varieties; policy development. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 120

Status of Women – Assistant Deputy Minister's Office

Description: Information on status of women activities related to agriculture (rural and agricultural) in Canada. Topics: Government policy; convention on the elimination of all forms of discrimination; rural issues; conferences, workshops and liaison activities; farm women's groups in Canada. Program Record Number: AGR POL 500

Strategic Planning

Description: Information on strategic issues and challenges facing the agri-food system and the Department. Topics: Provincial profiles, etc. Storage

Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes.

Program Record Number: AGR MIS 410

Subsidy Claims and Payments

Description: Information on claims for subsidies from individual producers. Access: Files arranged by producer or number. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 600

Surveillance Research

Description: Information on all aspects of research into race track surveillance. Topics: Diagnostic activities; drug detection; recording of races on film or video tape; effect of drug administration on horses. Access: Files arranged by drug study. Storage Medium: Film, videotapes and photographic prints. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 190

Technical Assistance

Description: Information on departmental policy in reference to technical assistance abroad in the agricultural sector. Topics: Technical assistance; international agricultural issues; aid/trade issues.

Storage Medium: Hard copy and/or computer diskettes. Program Record Number: AGR MIS 423

Training for Inspection and Monitoring (Meat Hygiene)

Description: Information on training for the inspection and monitoring of food animals, meat products and plant sanitation. Topics: Inspection techniques for various species, sanitation practices, humane handling, food processing; basic meat science; basic microbiology; food borne pathogens; biological residues.

Storage Medium: Training materials in written format as modules with visual components on video or filmstrip with audio cassette. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 076

Variety Registration

Description: Information on the evaluation of new varieties of seeds for the purpose of registration.

Topics: Registration of seeds; list of registered varieties (machine readable); unregistered varieties. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 110

VM Group – Employee Perception Study

Description: As part of its commitment to an open and consultative working environment, the Food Production and Inspection Branch conducted a survey of all its employees in the Veterinary Medicine (VM) Group. The survey was done cooperatively with the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in the form of a questionnaire distributed to all VM Group members.

Topics: Information was obtained on the members' working environment, career opportunities, performance appraisals, job satisfaction and role definitions. Program Record Number: AGR FPI 111

Water and Climate Research

Description: Information on the use of water resources and the effects of weather and climate on agricultural production. Topics: Irrigation, drainage, water quality, desalination, conservation; winter survival of crops, meteorological and climatic indices; crop development models (yield prediction through use of climatic indices); atmospheric carbon dioxide; meteorological records and data; the following database: Agriculture and Meteorology (AGMET). Program Record Number: AGR RBR 200

Water Development Program

Description: Information relating to the provision of financial and technical assistance to individuals, groups and communities for the development of water and land resources; the establishment of on-farm, community and regional water supplies, including dugouts, stockwatering dams, irrigation schemes as well as farm wells, pipelines and reservoirs. Topics: Community Wells Program, agreements; dugouts and small dams; irrigation; submissions for community projects; farm well program; individual project files; applications for water development grants; economic and regional development agreements; the following database: Prairie Rural Water Development Program Projects. Program Record Number: AGR PFA 515

Waterfowl Crop Damage Compensation Program

Description: Information on compensation for individual producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta who have suffered serious waterfowl crop loss damage.

Topics: Federal-provincial agreements; federal contributions; the Crop Damage Prevention Program and policies; program subsidies; waterfowl crop damage compensation policies; program audit reports. Program Record Number: AGR FFP 365

Weighing of Grain

Description: Information on the supervision of grain weighing at terminal and transfer elevators to ensure adherence to the provisions of the Canada Grain Act and Regulations. Topics: Weighing exception reports; scale equipment inspection; weigh-over of elevator stocks for audit; investigation of complaints related to weight; weighing facilities – planning and control.

Access: Records are located at Winnipeg and at district offices. Program Record Number: AGR CGC 580

Western Grain Transportation Consultations

Description: The western grain handling and transportation consultation process focused on 1) the Western Grain Transportation Act (WGTA) method of payment options identified by the 1990 Transportation Committee under the Agri-food Policy Review, 2) western grain transportation system efficiencies, 3) the costs associated with moving grain from Thunder Bay to St. Lawrence shipping points, 4) Minimum Compensatory Rates (MCRs) for canola products and 5) the impacts of policy change on rural communities. The consultations were designed to solicit the views of a wide range of stakeholders, primarily at the "grass roots" level. There were approximately 154 public meetings, from coast to coast -but mostly located in western Canada. The information was used to assist in evaluating various options and to assist in making decisions. Topics: Views on options, and method of payments for the above mentioned subjects. Program Record Number: AGR GOB 801

Personal Information Banks

Access to Information Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the Access to Information Request Forms sent by individuals requesting access to departmental files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Information on exemptions or exclusions claimed, on complaints handled, or on fee waivers may also be included. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens/permanent residents of Canada. Purpose: To administer access requests in accordance with the Access to Information Act. Consistent Uses: The bank is used to record the processing of requests under the Access to Information Act, to report to Treasury Board and to Parliament on requests received and completed, and for the purposes of consultations with other government institutions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files will be kept for two years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: AGR CSB 852 TBS Registration: 000908 Bank Number: AGR PPU 200

Accreditation of Private Seed Testing Laboratories

Description: This bank contains technical information on organization, management, testing equipment, sample throughput and the performance rating of the laboratory in performance monitoring programs. Class of Individuals: Seed laboratory proprietors, accredited seed analysts. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain records of the businesses and individuals who have been accredited to test and grade seed along with the technical data on the bases for the accreditation, and subsequent performance of the quality of the seed testing carried out by the laboratory. Consistent Uses: To assess, on the basis of performance and maintenance of the facilities and staff, if the accreditation should be continued or withdrawn. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 10 years. Related to PR#: AGR FPI 105 TBS Registration: 003139 Bank Number: AGR PPU 103

Accredited Private Seed Analyst

Description: This bank contains technical information on persons that applied for and written an accredited seed analyst exam. It contains a copy of their results and any certificates awarded. Class of Individuals: Seed analysts working for private seed testing laboratories or seed firms. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of the persons who have written the exam and the results they achieved in the exam. Consistent Uses: To assess the level of the actual persons' competence should they want to obtain a higher level of accreditation. The file is used to confirm that the level of accreditation that a seed laboratory merits based on the qualification of its complements of accredited seed analysts. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for 20 years. Related to PR#: AGR FPI 105 TBS Registration: 003138 Bank Number: AGR PPU 102

Advance Payments for Crops

Description: This bank contains information on applicants under the Advance Payment for Crops Act. This information includes bank reports, credit checks, producers' names and addresses, the amount of payment, the repayment schedule, judgements against defaulters, action taken by producer groups to obtain payment. Class of Individuals: Individual farm-product producers. Purpose: To ensure repayment of advances to producer groups who distribute funds to individual producers under the Advance Payment for Crops Act. Consistent Uses: (1) Information is used to ensure adherence to the terms and conditions of the Act and to take the necessary actions to ensure collection from defaulters (including sharing contents of files with private collection agencies, hired by Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, under the Government's master standing offer. The collection agencies work as agents for Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada). (2) Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. (3) The information will also be used by the provinces to collect accounts

Some files may contain farm data on the number of hectares in production, type of crops and manure handling facilities. The goals of these agreements are to define and implement the activities, programs, coordination processes, and levels of human, technical, and financial resource commitments by the federal and provincial governments to soil conservation. The overall purpose of these activities is the development and adoption of the most appropriate technology in soil resource management and use that is within practical economic limits and is compatible with the soil's capability, in order to sustain the long term productivity of the land. Class of Individuals:

Dependent on the agreement, it may include individuals, groups of farmers, legally incorporated special interest groups, farm and agri-food organizations, conservation districts, universities, colleges, cooperatives, environmental groups, aboriginal groups, other provincial and municipal governments or agencies of these governments, provincial crown corporations, non-government corporations and financial institutions.

Purpose: This information bank is used to determine the eligibility of the applicants, to establish the level of assistance, to carry out the objectives of the federal/provincial agreements on environmental sustainability under the National Soil Conservation Program, Environmental Sustainability Initiative, Land Management Assistance Program and the Green Plan in the following provinces: Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia, and to make payments to farmers, farm organizations, consultant firms and research institutions. Consistent Uses: This bank is used to record payments received by farmers, farm organizations, consultant firms and research institutions. Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 3-6 years. Related to PR#: AGR MIS 495 TBS Registration: 002933 Bank Number: AGR PPU 246

Revenue Accounting and Control

Description: This bank is used for managing the accounts receivable system to effect cost recovery on behalf of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada. Related information is maintained to administer these responsibilities. Class of Individuals: Private sector individuals to whom invoices are issued to record their indebtedness to the Department. Purpose: Information is used to manage the collection of revenues owing to the Department. Consistent Uses: Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR CSB 915 TBS Registration: 002287 Bank Number: AGR PPU 340

Salmonella and Food-Borne Disease

Description: Information contained in the bank relates to the identity and location of individuals/organizations of interest to officers of the Salmonella and Food-Borne Disease program. It includes their areas of expertise and special interest, membership/position in professional, scientific or industrial organizations or groups, participation in the branch program, and allocation to specific program mailing lists. Class of Individuals: Information relates to individuals who work in or have interests in salmonella or other food-borne disease problems. Purpose: The purpose of this information is to enable the branch program officers to identify and to contact the various individuals with interests in salmonella and other food-borne disease problems. It also enables grouping of individuals with similar areas of sub-interest or responsibility and allows modified mailing lists. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 025 TBS Registration: 001710 Bank Number: AGR PPU 006

Seed Potato Crop Certification

Description: This bank contains information on the acreage of potatoes planted as well as the variety, source of the seed and handling procedures, the applicant's name, crop and year. Class of Individuals: Seed potato growers. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of any person wishing to produce seed potatoes in Canada. Consistent Uses: The information is used to make a preliminary determination as to the acceptability of the applicant for crop inspection. Retention and Disposal Standards: These files are retained for five years. PAC Number: 69-005 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 115 TBS Registration: 000891 Bank Number: AGR PPU 110

Seed Quality

Description: This bank contains information on purity, labelling, advertising of seeds, registration of crop varieties and production data. Individuals involved in the production, importation and marketing of seed are identified by name and address. Class of Individuals: Seed producers and growers. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to monitor and to enforce compliance with the Seeds Act and Regulations respecting quality, labelling and advertising of seeds. Consistent Uses: To ensure that seed producers and growers are operating in compliance with the Act and Regulations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 20 years. PAC Number: 72-025 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 105 TBS Registration: 000889 Bank Number: AGR PPU 100

Services Contracts Under Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada Authority

Description: This bank is maintained by the Materiel Management Division to record information on services contracts awarded under Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada authority in compliance with the Financial Administration Act and Treasury Board and internal departmental directives. Class of Individuals: Individuals or firms engaged in service contracts with the Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food. Purpose: The bank is used to administer contracts and to audit and evaluate contracts. Consistent Uses: The bank is also used to record, retain and monitor all contracts. These records are also used during the auditing functions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank is retained for six years after the completion and non-renewal of a contract and is then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR CSB 912 TBS Registration: 002046 Bank Number: AGR PPU 202

Soil and Water Conservation Programs

Description: Programs and activities which involve the storage of personal information include the PFRA Shelterbelt Program, the Southwest Saskatchewan Irrigation Projects, the Irrigation Demonstration Program, the Community Pasture Program, the Soil and Water On-Farm Activities, including the Rural Water Development and Soil Conservation Programs. Class of Individuals: Individuals receiving financial assistance under several agricultural programs. Purpose: The information is used to administer programs on stabilizing and rehabilitating lands sub-marginal for cereal production and conserving and storing water on the drought-prone prairies. Consistent Uses: Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 53 to 66 years. PAC Number: 84-010 Related to PR#: AGR PFA 510, 515, 520, 525, 530, 535, 540, 545, 550, 560. TBS Registration: 001719 Bank Number: AGR PPU 220

Soil and Water Environmental Enhancement Program (SWEEP)

Description: This bank contains the survey results from various research studies into socio-economic aspects of conservation tillage based on information gathered from individuals and groups in Ontario. Class of Individuals: Varies by survey but is primarily landowners, tenants, farm operators and rural organizations. Purpose: To meet two objectives of the Soil and Water Environmental Enhancement Program: to provide information on the adoption process for agricultural soil and water conservation techniques; to develop graduate students' expertise in the area of social and economic research on soil and water conservation issues. Consistent Uses: Information is used to improve aspects of government policy and program design and delivery for enhancing soil and water conservation systems. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for eight years. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR MIS 496 TBS Registration: 002034 Bank Number: AGR PPU 275

Soil Conservation Survey of Attitudes

Description: This bank contains the results of surveys conducted in order to determine farmers' attitudes towards soil conservation, and to understand the limitations of soil conservation activities as perceived by farmers. Class of Individuals: Prairie farmers who have received technical, financial and material assistance from the Soil Conservation Program and prairie farmers whose farms are located in the vicinity of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration groups. Purpose: The survey provides baseline data for future evaluations and the subsequent progression of soil conservation activities. This information is used to evaluate the level of satisfaction of farmers who received services under the Soil Conservation Program and the program's effectiveness, according to farmers, in sustaining soil resources. The results will be used to evaluate the existing programs and to develop future programs.

Consistent Uses: Personal data will be cross-referenced with responses from the survey in order to assess the relative needs of certain target groups. The evaluation of the needs assessment may be used in revising existing programs as well as in the development of future programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years. Related to PR#: AGR PFA 560 TBS Registration: 002583 Bank Number: AGR PPU 350

Special Atlantic Livestock Initiative (SALI)

Description: This bank contains information on clients' names, addresses, production data and developmental projects. SALI is designed to increase efficiency and sustainability of the red meat industry in the Atlantic region. The program focuses on on-farm productivity improvement; industry support; custom service; and financial support. Class of Individuals: Any individual, corporation, partnership and/or cooperative currently producing hog and/or beef and/or sheep in the Atlantic region. Purpose: This information bank is used to make payments under SALI to individuals, corporations, agencies, associations and marketing boards.

Consistent Uses: This bank is also used to record payments made to individuals, corporations, agencies, associations, and marketing boards. Information may also be used to garnish payments received by individuals under several Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada programs. This activity would be made under the Family Orders and Enforcement Assistance Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 5 years. Related to PR#: AGR MIS 455 TBS Registration: 002935 Bank Number: AGR PPU 248

Special Canadian Grains Program

Description: This bank contains records of applications for income assistance (1986 and 1987) as a result of international trade subsidy wars. This information includes producer names, addresses and land locations, types of crops, number of acres planted and, where applicable, crop insurance numbers, Canadian Wheat Board numbers, irrigation licence numbers and Irrigation District/Prairie Farm Rehabilitation project names. Class of Individuals: Producers of grains, oilseeds and specialty crops affected by the international subsidy war. Purpose: This information was collected in order to implement the program. It is used to determine the eligibility of producers for assistance and the level of assistance they will receive under the program formula. It is also used to issue payments. Consistent Uses: The information will be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. The information will be used to mail information about new agricultural programs. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AGR GOB 835 TBS Registration: 002375 Bank Number: AGR PPU 181

Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension Evaluation

Description: The bank contains information about opinions and perceptions collected from participants of the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. This information will be collected in two phases. Participants' perceptions of the financial and farm-level (production decisions, use of inputs) impacts of the SCG 1987 program as well as their opinions about the Program and its improvements over 1986 will be collected in focus groups. Class of Individuals: Grains and oilseeds producers in Canada who received payments from the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. Purpose: Information is compiled in order to evaluate the Special Canadian Grains Program 1987 Extension. The focus of the evaluation is the financial and farm level impacts of the SCGP 1987 as well as participants' perception of the Program. The information will be used to assess the effectiveness of the SCGP 1987 and, as part of the "Alternatives" issue of the evaluation, to determine how such programs, if required, may be improved in the future. Consistent Uses: Information collected will be used to design similar programs, if required, in the future. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for six years from the date the information was collected. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR AEB 415 TBS Registration: 001856 Bank Number: AGR PPU 240

Stockyards – Commission Firms, Members and Employees

Description: This bank is no longer active, but contained the names and occupations of members and employees. Class of Individuals: Commission firms, members and employees of stockyards. Purpose: The purpose of this bank was to ascertain that members and employees had not respectively purchased or sold livestock prohibited under the Livestock Regulations of the Livestock and Livestock Products Act. Consistent Uses: To ensure that livestock had been purchased and sold in accordance with the Livestock Act and Regulations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files will be retained until 1996. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AGR MIS 460 TBS Registration: 000900 Bank Number: AGR PPU 155

Stockyards – Dealers

Description: This bank is no longer active, but contained the names, addresses, amount of daily sales, bonds and continuation certificates of livestock dealers operating in federally supervised stockyards. Class of Individuals: Livestock dealers operating in federally supervised stockyards. Purpose: The purpose of this bank was to ensure that proper bonds are in order as required by the Livestock and Livestock Products Act and the Stockyard Regulations. Consistent Uses: To ensure that livestock dealers were operating in compliance with the Livestock and Livestock Products Act and the Stockyard Regulations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files will be retained until 1996. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AGR MIS 460 TBS Registration: 000901 Bank Number: AGR PPU 160

Survey of Seed Vendors

Description: The bank contains a list of all known vendors of seed in Canada, and the kinds (species) and volume of seed that they sell. Class of Individuals: Approximately 2,000 seed wholesalers and retailers across Canada (some companies, some individuals). Purpose: The information enables the Department to design a statistical sampling plan for more effective monitoring of seed sales under the provision of the Canada Seeds Act and Regulations. Consistent Uses: Information is used to compile a seed industry directory comprising the names and addresses of seed vendors. This directory is available to the general public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Data are retained for ten years. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 095 TBS Registration: 001837 Bank Number: AGR PPU 101

Surveys

Description: From time to time, agricultural and non-agricultural surveys are carried out by the Department to obtain information. These agricultural surveys include information on the socio-economic characteristics of farm operators and information relating to crops, livestock, poultry, machinery, farm operating expenses and agriculture receipts. The non-agricultural surveys include information on production, inventory and sales in the fruit, vegetable and dairy processing sectors. The bank also contains information from the grain and oilseed industries and the agri-food sectors. Program evaluations routinely collect information from the agricultural sector relating to program performance. Other similar surveys may occur as the need arises. Class of Individuals: Producers, processors, distributors, wholesalers and retailers. Purpose: This bank provides a base inventory of Canadian agriculture, as well as information for production, marketing, administrative and policy decisions. Consistent Uses: The results of the surveys will be used to provide statistics which will assist the various branches in assessing the relevance and impact of Department of Agriculture and Agri-Food programs, and the extent to which these have successfully achieved their objectives. Retention and Disposal Standards: Each survey will be retained for a minimum period of five years. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR CSB 850 TBS Registration: 001877 Bank Number: AGR PPU 193

Test Reports for Rabies

Description: Information in this bank relates to the identity and location of individuals or organizations whose animals are suspected of being infected with rabies. The information includes the number of specimens submitted, test results, number and identity of animals quarantined, the amount of indemnity paid and a certificate declaring the premises in question free of disease. Class of Individuals: Livestock, pet and zoo owners. Purpose: The data are collected for the purpose of disease control statistics, the prediction of disease, and for quarantine and indemnity. Consistent Uses: The information is used to control the disease and predict outbreaks of rabies, make payments of indemnity and to decide on treatment in the case of human contacts. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for a two-year period. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 025 TBS Registration: 002377 Bank Number: AGR PPU 051

The Small Farm Development Program on Farm Demonstration Contribution Files

Description: The bank contains applicants' names and addresses, particulars about proposed demonstrations, their final results, and amount of contributions approved for payment. Class of Individuals: Operators of small farms. Purpose: The purposes of this bank are to record applications for contributions and to maintain a running account of expenditures made under this part of the program. Consistent Uses: The bank is used to record contributions of sound agricultural practices to be carried out on their premises. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for 10 years. PAC Number: 72-003 TBS Registration: 000904 Bank Number: AGR PPU 175

Tobacco Transition Adjustment Initiatives (TTAI)

Description: The bank contains information on client's names, addresses and quota information on tobacco producers in Ontario, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Quebec who have applied for assistance in terminating tobacco production. Class of Individuals: Tobacco producers in Ontario, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Quebec. Purpose: The information is used to determine eligibility and make payments under the Tobacco Diversification Plan's Tobacco Transition Adjustment Initiatives. Consistent Uses: Same as in "Purpose". Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for six years. PAC Number: 86-001 Related to PR#: AGR MIS 496 TBS Registration: 002033 Bank Number: AGR PPU 270

Traceback Information (PVYn)

Description: Name, address, telephone number, legal description of affected land, UTM Code of affected land, grower seed potato certification number, map of farm. Class of Individuals: Mainly potato producers. Purpose: For the purpose of tracing possible sources of PVYn infections on specific farms. Consistent Uses: This information will be used internally only. Policy development may be based on general information collected. Retention and Disposal Standards: Ten years. PAC Number: To be determined. Related to PR#: AGR FPI 161 TBS Registration: 003137 Bank Number: AGR PPU 014

Unofficial Sample File

Description: The bank contains the name of the grower, the name of the requester and the grade of the sample. Class of Individuals: Grain producers. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of all unofficial samples submitted for grading by grain inspectors under the authority of the Canada Grain Act. Consistent Uses: To provide documentation on unofficial samples taken or tests conducted by grain inspectors. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for three years. Related to PR#: AGR CGC 565 TBS Registration: 001718 Bank Number: AGR PPU 215

Veterinary Certification/Investigation

Description: This bank contains reports and memos prepared by the regional director, reports by the regional veterinary supervisor, reports generated by district veterinarians, training records, files on accredited veterinarians and investigative reports. Class of Individuals: Veterinarians. Purpose: The purpose of this information bank is to document allegations of non-compliance with proper procedures for certifying livestock by accredited veterinarians for export purposes under the authority of the Health of Animals Act and Regulations. Consistent Uses: The information will be used to conduct investigations on the ethics of professional veterinarians and to ensure compliance with procedures so as to ensure the international credibility of Canadian export certification. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for five years. PAC Number: 70-045 Related to PR#: AGR FPI 005 TBS Registration: 001713 Bank Number: AGR PPU 026

Visiting Fellowship Applications and Records

Description: This bank contains applications by and records about individuals seeking visiting fellowships in the department. It includes personal information about the applicants and details about their education and experience. Class of Individuals: Individuals who received their doctoral degrees in the natural sciences or engineering no earlier than than five years prior to the application deadline, or who expect to complete their doctoral degrees no later than 14 months following the application deadline. Purpose: The information is used to assess and rank the applicant's qualifications against identified fellowship needs within the department. Consistent Uses: The information is used to select the best qualified person for fellowship within the Department. Retention and Disposal Standards: Unsuccessful files are retained for two years. Successful files are retained for five years. Note: The information is collected and distributed by the natural sciences and engineering research council which administers this program on behalf of participating departments. PAC Number: 70-016 Related to PR#: AGR RBR 195, 200, 210, 215, 220, 225, 230, 240 TBS Registration: 002288 Bank Number: AGR PPU 137

Western Grain Stabilization Program

Description: The bank was used to administer stabilization payments to grain producers. It contains the grain receipts and levy payments of holders of permits issued by the Canadian Wheat Board in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Class of Individuals: Grain producers in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Purpose: Files in this bank were used to calculate and issue stabilization payments to participating grain producers.

Consistent Uses: Disclosure: (1) On an individual request basis, account information supplied to Revenue Canada to assist in its investigations. (2) The four western provincial crown corporations (Manitoba Crop Insurance Corporation, Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation and the Farm Income and Crop Insurance Branch of the British Columbia Ministry of Agriculture and Food requested use of our data bank. Information provided concerning specific producers' sales by grain type and tonnes (not sales value) and generally extends over a number of crop years. The requests are ongoing and average perhaps one per week involving perhaps a dozen producers at most. In addition, we also provided computer tape files of our participants identified by permit number only while quoting the outstanding levy to be deducted from these accounts. This information was used in conducting audits of crop insurance claims and in pursuing fraudulent claims through the courts. The computer tape files used for matching participant to claimant in order to determine the amount of levy to be deducted from the claimant's indemnity payment (the provincial corporations were registered as designated purchasers under the WAGS Act). (3) Western Grain Transportation Agency: Grain sales information specific to producers in a specific area covering a ten year period was provided. This was an annual request. This information is used to establish compensatory amounts for the additional cost of transporting grain by truck as a result of rail line abandonment and the closure of grain elevators contiguous to it. As additional rail lines become eligible each year for removal from the network, more producers are affected by elevator closures. (4) Canada Grains Council: Historical data which are non-specific as to producer. The data are statistical in nature and used by the council for various analyses and studies. This was an annual request at one time but we have not received a request for the past two years. (5) Auditor General: Complete copies of our master file of name and addresses as well as our payout file. The information is requested annually. The information is used to verify the propriety and accuracy of stabilization payments. (6) RCMP: Detailed information specific to individuals is provided which would include name and address as well as grain sales for one or more years. The information is requested on an as needed basis (very infrequently). This information is issued to conduct criminal investigations. (7) Statistics Canada: Statistical information is provided on an ad hoc basis. Requests are very infrequent. The information is not producer specific and is used to conduct various analyses and studies. (8) Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) Payouts: Producer permit numbers, participant status and the amount of levy yet to be deducted is provided to the CWB once or twice a year. Conversely, each week the CWB furnishes WGS with a computer tape of name and address changes and new permit number issues. The information enables the CWB to match participant files to their payment files in order to deduct the WGS levy from interim, adjustment and final payments. Information on the payout and the levy by producer is returned for processing to the WGS accounts. The CWB also forwards information weekly providing information about new permit book numbers and name and address which is used to update the WGS data base prior to levy refunds or stabilization payouts. (9) Revenue Canada: Statutory set-offs are received and recorded to intercept amounts owing to the Crown. Levy refunds and stabilization payments are matched to the file of set-offs and may confirmed amounts are diverted to Revenue Canada. (10) Family Orders and Agreements Enforcement Assistance Act: Monthly a computer tape file is received from Justice Canada to perform a name and address match against the WGS master file. The matching is carried out to identify payees against whom there is an outstanding summons. WGS payments are intercepted and set aside for instructions from Justice as to the amount to be diverted. Part of the matching process requires us to make positive identification by reference to the CWB where the producer's SIN is recorded (on his permit book application). (11) The information will also be used by the provinces to collect accounts receivable owing to the federal government from several federal agricultural programs under the Farm Income Assistance Initiative. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are held for 20 years. PAC Number: 77-005 Related to PR#: AGR GOB 350 TBS Registration: 001715 Bank Number: AGR PPU 180

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information in this class relates to routine correspondence concerning the regulatory and licensing activities associated with meat inspection, pesticides, feeds and fertilizers, veterinary biologics and the humane transportation of animals. It also relates to general enquiries concerning agricultural research, market intelligence, food advisory information and financial assistance to marketing boards and co-operatives. The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, but is neither arranged nor retrievable by personal identifiers. This form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files controlled by the Department and is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject and the date of the correspondence. The retention period for this class of personal information is controlled by the retention period of the files in which they are stored.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence received by the Departmental Secretariat from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other similar submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were to be provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Other Programs and Agreements

This class reflects other programs and agreements not specifically covered under the other classes. These other programs and agreements are aimed at resolving specific problems of a limited nature or in specifically defined areas of the country. For example, Federal-Provincial Agreements such as those under the Agricultural and Rural Development Act (ARDA) are concerned with rural problems of unemployment and social disadvantages. Special ARDA agreements have been used as a vehicle to improve the economic circumstances of native people by providing financial and other assistance to create job opportunities. Personal information may be stored in administering programs falling within this class. This information may include financial, employment, demographic and educational data on individuals. Such data, however, would be stored as part of the general subject files where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the name of the program concerned and the name of the specific project.

Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency

Chapter 2

General Information

Background

The Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA) was created in June 1987 to increase opportunity for economic development in Atlantic Canada and, more particularly, to enhance the growth of earned incomes and employment opportunities in the region.

ACOA's head office is located in Moncton, New Brunswick. The Agency maintains regional offices in the capital cities of each of the four Atlantic provinces, as well as in Sydney, Nova Scotia and in Ottawa. Smaller area offices are located in various locations within the four provinces served. Each of the four regional offices is headed by a Vice-President, as are the Sydney and Ottawa offices.

Responsibilities

ACOA's mission statement describes its mandate: "the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency is a strategic partnership with the people of Atlantic Canada in the renewal of the Atlantic entrepreneurial spirit." The Agency is dedicated to achieving: an expanding competitive economy; a self-sustaining entrepreneurial climate; more successful small and medium-sized businesses; more lasting employment opportunities; increased earned income; and national policies and programs that reflect the strength, aspirations and opportunities of Atlantic Canada.

To achieve these objectives, seven strategic priorities have been established. These are: 1) innovation and technology transfer; 2) entrepreneurship development; 3) trade and investment support; 4) human resource development; 5) procurement and industrial benefits; 6) investment support; and 7) diversification.

Legislation

- Department of Regional Industrial Expansion Act
- Government Organization Act, Atlantic Canada 1987 (Part I)
- Industrial and Regional Development Act
- Small Business Loans Act
- Special Areas Act

Organization

ACOA delivers two main programs, the Action Program and The COOPERATION Program.

The Action Program offers assistance for both commercial and non-commercial operations. The main areas of activity are: innovation, business studies, capital investment, supplier development, market development, human resources development, quality Assurance and business support. The level of support available depends on the activity to be undertaken. Support can be in the form of repayable or non-repayable contributions, loan insurance and interest buy-downs.

The COOPERATION program provides the policy framework and strategic federal plan for federal-provincial agreements and for direct federal initiatives with private sector firms, organizations and associations. All Cooperation initiatives are considered within this policy framework which highlights development opportunities within Atlantic Canada, which takes into consideration federal priorities for the Region and which considers the roles, mandates and programs of all federal and provincial agencies in the Region. The COOPERATION program provides a powerful and flexible mechanism to coordinate federal efforts with those of the provinces and the private sector in order to strengthen the ability of Atlantic Region entrepreneurs to take advantage of development opportunities. Federal efforts under the program may be made through federal-provincial agreements or through direct federal initiatives. Funds under the program are targeted to initiatives which support five priority themes of entrepreneurship, market and trade development, innovation and technology transfer, human resource development and the environment.

ACOA also has advocacy and coordination functions. The advocacy role means presenting and promoting Atlantic interests to other government departments. A major target is influencing the design of national programs and policies and to ensure that Atlantic capabilities are understood and given fair consideration when major Crown procurements are contemplated. The coordination role includes taking the lead on major government and sectoral issues in Atlantic Canada where the objectives of the Government are best achieved through the effective interaction of a number of federal departments, and in some instances, provincial governments and the private sector.

The Agency also has an Advisory Board, comprised of seven private sector members representing Atlantic provinces chaired by the President of ACOA. Board members possess a broad spectrum of experience and perspectives in promoting economic development in the region. The Board offers advice and guidance on the policy directions of the Agency.

Program Records

ACOA Action Program

Description: contains project applications for funding assistance under the Action Program. Applications consist of the applicant's profile, supporting documentation, project's description and the Agency's recommendation. Topics: general, program review. Related provincial applications: New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Newfoundland. Access: Projects are listed by province. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 050

ACOA – General

Description: information of a general nature relating to the Agency's responsibilities and initiatives. Topics: general, program authorities, initiatives. Program Record Number: ACO POE 005

Agreements and Programs

Description: matters of a general nature relating to agreements in which the Agency is directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, agreements arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO PRO 040

Agriculture

Description: information relating to research and development within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, Atlantic Meat Strategy. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 090

Business

Description: information regarding business activities, including issues necessitating cooperation with provincial and private sectors. Topics: general, activities arranged by province : New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton) Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO POL 075

COOPERATION Program Agreements

Description: contains agreements, sub-agreements for which ACOA has responsibility with the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, task force meetings. Access: agreements arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 060

Defence

Description: information regarding activities and recommendations related to the development of defence facilities and industry within the Atlantic region. Topics: general, base closures, activities arranged by provinces: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 095

Energy

Description: information regarding Agency responsibilities for development of the energy sector including hydro, oil and gas exploration within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, information arranged by province; New Brunswick; Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton); Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Access: Subject material is divided by province or region. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 100

Environment

Description: information related to those aspects of research and development fields fall within the ACOA's responsibilities. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 105

Federal/Provincial Infrastructure Program

Description: Includes correspondence, agreements, reports, projects etc. relating to the managing and implementation of programs and agreements intended to contribute directly or indirectly to job creation and the economic competitiveness in Atlantic Canada. Topics: Information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland Program Record Number: ACO PRO 070

Fisheries

Description: information related to the research and responsibility which the Agency has directly or indirectly. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 110

Fisheries Alternatives Program (FAP)

Description: program covers the federal response and financial assistance to communities after termination or disruption in their major economic circumstances. Topics: general, program applications listed by province; New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 155

Forestry

Description: information pertaining to the Agency's responsibility for forestry within the Atlantic provinces. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 115

Industries

Description: information of a general nature relating to various industries and Agency responsibilities. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 080

Major Crown Projects

Description: Crown projects valued over $1 million in which ACOA may directly or indirectly be involved with.

Topics: general, projects arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 160

Manufacturing

Description: information on research and development and science and technology in the manufacturing industry. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 120

Mining

Description: information regarding research and development in the areas of mineral resources and mining. Topics: general, information arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Cape Breton), Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 125

Procurement

Description: information regarding procurement programs which have been developed within the Agency and procurement negotiations in which the Agency is directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, information regarding programs and/or negotiations may be accessed by subject matter. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 070

Program Design

Description: information relating to initiatives supporting small or medium-sized businesses within the Atlantic region. Also the Agency's support for entrepreneurship development. Topics: general; advocacy; consultations, corporate plan, entrepreneurship. Program Record Number: ACO POL 010

Programs/Agreements Reports

Description: reports on all ACOA programs and agreements: weekly, monthly, quarterly and annually. Topics: general, weekly, monthly, status reports: Project announcement reports, ACOA annual reports, COOPERATION reports; Fisheries Alternatives Program (FAP) reports. Program Record Number: ACO CAB 045

Science and Technology

Description: information on research and technology as they relate to the Agency's responsibilities in the Atlantic region. Topics: general, Space Program, subject material access by province. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 130

Shipbuilding

Description: information on the region's shipbuilding industry. Topics: general, projects are separated by shipyard. Access: Individual projects listed by shipyards. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 135

Tourism

Description: information on tourism and tourism development. Topics: general information is arranged by province: New Brunswick; Newfoundland; Nova Scotia; Cape Breton; Prince Edward Island. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 140

Trade

Description: information touching on all aspects of trade, including negotiations, as well as federal and provincial assistance from federal and provincial levels. Topics: general, meetings, material may be requested by subject matter. Program Record Number: ACO CSD 145

Transportation

Description: information dealing with air, land and marine transportation within the Atlantic region which the Agency may be directly or indirectly involved. Topics: general, subject material is arranged by province: New Brunswick, Nova Scotia (incl. Atlantic Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 3

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by the Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four pilotage authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes, and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Atlantic Pilotage Authority was incorporated in carrying out the Pilotage Act in 1972, and pursuant to the Financial Administration Act, (Schedule SC 1983-84, 31) was designated a Schedule III Part I Crown corporation.

Responsibilities

The role of the Authority is to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries – all coastal waters in the Atlantic region. As a further goal, the authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Atlantic Pilotage Regulations
- Authority By-Laws
- Canadian Shipping Act
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Pilotage Act

Organization

■ Administration Division

This Division provides administrative and financial services as required to operate within accepted corporate business procedures.

■ Operations Division

This Division provides pilotage services by assigning and dispatching qualified pilots to ships navigating within the boundaries of the Atlantic Pilotage Authority.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Pilotage Services

Description: Information on the provision of pilotage services within the Atlantic region. Topics: Dispatching records; pilotage licences; tariff charges; assignments of pilots to vessels; accident reports; collective agreements; international shipping affairs. Program Record Number: APA OPD 005

Tariffs

Description: Information on the setting of tariffs for the provision of pilotage services; also the conduct and results of negotiations concerning the setting of tariffs in various districts throughout the region as well as results of National Transportation Agency of Canada hearings. Program Record Number: APA OPD 010

Personal Information Banks

Accounts Payable Files

The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on the payment of accounts to firms or individuals for services or products provided to the Authority. Files contain the names and addresses of firms and individuals; and invoices for services rendered or products provided detailing the amount owing and any supporting documentation to substantiate the account. Original accounts payable vouchers, together with supporting documentation, are maintained in hard copy and are filed by date of payment. The retention period for original accounts payable vouchers, together with supporting documentation, is seven years. Access to this bank will require name, address and date of account. Bank Number: APA PPU 015

Accounts Receivable Files

The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on sums of money owing to the Authority. Files contain the names and addresses of firms and individuals; details of the amount owing; and any supporting documentation to substantiate the account. Manual files exist to maintain hard copy documentation. The retention period is seven years. Access to this bank will require name and address. Bank Number: APA PPU 010

Application for Employment File

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of information relating to applications for employment received from the general public. This bank contains completed application forms, letters and curricula vitae of persons interested in working for the Authority. The retention period for this bank is ten years. Access to this bank will require name, address and date of birth. Bank Number: APA PPU 020

Register of Pilots

The purpose of the bank is to retain a register of certificates and qualifications required under the Pilotage Act. This bank contains information on physical characteristics, licences, certificates, and accidents of pilots. The retention period for this bank is indefinite. Access to this bank will require name and address.

Bank Number: APA PPU 025

Service Contracts

The purpose of this bank is to maintain information on the tenders and award of contracts for the supply of such services as land and water transportation. The files contain the list of prospective tenderers; the tenders submitted; an analysis of the tenders received; documentation leading to the award of the contract; and the signed contract between the contractor and the Authority. The files may be referred to for future contracts. The retention period for service contracts is ten years. Access to this bank will require the contract number and description of the service. Bank Number: APA PPU 005

Atomic Energy Control Board

Chapter 4

General Information

Background

The Atomic Energy Control Board (AECB) was established in 1946 by the Atomic Energy Control Act.

Responsibilities

The AECB is the federal regulatory agency responsible for the control of health, safety, and national and international security aspects of prescribed nuclear energy substances and items, and nuclear facilities. The AECB is also responsible for the administration of the Nuclear Liability Act. The Board reports to Parliament through the Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources, and is a departmental corporation within the meaning and purpose of the Financial Administration Act.

Legislation

- Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter A-16
- Nuclear Liability Act, R.S.C., 1985, chapter N-28

Organization

The Board consists of five members. One of these members is appointed President and Chief Executive Officer of the AECB and is the only full-time member. Reporting to the President are the Secretariat, the Directorate of Reactor Regulation, the Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation, the Directorate of Research and Safeguards, the Directorate of Analysis and Assessment, and the Directorate of Administration.

■ Secretariat

The Secretariat is responsible for the functions of Secretary to the Board, the dissemination of information to the public and the media, and administrative and scientific support to two independent advisory committees dealing with radiation protection and nuclear safety. It is also responsible for corporate planning, coordination of policy development, implementation of internal audit and program evaluation plans, as well as liaison with provincial, federal and international agencies, including the Minister's Office. Administration of the Nuclear Liability Act and compliance with the provisions of the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act rest with the Secretariat. The Secretariat consists of the Office of the Secretary to the Board, the Office of Public Information, the Planning and Coordination Section, and the Advisory Committee Secretariat.

■ Directorate of Reactor Regulation

The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of power and research reactors, heavy water plants and for examining the qualifications of reactor operators. The Directorate consists of Power Reactor Divisions 'A' and 'B', Operator Certification Division, and the Studies and Codification Division.

■ Directorate of Fuel Cycle and Materials Regulation

The Directorate is responsible for the regulation of uranium mines and mills, refineries, and conversion plants; nuclear fuel fabrication plants; radioactive waste management facilities; accelerators; and the use of radioisotopes. Additional responsibilities of the Directorate include the analytical laboratory facilities and compliance inspection services, and regulating the transport packaging of radioactive materials. The Directorate consists of the uranium Facilities Division, the Waste Management Division, the Compliance Services and Laboratory Division, and the Radioisotope and Transportation Division.

■ Directorate of Research and Safeguards

The Directorate is responsible for the initiation and management of projects in the mission-oriented research and support program that is designed to provide information for use in the AECB's regulatory functions. The Directorate also administers the implementation of domestic and international nuclear materials safeguards programs, and the Canadian Safeguards Support Program. The Directorate consists of the Safeguards and Security Division, and the Research and Supports Divisions 'A' and 'B'.

■ Directorate of Analysis and Assessment

The Directorate is responsible for the detailed review and assessment of the arguments submitted by licensees (primarily for reactors) to demonstrate the safety of their designs, the adequacy of their quality assurance, and the protection from radiation hazards threatening both workers and the environments. The Directorate is also responsible for the development of standards and guidelines for radiation protection. The Directorate consists of the Safety Evaluation Division, the Components and Quality Assurance Division, and the Radiation Protection Division.

■ Directorate of Administration

The Directorate is responsible for the administration of the AECB's human, information, financial and physical resources. The Directorate consists of the Personnel Section, the Finance Section and the Information Management Section.

Radiation Protection

Description: Information on radiation protection for workers, public and environment affected by reactor facilities. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 040

Radioactive Waste Management Facilities

Description: Information on every radioactive waste management facility in Canada. Topics: Low-level storage; high-level storage; reactor wastes; uranium tailings; chemical treatment; licensing; maintenance; compliance. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 190

Reactor Codes and Standards

Description: Quality assurance codes and standards used in the design of nuclear facilities. Topics: Components; inspections; quality control; reliability and maintainability of concrete containment structures; protective systems and instrumentation; and seismic design requirements for CANDU. Program Record Number: AEB DAA 095

Reactor Operating Training

Description: Information on the training and examination of reactor operators according to AECB standards. Topics: Reactor Operating Training; Ontario Hydro, Hydro-Quebec, New Brunswick Electric Power Commission. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 070

Reactor Personnel

Description: Information on the training and examination of all reactor personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 085

Reactor Safety

Description: Information on the development of safety requirements for nuclear facilities. Topics: Siting guides; reactor safety criteria. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 090

Reactors – General

Description: General information on the operation of reactor facilities. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 030

Regulatory Documents

Description: Research contract process (including reports); licensing guides and regulatory standards for the nuclear energy field and prescribed substances. Topics: Regulations safeguard; techniques; socio-economic impact analyses. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 255

Safeguards

Description: Policies and measures for the non-proliferation of nuclear energy. Topics: Domestic and international safeguards; costs; reference documents; instrumentation; inspection procedures; accountability; visits and inventories of nuclear facilities in Canada; safeguards inspectors; special studies on accountability for highly enriched uranium and non-destructive measurement devices. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 150

Safeguards Support Program

Description: Research and development contract reports and Safeguard Support Program Reports. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 250

Security

Description: Information on the physical security of nuclear facilities and personnel. Program Record Number: AEB DRS 140

Steam Rebuild Programs

Description: Information on improvements of original deficient steam generators in some of the reactors. Topics: 600MW, 500MW, and 850MW steam generator rebuild programs. Program Record Number: AEB DRR 050

Transportation

Description: Policies, regulations and practices for the safe handling and transportation of radioactive materials in Canada and abroad. Topics: Shipping regulations; labelling requirements for radio-isotopes; transportation of radioactive waste; liability insurance; regulations for all modes of transportation BF air, road, rail and marine; certificates; Canada Post Corporation; emergency procedures; accidents and standards; transportation of nuclear materials to and from foreign countries; endorsements from foreign countries for shipping containers; technical aspects of shipping, containers and testing programs. Program Record Number: AEB DFC 160

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Data Bank

This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals requesting access to their files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. It is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Files will be kept for two years. Bank Number: AEB PPU 045

Applications for Employment

This bank exists to maintain an inventory of applicants from the general public or the federal government for employment with the AECB. It includes correspondence, applications for employment, curricula vitae, interview data, and other personal information. This bank is used to identify applicants, their skills and abilities, work histories, and education, for possible future appointments to the Board staff. Records are retained in the bank for one year. Bank Number: AEB PPU 035

Examinations and Results

This bank maintains a record of the examinations given to personnel at nuclear reactor facilities. Data include names of individuals, titles of examinations written and results in terms of success or failure. The AECB sets these examinations to ensure that the requirements for operating personnel are met. Records are retained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 015

Health and Safety Regulations: Inspection Officers

This bank may contain data on nationality, age, sex, education and special training, and employment history, as well as correspondence with provinces leading to appointments. There may be sensitive material relating to federal-provincial negotiations for service. The purpose of the bank is to record information relating to the appointment of employees of provincial government departments or health institutes, to act as inspectors under the Atomic Energy Control Regulations. The bank provides an up-to-date identification of individuals appointed as inspectors. Records are held during tenure of appointment, and for two years subsequently, after which they are sent to the National Archives of Canada. Bank Number: AEB PPU 010

Health and Safety Regulations: Medical Advisers

The bank contains names and details concerning present employment and area of jurisdiction, and communications between the AECB and parent agencies or the individuals prior to appointment.

Individuals this bank relates to are all qualified medical officers, who may be from provincial government departments, hospitals, institutions, or the federal service. The purpose of the bank is to record information on the appointment of medical advisers to the AECB. The bank provides an up-to-date status of individual appointments by name. Records are retained during tenure of appointment, and for two years subsequently; they are then sent to the National Archives of Canada.

Bank Number: AEB PPU 005

Personal Service Contract Files

The bank includes basic personal data, subject matter and terms of contract. The purpose of the bank is to maintain an accurate account of all payments made under personal service contracts. The primary use of the bank is to record negotiations between the AECB and the individual's concerned. Records will be retained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 040

Reactor Operators and Training

Data in this bank include a record of correspondence, details of education and experience, and basic personal information. The purpose of the bank is to provide an accurate and up-to-date record of all information on authorizations and appointments of individuals to designated positions at nuclear generating stations and research reactor sites. Records are maintained in the bank for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 020

Reactor Personnel

Data include summaries of the individual's examination results, copies of all authorizations issued for the appointment of the individual to designated positions, and correspondence specifically relating to the individual. The purpose of the bank is to maintain a record of each individual's examination and authorization for designated appointments at nuclear reactor facilities. Records are retained for an indefinite period. Bank Number: AEB PPU 025

Temporary Assistance Records

Names, addresses, social insurance numbers, invoices or time sheets pertaining to the individual's period of employment with the AECB. The purpose of the bank is to maintain an inventory of all temporary assistance agencies and individuals as their services are required by the Board. The primary use of the bank is to keep an accurate record of the agencies and terms of employment as required, on the basis of verification of accounts. Records are retained in the bank for three years. Bank Number: AEB PPU 030

Bank of Canada

Chapter 5

General Information

Background

The Bank of Canada is Canada's central bank. It was incorporated in 1934 under the Bank of Canada Act which charges it with the responsibility to regulate "credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment, so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

Responsibility for the affairs of the Bank rests with a board of directors composed of the Governor, the senior deputy governor and 12 directors, appointed by the government for three-year terms. The Deputy Minister of Finance sits on the board but does not have the right to vote. The Governor is the chief executive officer of the Bank and handles the direction and control of the Bank's affairs.

Responsibilities

The primary function of the Bank of Canada is set out above. The Act also confers certain powers which, together with provisions in other legislation, enable the Bank to exercise a broad controlling influence over the growth of money and credit in Canada and thereby affect levels of spending and economic activity. Other responsibilities include acting as an adviser and as a fiscal agent to the Government of Canada in the receipt and disbursement of payments, in the operation of the Exchange Fund Account on behalf of the Minister of Finance, and in the issuance, administration and servicing of the government's outstanding debt. The Bank of Canada has the sole right to issue notes intended for circulation in Canada; the issue of coins is the responsibility of the Royal Canadian Mint.

Legislation

- Bank of Canada Act
- Currency Act
- Financial Administration Act

Organization

■ Administrative Departments

The Secretary's department provides corporate secretary support to the Bank's Board of Directors and Management Committee. The department also responds to enquiries from the public, and provides specialized advice, information and support services internally. The department manages the Currency Museum, which displays artifacts from the National Currency Collection. Other administrative departments providing advice and services to support the management of the Bank are: the Audit, Automation Services, Personnel and Premises Management departments.

■ Comptroller's Department

The Comptroller's department is responsible for the internal financial functions of the Bank, such as the processing, monitoring and reporting of receipts and payments for management and statutory reporting requirements. These responsibilities involve the coordination of the annual planning budgeting exercise and subsequent control, processing payments for goods, services, payroll and unclaimed balances, recording transactions for administrative expenditures and market operations, accounting for and reporting the Bank's financial position, and keeping records of items in safekeeping.

■ Department of Banking Operations

The overall responsibility of the Department is to provide efficient and effective service to other central banks, international financial organizations, the Government of Canada, chartered banks, trust companies and all other financial organizations. Its responsibilities include the security and administration of valuables such as gold, securities and currency. The Department also provides fiscal functions for which the Bank of Canada acts as an agent for the Government of Canada. These functions include the clearing of government obligations and receiving deposits for the account of the Government of Canada. The Department has agencies or branches in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax.

■ Department of Monetary and Financial Analysis

This department is responsible for monitoring and analyzing the behaviour of the chartered banks, other financial institutions and capital markets in response to monetary policy and other forces at work in the financial system.

■ International Department

The principal responsibilities of this department include the conduct of foreign exchange operations as fiscal agent for the government and the Bank, and analyses of current and prospective developments in exchange markets, the Canadian balance of payments, economic activity overseas and the international payments system.

■ Public Debt Department

This department is responsible for the administration of direct and certain guaranteed debt issues of the Government of Canada. Its functions include obtaining and distributing supplies of debt certificates, the maintenance of registers and records for control purposes, the payment of interest and the retirement of the debt.

■ Research Department

This department's primary responsibility is to assess the significance of current economic developments and prospects in Canada and the United States and to keep Bank management fully informed about them. An aspect of this responsibility is to seek further understanding of the operation of the economy and of public policies which are, or could be, employed in an attempt to regulate it.

■ Securities Department

This department has both operational and analytical duties. Its most important operational functions are to help implement monetary policy through adjustments in excess chartered bank cash reserves or through open market operations, and to issue Government of Canada securities treasury bills, marketable bonds and Canada Savings Bonds both domestically and abroad.

Its analytical function is to monitor conditions in financial markets, forecast key financial flows and study financial relationships relevant to securities markets. The results are communicated to the Bank's senior officers for their use in formulating monetary policy, advising government on matters related to debt management, and influencing the development of capital market structures appropriate to Canadian needs.

Records relating to the purchase of the unclaimed bank balance file are kept for a period of seven years, then destroyed. Note: Canadian chartered banks are required to transfer all deposit accounts, maintained in Canadian currency, that have been inactive for a period of ten years or more to the Bank of Canada, in accordance with Section 438 of the Bank Act. This also includes all instruments (bank drafts, certified cheques, deposit receipts, money orders and travellers' cheques) that remain on the books of the chartered banks after a period of ten years from the date of issue. The Bank of Canada acts as a custodian for unclaimed bank balances, responds to general inquiries and claims, and makes payments, without fees, to those persons entitled to receive the proceeds. Balances with a value of less than $100.00 that remain unclaimed are kept for a period of twenty years, from the last date of transaction, then are transferred to the Receiver General for Canada. The accounts that represent a balance of $100.00 or more are kept indefinitely, or until claimed. It is not necessary to make a formal request for access to the register of dormant accounts; personal inquiries may be directed to the Payments Division, Comptroller's Department, or access to the complete file on microfiche may be arranged by contracting an agency of the Bank of Canada. Agencies are located in Vancouver, Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Saint John and Halifax, and are open to the public from 09:00 to 15:00, Monday through Friday. As well, these records are available for sale, on a cost recovery basis, on microfiche and certain magnetic media. Related to PR#: BOC COM 340 TBS Registration: 000073 Bank Number: BOC PPU 020

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Correspondence received from external organizations and individuals including requests for information, complaints, comments and suggestions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to the Bank's activities.

The personal information contained in this class normally includes the name and address of the enquirer, however, this form of personal information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files and is normally retrievable only if specifics of name, subject and the date of communication are provided.

The retention periods of these classes of personal information are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Mailing Lists

This class contains correspondence and mailing lists which may contain personal information in the form of an individual's name, client number and, his or her home, business or mailing address.

The purpose of this class is to maintain standard lists for the mailing of publications, reports, press releases and other documentation on the Bank's activities and programs.

Paper records are kept for a period of three years, then destroyed. Records on the automated system are updated continuously as required and/or information is kept for two years on the system from the time a client becomes inactive.

Canada Council

Chapter 6

General Information

Background

The Canada Council was created by the Parliament of Canada in 1957 (Canada Council Act, 1957, RSC 1970 c-2, as amended). The mandate of the Canada Council (Section 8(1)) is "to foster and promote the study and enjoyment of, and the production of works in, the arts."

Responsibilities

The general policy objective of the Canada Council is to recognize, foster and promote excellence in the arts. Most of its grants are awarded through an extensive system of competitions judged by juries of practising artists and other independent specialists in the particular disciplines.

In addition to its mandate to foster and promote the arts, the Canada Council has been assigned responsibility for the Canadian Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) (Subsection 8(2), Order-in-Council PC 1957-831), in conformity with the constitution of UNESCO.

The Council also administers the Killam program of scholarly awards and prizes, financed from a private legacy. The Public Lending Right Commission, which provides payments to Canadian authors for the public use of their works in Canadian libraries, operates under the aegis of the Council.

Organization

■ Arts Awards Service

Responsible for support to individual professional artists for creative activity or skill improvement in architecture, arts criticism, writing, dance, film, multidisciplinary work and performance art, music, photography, theatre, video, interdisciplinary work and the visual arts. Its programs include arts grants A and B, grants in non-fiction writing, project grants, travel grants, studio space and study abroad, and prizes.

■ Arts Division

This division is responsible for program of support to individual artists and arts organizations. It currently consists of the following functional units:

■ Canada Council Art Bank

Purchases contemporary Canadian works of art and rents them to federal government departments and agencies as well as other public institutions and non-profit organizations. It also organizes exhibitions of its collection and occasionally lends works for exhibitions by other institutions.

■ Dance Section

Responsible for support to professional Canadian dance companies, organizations and associations in ballet, modern and experimental dance. Its programs include the communications fund and grants to professional dance companies, independent choreographers, professional schools, service organizations and independent dance.

■ Explorations Program

Responsible for project grants which may introduce new approaches to creative expression, cross disciplines or fulfill specific needs in the development of the arts. Grants are provided to individuals, groups or nonprofit organizations for innovative projects, within or outside traditional arts disciplines, which contribute towards an understanding of Canada's cultural past or the development of its cultural future.

■ Media Arts Section

Provides support to independent professional artists for the creation of works using conventional and/or new acoustic and visual technologies and their related media. It administers three production programs: film, video and audio, and computer-integrated media. It also administers a distribution and broadcast program. These programs are concerned with production and diffusion in multiple format media, including computer processing, visual and acoustic imaging and system control (via digital sampling and mastering), applied laser technology and optical storage. In addition to direct production assistance, support is available to non-profit media art organizations through operational, project funds. The Section is the repository of the Canada Council Film Collection.

■ Music Section

Responsible for support to professional Canadian music companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to orchestras, opera companies, choirs, other music groups and organizations, commissioning of Canadian compositions, aid to sound recording by Canadian producers and companies, and the communication fund.

■ Theatre Section

Responsible for support to professional theatre companies, organizations and associations. Its programs include grants to theatre companies and the communications fund.

■ Touring Office

Supports touring by professional Canadian performing artists, and the development of management for Canadian tours and artists and tour coordination and promotion. Its programs include touring grants, apprenticeship program, Concert Canada program, festival program, and cultural exchange.

■ Visual Arts Section

Responsible for support to professional visual arts institutions and associations. Its programs include aid to artist centres; exhibition and programming assistance to art galleries; Canadian visiting artist program; artists studios in New York, Chalmers fund for the crafts; special project assistance; and the communications fund.

■ Writing and Publishing Section

Responsible for support to publishing companies, organizations and associations, and for certain programs of support to writers. Its programs include block grants and project grants to book publishers; translation grants; aid to international translation; aid to periodicals; promotion and distribution of Canadian books and periodicals; promotion tours by authors; public readings program; literary prizes and awards; Canada-Scotland writers-in-residence exchange; and grants to national associations of writers, book publishers and periodical publishers.

Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation

Chapter 7

General Information

Background

The Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) was established in 1967 by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act. The Corporation's primary role is to provide, for the benefit of persons having deposits in a bank, trust or loan company, insurance against the loss of all or part of their deposits to a maximum of $60,000 in the event of the failure of the member institution concerned. The definition of "deposit" may be summarized as moneys received by a member institution which it is obligated to repay on demand, or on a fixed or determinable date that is within five years from the date of the deposit. Deposits not payable in Canada or repayable in foreign currency are not insured. In the furtherance of its main function, the Corporation may, amongst other powers, acquire assets from, or make or guarantee loans to, or deposits with a member institution for the purpose of averting or reducing a threatened loss to the Corporation.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's primary role is set out above. The Corporation's secondary role includes examining the affairs of member institutions in order to obtain information for deposit insurance purposes (under legislation, the examination of member institutions is the responsibility of the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions); acting as lender of last resort to provide short-term liquidation loans under specified authority; managing the acquired assets of member institutions and reducing the risk of loss to the Corporation by guaranteeing loans or deposits with a member institution. In addition, the Corporation acts as curator of a bank, or liquidator or receiver of a member institution; and manages, monitors and invests a deposit insurance fund and other funds accumulated from the operations of the Corporation.

Canada Labour Relations Board

Chapter 8

General Information

Background

The original Canada Labour Relations Board (organized in 1948) was composed of members representing both management and labour appointed by the federal government to deal, on a part-time basis, with the orderly resolution of trade union representation disputes under the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act.

The Canada Labour Relations Board was established in its present form in 1972 by the amended Canada Labour Code (R.S.C. 1970, CL-1 as amended by S.C. 1972, c.18) and became effective March 1, 1973. The Board is a quasi-judicial body with statutory and regulatory powers pertaining to the administration of Part I of the Canada Labour Code dealing with industrial relations. The members of the Board are non-representational full-time appointees with experience and knowledge of industrial relations and labour law. As members of a non-partisan board they are prohibited from holding any other remunerated office or employment. In general, Part I of the Canada Labour Code charges the Board with a two-fold responsibility: that of granting, modifying and terminating bargaining rights, and that of resolving, through mediation or adjudication, complaints of unfair labour practice concerning violations of the Code by trade unions or employers.

Under Part II of the Code, the Board must, upon referral of a safety officer's decision, inquire into the circumstances giving rise to the decision and may confirm the decision or give any direction which the safety officer is entitled to give. The Board also rules on complaints by employees that they have been discriminated against or punished for exercising their rights in relation to safety.

Responsibilities

The Board's responsibility is set out above. On finding a violation of the Code, the Board is empowered to order reinstatement and compensation where appropriate. It is also empowered, upon application, to order employees to return to work in cases of illegal work stoppages and to attempt to resolve or adjudicate, where necessary, various other types of disputes that may arise under Part I of the Code.

Legislation

- Canada Labour Code (Parts I and II)

- Canada Labour Relations Board Regulations, 1978, SOR 78-499

Organization

The Board has a single program consisting of the administration and interpretation of certain sections of Part I and Part II of the Canada Labour Code. It is supported in this activity by investigation and mediation staff in offices located in Dartmouth, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, as well as at its headquarters in Ottawa.

Program Records

Acquisition and Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: Case files concerning the acquisition by trade unions of the right to bargain collectively on behalf of employees in the federal jurisdiction, through certification as bargaining agent or by way of successor rights, and the termination of bargaining rights. Topics: Application for certification; application for declaration of single employer; application for revocation of certification; application for declaration of successor rights; application for declaration of sale of business; application for access to employer's premises for the purpose of soliciting union membership. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 005

Change of Terms and Conditions of Employment

Description: Application by employers under federal jurisdiction for permission to alter the rates of pay, or any other terms or conditions of employment, or any rights or privileges of employees who are the subject of an application by a trade union to represent the employees in collective bargaining. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 035

Collective Bargaining and Collective Agreements

Description: Applications concerning the existence of disputed collective agreements or the identification of parties bound by a collective agreement; applications concerning the failure of an employer to comply with obligations under a collective agreement respecting any proposed technological change; applications for permission to give the employer notice to begin collective bargaining following a notice of technological change; references from the Minister of Labour directing the Board to inquire into disputes related to the settlement of first collective agreements, and to impose a first agreement on the parties if necessary; applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union (The Board may allow an exception for such individuals, directing the amount normally paid for regular union dues to a registered charity chosen by the employee and the union.); applications by parties to a collective agreement to serve notice to bargain following the establishment of a portion of the public service as a Crown corporation and following certain determinations by the Board as to whether the agreement will remain in force, the expiration date if it does remain in force, whether the employees concerned constitute one or more units appropriate for collective bargaining, and which trade union shall be the bargaining agent for each unit. Topics: Determination of the existence of a collective agreement; revision of terms of collective agreement; technological change; leave to serve notice to bargain concerning technological change; provision of first agreement; religious objections; portion of the public service established as Crown corporation. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 030

Complaints of Unfair Labour Practice

Description: Complaints by persons or organizations that an employer, a trade union or a person has violated or failed to comply with provisions of the Canada Labour Code, Part I (Industrial Relations). Topics: Complaints related to failure to bargain in good faith, interference with the bargaining rights of a bargaining agent and changing of conditions of employment without the consent of the bargaining agent during the prescribed bargaining period; complaints alleging offences by employers such as interference with the formation or administration of a union or the representation of employees by a trade union, or discrimination against employees for union membership, union activity or the exercise of their rights under the Code; complaints alleging violations by trade unions such as trying to force an employer to bargain collectively in respect of employees for whom the union is not the bargaining agent, bargaining with an employer in respect of employees with the knowledge that another organization is the actual bargaining agent, interference in the formation or administration of an employer's organization, unauthorized soliciting of employees during their working hours at their place of employment, requiring the termination of an employee for loss of union membership unless that loss of membership is the result of failure to pay the required union fees, the application of membership rules or disciplinary procedures in a discriminatory manner, and discriminating against a person in matters related to employment or union membership because a person has exercised certain rights or fulfilled specified obligations under the Code; complaints alleging failure of a trade union to represent fairly all employees in the bargaining unit, or failure to establish rules for the referral of members to employment and apply the rules fairly, and alleging failure of a trade union to provide certified financial statements of its affairs to the end of its last fiscal year to any of its members free of charge.

Program Record Number: CLR OPS 010

Review and Enforcement of Orders

Description: Applications to amend or rescind previous Board decisions or to reconsider previous decisions; requests to file Board orders in the federal court to give them the weight of an Order of the Court; or applications for the written consent of the Board to prosecute an offence under the Canada Labour Code.

Topics: Application for review; filing of Board order in court; consent to prosecute. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 025

Safety of Employees

Description: Complaints by employees either alleging that their employer has imposed a penalty on them because they refused to work in accordance with their rights under Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Refusal to Work because of a Dangerous Situation, or requesting the Board to review a safety officer's decision concerning a refusal to work on grounds of a dangerous situation). Program Record Number: CLR OPS 020

Unlawful Work Stoppage

Description: Applications by an employer (in the case of a strike) or by a trade union (in the case of a lockout) for a declaration that the work stoppage is unlawful and for an order returning employees to work. Topics: Applications concerning unlawful strikes; applications in cases of unlawful lockout. Program Record Number: CLR OPS 015

Personal Information Banks

Religious Objections

Description: This bank contains applications by individuals who, because of religious beliefs, object to joining a trade union or to paying regular union dues to a trade union. The Board may order that a provision in a collective agreement requiring membership in a trade union or the payment of union dues as a condition of employment, not be applied to such employees. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an employee's objections to membership in a trade union are based on true religious convictions. Consistent Uses: Religious objections may occasionally require a public hearing to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision regarding the objections. Such a hearing may result in the publication of a written judgement containing the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting, or rejecting, the application. Retention and Disposal Standards: Simple cases (i.e., those that are withdrawn or settled without the holding of a public hearing) are kept for two years and then destroyed. Other cases are kept by the Board for 10 years, and then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Related to PR#: CLR OPS 030 TBS Registration: 002331 Bank Number: CLR PPU 015

Termination of Bargaining Rights

Description: This bank contains case files concerning applications for revocation of certifications which grant bargaining agents (unions) the right to represent employees in collective bargaining with employers in the federal jurisdiction. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Personal information is obtained solely for the purpose of determining whether an individual is a member of the bargaining unit and therefore entitled to express support for or against his or her bargaining agent. Consistent Uses: Applications for revocation may occasionally require a public hearing in order to determine complex issues which could affect the Board's decision and may result in the publication of a written judgement which will contain the facts surrounding the application and the Board's reasons for granting or rejecting it. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are kept for five years for successful applications and three years for unsuccessful applications, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Cases which are withdrawn are destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 005 TBS Registration: 000102 Bank Number: CLR PPU 010

Violations of the Canada Labour Code

Description: This bank contains case files concerning complaints by individuals that a section, or sections, of the Canada Labour Code, Parts I and II have been violated by their employer, their union, or another individual. Files may contain information on grievances, work records, or letters from unions or employers containing opinions or comments about individuals. Class of Individuals: Individuals who work for companies under federal jurisdiction, as set out in the Canada Labour Code. Purpose: Information about individuals is obtained solely for the purpose of bringing about a settlement to the dispute or, failing settlement, for the purpose of adjudication by the Board on the merits of the complaint. Consistent Uses: Information contained in case files, along with testimony given at public hearings may be published in written judgements which set out the Board's reasons for rejecting or upholding a complaint. Personal information is used solely for the purpose of settling or deciding on the merits of each case and is published solely for the purpose of explaining the Board's reasons for its decision and its policy in like cases. Retention and Disposal Standards: Case files are kept for five years if successful and three years if unsuccessful, and are then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. Settled cases are kept for the minimum two years required and then destroyed. PAC Number: 84-015 Related to PR#: CLR OPS 010 TBS Registration: 000101 Bank Number: CLR PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

Other Personal Information Banks

Other case files and subject files held by operational services may contain personal information such as names of individuals, addresses, position titles, job descriptions, salaries, and membership in a trade union. The information is not retrievable by personal identifiers and is collected solely for the purpose of administering the Canada Labour Code. All files are organized by file number and are maintained by operational services at headquarters in Ottawa. Regional offices retain duplicate files for the purposes of investigation until the settlement of a case. Some personal information such as job descriptions and salaries may be published in written judgements where it is pertinent to the background of a case in which the Canada Labour Relations Board decides its decision requires formal elaboration. Such information is usually the result of testimony given at public hearings.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Chapter 10

General Information

Background

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) was incorporated as a Crown corporation in January, 1946, by an Act of Parliament. CMHC has authority to act for the Government of Canada in all matters prescribed under the Housing Acts, principally the National Housing Act (NHA). CMHC reports to Parliament through a designated Minister. Its affairs are managed by a board of directors consisting of the chairman of the board, the President, a designated senior vice-president, five members from the public at large and two members from the public service, all appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Responsibilities

The functions of CMHC, as stated in the National Housing Act, are to promote the construction of new houses, the repair and modernization of existing housing, and the improvement of housing and living conditions. Some of these programs have been used to further government objectives such as economic growth, job creation and energy conservation. CMHC activities are grouped into four components: Government Programs, Administered Funds, Asset Administration and Services to Others.

Legislation

- Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation Act
- Financial Administration Act
- National Housing Act and Regulations

Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 11

General Information

Background

The Canada-Newfoundland Offshore Petroleum Board was established jointly by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3 and by the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2.

Responsibilities

The Board administers as a regulatory body all petroleum activities within the Newfoundland Offshore area in accordance with the provisions of the Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act as enacted by the Parliament of Canada and the Legislature of Newfoundland and Labrador, and other relevant legislation.

Legislation

- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1987, c.3
- Canada-Newfoundland Atlantic Accord Implementation Newfoundland Act, R.S.N. 1990, c.C-2

Organization

The Board consists of seven members. Three members are appointed by the federal government, three by the provincial government and the chairman is appointed by both the federal and the provincial governments.

■ The Executive Committee

The Executive Committee manages the day-to-day activities of the Board. It comprises the Chairman and all of the vice-chairmen.

■ Administration Department

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resource, and computer services to the Board.

■ Industrial Benefits Department

This Department provides advice to the Board concerning the administration of the Canada-Newfoundland benefits plan provisions of the legislation, including provisions related to domestic procurement, employment, project management, research and development, education and training, and employment equity.

■ Legal Services Department

This Department is responsible for providing legal and land advice and services to the Board. Land matters include the issuance of exploration rights through calls for bids; and the administration of exploration, significant discovery and production licenses.

■ Exploration Department

This Department is responsible for evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Board's area of jurisdiction; evaluating results of exploratory drilling; determining significant discovery areas; maintaining a geological and geophysical database and keeping well history reports, cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

■ Operations and Safety Department

This Department is responsible for reviewing and providing recommendations regarding the approval of offshore petroleum exploration, development and production activities; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; monitoring offshore petroleum activities; conducting safety audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; administering and making recommendations regarding the drafting of regulations, their standards and guidelines; monitoring any conditions of approval; coordinating with other agencies as required; and providing status reports of offshore petroleum activities.

■ Environmental Affairs Department

This Department assesses environmental effects; administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines; establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements; coordinates with other environmental agencies; and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

■ Reservoir Engineering Department

This Department is responsible for oil and gas conservation; assessing discovered resources and productive capacities; administering regulations concerning exploitation schemes for depletion of oil and gas pools, reservoir data acquisition and production rate limitation; reviewing and providing recommendations on well evaluation programs, development plans for oil and gas fields, production accounting procedures and testing programs; maintaining the reservoir database; evaluating conservation and enhanced recovery projects; monitoring field performance; and conducting reservoir performance studies.

Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board

Chapter 12

General Information

Background

The Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Board was established in 1990 as a joint federal-provincial agency pursuant to the federal Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act and the provincial Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act. These Acts brought into law the principles established in a 1986 agreement between the federal government and Nova Scotia relating to offshore petroleum resources. The Board has offices in Halifax and Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

Responsibilities

The Board administers activities related to oil and gas exploration, development and production within the Nova Scotia offshore area. It issues licences under which oil and gas rights are held and approves specific works and activities thereunder. The Board also maintains a public registry of licences, curates samples and geological and geophysical information (which is made available to the public following a statutory confidentiality period), and compiles and develops information on petroleum resources within the Nova Scotia offshore area.

Legislation

- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation Act, S.C. 1988, c. 28.
- Canada-Nova Scotia Offshore Petroleum Resources Accord Implementation (Nova Scotia) Act, S.N.S. 1987, c. 3.

Organization

The Board consists of five members who are appointed for fixed terms of office. The Government of Canada and the Government of Nova Scotia each appoint two members, one of whom may be a civil servant in each case. The Chairman is jointly appointed by both governments. The Chairman also acts on a full time basis as Chief Executive Officer and is responsible for a staff of fifteen people.

■ Offshore Petroleum Resources

This Department is responsible for assessing discovered petroleum resources and evaluating the undiscovered petroleum resource potential of the Nova Scotia offshore area; recommending lands for disposition through calls for bids (including the terms and conditions of calls for bids and licences); administering licences under which oil and gas rights are held and maintaining a public registry of such licences; evaluating the results of geological and geophysical surveys and exploratory and development drilling; determining areas to be designated as significant discoveries or commercial discoveries; archiving geological, geophysical and well history reports; and curating cuttings, cores and fluid samples.

■ Offshore Operations

This Department is responsible for providing recommendations regarding the approval of plans, programs and specific activities related to exploration, development or production; monitoring any conditions of approval; conducting audits and inspections related to procedures, training and equipment; certifying divers and other diving personnel; reviewing operators' emergency response plans; and monitoring and providing status reports on offshore petroleum activities. It is also responsible for conserving oil and gas resources; assessing the productive capacities of wells; monitoring field performance and conducting reservoir performance studies; and administering regulations concerning production schemes, production rate limitations and the acquisition of reservoir data.

■ Environmental Affairs

This Department assesses the environmental effects of offshore operations as well as risks to offshore operations arising from the physical environment. It administers and advises on environmental protection regulations and guidelines, establishes and monitors compliance with physical environment and effluent treatment requirements, coordinates with other environmental agencies, and reviews operators' environmental emergency contingency plans.

■ Administration, Industrial Benefits and Legal

This Department provides administrative, financial, human resources and legal services to the Board. The Department is responsible for the Board's external communications, including publications and public relations. The Department also administers statutory requirements concerning employment and industrial benefits plans.

Canada Ports Corporation

Chapter 13

General Information

Background

Canada Ports Corporation was established in 1983 pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act. This Act amended the National Harbours Board Act of 1936, the Government Harbours and Piers Act and the 1964 Harbour Commission Act. Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Transport, Canada Ports Corporation is a Schedule III, Part II Crown Corporation under the Financial Administration Act.

Since 1983, pursuant to the Canada Ports Corporation Act, the ports of St. John's, Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Vancouver, and Prince Rupert have met the criteria of national and regional significance and financial viability and have been established as local port corporations. These too are Schedule III, Part II Crown Corporations.

Divisional ports, which are directly administered by the Canada Ports Corporation, are located in Belledune, New Brunswick; Saguenay, Baie des Ha! Ha!, Sept-Iles and Trois-Rivières, Quebec; Prescott and Port Colborne, Ontario; and, Churchill, Manitoba.

Responsibilities

Canada Ports Corporation is responsible for administering its ports under a common objective and ensuring that they meet the federal government's responsibility for national ports and the optimum deployment of resources. Canada Ports Corporation shares, with other marine components, the broad objective of attending to the development and operation of a safe and efficient national marine transportation system.

Canada Ports Corporation is also responsible for ensuring that ongoing maintenance, upgrading and major expansions to port facilities and infrastructure will provide enhanced services to port users, on a competitive and cost-effective basis, both for domestic and international customers.

Legislation

- Canada Ports Corporation Act, R.S.C. 1985, chapter C-9
- Canada Ports Corporation Administrative By-law, P.C. 1983-1653, 2 June 1983
- National Harbours Board Harbour Dues Tariff By-law, C.R.C. Vol. XII, chapter 1063 and as amended thereafter

Canada Post Corporation

Chapter 14

General Information

NOTE: CANADA POST CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

Canada Post is a federal Crown corporation, established by the Canada Post Corporation Act on October 16, 1981. It collects, processes and delivers mail across Canada, and between Canada and more than 165 other countries around the world. The Corporation delivers 10.44 billion messages and parcels annually to nearly 12 million addresses in rural and urban Canada. Products and services are marketed through a network of almost 19,000 points of sale, more than 75% of which are operated by private businesses.

Canada Post, with approximately 55,000 full and part-time employees, has the third largest work force in Canada outside of government and, with approximately $4 billion in annual revenue, is a large and important part of the transportation and communications sectors of the Canadian economy.

In the course of doing business, Canada Post maintains and uses records of employees, contractors, customers and others. The Corporation places a high value on the protection and propriety of such personal information: employee access to their records and customer confidentiality are longstanding traditions.

Note that copies of opinions and other legal documents may also be stored in other personal information banks. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in legal matters. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide a record of legal opinions and advice to, as well as representation on behalf of, the Corporation. Consistent Uses: The records are used to provide legal opinions and advice to the Corporation and to represent the Corporation and protect its interests. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for ten years after the year of termination of the contract or disposal of the property and then destroyed. Claims by or against the Corporation, labour arbitrations and related legal matters are retained for twenty-one years after the year of settlement. Memoranda (citing authority), opinions and advice are retained permanently. TBS Registration: 002076 Bank Number: CPC PPU 110

Postal Related Crimes/Offenses

Description: This bank contains information gathered during investigations and contains details of the crime(s) committed. For example, information on employees involves such offenses as theft of mail or embezzlement. Information on members of the general public involves national or international crimes, burglary of post offices and street box equipment, forgery of money orders, theft of mail, the illegal transportation of explosives and other dangerous substances and mail vehicle robberies. In addition, intelligence is collected regarding individuals or firms suspected of using the mails for an illegal purpose.

Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees, contractors and members of the general public who are suspected or known to be involved in the above-noted postal related crimes/offenses as defined by the Canada Post Corporation Act and Regulations, as well as Criminal Code offenses involving the mail. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help solve and reduce postal related crimes and offences and to provide for the security of the officers and employees of the Corporation, the property of the Corporation, and anything in the course of post. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support investigative and intelligence activities designed to solve or reduce crimes against Canada Post Corporation. Certain information may be shared with the security branches of other postal administrations, other federal investigative bodies, police agencies and, where warranted, with the Department of Justice for possible prosecution. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for ten years after completion of the investigation or judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings and then destroyed. Records of proceedings dealt with under subsection 41 of the Canada Post Corporation Act, when a prohibitory order has been issued, are retained for three years after the year the order ceases to have effect and are then transferred to National Archives of Canada. If the records are judged by the National Archivist to be of historical/archival value, they are retained permanently.

Reliability Checks

Description: This bank contains criminal record name checks and, if applicable, fingerprints, criminal records, recommendations, decisions, appeals and related correspondence. Limited information may exist in automated form as a data element of the Human Resource Information System (CPC PPE 804). Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Prospective and existing Canada Post employees and contractors who do not have security clearances, but who require reliability checks because of their ready access to mail, cash and other valuable assets.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help ensure the security of Canada Post employees and property and anything in the course of post. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help determine an individual's reliability. Identifying information is disclosed to the RCMP in order to determine whether individuals have criminal records. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years after last administrative use (which is usually upon transfer, promotion or termination of employment), and then destroyed. If notified that a pardon has been granted, the criminal records in question are destroyed immediately. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001339 Bank Number: CPC PPU 075

Security Clearances

Description: This bank contains such records as personal history forms, criminal record name checks and, if applicable, fingerprints, criminal records, summaries of RCMP and Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) investigations, adverse findings, appeals, updates, cancellations, pardons and related correspondence. Limited information may exist in automated form, as data elements of the Human Resource Information System (CPC PPE 804). Data elements include name and clearance level granted versus level required for the position and whether it is due for renewal. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees and contractors who occupy or are about to occupy positions involving access to financial and other assets and sensitive information and systems. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to help determine the suitability of employees and contractors being considered for or in security-risk positions. Consistent Uses: The records are used to determine the level of security clearance, and to support decisions on transfers, promotions and termination of employment. Monthly computer printouts are used to ensure the security clearance level of individuals is adequate for the positions they occupy. A notation of level of clearance may be attached to the Employee Personal File (CPC PPE 802). Details of RCMP and CSIS investigations that may have taken place are stored in those agencies' security clearance banks. Retention and Disposal Standards: Paper records are retained for two years after termination of employment or contract and then destroyed. If notified that a pardon has been granted, the criminal records in question are destroyed immediately. TBS Registration: 001338 Bank Number: CPC PPU 070

Certain information, such as the incoming letter, draft replies and an index, exists in automated form in the Corporate Correspondence System. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the family name and postal code used in the previous enquiry. (Note that stamp suggestions may also be stored in Designer References, CPC PPU 025.) Class of Individuals: Customers, employees, Members of Parliament, other elected officials and the general public. The records may contain personal information on other individuals, where they are the subject of the enquiry (e.g. regarding Canada Post Corporation employees and contractors). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to Divisional, Ministerial, Chairman, Presidential, and general Corporate enquiries pertaining to the operations and administration of Canada Post Corporation. Consistent Uses: The records are used to support the correspondence system; to monitor the preparation of responses; for reference purposes when subsequent or similar enquiries are received; for subsequent mailings, when new developments warrant a follow-up letter to correspondents who have expressed an interest in particular subjects; and, to identify trends or patterns. Retention and Disposal Standards: Draft replies stored in automated form are deleted when the correspondence is signed. Paper records and the automated index are retained for seven years after the year of the response and then destroyed and deleted, respectively. Disposal of records retained in the subject files of organizational units drafting responses is governed by the retention schedules for those files. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 002075 Bank Number: CPC PPU 030

Customer/Claims Service

Description: This bank contains such records as enquiries, complaints or claims, declarations (in the case of claims) and information relating to their processing. Certain information exists in automated form in the Customer Claims Information System (CCIS) and the Enquiry Management Information System (EMIS). Data elements include the names and addresses of the sender and addressee, the nature of the shortcoming (delay, loss, damage), the type and value of the item, any special services purchased (registry), dates of mailing and claim, insured amount, result of investigation and amount paid. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the date and subject matter of their previous enquiry, as well as the names and addresses of the sender and addressee on the article. Class of Individuals: Customers who have submitted enquiries or complaints to Customer Service regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail; or who have applied for indemnification. (Note that payment records also are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060; that enquiries and complaints also are processed through the Corporate Correspondence system, CPC PPU 100; and that Risk Management Claims, CPC PPU 050, also includes claims records.) Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the preparation of responses to customer enquiries, as well as the resolution of complaints and claims regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail. Consistent Uses: The records are used to analyze and resolve complaints and claims regarding delayed, lost or damaged mail; to respond to enquiries about mail services, regulations and rates; for audit and market research purposes; and to identify trends or patterns. Certain information may be disclosed to Transport Canada, Revenue Canada (Customs and Excise), foreign postal authorities, law enforcement agencies and others, where necessary, to resolve the claim or enquiry. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is normally the issue of a response to an enquirer or indemnification), and then destroyed. Disposal of payment records stored in Accounts Payable is governed by the retention schedule for that bank. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001331 Bank Number: CPC PPU 100

Electronic Products & Services

National Change of Address System

Description: This bank contains data drawn from change of address forms, including: a mover's previous and new address; the length and dates for which redirection services have been purchased; and records concerning participation in related services available to movers and mailers. Class of Individuals: All subscribers to change of address services since January 1993. Purpose: The NCOA system is designed to facilitate the redirection of mail. Consistent Uses: Movers are issued a kit to confirm redirection of mail to particulars and inform them of various change of address notification services. Movers may instruct CPC to notify specific mailers of their new address and to notify other mailers having their name and old address or advise their correspondents themselves. NCOA may also be used to contact movers on a mailer's behalf (without disclosing their new address) and for research, statistical, and audit purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: A retention/disposal schedule is under development. TBS Registration: 003294 Bank Number: CPC PPU 002

Finance

Accounts Payable

Description: This bank contains such records as claims, authorizations, expense reports, receipts, cheque requisitions, advances, correspondence and other supporting documents relating to expenses being reimbursed, fees being paid, claims being settled and other payments. Records of transactions also exist in automated form in the Accounts Payable System. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number, which will continue to be used as an employee identifier until such time as it can be replaced by a CPC employee numbering system. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify whether they are an employee, contractor or claimant and provide details of the payment such as location, type and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees claiming travel and hospitality expenses, relocation expenses, education course fees, isolation allowances and membership fees, or receiving incentive awards, rewards, ex gratia and other sundry payments; to suppliers of goods and services provided to the Corporation, including stamp designers and members of the Board of Directors; and to members of the general public, indemnified for claims made against the Corporation. (see Canada Post's contract and claims personal information banks for details). Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the Accounts Payable function, which is to make non-payroll payments in accordance with authorizations. Consistent Uses: The records are used to substantiate and issue cheques for the above-noted expenses, fees, claims and other payments; and for planning, budgeting and audit purposes. Limited information is disclosed to Supply and Services Canada, to facilitate cheque issue. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six fiscal years following the fiscal year during which the expenses were incurred. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001337 Bank Number: CPC PPU 060

(Note that payment records also are stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060.) Class of Individuals: Existing and recently terminated members of Canada Post's board of directors. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the nomination and remuneration of members of the board of directors. Consistent Uses: The records in this bank assist in the preparation of appointments to the board and in the administration of the affairs, business and activities of the board; they are also used with respect to payments and for other purposes pertaining to the board and its individual members. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for seven years after the fiscal year during which the director ceases to hold office and then destroyed. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 002007 Bank Number: CPC PPU 105

Financial Accountability Cases

Description: This bank includes such information as job titles, work locations, investigation reports on losses, occasional credit reports and statements by persons involved, legal advice concerning disposition of cases, the decisions of the committees and follow-up information (for example, concerning collection, payment, prosecution, garnishment, other legal proceedings). (Note that legal documents may also be stored in Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802 and/or in Payroll and Attendance, CPC PPE 815 and/or in Legal Affairs, CPC PPE 827/PPU 110). Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify their name and other information sufficient to identify the case, such as the date, location, type and amount of the loss. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees, agents, contractors and others involved in actual or suspected losses of financial assets. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support committees on financial accountability, which review financial losses incurred by the Corporation, and to facilitate the collection of accounts due to the Corporation. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help correct situations that have led to financial losses within Canada Post, both in terms of recovering funds and preventing future losses. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six fiscal years after the year of recovery or write-off of the debt or loss. Disposal of related records in the above-noted information banks is governed by the retention schedule for those banks. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001762 Bank Number: CPC PPU 065

Post Office Savings Bank

Description: Contains Post Office Savings Bank (1868-1969) unclaimed account information. Account holders wishing to confirm if funds remain on deposit in their name must forward a written request together with appropriate documentation, preferably the account passbook, which identifies the assigned account number. Legal authority is required by those acting on behalf of an account holder or an estate. Class of Individuals: Individuals having funds on deposit with Canada Post, either currently or within the past 15 years. Purpose: To support administration of the remaining 56,600 accounts currently outstanding in the Post Office Savings Bank, the value of which is 2.6 million dollars. Consistent Uses: Records of the Post Office Savings Bank are accessed monthly to facilitate the confirmation and withdrawal of funds by valid account holders or their legal representatives. Accounts having a balance of less than $25.00 and no activity in relation thereto for a period of 30 years are transferred to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada. (Note that payment records are also stored in accounts payable, CPC PPU 060 and by Money Order Services.) Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a period of 15 years after the year an account is closed, whether by withdrawal or through transfer to the Receiver General for Canada. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001336 Bank Number: CPC PPU 055

Risk Management Claims

Description: This bank contains records regarding claims for damages involving property, liability and automobile accidents, legal opinions, settlement transactions and other correspondence related to motor vehicle and other accidents involving third parties. The records contain information on the parties involved, their insurers (if applicable) and the nature of the injury or loss (e.g., lost employment or salary). The records also concern losses due to fire and such crimes as robbery, break and enter, and vandalism. Limited information exists in automated form in the Risk Management Information System. Data elements include the names of the employee and claimant, the type of loss and settlement cost. Note that payment records are also stored in Accounts Payable, CPC PPU 060, that vehicle driver records (including records of accidents not involving third-party claims) are stored in Automotive Services (CPC PPE 825); that workers' compensation board claims are stored in Worker's Compensation Board Claims (CPC PPE 845); and that claims involving delayed, lost or damaged mail are stored in Customer Service (CPC PPU 030). Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify details such as incident location and date. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees involved in claims, such as drivers of Corporate vehicles and letter carriers, as well as on third parties making claims or from whom the Corporation is seeking damages. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of Corporation and third-party claims. Consistent Uses: Records are used to determine liability for motor vehicle, fire and other accidents involving third parties; to approve damage settlements, such as payments by and to the Corporation (as postal vehicles are insured, claims are handled by outside adjusters); to support claims by Canada Post against insurance policies in force; and to facilitate loss control and other measures to prevent recurrences. Note that certain information may be provided to insurance companies, lawyers acting on behalf of either party and the police, to facilitate resolution of the claim. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for six years after the fiscal year during which the claim by or against the Corporation is settled, unless a minor was involved, in which case the records are retained for six fiscal years after the minor's age of majority (varies from province to province). PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001335 Bank Number: CPC PPU 050

Human Resources & Administration

Crown Debt Requests

Description: This bank contains requests from and responses to such federal institutions as Revenue Canada and Employment and Immigration, seeking to locate individuals owing Crown debts (e.g., overdue income tax, unemployment insurance overpayments, customs duties, defaulted student loans) or to whom Crown payments are due. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number, which is provided, unsolicited, by the federal institutions. Class of Individuals: Individuals owing Crown debts, or to whom Crown payments are due, who are the subject of an inquiry. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to ensure Canada Post can properly account for disclosures of this sort. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the year of response and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002157 Bank Number: CPC PPU 120

Human Rights

Description: This bank contains confidential letters of complaint and interview notes with complainants, those alleged to have harassed or discriminated against the complainant and witness statements, as well as investigation and analysis reports and records of decisions taken. Background information varies with the complaint, but could include grievances, medical reports, personal appraisals and correspondence. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name of the complainant and the location and date of the incident. Class of Individuals: Individuals submitting discrimination complaints and individuals alleged to have harassed or discriminated against complainants. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the resolution of allegations of discrimination based on prescribed grounds set out in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and allegations of personal harassment in the workplace. Consistent Uses: The records are used to help determine whether or not harassment or discrimination has occurred (note that records of complaints are not stored on the complainant's Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802); and to recommend and support management decisions on the transfer and discipline of employees or other corrective action, e.g., when the source of the complaint is a Canada Post policy or procedure. Individuals found to have harassed or discriminated may have a disciplinary notice to that effect placed on their Employee Personal File. Information may be disclosed in confidence to relevant Corporation officials and to the Canadian Human Rights Commission to facilitate resolution of the complaint. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the fiscal year of the last administrative use, which is usually resolution of the complaint. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the name of the complainant and the location and date of the incident. TBS Registration: 001761 Bank Number: CPC PPU 096

Parking

Description: This bank contains permit applications for parking, and related correspondence about parking of motor vehicles on property owned or leased by Canada Post. Records of transactions also exist in automated form. Individual seeking access to this bank should specify employment location and dates. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees and contractors who have applied for or received CPC parking permits. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the control of parking at certain Canada Post facilities. Consistent Uses: The records are used to control the issue and revocation of parking permits and the prosecution of parking violators (by the RCMP). The records may also be used to help coordinate car pools. Note that certain records are beyond CPC control as many employees have personal contracts with private parking lot operators. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the fiscal year in which the permit expired and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001334 Bank Number: CPC PPU 045

Privacy Act Requests – Complaints

Description: This bank contains the request forms submitted by individuals seeking access to their files, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing, including exempt material and legal opinions. It also includes records of complaints to the Privacy Commissioner of Canada and their resolution, and exceptional third-party requests referred to privacy coordination staff for advice or decision. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number of some applicants, only because the old Treasury Board request forms used by applicants contained a SIN field. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the approximate date(s) of the request(s) concerned. Class of Individuals: Canada Post employees, contractors and customers who have submitted formal access, correction or notation requests under the Privacy Act to the Corporate Privacy Coordinator or complaints to the Privacy Commissioner; or who are the subject of exceptional third-party requests. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support the processing of requests and complaints submitted by individuals under the Privacy Act, and to retain an audit trail of actions taken. Consistent Uses: The records are used to process access, correction and notation requests, to respond to Privacy Commission complaints, and to report annually to Parliament on their disposition. Annotations regarding exemptions, corrections and disclosures to third parties may be attached to the records requested. Records may be disclosed to the Privacy Commissioner and to the Federal Court, to facilitate the resolution of complaints or court actions.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after the year of last administrative use (which is normally the provision of records requested under the Privacy Act, the processing of correction or notation requests or the resolution of complaints), and then destroyed. TBS Registration: 001344 Bank Number: CPC PPU 115

Staffing and Employment

Description: This bank contains such records as solicited and unsolicited job applications, acknowledgement of receipt letters, staffing action requests, job descriptions, salary ranges, selection profiles, competition posters, transfer requests, seniority, surplus, lay-off, re-call and eligibility lists, human resources inventory printouts, résumés of work experience and education, reference letters and checks, official languages knowledge examination papers, tests and results, lists of candidates, interview notes and rating board assessments, eligibility lists, offers of employment, notices to candidates of right to appeal, other appeal documents and related correspondence. This bank also contains the Social Insurance Number which will continue to be used as an employee identifier until such time as it can be replaced by a CPC employee numbering system. Individuals seeking access to this bank should specify the competition number and date, if applicable, as well as position title and location.

Class of Individuals: Individuals who apply for or are hired to fill temporary and permanent positions with Canada Post Corporation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to support internal staffing and external recruitment activities. Consistent Uses: Job applications are screened when vacancies arise. Staffing records are used to provide impartial information to match new and vacant positions to the most qualified candidates (notations of staffing decisions may be stored in the Employee Personal File, CPC PPE 802; in Payroll and Attendance, CPC PPE 815; and in the Human Resource Information System, CPC PPE 804); to assist in succession planning and career development; to conduct reference checks, provide feedback to candidates regarding their applications and job interviews; and to process complaints, appeals and grievances concerning appointments and promotions (see Grievances, CPC PPE 813). Limited personal information regarding seniority, surplus and layoffs may be posted, as well as provided to collective bargaining agents. Personal information about successful candidates may be disclosed to unsuccessful candidates under strict conditions of confidentiality, to better explain decisions taken. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years after last administrative use (which is usually the expiration of the appeal period for competitions), and then destroyed. Layoff/transfer lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded. PAC Number: 88-007 TBS Registration: 001343 Bank Number: CPC PPU 095

Mail Operations

Delivery Control Systems

Description: This bank contains delivery records for signature services (Registered and Security Registered, Cash on Delivery, Insured Mail with Proof of Delivery, Priority Courier); change of address notifications/hold mail request forms; directories or lists of customers used to ensure the accurate delivery of mail and the provision of related services (e.g., Community Mailbox, Group Mailbox and Rural Mailbox Delivery and Electronic Mail) and related correspondence. These records contain such information on customers as name, fees paid, present address, previous address, effective dates, signature and proof of identity (when needed in picking up mail and when filing a change of address notification). Limited account information exists in automated form in the Priority Courier Track and Trace and Electronic Mail systems. Class of Individuals: Customers who subscribe to, or receive, postal signature services, submit a redirection/hold mail application or reside in areas requiring name/address lists to effect postal delivery. Purpose: The records are used to support the provision of postal services, including signature mail services; to control the redirection or holding of mail; to ensure accurate mail delivery where delivery service has changed or is difficult; to facilitate the reconciliation and audit of accounts; and to respond to inquiries or claims (see also Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Electronic name and address lists and related information received from volume mailers are used in creating and addressing Lettermail Plus and Admail Plus items for subsequent delivery. Consistent Uses: Redirection records are also used to correct the mailing lists of large volume mailers where such mailers are using a previous or incorrect address. Change of address notifications are automated for the purpose of producing new address labels, as well as to download information into the National Change of Address database (see CPC PPU 002). Address information is also disclosed to government institutions under certain circumstances in order to facilitate the collection of Crown debts or the making of Crown payments (see CPC PPU 120 and CPC PPU 090). Retention and Disposal Standards: Signature service records are retained for a maximum of two years after the year of delivery and are then destroyed, with the exception of certain financial records, which are retained for seven years. As a convenience to customers, Electronic Mail data are retained under strict security for six months and are then deleted. Change of address/hold mail records are retained for six months after the termination of service and are then destroyed. Directories and lists are updated continuously and destroyed when superseded or obsolete. TBS

Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Records

Certain information provided by or about individuals may also be found in administrative records, such as general correspondence and organizational planning files, minutes of committee meetings, daily information books, library loan and distribution lists, fixed asset inventory control reports, general ledger reports, audit reports and evaluations, internal electronic mail (COSS) communications, video recordings and records relating to visits and conferences involving officials of other postal authorities. Several functions also provide advice on employee, customer or contractor matters concerning areas such as employee relations, labour relations, customer service, corporate security, occupational health and safety, etc. This information may exist in the form of personal notes, drafts, letters, case files and electronic mail messages, duplicates of which are often located in other personal information banks. Retention/disposal standards vary, but comply with a two-year minimum.

Corporate Security

This class includes information detailing complaints received by Corporate Security and the remedial action undertaken. The records are chronologically ordered and thus not retrievable by individual identifier. They include occurrence reports which contain the name, address and phone number of the complainant, the names of the other parties involved, the name of the investigating officer and details concerning causes and remedial action. Should the enquiry result in a suspicion of a postal-related crime or offence, or a Criminal Code offence involving the mail, a file number is added to the occurrence report which is transferred to personal information bank Postal Related Crimes/Offences (see CPC PPU 085, or CPC PPE 824). Otherwise, the occurrence reports are retained for two years, at which time they are destroyed. The purpose of such retention is to allow for statistical analyses and quality control.

Marketing and Sales

This class includes Postage Meter Services and marketing information such as market research studies, various coded mailing lists, market surveys and test reports concerning householders and other Canada Post customers (for example, large volume mailers). The records include correspondence, reports, accounts of sales calls and other meetings with customers, which may contain the names, titles and business addresses of company representatives, as well as profiles of key executives. These records are used for business purposes only, namely to identify customer needs and perceptions and to help make marketing decisions related to product and service mix, price and promotion. Canada Post also temporarily retains certain records which may contain personal information under arrangements with customers and business partners. These records assist in the preparation of account development strategies for national and divisionally managed accounts. Such records are not under the Corporation's sole control and may not be accessed without the prior consent of the customer or business partner involved. Note also that claims and enquiries related to collection and delivery services have been indexed and described as a Canada Post information bank (see Customer Service, CPC PPU 030). Certain records are held in electronic form in the following systems: Cash Receipts, Money Order Information, Canadian Wildlife Service, National Accounts and Marketing Mailing List.

Undeliverable Mail

This class of records includes lettermail and parcels that, for any cause, cannot be delivered to the addressee or returned to the sender. This includes mail that cannot be delivered for legal reasons, and mail that is refused by the addressee or on which postage due is not paid by the sender on demand. The treatment of this mail is governed by the Undeliverable Mail Regulations. Undeliverable mail is opened to facilitate delivery to addressee or return to sender. Undeliverable admail is not returned to the sender or forwarded to an addressee unless it bears a specific request for return or redirection to another address, or has obvious value. Undeliverable international mail is returned to the country of origin unless marked abandoned, in which case it is treated in the same manner as domestic mail. When undeliverable mail of no obvious value does not contain sufficient information to permit the mail to be returned to the sender or forwarded to the addressee, it is destroyed. Where the mail contains cash or merchandise the cash is deposited to the credit of Canada Post Corporation and the merchandise is sold or otherwise disposed of in a manner approved by the Corporation.

Additional Information

Please see the INTRODUCTION to this publication for information on access procedures under the provisions of the Privacy Act.

Records contained within information banks are limited to relevant data subjects. For example, if an individual has never bid on nor been awarded a contract with Canada Post, no record of that individual would exist in the applicable contract bank.

To facilitate access and records retrieval, specific details should be provided, such as those outlined in individual bank descriptions.

If Canada Post exempts any information, the individual refused access is provided with the precise reasons for the exemption and the applicable appeal procedures.

Records are routinely destroyed when their useful life expires; thus, access requests for older records may prove unsuccessful. Individuals are encouraged to seek informal access to their records – employees via their supervisors, and customers, contractors and others via the Canada Post officials with whom they have been dealing.

Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women

Chapter 15

General Information

Background

Established in 1973, the Canadian Advisory Council on the Status of Women (CACSW) is composed of 18 members appointed by the federal government to bring before the government and the public matters of interest and concern to women, and to advise the Minister responsible for the Status of Women on such topics.

The Council has 15 members appointed for specific terms, with representation from all the provinces and territories, plus a full-time president and two vice-presidents. Council meetings are held at least twice a year in Ottawa.

Responsibilities

In addressing itself to the concerns of all Canadian women, the 18 members of the Council bring forward the particular problems of their regions. Research and background material provide the base upon which Council recommendations are made following deliberation by members at general meetings.

Recommendations for change in legislation and for other measures to improve the status of women are presented to the government through the Minister responsible. The Council has the unique right and responsibility to inform the public of its recommendations at the same time as it reports to Parliament. Council activities – briefs, speeches, responses to current events, open communication with the public. Maintain an awareness of the inequalities facing women in Canadian society today.

Legislation

- Order in Council PC 1976-781

Organization

The Council's vice-presidents are responsible for specific regions, while the president retains overall responsibility for the operations of the Council. There are regional offices located in Vancouver and Montreal. At the central office in Ottawa, three directors have specific responsibilities for research, communications and administration and, along with their staff, support ongoing Council activities across the country.

Canadian Centre for Management Development

Chapter 16

General Information

Background

On April 14, 1988, the Prime Minister announced the creation of the Canadian Centre for Management Development (CCMD), dedicated to excellence in teaching and research into public sector management, enhancing public sector management capabilities, and promoting a strong corporate culture in the federal public service. On March 27, 1991, new legislation entitled Canadian Centre for Management Development Act (Bill C-34) received Royal Assent and the act was officially proclaimed on December 1, 1991.

The Act provides for the creation of a departmental corporation operating at arm's length from the government under the general direction of a Board of Governors. The composition of the Board is to be equally divided between public and non-public sector (academic and business) representatives. The Clerk of the Privy Council is the Chairman of the Board. Among other public sector representatives, the Secretary of the Treasury Board, the Chairman of the Public Service Commission and the Principal of the Centre are ex officio governors.

Responsibilities

The Centre focuses on the orientation, training and development of senior managers in the federal sector. It also has a capability to undertake public management research including the development of teaching cases to enhance and broaden the range of management courses offered by the federal government. There are two campuses in the National Capital Region (NCR) as well as a regional office in Edmonton, Alberta. One of the NCR campuses is located at Gatineau (Touraine), Quebec; the other is situated in the historic Lasalle Academy on Sussex Drive in downtown Ottawa. Courses are also offered at existing facilities in most regions of Canada.

The primary clientele of the Centre includes all members of the Executive Group, Deputy Ministers, Senior Governor-in-Council appointees, managers from the Employment Equity groups at one level below the Executive Group and, managers selected for the Career Assignment Program, the Management Trainee Program and Interchange Canada.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Management Development Act

Organization

Office of the Principal

The Principal of the Centre is appointed by the Governor-in-Council and has the rank and status of a deputy minister. The Principal is the Chief Executive Officer of the Centre and has control over the form and content of programs, studies and publications of the Centre, the appointment of staff, the contracting for services and any other authority normally exercised by a deputy head pursuant to a statute or delegated authority. The Principal now also has responsibilities related to Public Service Renewal. By way of a PS2000 Coordinators' Committee, the Principal regularly receives input from departments on how to maintain innovation and continued progress in the implementation of values and objectives of renewal as stated under the Public Service Reform Act. The other positions reporting to the Principal are listed below.

Executive Development Programs Group

The Vice-Principal, Executive Development Programs is responsible for the provision of mandatory and residential management orientation courses and optional non-residential courses, seminars and workshops to members of the Executive Group at all levels, and the educational component of the Career Assignment Program (CAP) and of the Management Trainee Program. This area is also responsible for the registration of participants to all programs offered by the Centre.

Advanced Management Program

The Associate Vice-Principal, Advanced Management Program (AMP) is responsible for the delivery of the AMP to the top ranks of the public service at the level of ADM and above.

Research Group

The Vice-Principal, Research is responsible for the conduct and publication of research projects on a wide range of public sector management issues and concerns, the management of contributions given to a variety of management organizations and associations, the administration of a fellowship program for senior public and private sector officials and academics, the Case Study program and the Management Resource Centre.

RADIAN

RADIAN is responsible for providing optional Distance Learning and Business Communications products and services on a full cost-recovery basis to the public sector, including other levels of government and educational institutions. The Chief Operating Officer reports directly and is accountable to the Principal of CCMD.

Negotiation, Consultation and Conflict Management

This group delivers training programs in conflict management and also provides consulting services in relation to specific negotiation and conflict situations. The group works closely with the Conflict Management Group (CMG) of Cambridge, Mass. which is associated with the Project on Negotiation at Harvard University.

International Activities

The Coordinator of International Activities handles requests for teaching outside of Canada and coordinates visits with CIDA, IPAC and others of representatives from outside the country who are interested in learning more about how public sector management issues and concerns are treated here.

Management Services

The Executive Director of Management Services is responsible for the provision of all tasks related to Corporate Services, Human Resources Management, Finance, Administration and Automation at the Centre.

Communications and Marketing/Business Centre

The Director General of Communications and Marketing is responsible for market research and analysis, the preparation of publicity on the Centre to its client population and outside organizations, the relations with the media, and the publication of the Annual Report.

The Business Centre operates as a professional management development consulting team to CCMD's clientele to meet their present and future management development needs and to construct an integrated, inter-active relationship with them.

Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety

Chapter 17

General Information

Background

The Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety (CCOHS) is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act, created by Parliament in April, 1978 to promote the rights of Canadians to a healthy and safe working environment. It is governed by a Council of Governors representing labour, employers and federal, provincial and territorial governments.

Responsibilities

CCOHS promotes a healthier and safer workplace by providing a free occupational health and safety inquiries service to Canadians in both official languages while achieving self-sufficiency through the revenue generating services as a not-for-profit organization. The revenue generating service includes publications, education/training packages, an online electronic service (CCINFOline) that connects users to CCOHS' computer in Hamilton via Internet or Datapac, and a CD-ROM service, CCINFOdisc, consisting of a series of 7 CD-ROMs which are updated quarterly, containing material safety data sheets of trade name chemicals, and other chemical and general health and safety databases, a magnetic tape service, and a diskette service.

Five new specialized CD-ROMs are also offered containing full-text occupational health and safety and environmental legislation, complete with inherent print characteristics, and multimedia education/training packages. Another CD-ROM contains regulatory and advisory information on chemicals in the workplace and the environment.

Four membership options from $100 to $500 are offered to organizations which are interested in supporting the Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety and promoting the fundamental right of all Canadians to a healthy and safe workplace.

Legislation

- Canadian Centre for Occupational Health and Safety Act
- Financial Administration Act, Schedule II

Organization

CCOHS is a corporation under Schedule II of the Financial Administration Act. Its policies are established by the Council of Governors, which consists of a chairman and 12 representatives from labour, employers' organizations, the Council and the federal, provincial and territorial governments. It meets three times a year in Hamilton. The Chairman is appointed by federal Order-in-Council. The President and Chief Executive Officer supervises and directs the work and staff of the Centre.

The program is delivered on an inter-disciplinary project team system. There are four directorates through which the program is delivered.

Inquiries Service:

Responds directly to oral or written inquiries from the public.

Project Development and Coordination:

The market-driven project teams that constitute the driving force for the products and services offered by the Centre.

Operations Support:

Provides the support services and other services necessary for the effective operation of the Centre, and coordinates and monitors the national marketing and sales plan.

Comptroller:

Provides centralized planning and financial control.

CCINFO

Description: CCINFO is CCOHS' computerized information service which consists of four distinct modes of delivery – CCINFOdisc and CCINFOline: a tape service and a diskette service: CCINFOdisc – the delivery through CD-ROM (compact disc read-only memory); provides discs with data in the form of structured databases, full-text, and interactive, multimedia education/training packages; CCINFOline – the delivery through a telecommunications link to CCOHS' central computer via Internet or Datapac, provides access to databases; the tape service provides databases on magnetic tape for installation on other organizations' computers; the diskette service provides selected CCINFOdisc and CCINFOline databases on diskettes.

There are three additional specialized CD-ROM discs containing information on education/training and legislation: 1) Two Education/Training discs consisting of multimedia training packages with sound, graphics, animation, colour and interactive features; and, 2) Legislation Disc – containing the full text of Canadian occupational health and safety and environmental Acts and regulations.

There is also a CD-ROM disc of databases devoted to regulatory and advisory information on chemicals in the workplace and the environment from the U.S., Canada and several other countries.

There are six chemical information databases which respond to the right to know about the hazards posed by chemicals in the workplace. They are: 1) MSDS Database – contains English material safety data sheets for trade-named products; 2) FTSS Database – contains French material safety data sheets for trade-named products; 3) CHEMINFO (Chemical Information) – supplies profiles on chemicals and their safe usage; 4) RTECS® (produced by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health – NIOSH) – the Registry of Toxic Effects of Chemical Substances, an annual compendium of toxicity data extracted from the scientific literature by NIOSH; 5) REGULATORY INFORMATION ON PESTICIDE PRODUCTS identifies and describes products registered in Canada under the Pest Control Products (PCP) Act, and is produced by Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada; and, 6) TRANSPORT OF DANGEROUS GOODS (TDG)/HAZARDOUS MATERIALS (49CFR) – a database giving Canadian and U.S. regulatory information for the packaging and shipping of substances with recognized shipping names.

Five additional databases also contain chemical information: 1) PRIS (PEST MANAGEMENT RESEARCH INFORMATION SYSTEM) consists of five databases covering many aspects of pest control product development, from first introduction in Canada for research up to registration; produced by Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada; 2) CESARS (Chemical Evaluation Search and Retrieval System) contains information on chemicals of environmental concern; jointly produced by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR) and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment (MOE); and, 3) DOMESTIC/NON-DOMESTIC SUBSTANCES LIST (DSL/NDSL) lists substances manufactured or imported into Canada; in Canadian commerce, or used for commercial manufacturing purposes in Canada, under specific criteria, as well as substances not on the DSL, but believed to be in international commerce, although not yet in Canada; 4) CHRIS (Chemical Hazard Response Information System) contains emergency response and hazard information on chemicals; produced by the U.S. Coast Guard; and 5) New Jersey Hazardous Substance Fact Sheets with non-technical information on chemicals; produced by the New Jersey Department of Health.

Three databases describe people and organizations active in Canadian occupational health and safety, and current research projects in the field: 1) CANADIAN STUDIES is a directory of recent Canadian studies in the field of occupational health and safety; 2) RESOURCE ORGANIZATIONS lists Canadian organizations involved in the field of occupational health and safety; and, 3) RESOURCE PEOPLE provides a directory of Canadians involved in the field of occupational health and safety.

Two other databases contain Canadian legal information on occupational health and safety: 1) CASE LAW, a collection of summaries of occupational health and safety cases and decisions from jurisdictions across Canada; and, 2) FATALITY REPORTS, a database containing information from reports on occupationally related fatalities.

Other databases accessible through CCOHS' electronic services:

- CANADIANA (OSH) is a bibliographic database of documents on occupational health and safety produced in Canada, by Canadians or on Canadian topics.

- ESSENTIALS provides references to publications selected as essential to answer questions on a specific topic in occupational health and safety.

- NOISE LEVELS is a direct-information database providing numerical data on noise levels relating to different types of machinery used for specific occupations in various industries.

- NON-IONIZING RADIATION LEVELS is a database containing non-ionizing radiation measurements of specific types of equipment used in a variety of industries and occupations.

- MINING INCIDENTS describes occupational health and safety incidents in mining; developed in co-operation with the Chief Inspectors of Mines Association.

- AIDSCAN for Health Care Workers, created by Ryerson Polytechnical Institute, is a bibliographic database of documents on working safely with AIDS patients; the physical and psychosocial aspects of care; and the educational or other special projects in which health care workers might be involved.

- DIRECTORY OF OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH LEGISLATION IN CANADA lists occupational health and safety legislation as made available to the Federal-Provincial Relations Branch of Labour Canada, and is provided by Labour Canada.

- INRS-BIBLIOGRAPHIE, a French-language bibliographic database covering the international scientific and technical literature available on occupational health and safety; provided by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- INET – RESEARCH PROJECTS (INRS), an international directory of research projects that are planned or currently underway on the prevention of occupational risks; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- INOR – ORGANIZATIONS (INRS), an international directory of organizations that conduct research on the prevention of occupational risk, whether or not this is their main activity; produced by the Institut national de recherche et de sécurité (INRS) in France.

- DIDS (Document Information Directory System), a listing of NIOSH (National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health) publications and reports which can be ordered from NIOSH, the US Government Printing Office (GPO) or the National Technical Information Service (NTIS); provided by NIOSH.

- STANDARDS AND DIRECTORIES is a directory of standards, certified products' directories, PLUS products and other miscellaneous information products published by the CSA (Canadian Standards Association).

- CIS/ILO was created by the Centre d'informations de sécurité et de santé au travail of the International Labour Office in Geneva. CIS/ILO is a bilingual, bibliographic database on publications in occupational health and safety worldwide.

- International Directory of OSH Institutions, produced by the Centre d'informations de sécurité et de santé au travail of the International Labour Office in Geneva, is a directory of key occupational health and safety organizations in 93 member states of the ILO.

- NIOSHTIC®, developed by the U.S. National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, is a bibliographic database with international coverage of publications in occupational health and safety.

- MOLINDEX, produced by the Ontario Ministry of Labour Library, provides references to documents on occupational health and safety and other labour issues, from Canadian, American and Western European sources.

- Occupational Health and Safety Software Packages describes commercial computer software programs pertaining to occupational health and safety.

- NIOSH Manual of Analytical Methods, a widely used reference guide for sampling and analysis of chemical contaminants in air, and also for biological monitoring.

- NiPERA CAB (Current Awareness Bulletin), produced by the Nickel Producers' Environmental Research Association (NiPERA) in the U.S. to develop and disseminate information on any health or environmental effects that might be associated with the production and use of nickel, its compounds and alloys. Program Record Number: OHS ISS 055

Canadian Commercial Corporation

Chapter 18

General Information

Background

A Crown corporation established in 1946, Canadian Commercial Corporation (CCC) is wholly owned by the Government of Canada. It reports to Parliament through the Minister of Public Works and Government Services.

Responsibilities

The Corporation's mandate is to assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations. Its principal activity is to facilitate sales to foreign governments and international agencies on behalf of Canadian suppliers. In all transactions CCC assumes the role of prime contractor, undertaking to deliver a product or service to the foreign customer with a "back-to-back" obligation from a Canadian supplier. To achieve this task, the Corporation offers a wide range of export services to Canadian exporters, provides them with special access to foreign government markets and enhances their credibility by guaranteeing contract performance.

Legislation

- Canadian Commercial Corporation Act

Organization

The board of directors is comprised of Canadian business executives, public service officials and the President of the Corporation.

■ Corporate Management Division

This unit is responsible for the development of corporate policy and planning, for communications and awareness activities, and for the provision of management information systems and data processing services within the Corporation.

■ Finance and Resources Administration Division

This unit is responsible for ensuring sound financial management practices for all policies and programs of the Corporation; in addition, it oversees the human resources, administration and security requirements of the Corporation.

■ Operations

Two distinct operational groups within CCC facilitate government-to-government export contracts; the United States Division and the Overseas Division. The latter includes a section devoted to concluding sales with United Nations purchasing agencies and in projects funded by international financial institutions.

Canadian Cultural Property Export Review Board

Chapter 19

General Information

Background

The Cultural Property Export Review Board was established through the Cultural Property Export and Import Act on September 6, 1977. The duties of the Review Board as set out in section 20 of the Act are: pursuant to section 29, to review applications for export permits; pursuant to section 30, to make determinations respecting fair cash offers to purchase; and pursuant to section 32, to make determinations for the purpose of subparagraph 39(1)(a) (i.1) or 110(1)(b.1) of the Income Tax Act.

Administrative services to the Review Board are provided through the Department of Communications by the Movable Cultural Property Secretariat. All Review Board files are housed with the Secretariat. The personal information they contain pertains to members of the Review Board, applications for grants, loans, cultural property export permits, appeals against the refusal of cultural property export permits and applications for the certification of cultural property submitted on behalf of donors or vendors. Application forms are filed by number but can be accessed through a manual cross-index or automated system containing the name of the appellant (in the case of an appeal) or the donor/vendor (in the case of certification). Review Board member files are maintained in alphabetical order.

Responsibilities

The Review Board is responsible for preserving in Canada significant examples of Canadian heritage in movable cultural property, reviewing applications for export permits, making determinations on fair cash offers to purchase and making determinations for the purposes of the Income Tax Act. It also provides advice to the Minister of Communications on matters affecting the preservation in Canada of the heritage in movable cultural property. In particular, it recommends to the Minister, pursuant to section 35 of the Act, grants and loans to designated institutions and public authorities in Canada for the purchase of objects for which permits have been refused under the Act, or for the purchase of cultural property outside Canada that is related to the national heritage. The grants and loans are made out of monies appropriated annually by Parliament.

In reviewing an application for an export permit the Board must determine whether the object in question: is included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List; is of outstanding significance by reason of its close association with Canadian history or national life, its aesthetic qualities or its value in the study of the arts or sciences; is of such a degree of national importance that its loss would significantly diminish the national heritage.

Where the Review Board determines that the cultural property subject of an application meets the criteria of outstanding significance and national importance, and the cultural property qualifies for certification for income tax purposes, the Review Board issues a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate to the designated institution or public authority making such an application. It should be noted that objects proposed for certification need not be included in the Canadian Cultural Property Export Control List. Thus objects less than 50 years old and made by a living person may qualify. It should also be noted that a certified cultural property subject of a Cultural Property Income Tax Certificate is exempt from tax on taxable capital gains when disposed of (by gift or sale) to an institution or public authority in Canada designated for the purpose and, in the case of a donation, also qualifies for the 100 percent tax credit provision under the Income Tax Act.

Legislation

- Cultural Property Export and Import Act

Canadian Dairy Commission

Chapter 20

General Information

Background

The Canadian Dairy Commission was established by the Canadian Dairy Commission Act in October 1966. The Commission consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a commissioner, appointed by the Governor-in-Council; it is accountable to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture and Agri-Food. To assist the Commission with advice on dairy pricing matters, there is a consultative committee of nine members, appointed by the Minister, who represent a variety of interests.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Commission are to provide efficient producers of milk and cream with the opportunity of obtaining a fair return for their labour and investment, and to provide consumers with a continuous and adequate supply of dairy products of high quality.

The Commission, under its authority to purchase and sell dairy products, supports the market price of major processed products, principally butter and skim milk powder. The prices that producers receive for industrial milk and cream are related to these product support prices.

The Commission exports surplus dairy products, including skim milk powder and whole milk products such as evaporated milk, cheese, whole milk powder and other specialty products.

The Commission makes direct payments to producers from funds provided by the government to moderate consumer prices. These payments are made on qualifying milk and cream shipments produced within a Market Sharing Quota system to meet domestic market requirements, and a special export program.

The supply of industrial milk and cream is managed nationally through a Market Sharing Quota program administered under the National Milk Marketing Plan. The Commission, in chairing the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee (CMSMC), directs the development of policy and coordinates the administration of the national quota and provincial market shares that are determined by the CMSMC.

Legislation

- Farm Income Protection Act
- Canadian Dairy Commission Act

Organization

■ Policy Section

This provides analysis and advice on dairy-related issues.

■ Subsidy Operations Section

This administers the payment of subsidies on qualifying shipments of industrial milk and cream to producers in order to make dairy products more affordable to consumers.

■ Marketing Sections

These involve both domestic and export activities, including the purchase, sale, transport, warehousing, financing and payment of assistance on the export of dairy products and animal feed under the Commission's domestic price support and special export program. Products involved are butter, skim milk powder, cheese, evaporated milk, whole milk powder and specialty products.

Canadian Film Development Corporation

Chapter 21

General Information

Background

The Canadian Film Development Corporation was established by an Act of Parliament (R.S.C. 1970, Chapter C-8) in March, 1967. The Corporation, publicly known as Telefilm Canada, is responsible for fostering the growth and development of the private sector of the Canadian film, television and video industry.

Responsibilities

Through Telefilm Canada, the Government of Canada provides support, as a partner, to the private sector for the production of film and broadcast material, either in the form of investment funds or through a variety of resources at the Corporation's disposal.

The Corporation meets the diverse needs of this industry through a wide range of funds. Support is available at all stages of the process, from screenplay development to final production and beyond to the distribution and marketing of the finished product in Canada and abroad.

Telefilm Canada is a Crown corporation that reports to Parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is headed by a board of directors and a chairman appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council, on the recommendation of the Corporation's board, also appoints an executive director who acts as chief executive officer and is responsible for day-to-day operations. Headquarters is located in Montreal with offices in Toronto, Vancouver, Halifax, Los Angeles, Paris and London.

Legislation

- Canadian Film Development Corporation Act, 1970, R.S.C. chapter C-8.

Organization

■ Planning and Policies

This sector is responsible for the formulation of policies and strategies for the administration of Corporation funds. The sector is also responsible for establishing formal liaison with industry representatives and federal and provincial institutions, and for the evaluation of the cultural and industrial impact of Telefilm Canada policies.

■ Production and Development

This sector has overall responsibility in the administration of the Feature Film Fund, the Canadian Broadcast Program Development Fund and the Interim Financing Fund. It co-ordinates decision-making and production and development activities among the Canadian offices of the Corporation.

■ Financing and Administration

This sector is responsible for: financial planning; monitoring spending and commitments; financial tracking; personnel; computer systems; legal affairs; and contract management.

■ Distribution, Marketing and International Affairs

This sector is responsible for the overall administration of marketing, distribution and export activities and funds, in order to promote the visibility and competitiveness of Canadian productions in Canada and abroad, and to foster growth in distribution-related sectors. The sector is also responsible, on behalf of the Minister of Communications, for the administration of Canada's co-production treaties with Algeria, Belgium, China, Commonwealth of Independent States, Czech and Slovak Republics, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Hungary, Israel, Italy, Mexico, Morocco, New Zealand, Romania, Spain, Switzerland, the United Kingdom, Yugoslavia, Argentina, Australia, Ireland and the Netherlands. It also evaluates applications made under these treaties and makes recommendations to the Minister regarding provisional and final approval.

■ Research and Analysis

This sector is responsible for studies concerning the impact of the Corporation's various programs and the evolution of the industry in general, in order to promote better long term planning and ensure the Corporation's activities effectively meet the needs of the industry.

A Human and Material Resources sector and a Communications sector complete the organizational structure of the Corporation.

Personal Information Banks

Application for Funds File

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of the applications and assessment records of individuals applying for funding of projects by Telefilm Canada (CFDC). It contains the application form and supporting data presented by the applicant; the project proposal; financial data; critical assessments of the project and the decision of the Corporation. This information is used for future reference in decision-making processes. In the case of a funded project, financial and administrative data are maintained. These data are used as a basis for generalized industry statistics as well as for future reference. Information in the bank is retained indefinitely for projects that are funded, for proposals that do not receive funding information is retained for two years.

Organization

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector

■ Amateur Sport Branch

The services provided in this area are now managed through one organization – Sport Canada – comprising five (5) dedicated operational directorates: Core Support Management; High Performance; Major Games; Policy, Planning and Evaluation; and Regional Operations. Given the nature of programs, management will remain centralized, however regional operations will provide information on policies and programs of Sport Canada and will be involved in major amateur sport events taking place in the regions.

The objective of the Amateur Sport programs is to strengthen sport's unique contribution to Canadian identity and culture by supporting the pursuit of excellence and fostering opportunities for Canadians to participate in sport. Sport Canada has identified athletes, coaches, National Sport Organizations and special groups as its current funding priorities.

■ Official Languages in Education

Under a Protocol of Agreements signed between the Government of Canada and the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada, bilateral agreements are concluded with each province and territory. Under the agreements, support is provided for the main following expenditure categories: Infrastructure Support, Program Expansion and Development, Teacher Training and Development, and Student Support. The Protocol of Agreements also provides for the funding of two national programs : The Summer Language Bursary Program and the Official-Language Monitor Program. Under the Language Acquisition Development Program, financial assistance is provided to volunteer organizations, professional associations, and Canadian institutions for national projects aimed at collecting and providing information on official languages in education or at developing techniques for teaching the official languages. This assistance supplements the agreements on official languages in education. Through the Queen Elizabeth Silver Jubilee Endowment Fund, scholarships are awarded to university students who wish to pursue studies in their second official language.

■ Official Languages Support Programs Branch

The Branch has the following objectives: to foster and support the development of the official-language minorities in Canada and to promote the recognition and use of French and English in Canadian society.

■ Promotion of Official Languages

The Promotion of Official Languages component assists official-language to establish and maintain their own organizations and institutions in order to help them participate, in their own language, in every aspect of Canadian society. It co-operates with the provincial, territorial and municipal governments, as well as other Canadian institutions, to promote the progress of both official languages as well as the development of official-language communities by offering French and English services. It encourages and assists federal institutions to participate in the development of official language minority communities and the promotion of linguistic duality in Canada. It favours and encourages a wider acceptance and appreciation of both languages by all Canadians, as well as a better understanding among the Canadian official-language communities. In addition, it co-operates with the private and voluntary sectors to offer French and English services and to foster the recognition and use of both official languages.

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Citizens' Participation and Multiculturalism Branch

■ Canadian Identity Directorate:

Includes the former State Ceremonial, Canadian Studies, Youth Participation and Voluntary Action Directorates.

State Ceremonial:

Co-ordinates the organization and the delivery of state ceremonies and activities such as royal visits, unveiling ceremonies and state funerals. It supports the role of the Crown in Canada through assistance to the offices of Lieutenant Governors and the provision of advice on the exercise of royal prerogatives. It also manages the Government of Canada gift bank and co-ordinates activities regarding the use of Parliament Hill. It also provides advice on precedence, titles and flag etiquette. Further it is responsible for the planning and co-ordination of Canada Day celebrations on Parliament Hill and across the country through 12 volunteer provincial/territorial Canada Day committees. An active part of all program components is the promotion of Canadian symbols. State Ceremonial also oversees the flag program by distributing flags and other materials to members of the House of Commons and Senate.

Canadian Studies:

in order to encourage Canadians to learn about Canada, provides technical and financial assistance to individuals, organizations, private sector companies and corporations, and educational institutions working to advance the field of Canadian studies. Administers a series of funding programs to support the development of Canadian studies learning materials in a number of specific content areas considered to be underdeveloped or neglected in the field, and to encourage greater private sector funding of Canadian studies projects. A number of publications are produced as well which provide information on current Canadian issues.

Youth Participation:

Encourages and facilitates the participation of young people aged 14 to 19 years in Canadian society. The Open House Canada Program provides financial support to a number of national non profit organizations to cover the travel costs for student exchanges and national forums. Also responsible for coordinating Canada's participation in the Commonwealth Youth Program.

Voluntary Action:

Encourages active citizenship by supporting the participation of Canadians in community affairs. It provides technical, professional and financial support to national, regional and local voluntary organizations in carrying out citizenship activities. (Voluntary associations are non-profit, community-oriented and concerned with public issues.)

■ Human Rights Directorate:

Achieves its objectives through a program of support for education, research and development work by non-governmental organizations, as well as by operating a secretariat for the two major governmental human rights committees chaired by the Department: the Federal Interdepartmental Committee on Human Rights, which facilitates the coordination of the federal government's human rights responsibilities; and the Continuing Federal-Provincial-Territorial Committee of Officials Responsible for Human Rights, which provides a mechanism for liaison and consultation on matters relating to Canada's international human rights commitments. Coordinates the preparation of Canada's reports to the United Nations on human rights. The activities of the program include the provision of both financial aid and technical support to non-governmental organizations concerned with human rights education, development and research, and assisting and coordinating the progress of human rights in Canada.

■ Native Citizens Directorate:

Co-ordinates and administers programs that serve organizations of Status Indians, Non-Status Indians, Métis and Inuit. A consistent feature in all programs is that projects are community-based, initiated and managed by aboriginal people. The Directorate provides assistance through the Native Friendship Centre Program, the Northern Native Broadcast Access Program, the Aboriginal Representative Organizations Program, the Aboriginal Women's Program, the Native Social and Cultural Development Program. The Directorate also administers two Aboriginal Languages Agreements with the governments of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Citizens' Participation and Multiculturalism Branch – Multiculturalism

■ Community Support and Participation (CSP):

The purpose of this program is to promote the integration and full and equitable participation in Canadian life of members of ethnocultural communities. The program supports non-profit community-based organizations in their efforts to identify, address and advocate for community concerns, including issues affecting special needs groups such as women, youth and seniors. The program consists of two components: 1) Citizenship and Community Participation (CCP): support is provided to immigrant-serving agencies for initiatives that assist first-generation Canadians to participate as full and equal citizens; 2) Community Support: support is provided to national, regional and local organizations, that are representative of ethnocultural and visible minority communities helping them maintain a sense of community and to develop a stronger voice in response to community concerns, such as intergenerational/cross-cultural understanding, and equality of opportunities to share the benefits and responsibilities of citizenship.

■ Heritage Cultures and Languages (HCL)

All Canadians benefit from the contribution to the cultural, artistic and academic sectors made by Canadians of diverse backgrounds. The main object of the HCL Program, therefore, is to promote the development and expression of heritage cultures and languages as an integral part of Canada's artistic, cultural and academic life.

The Creative and Cultural Expression component, the Heritage Language component, and the Canadian Ethnic Studies component together promote equal access for artists of minority background, assist in the production of teaching material for the study of heritage languages, encourage the scholarly study of Canada's multicultural society, and work with academic and cultural institutions to effect an environment more receptive and reflective of the pluralism of contemporary society.

■ Race Relations and Cross Cultural Understanding (RCU)

This program is designed to foster the elimination of racism and racial discrimination, to help Canadian institutions adapt to Canada's multicultural reality, to promote cross-cultural understanding, and to promote among Canadians and in Canadian institutions an appreciation and acceptance of the principles of multiculturalism.

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Citizens' Participation and Multiculturalism Branch – Secretariats

■ Canadian Multiculturalism Advisory Committee

As provided in the Canadian Multiculturalism Act, the committee advises and assists the Minister on the implementation of this Act and any other matter relating to Multiculturalism.

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Japanese Canadian Redress Secretariat

■ Japanese Canadian Redress Secretariat (JCRRS)

The Secretariat has been established to implement the 5 year Japanese Canadian Redress Program announced by The Prime Minister on September 22, 1988.

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Multiculturalism

Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector – Secretariats

■ Multiculturalism Secretariat – Cross-Government Commitment

The Secretariat encourages and assists federal institutions to implement the Multiculturalism Policy of Canada, within their mandates, and monitors and reports on progress in this area.

Corporate Services Sector

■ Administrative Services Branch

The Branch provides the following services: meeting and parking facilities coordination; facilities planning and design; mail and courier services; moving services; environmental assessments; goods and services contracting; assets management, disposal and recycling; fleet management and coordination; reprographic services; warehousing services; personnel, physical and technical/electronics security investigations; emergency/contingency plans coordination; occupational health and safety assessments; Access to Information and Privacy Acts administration; and, shared services project management.

■ Communications Branch

Communications Branch plans and implements information activities to facilitate communications between the Department and the public, as well as communications within the Department. It provides information on the policies, programs and activities of the Department and advises managers on the interests and concerns of the public and client organizations as expressed in the media and through correspondence, public meetings and direct contact with information officers. Methods include planning communications programs and activities.

■ Conference and Visits Secretariat

Will provide centralized logistics and coordination support for federal-provincial-territorial meetings and international visits and conferences of Ministers and officials.

■ Corporate and Intergovernmental Affairs Branch

The Corporate and Intergovernmental Affairs Branch contributes, with a value-added partnership, to the Department in the pursuit of its mission. It consists of five separate divisions as well as a Conferences and Visits Secretariat which provide services to the Department's program sectors and the regions in the following areas:

Strategic Planning and Coordination Directorate:

Ensures coherence and consistency with overall government priorities for all departmental endeavours, including policies, programs, regulations and legislation. The principal mechanism is a comprehensive strategic planning process and Departmental planning committee. In many cases the unit is also responsible for projects which affect more than one sector.

Federal-Provincial-Territorial Relations Directorate:

The group's principal function is to manage the Department's corporate agenda with respect to federal-provincial-territorial relations. For example, it supports the negotiations of federal-provincial-territorial agreements, and provides strategic information to assist in the conduct of federal-provincial-territorial relations. A

Departmental committee ensures the sharing of information and a cooperative approach to federal-provincial-territorial relations.

International Relations Directorate:

Provides similar service with respect to the Department's bilateral and multilateral relations with other countries. For example, it negotiates international co-production agreements, promotes the international marketing of Canadian cultural products, and coordinates Canadian presentations to international organizations. It is responsible for ensuring that significant international developments and factors are taken into account in the formulation of national policies in the Department's areas of interest. Moreover, it coordinates and manages Canada's participation in world expositions registered by the Bureau international des expositions such as Expo 93 in Taejeon, Korea.

Government Business Directorate:

Manages Cabinet business and Parliamentary services for the Minister, the Secretary of State and Senior Management. This involves piloting initiatives to Cabinet and through the Parliamentary system, reviewing Departmental and Governmental Cabinet documents, ministerial briefings and follow-up to Cabinet meetings. It also involves coordinating departmental preparation for Question Period, Parliamentary Returns and Opposition Days. Finally, it coordinates the Minister's work plan.

Research and Analysis Directorate:

Serves as a focal point for strategic information, research, analysis and intelligence for the Department. It chairs a Departmental Research Committee to link researchers across the department and to ensure a cooperative approach to research and analysis. It also promotes the development of consistent analytical techniques across the Department including the use of international comparative analysis.

Conferences and Visits Secretariat:

Provides centralized logistics and coordination support for federal-provincial-territorial meetings and international visits and conferences of Ministers and officials.

■ Corporate Review Branch

The Corporate Review Branch conducts independent studies to support the department in strategic decision-making and in achieving its mission. Studies include all organizational components, functional disciplines and programs and address issues traditionally associated with program evaluation, and internal audit. Corporate Review also conducts special studies, such as, employee surveys, internal reviews and investigations, assessment of performance measures and accountability frameworks. Corporate Review's objectives are to provide senior management with a comprehensive overview of program operations and policy efficiency, effectiveness and economy; to provide timely and objective information useful in making decisions about program continuance, resource allocation and accountability; to recommend corrective measures to improve efficiency, cost-effectiveness, planning, program design and policy development; to support management in improving their operations by conducting studies and workshops and through other forms of management consulting.

■ Federal-Provincial-Territorial Relations Directorate

Its principal function is to manage the Department's corporate agenda with respect to federal-provincial-territorial relations. It will, for example, support the negotiation of federal-provincial-territorial agreements, and provide strategic information to assist in the conduct of federal-provincial-territorial relations. A Departmental committee will ensure sharing of information and a cooperative approach to federal-provincial-territorial relations.

■ Government Business Unit

Exists to manage Cabinet business and Parliamentary services for the Ministers and Senior Management. This involves piloting initiatives to Cabinet and through the Parliamentary system, reviewing Departmental and Governmental Cabinet documents, Ministerial briefings and follow-up to Cabinet meetings. It also involves coordinating Departmental preparation for Question Period, Parliamentary Returns and Opposition Days.

■ Information Management Branch

The Branch is responsible for managing the innovative and strategic use of information as a corporate resource; for coordinating the sharing and integration of information resources to meet the Department's program delivery needs and objectives; for the enhancement of services and productivity improvement through the re-engineering of business plans and processes and the application of technology and for managing departmental investments in and use of technology; for the planning and definition of the Department's information management policy and its implementation through this organization.

■ International Relations Unit

Provides a similar service with respect to the Department's bilateral and multilateral relations with other countries. For example, it negotiates international co-production agreements, promotes the international marketing of Canadian cultural products, and coordinates Canadian presentations to international organizations. It is responsible for ensuring that significant international developments and factors are taken into account in the formulation of national policies in the Department's areas of interest. Moreover, it coordinates and manages Canada's participation in world expositions registered by the Bureau international des Expositions.

■ Research and Analysis Directorate

Serves as a focal point for strategic information, research, analysis and intelligence for the Department. It will, for example, establish and co-chair with Corporate Review Branch a Departmental Research Committee to link researchers across the department and to ensure a cooperative approach to research and analysis. It will also promote the development of consistent analytical techniques across the Department including the use of international comparative analysis.

■ Strategic Planning and Coordination Unit

Will ensure coherence and consistency with overall government priorities for all departmental endeavours, including policies, programs, regulations and legislation. The principal mechanism will be a comprehensive strategic planning process and Departmental planning committee. In many cases the unit will also be responsible for projects which affect more than one sector.

Cultural Development and Heritage Sector

■ Arts Policy Branch

The Arts Policy Branch is responsible for the formulation of policy and the development of programs in the field of the performing, visual, literary and media arts, and of design and crafts. The Branch also provides support to the Cultural Development and Heritage Sector by developing long-term strategic policies and analysis in areas which are of interest to the entire sector and by directing the conduct of arts research programs involving data collections and analysis. As well, the Branch implements and delivers certain cultural support measures such as legislative proposals (e.g. the Status of the Artist) and proceeds to the designation of national arts organizations for the purpose of the Income Tax. The Branch, through the Cultural Initiatives Programs, ensures the establishment and improvement of Canada's cultural infrastructure.

■ Broadcasting Policy Branch

Formulates policies, proposes legislation and designs and administers programs in relation to the Canadian broadcasting system. It is responsible for ensuring that the Canadian broadcasting system contributes to the realization of Canadian social, cultural and economic objectives; enhancing the production and exhibition of Canadian television and radio programming and their availability to Canadians; and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the independent agencies responsible for these activities including the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) and Telefilm Canada. Provides advice in relation to responsibilities of the Minister under the Broadcasting Act with respect to the issuance of policy directions to the CRTC and the review of CRTC broadcasting decisions.

■ Canadian Conservation Institute

The mandate of the Canadian Conservation Institute is to promote the proper care and preservation of Canada's movable cultural heritage and to advance the practice, science and technology of conservation.

■ Canadian Heritage Information Network

The Canadian Heritage Information Network (CHIN) acts as a national and international clearinghouse of heritage information, reaching institutions in 30 countries. Through the Internet and CHIN networks, access is provided to two national inventories of museum collections, the Humanities and Natural Sciences databases, and to a national inventory of Archaeological Sites. Other reference databases containing time-sensitive information relevant to the heritage community are available. CHIN assists Canadian museums with the management of information on their collections and provides training and advice in documentation practices and the use of automation in museums. CHIN's multimedia products have won national and international awards and its work in developing standards for museum documentation is internationally recognized.

■ Cultural Industries Branch

Formulates national policies, proposes legislation, designs and administers programs in the fields of copyright, film and video, sound recording and publishing. It is responsible for supporting the cultural and economic development of the cultural industries in Canada; enhancing the production and distribution of Canadian films, video programs, sound recording, books and periodicals and to ensure their availability to Canadians; ensuring, through the development of copyright policy and legislation, the legal recognition and protection of the economic and moral rights of creators and users and providing advice concerning the implementation of policies and programs by the cultural agencies which are consistent with the federal government's cultural policy and objectives.

■ Heritage Branch

Encourages and supports the preservation and the promotion of Canada's national cultural heritage. The Branch is responsible for the development of legislation and national policies that protect and ensure increased public access to the heritage of Canada. It maintains ongoing liaison with federal heritage agencies and with national heritage organizations. The Branch is responsible for the design and delivery of heritage programs such as the Museums Assistance Program, the Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions, the Access to Archaeology Program and the Movable Cultural Property Program and it provides professional and technical services to ensure that Canada's cultural heritage is adequately protected and made accessible to the widest possible number of Canadians.

Deputy Minister's Office

■ Human Resources Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Human Resources Branch provides services and advice to the Management Committee and to managers of the Department on all matters involving human resources management. Thus, the Branch ensures human resources services in the National Capital Region and provides functional guidance to the Human Resources Regional Office.

■ Legal Services Branch

Reporting to the Deputy Minister, the Legal services are provided by lawyers from the Department of Justice who offer program managers a wide range of services, including preparing opinions on the laws administered by the Department, drafting regulatory texts and giving advice on policies being developed.

Parks Canada Sector

■ Architecture and Engineering Directorate:

Provides real property management support services to Parks Canada HQ, Regions and field under a MOU with Public Works and Government Services Canada.

■ National Historic Sites Directorate

The National Historic Sites Directorate is responsible for Canada's national program of historical commemoration. The Directorate provides national leadership and direction to ensure the commemorative integrity of historic places of national and international significance through five main activity areas: National Historic Sites, Heritage Railway Stations, Federal Heritage Buildings, Cultural Resource Management, and International Leadership.

A large part of the planning and operational activities specific to National Historic Sites are the responsibility of the regional and field offices. This Directorate provides policy, planning and operational guidance as well as centralized services for historical, architectural and archaeological research, the conservation of historic objects, and heritage presentation and public education.

Some key services and products include: development and interpretation of legislation and national policy for National Historic Sites, Historic Canals, Cultural World Heritage Sites and Cultural Resource Management; provision of historical and architectural research and archaeological services in support of policies and programs; provision of research and advice in support of conservation of historic objects and archaeological specimens; management and implementation of the Heritage Railway Stations Protection Act; management of the Federal Heritage Buildings Review Office, providing assistance to all government departments in the implementation of the Federal Heritage Buildings Policy, support to the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, the statutory body that advises the Minister of Canadian Heritage on historical commemoration; coordination of Ministerial Plaquing Program; management of the National Cost-Sharing Program for National Historic Sites; National Historic Site systems planning and management planning; delivery of national public education products and provision of curatorial, media design, collections management and interpretation advice.

Responsibilities are distributed among the following branches: Strategic Operations; Policy, Legislation and Government Relations; Historical and Built Environment Research; Archaeological Services; Historic Resource Conservation; and Heritage Presentation and Public Education. The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada Secretariat and the Federal Heritage Buildings Review Office are also situated in this Directorate.

■ National Parks Directorate

Is generally responsible for the development, operation and coordination of policies and methods for the management of national parks and national marine conservation areas to maintain their ecological integrity in perpetuity while enabling their use and enjoyment by the public, and for participation in and support of the Canadian Heritage Rivers System in cooperation with the provinces and territories.

Specific responsibilities include: development, review, interpretation, and implementation of policies, procedures, legislation and management directives governing all aspects of national parks and national marine conservation areas management; development and coordination of national park management planning process and other related planning processes; coordination and development of volunteer, cooperative and partnership arrangements with individuals, non-profit organizations and the business sector; coordination of Parks Canada participation in Aboriginal Claims negotiation; planning and negotiation efforts aimed at completing the park systems by the identification, selection and establishment of new national parks and national marine conservation areas in unrepresented regions; development, coordination of delivery of national functional training; coordination of the application of the Canadian Environmental Assessment Act and policies in national parks, national marine conservation areas and national historic sites, including historic canals; development of information systems in support of resource protection; development, coordination and special operations in law enforcement; delivery of scientific advice to the Parks Canada Sector; representing the Sector, Department and Canada on various national, international programs related to the maintenance of ecological integrity, biodiversity, biosphere reserves and park accessibility; managing and coordinating the Directorate's involvement in inter- and intra-governmental initiatives; providing leadership in achieving the goal of protecting 12% of Canada's natural heritage as protected space; and, upon request, providing technical advice and assistance on protected areas planning and management to other countries and to visitors from other countries.

Also manages and provides national direction for the following Parks Canada wide programs: access for disabled persons, spaces and species learning, fire management, ecological integrity and ecosystem management initiatives, visitor risk management and search and rescue.

■ Parks Canada Investments Branch

Supports the strategic management of Parks Canada's Program and contributes to the effective management of its investment portfolio and related decision-making. Parks Canada Investments is involved in five business areas: (1) Strategic Business Planning to provide the strategic business planning capability, (2) Revenue Development to secure funding from various sources and oversee funding implications of Parks business activity in order to advance Parks Canada's business plan in accord with the vision, (3) Investment and Risk Analysis to add value to and optimize Parks' financial and resource utilization decisions, (4) Investment Portfolio Management to facilitate the professional management and effective stewardship of Parks Canada's $6 billion portfolio, and (5) Business Partnerships to advance the business plan goals through partnerships and alliances with third parties.

■ Citizenship and Canadian Identity Sector

The Citizenship and Canadian Identity program encourages the use of the two official languages in Canadian society and promotes their equal status; coordinates the cross-government commitment to multiculturalism; advances opportunities for Canadians of all ethnocultural backgrounds to participate in and contribute fully to Canadian society; and promotes voluntarism. It supports Aboriginal peoples in their efforts to resolve their particular issues. The program supports the advancement of Canadian studies; promotes young people's involvement in Canadian society; encourages Canadians to value sport and to participate; advises in matters of state protocol and manages state ceremonial and events. It is responsible for increasing the awareness, knowledge and enjoyment of human rights and fostering compliance with Canada's human rights obligations.

■ Corporate Services Sector

Corporate Services encompass the offices of the Minister and Deputy Minister, the core administrative units (finance, administration, communications, corporate and intergovernmental affairs, information management, corporate review and executive services) at NHQ and regional levels.

■ Cultural Development and Heritage Sector

The Cultural Development sector promotes artistic development in Canada, increases public access to Canada's heritage and assists in the preservation of this heritage. This mandate includes stimulating access to Canadian arts and heritage products and services and developing their availability, as well as encouraging public participation in related cultural activities.

The sector formulates policies and develops programs for both arts and heritage and Canada's cultural and broadcasting industries. Support for organizations active in these areas is provided. In fulfilling its mandate the sector works closely with federal arts, heritage, and broadcasting agencies – including the Canada Council, the National Arts Centre, Canada's national museums, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission. The sector advises the Minister on all matters related to its mandate.

■ Regional Operations

A network of six regional offices manage and deliver the Department's programs and services in all regions of the country, following special attention on the specific needs and aspirations of each region. The regional offices provide technical assistance to regional, provincial and local organizations for all departmental programs delivered at the regional level.

As well, the curriculum vitae of participants and/or expert advisors to the proposed activity may be held on file. This information is not filed by personal identifier but rather by cultural organization or activity title. This information was compiled to assess applications for funding of special projects under the program including management development projects, capital projects and special events such as festivals or conferences, etc. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to National Archives of Canada for selective retention.

Insurance Program for Travelling Exhibitions

This class of personal information contains applications and supporting documentation submitted by museums, galleries, archives and libraries seeking insurance coverage for exhibitions which they organize and host. These documents contain the names and addresses of lenders of objects to the exhibition, as well as a description and the monetary value of the objects being loaned. This information is not filed by personal identifier, but rather by title of the exhibition. This information is used to determine the eligibility of the exhibition for insurance coverage through the program and for the preparation of insurance certificates for lenders to the exhibition. Records are retained for seven years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. (See also Program Records: COM MHP 270 – Travelling Exhibitions: Applications for Insurance).

Labour Market Study

Part 1 of this bank contains personal information on approximately 1200 employees of the museums across Canada and responses to questions on training and professional development opportunities, employment conditions, educational and training background, and some demographic data. Part 2 contains data on 500 museums and responses to questions on the museums labour market such as number of full-time and part-time positions; number of people employed for each job and their classifications; current budgets, etc. Records will be kept for five years (plus two years dormant).

Canadian Human Rights Commission

Chapter 23

General Information

Background

The Canadian Human Rights Commission was given its mandate with the passage in July, 1977 of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Act became operative on March 1, 1978.

The Human Rights Tribunal was established in 1978 pursuant to the coming into force of the Canadian Human Rights Act.

Responsibilities

The Commission's program objective is to give effect to the principle that within the federal sphere every individual should have an equal opportunity to participate in Canadian life consistent with his or her duties and obligations as a member of the Canadian society.

Specifically, the Commission deals with complaints of discrimination in employment, in the provision of goods, services, facilities and/or accommodation customarily available to the general public and in the provision of commercial premises or residential accommodation, based on any of the ten prohibited grounds of discrimination enumerated in the Act: race, national or ethnic origin, colour, religion, age, sex, marital status, family status, disability, or conviction of an offence for which a pardon has been granted. The Commission also attempts to resolve cases through the conciliation/settlement process before considering the tribunal process.

The Canadian Human Rights Act prohibits discrimination in policies and practices affecting wages for male and female employees who are performing work of equal value. As a result, the Commission investigates complaints alleging inequities in wage-related practices.

The Commission also monitors annual reports filed by federally-regulated companies under the Employment Equity Act, and where appropriate, initiates compliance actions.

The Commission also has a statutory responsibility to discourage and reduce discriminatory practices through public education, liaison, and any other means it considers appropriate. This responsibility is discharged by producing promotional and educational materials, developing and conducting information programs to foster public understanding of the principles of equal opportunity enshrined in the Canadian Human Rights Act, and by working cooperatively with employers and service providers both at the headquarters and regional levels.

The Commission functions as an independent agency and reports to Parliament through the Minister of Justice.

The Human Rights Tribunal is a quasi-judicial entity established in 1978 under the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Human Rights Tribunal hears discrimination cases and determines whether there has been a breach of the Canadian Human Rights Act. The tribunal has jurisdiction over matters that fall under the legislative power of the Government of Canada. It inquires into complaints filed against federal departments, banks, airlines and other organizations regulated by the federal government. All cases must be referred to the Human Rights Tribunal by the Commission. Although the Human Rights Commission and the Tribunal were established under the same Act, the two organizations are separate and independent of one another.

Legislation

- Immigration Investigation Regulations (SOR/80-686, August 27, 1980)
- Protection of Personal Information Regulations (SOR/78-145, February 22, 1978)

Organization

The Commission is headed by the Chief Commissioner who has deputy minister status. In this role, he is supported by the Deputy Chief Commissioner who has assistant deputy minister status and the Secretary General. There are eight operational and administrative branches at headquarters: Executive Secretariat, Legal Services, Anti-Discrimination Programs, Employment and Pay Equity Programs, Communications, Policy and Planning, Corporate Services and Personnel Services. In addition to the aforementioned, there are also six regional offices and the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal.

The Human Rights Tribunal is headed by the President of the Human Rights Tribunal Panel, who is the principal administrator. The Panel consists of the President and about one hundred part-time members. All Panel members are appointed by order of the Governor-in-Council upon recommendation by the Minister of Justice. All the tribunal's administrative activities are carried out by the Tribunal Registry.

■ Anti-Discrimination Programs Branch

The Branch ensures that all complaints filed with the Commission, except those dealing with employment and pay equity, are investigated in accordance with the Canadian Human Rights Act. The Branch also provides a quality assurance function and conciliation services, trains staff involved in anti-discrimination activities, and monitors the complaints management process. This Branch now comprises two new units: the Complaints and Investigations Directorate receives inquiries and complaints in the national capital and investigates these complaints; and the Policy Complaints Unit investigates major policy-based complaints.

■ Communications Branch

This Branch explains the role and activities of the Commission, fosters public understanding of the Act and human rights issues, and discourages discriminatory practices by means of information programs, contact with the media, and activities in the community. Publications include a vast array of products such as a human rights journal, new releases, speeches, brochures and posters all regarding human rights issues and most available in alternative formats. The Commission's human rights communications functions and activities are summarized in an annual report to Parliament.

■ Corporate Services Branch

This Branch provides the Commission with support services in assets management, finance, informatics, information management, library, and editorial services. This Branch is also responsible for delivering the Commission's Access to Information and Privacy programs.

■ Employment and Pay Equity Branch

This Branch provides policy advice to the Commission on employment and pay equity matters and offers educational programs to employers and community groups. The Employment Equity Directorate investigates and conciliates employment equity complaints and conducts joint reviews with employers. The Pay Equity Directorate investigates, negotiates, and conciliates equal pay complaints.

■ Executive Secretariat Branch

This Branch is responsible for preparing executive correspondence, for coordinating briefing materials, and for providing support to the Commission's executive offices. It also plays an important role in the complaints processing system and in coordinating the Commission's strategic planning activities.

■ Legal Services Branch

This Branch advises the Chief Commissioner, Commission members, and staff on all legal matters falling within the jurisdiction of the Commission. To this end, legal officers represent the Commission in proceedings before Human Rights Tribunals or courts of law.

■ Personnel Services Branch

This Branch provides the Commission with support services in pay and benefits, staffing, classification, official languages, staff relations, training and resource planning, and health and safety.

■ Policy and Planning Branch

This Branch monitors domestic and international human rights issues of interest to the Commission and develops policy papers and positions for the Commission's approval.

■ Regional Offices

The Regional Offices investigate all discrimination complaints except those dealing with employment and pay equity. They also work with community representatives, employers, and unions to inform the public of their rights under the Canadian Human Rights Act.

■ Tribunal Registry

The Tribunal Registry is the main office of the Human Rights Tribunal responsible for its general administration. It handles the administration of the various tribunals set up under the Act and provides all services related to their operation. The Registry is composed of a registrar and support staff who are all public service employees.

Canadian International Development Agency

Chapter 24

General Information

Background

The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) supports the social and economic development of Third World countries.

Responsibilities

CIDA is the federal agency responsible for implementing Canada's Official Development Assistance (ODA) program and for administering most of the ODA budget. CIDA's aid program is administered through a number of aid delivery channels: bilateral (government-to-government) assistance, multilateral development institutions, and supports the development activities of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and the private sector.

Legislation

- Department of External Affairs Act
- Financial Administration Act
- International Development (Financial Institutions) Continuing Assistance Act

Organization

The Agency is headed by the President who reports directly to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. The President assisted by the Vice-President, Corporate Affairs, eight vice-presidents and a director general who head nine branches. These branches are: Africa and Middle East, Americas, Asia, Canadian Partnership, Multilateral Programs, Policy, Corporate Management, Personnel and Administration and Communications.

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the coordination of four executive committees and forums, the executive correspondence and requests received under the Access to Information and Privacy Acts. It is also responsible for the activities related to Parliamentary Relations.

Africa and Middle East Branch

CIDA's Africa and Middle East Branch is headed by a Vice-President and sub-divided in seven divisions: West Africa, North Africa and Middle East, East and Central Africa, Southern Africa, Strategic Planning, Strategic Management, Technical directorate.

In February 1992, CIDA published a strategic document entitled AFRICA 21, which provides the framework for its development cooperation with Africa. CIDA's strategy is based on a vision of an Africa on the path to sustainable development; a vision of a more united, more democratic and more entrepreneurial Africa. With some distinctions, these characteristics also apply to the Maghreb and the Middle East.

■ Central and East Africa Region

The objective of CIDA's Central and East Africa Regional Program is to support entrepreneurship, human rights and good governance.

This region consists of twenty-two countries. Only Cameroon has a traditional bilateral program in this region.

This region also includes the Horn of Africa (Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sudan, Somalia, Djibouti), where CIDA's activities focus mainly on food aid and humanitarian assistance.

There is also a regional activity support program which focuses particular attention on the areas involved in the Africa 21 strategy: democracy, entrepreneurship, and regional integration through implementing activities promoting assistance to regional institutions, especially in the fields of agricultural research, training, and human resource development, as well as the regional implementation of projects to meet specific national needs.

After the budget cuts of December 1992, which had a particular impact on the countries of Central and East Africa, CIDA adopted a responsive approach to the needs and priorities of the countries involved by creating two regional funds, the Democratic Development and Good Governance Fund, and the Private-Sector Support Fund.

CIDA has established a Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives for each of the twenty-two countries of this region to allow the implementation of small-scale projects.

■ East Africa and Central Region

The objective of CIDA's Central and East Africa Regional Program is to support entrepreneurship, human rights and good governance.

This region consists of twenty-two countries. Only Cameroon has a traditional bilateral program in this region.

This region also includes the Horn of Africa (Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sudan, Somalia, Djibouti), where CIDA's activities focus mainly on food aid and humanitarian assistance.

There is also a regional activity support program which focuses particular attention on the areas involved in the Africa 21 strategy: democracy, entrepreneurship, and regional integration through implementing activities promoting assistance to regional institutions, especially in the fields of agricultural research, training, and human resource development, as well as the regional implementation of projects to meet specific national needs.

After the budget cuts of December 1992, which had a particular impact on the countries of Central and East Africa, CIDA adopted a responsive approach to the needs and priorities of the countries involved by creating two regional funds, the Democratic Development and Good Governance Fund, and the Private-Sector Support Fund.

CIDA has established a Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives for each of the twenty-two countries of this region to allow the implementation of small-scale projects.

■ North Africa and Middle East Region

CIDA's program in this region builds on Canada's reputation for objective, quality expertise and resources, and is structured around three themes: economic reform, environmental sustainability, and capacity building.

To promote sustainable development in the region, the Canadian aid program aims to: support the transition to an economy based on market forces as well as an equitable distribution of wealth; strengthen the capacity of key public institutions; promote the sustainable management of natural resources, especially water; support newly empowered segments of civil society to meet new social, political and economic challenges; and favour the mergence and consolidation of mutually beneficial partnerships between Canada and the region.

■ Southern Africa Region

The primary goal of CIDA's program in Southern Africa is to support sustainable development through the management of human and natural resources, the strengthening of the skills and productivity of the region's people, sound economic management, and supporting directly the development of human rights and democracy. The objectives of the program are consistent with those of the Southern Africa Development Community (SADC), a regional organization comprised of eleven countries and recently joined by South Africa (the eleventh member, Tanzania, does not fall under this regional umbrella). SADC's objectives include the creation of a regional economic community and the eventual elimination of all barriers to trade, investment and migration between countries in the region.

In addition to bilateral and regional programs, CIDA has established a Canada Fund for Local Initiatives in each SADC country to finance small projects, and a Regional Initiatives Fund provides additional assistance to small projects furthering the objectives of regional cooperation and integration.

Canadian NGOs have access to the south Africa Special Fund, managed by CIDA's Canadian Partnership

Branch, which aims at strengthening South African NGOs and institutions.

■ West Africa Region

The West Africa Region covers all of the sixteen countries of ECOWAS, the Economic Community of West African States. The goal of the Canadian development cooperation programme in the region is to support the West Africans in a development and growth process targeted to more sustainable balance between population, economy and environment.

Americas Branch

The Americas Region consists of 35 developing countries which for program delivery and administrative purposes, are organized by the Branch into the Caribbean, Central America and South America and Haiti programs. The Region is highly diverse geographically, developmentally, and resource distribution. CIDA supports development activities that promote a politically stable, economically liberal and socially equitable Region, free of environmental degradation.

Sectors of involvement include agriculture, economic development, environment, forestry, fisheries, transport, energy, health, education and telecommunications. Activities in the area of social development, institutional support and industrial co-operation can be funded through Bilateral, Multilateral and Partnership channels and implemented by Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs), Non-Governmental Institutions (NGIs) and private enterprise. CIDA also supports small development projects in almost all countries through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLIs).

■ Caribbean Program

Assists the Caribbean countries to become more competitive in an increasingly liberalized global economy and to strengthen their environmental management capabilities. The program emphasizes support to projects that promote regional cooperation and integration as a means to increase self-reliance, and that facilitate to other regional markets. The Program focuses primarily on the countries of Jamaica, Guyana and the Eastern Caribbean islands of Grenada, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Dominica, St. Lucia, Antigua, St. Kitts/Nevis, and Monserrat. There are also small bilateral programs in Trinidad and Tobago, Barbados and Belize, with CFLIs in the British Virgin Islands, Anguilla, and the Dominican Republic.

■ Central America Program

Objectives are to support poverty alleviation, economic recovery and adjustment, and sustainable development of natural resources. In addition, it incorporates four cross-cutting themes; environmental sustainability, human resource development, participation of women in development, and human rights, democratic development and good governance. The countries covered include Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Guatemala, with CFLIs also provided to Mexico and Panama.

■ Haiti Program

Provides humanitarian assistance to Haiti. The program will be expanded once the political situation has been resolved.

■ Policy and Planning Division

The Policy and Planning Division provides guidance to the Branch in concert with Agency corporate functions. The main areas of activities of the Division are policy development and support to the geographic desks on themes central to Agency priorities i.e. environment, gender, human rights and governance. The identification of issues through policy research leading to policy development will be the basis for the formulation of coherent strategic plans, with links to the agenda of Policy Branch. The Division will also formulate and implement consultation and communication strategies with Canadian stakeholders.

■ South America Program

To assist in the alleviation of poverty; to provide balance of payments assistance in support of structural adjustments; to assist in strengthening the capacities of the key institutions; and to support the cooperative efforts of Latin American Institutions. The program concentrates its bilateral activities in the poorest countries of Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia. Other countries receiving development assistance are Argentina, Brazil, Colombia and Uruguay. CFLIs are provided in Chile, Paraguay and Venezuela.

■ Strategic Management Division

The Division provides technical expertise and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects. Technical expertise is also available in various disciplines.

Services include human resource planning, information systems, financial analysis and risk assessment, contracting, management systems and administration.

Asia Branch

The principal role of Asia Branch is to plan, develop and implement Canada's aid program in Asia and to match Canadian capabilities with recipient country needs.

Under the direction of the Vice-President, Asia Branch is composed of eight geographic programs. Each program is responsible for the management of aid activities with one or several recipient countries as well as the relationship of these programs with Canadian interests.

The program is composed of projects throughout Asia under implementation by contractors, consultants, non-governmental organizations and individual cooperants. There are approximately 300 ongoing projects, primarily concentrated in agriculture, rural development, environment, energy, institution building, human resource development and social development.

■ Policy and Planning Division

The Policy and Planning Division provides guidance to the Branch in concert with Agency corporate functions.

The three main areas of activities of the Division are policy development, communications and stakeholder relations. The identification of issues through policy research leading to policy development will be the basis for the formulation of coherent strategic plans, with links to the agenda of Policy Branch. The Division will also formulate and implement consultation and communication strategies with Canadian stakeholders.

■ Technical and Strategic Management Division

The Division provides technical expertise and managerial support to the Branch in the identification, planning and implementation of programs and projects. The Division's knowledge of the Canadian industrial and professional resource base is critical in matching domestic capabilities with the needs of recipient countries. Technical expertise is available in disciplines related to infrastructure, natural resource management, environment and socio-economic development division management.

Services include human resource planning, information systems, financial analysis and risk assessment, contracting, management systems and administration.

Canadian Partnership Branch

The Canadian Partnership Branch (CPB) manages CIDA's Official Development Assistance (ODA) Partnership Program. CPB manages CIDA's relationships with the myriad Canadian groups and firms involved in international development activities. CPB's mandate is to promote mutually beneficial partnerships for sustainable development, by like-minded organizations and people, between Canada and developing countries.

CPB provides grants and contributions to Canadian, international or developing country, private investors, institutions, organizations and government agencies in support of industrial cooperation, development cooperation and development education.

The responsive nature of all CPB programs is the principal feature distinguishing them from the bilateral (geographic) programs. Unlike the bilateral programs, CPB responsive programs place the full developmental responsibility in the hands of our partners.

■ Cooperatives, Unions and Development Services Program

This program encourages the developing country activities of Canadian cooperatives and union, through a distinct Cooperative Program and a Unions Program. It also encourages technology and skills transfer to developing countries through its Volunteer Sender Program.

■ Educational Institutions Program

This focuses on the overseas development-related activities of Canadian post-secondary institutions, providing support through two distinct channels: the Universities Program and the Colleges and CEGEP Program.

■ External Relations and Consultations

This group is one of CIDA's major interface with stakeholders, partners and other government departments, scheduling, coordinating and organizing stakeholder consultations on behalf of all operational CIDA branches. It is also responsible for ensuring the link with Canada's regions by answering information requests received through a general CIDA 1-800 info line. They also maintain contact with local NGOs, service groups active in development, universities and other local partners.

■ Industrial Cooperation Division (INC)

Unlike the other CPB divisions, the efforts of this Division are focused exclusively toward Canadian business and the funding of single projects.

The ultimate objective of these activities is technology transfer and mutually beneficial development, and the establishment of sustainable commercial linkages between Canada and developing countries.

The INC program facilitates the increased participation of Canadian, international and developing country private investors, institutions, organizations and governments in the economic and industrial growth of developing countries by encouraging mutually beneficial business collaborations between Canada and developing countries.

INC presents a single public interface to the business community. Depending on the scope or geographical focus of a firm's potential activities, proposals are processed by the Africa, Americas or Asia bureaus.

■ Institutional Cooperation & Development Services Division

The Institutional Cooperation and Development Services Division (ICDS) deals with specialized not-for-profit organizations active in international development.

■ International NGO and Professional and Membership Associations Program

The INGO Division has a strong policy and operational focus on civil society and governance.

International NGO Program (INGO) supports global networks of national and local non-governmental organizations involved in development issues of importance to Canada, including human rights, democracy, the environment and population. The INGO Program is a major "knowledge" contributor to CIDA in these areas. Canadian organizations that are members of INGO networks benefit through information exchange.

The Professional and Membership Associations Program (PMAP) concentrates its support on Canadian institutions working in the areas of public sector capacity building, including the municipal level, governance and human rights. Overall objectives are to promote democratic development, to improve the capacity of developing country governments to develop policies favouring equitable, sustainable economic growth and to facilitate regional cooperation. It also supports the initiatives of a variety of Canadian professional groups that improve the capacities of related organizations in developing countries. With new information technologies, there is considerable scope for increased professional volunteer input.

■ Non-Governmental Organizations Division

The Non-Governmental Organizations (NGO) Program responds to requests from Canadian fund-raising NGOs to co-finance appropriate development projects or programs in developing countries. Special emphasis is placed upon grass-roots development activities and the development of linkages or partnerships between Canadian and local NGOs and community groups in developing countries. The NGO Program has three facets:

The Direct-administered NGO Program deals with: program-funded NGOs; project-funded NGOs with an indicative planning figure (IPF) over $250,000; and NGOs with special circumstances. The relationship between the NGO Program and Canadian NGOs is one of partnership, rather than donor/client. The NGO Program respects the independence, integrity and personality of the NGOs.

The Decentralized Program deals with project funded NGOs with an IPF less than $250,000. The decentralized programs are based on the principles of peer review, participatory procedures and networking. They respond to the needs of smaller NGOs, who have limited human and financial resources. Four decentralized programs are currently in operation in the following regions: B.C., the Prairies, Ontario and Quebec.

The Public Participation Program (PPP) supports Canadian NGOs and institutions active in increasing the awareness of Canadians about development issues.

■ Policy, Strategic Planning and Operations Division

This division comprises the following three functional groups:

Branch policy and strategic planning, which includes: (a) social and political policy; (b) economic and trade policy and (c) change management. This service division formulates and evaluates policies, programs and systems that allow CPB to achieve its mandate.

Branch operational functions, which are: (a) technical advisory unit; (b) financial management; (c) information management; (d) HRD and administration. These groups coordinate branch activities, and also supply the CPB with technical advice, financial and informatics support. They operate the Branch's professional services, financial, data processing and electronic communication networks.

■ Technical Cooperation

This group is responsible for two prime functions: 1) Training and Awards: Deals with the administration of various fellowship and awards programs financed by CIDA, as well as regulations and policies governing the selecting and recruitment of technical assistance cooperant/experts and in-country trainees. 2) Briefing Centre: Organizes the pre-departure and in-country briefings given to technical assistance personnel, both CIDA cooperants and personnel of Canadian executing agencies.

■ Youth Program

Provides cost sharing support to the initiatives of Canadian youth organizations working in developing countries, to encourage hands-on development.

Communications Branch

The Branch has two main activities: corporate communications support for the Agency and its activities; and development information to raise awareness of development and global issues.

In terms of corporate communications, the Branch advises the Agency and the Minister on communications and public relations matters, develops and implements communications strategies, monitors and assesses public opinion through media analysis and public opinion polling; and produces and delivers information products and services.

In terms of development information, the Branch produces material developed with youth as primary target audience. Products include publications, co-produced audio-visual productions and exhibits and displays, forming an integrated programming approach. These products are supported by a range of materials designed to assist educators.

Corporate Management Branch

The mandate of the Branch is to promote continuous improvement in management within CIDA by acting as a catalyst for the adoption of modern management and practices; by assisting in the alignment of all elements of the organization in order to achieve CIDA's mission; and by providing cost-effective services in order to enhance the performance of CIDA's development assistance program.

The Branch consists of the following divisions: Finance, Contracting Management, Information Management and Technology, Performance Review and Corporate Management Development. A Legal Services Division staffed by representatives from the Department of Justice is resident within the Branch for administrative purposes.

The main functions of the Branch include: policy and systems development for financial, contracting and information technology; resource management and analysis; financial services; financial risk assessment; special financial investigations; corporate contracting operations; information management and information technology, supplier relations and telecommunications services; program audit and evaluation; regulatory compliance; corporate planning; and organization renewal.

Multilateral Programs Branch

CIDA funds for multilateral programs are channelled through United Nations agencies and other international development organizations. In addition, CIDA and the Department of Finance provide funds to international financial institutions such as the regional development banks and the World Bank. While the organizations are responsible for the administration of projects, Canada participates in their governing bodies to ensure that the organizations are operating within appropriate policy and operational guidelines, and that they meet Canada's interests and those of the international community as a whole. The Multilateral Branch is composed of the following five divisions.

■ Financial Institutions Division

Develops and maintains the international financial institutions as mechanisms for development financing. It provides guarantees (i.e., callable capital) to facilitate the recycling of private capital resources for development financing, and in so doing multiplies the availability of such financing. The funds are provided to regional development banks. The Division participates with other departments in the management of Canadian assistance provided through the Department of Finance to the World Bank Group. It ensures that the international financial institutions (IFIs) are managed in a manner to maintain their credit worthiness in the international capital markets. The Division is also responsible for the management of Canadian assistance provided to the Global Environment Facility and the International Fund for Agricultural Development. The Division fosters policies within the IFIs that are consistent with the developmental and humanitarian principles of Canadian foreign policy.

■ Food Aid Centre

Responsible for the CIDA food aid program and for programs related to the Consultative Group for International Agricultural Research and issues related to nutrition. The Centre manages Canada's input to the World Food Programme of the United Nations; develops food aid policy; prepares and processes submissions seeking project approval from the food aid budget; coordinates the planning of food aid activities in consultation with other operating branches; initiates discussions on and participates in the process of food aid budget reallocations when necessary during the course of the fiscal year, in consultation with other operating branches. The Centre provides a coordinating role within the Agency in policy and program discussions concerning food aid with Treasury Board, the Department of Foreign Affairs, Agriculture Canada, Finance, the World Food Programme, the Canadian Wheat Board, the Canadian Dairy Commission and food producers and processors. The Centre provides professional services to the Agency in the field of nutrition and coordinates the Agency's input to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), the World Food Council (WFC) and the International Wheat Council (IWC).

■ Multilateral Technical Co-operation Division

The Division is responsible for promoting Canadian development policies in, and supporting the efficient and effective operation of multilateral technical cooperation organizations involved in enhancing the human and institutional capabilities of developing countries. These organizations include UN bodies such as the UN Development Program, UNICEF, the World Health Organization and the UN Fund for Population, plus institutions of the Commonwealth and the Francophonie.

■ Policy, Planning and Management Division

As its name suggests the main functions of the Policy, Planning and Management Division are to coordinate these functions across the divisions in the Branch in concert with Agency corporate requirements.

■ The International Humanitarian Assistance Program

Provides financial support for efforts to alleviate human suffering caused by natural and man-made disasters abroad. This assistance is normally channelled through international institutions and Canadian and international non-governmental organizations involved in such work. Grants are given primarily in support of the regular programmes of three major institutions: the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestinian Refugees (UNRWA), and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). Grants are also given in support of special country appeals or for projects launched by these and other humanitarian institutions. To ensure the flexibility needed by an emergency response mechanism, a policy of providing largely untied IHA programme grants is maintained.

Personnel and Administration Branch

Provides advice, strategies, programs, systems and services in the areas of human resources management, administrative services and security to assist the Agency in accomplishing its mission. This includes guidance and support to management and staff to develop and maintain a qualified, productive and sustainable workforce and an enabling work environment that promotes continuous learning and organizational effectiveness.

Policy Branch

Policy Branch's mandate is twofold: (1) to provide advice to the Minister and the President of CIDA on long-term and immediate development policy and strategic issues; and (2) to formulate and maintain the corporate development policy base for the Agency within the general context of CIDA's mission and Canada's foreign policy.

■ Development Economics Policy

Responsible for contributing to the Agency's policy base on economic development including private sector development in developing countries. It provides advice to the President, senior management, and program branches on economic and social issues in providing ODA, and is responsible for coordinating CIDA inputs into Canadian positions at the World Bank and IMF Executive Board meetings. The Division also represents the Agency at interdepartmental and international fora addressing economic issues regarding developing countries including trade.

■ Environment

The Division is responsible for the formulation and implementation of environment policy in the context of Canada's official development assistance program, and for coordinating CIDA's input to and representing the Agency at interdepartmental and international fora addressing environmental policy matters. This latter responsibility includes the coordination of CIDA's participation in Canada's follow-up to the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED), as well as the implementation of the Biodiversity and Climate Change Conventions.

■ Environmental Assessment and Compliance

Provides support by developing procedures, technical guides, training programs and other tools to assist CIDA's operational branches to comply with environmental assessment legislation, regulations, standards, policies and international commitments. Monitors and advises the Agency on environmental assessment compliance.

■ External Relations

Responsible for relations with the Development Assistance Committee of the OECD, for relations with other donor countries and with ODA Crown Corporations (IDRC, ICHRDD, IISD).

■ Good Governance and Human Rights

Responsible for articulating CIDA policy on political aspects of development, mainly in the areas of good governance, human rights and democratic development. The division also looks at ways to enhance CIDA's capability to plan and deliver projects and programming in these areas and generally serves as a centre of expertise.

■ International Development Information Centre

The Centre is responsible for managing the development information resources of the Agency. These resources services include the data used in reporting to international organizations and in CIDA's Annual Report, Corporate Memory, the Technical Cooperation Data Unit, sectoral documentation and substantial collections of monographs, reference works, periodicals, CD-ROMs, archival material and World and Asian Development Bank(s) documents. In addition to the general information requests, the Centre's services include loans, inter-library loans, purchases of volumes or periodicals, bibliographic services and external databases.

■ Policy Branch -Policy Directorate

Responsible for Strategic Planning, Policy Coordination, External Relations divisions and the International Development Information Centre.

■ Policy Coordination

Ensures consistency and coherence in development policy at all levels in CIDA through dialogue and information exchange with CIDA's other branches. Also responds on behalf of the Agency to requests for quick responses from the Minister and the President of CIDA.

■ Policy Development Directorate

Responsible for promoting a development policy framework; developing a sustainable development course; developing an Agency policy base through.

■ Sectoral Specialists Directorate

Advises on issues involving scientific and technical knowledge and practice throughout the Agency and contributes to the management of the corporate policy process. Senior specialists represent the Agency in national and international fora on corporate level scientific and technical questions.

■ Strategic Planning

Responsible for matters relating to the Official Development Assistance (ODA) budget eligibility, the Agency's corporate planning cycle and longer term strategic analysis and planning.

■ Women in Development and Gender Equity

Responsible for the development, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of CIDA's WID Policy; development of mechanisms to incorporate gender specific issues into CIDA's management and planning systems; participation in conferences on WID; management of information on WID and Gender Equity issues, particularly the lessons drawn from WID policy implementation in developing countries; contribution to Agency knowledge base on WID and Gender Equity.

Program Records

Africa and Middle East Branch

Algeria

Description: CIDA's program in Algeria focuses on three key sectors: Human Resources Development, transfer of skills and economic cooperation. Initiatives include a mechanism for scientific, technical and cultural cooperation; support to seed potato production; an institutional cooperation program; support for the promotion of technological transfer; and a shared cost training program. Algeria also benefits from the Private Sector Development fund for the Maghreb, which aims to support the expansion of the private sector in the region, thus allowing it to increase its productivity and improve the entrepreneurial environment. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 116

Angola

Description: As a result of the ongoing civil war, Canadian assistance to Angola has been limited to food aid and support channelled through the regional program. Angola has benefitted from regional projects in the agriculture, energy and human resource sectors. Program Record Number: IDA BFA 128

Benin

Description: In 1992, CIDA initiated a bilateral development cooperation program with Benin. This decision was the direct result of a new political democratic regime coming to power, a process to which CIDA contributed financially. The central theme of the CIDA program in Benin is the support to the development of the private sector. Two contribution agreements with Canadian institutions have already been signed for the implementation of a community health project and the development of a cooperative network. Benin is also benefiting from few projects such as "PANAFTTEL", "le Centre régional pour le développement et la santé (CREDESA)" and "le Centre panafricain de formation coopérative". CIDA also supports the activities of several NGOs in Benin, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 326

Botswana

Description: The focus of assistance to Botswana has been human resource development, and there are currently two university-level projects supporting Botswana's efforts to strengthen its capacity to plan and manage social and economic development. technical assistance is being provided to the Department of Geological Survey to help develop ground water and mineral resources. Assistance to human resource, transportation and agriculture sectors is provided through the regional program. Program Record Number: IDA BFA 200

Burkina Faso

Description: The Canadian development cooperation program with Burkina Faso started in 1965. Over the last few years, CIDA has focused its bilateral programming on the following: food balance; human resource development; the development of infrastructure, and macro economic balance. In addition, the program has financed initiatives in support of the democratic process in Burkina Faso. Over the next few years, CIDA intends to maintain its bilateral programming while favoring an increase in regional initiatives that can benefit Burkina Faso. One good example of such benefits is the impact the regional project PANAFTTEL had. CIDA also supports several NGOs, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 960

Burundi

Description: The political instability prevailing in Burundi does not permit the planning of development interventions. The several hundred thousand Rwandan refugees on Burundian soil constitute an urgent problem that must be resolved before development assistance can be resumed. Canadian assistance in the short term will consist of humanitarian aid and support for local NGOs in human rights and democratic development initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 224

Cameroun

Description: The assistance program in Cameroon emphasizes private-sector support to assist the recovery of the Cameroonian economy (Yaounde business creation centre, the promotion of agricultural exports, small business support, job training). A second component focuses on forest environment sector support to help the country to conserve and manage its considerable forest resources with a view to sustainable development. Other activities are also being implemented in the areas of energy and technical and professional training. Program Record Number: IDA BFL 232

Cape Verde

Description: The CIDA program in Cape Verde supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund, as well as NGO projects. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 251

Central African Republic

Description: Several small-scale projects are financed by the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI): rural development, health care, and education. The Central African Republic is also eligible for various regional programs or projects, including: (a) the Francophone Africa Technological Institution Building Program (PRIMTAF); (b) the AIDS program; (c) the Institut africain d'informatique (IAI) institutional support project; (d) the integrated management program for foreign executives (PIMCE). Program Record Number: IDA BFC 945

Chad

Description: This program is basically limited to Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI) and to NGO projects. Comores

Description: The program for Comoros includes a small "Canada Fund for Local Initiatives", assistance for scholarships at Canadian colleges and universities through "la bourse de la francophonie" and technological support for educational and training institutions is also provided through the regional program PRIMTAF. Comoros is also eligible for assistance through Canadian

NGOs, institutions and private businesses from CIDA'S, Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 288

Congo

Description: CIDA's program consists of numerous small-scale projects financed through Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). In addition, two institutional support projects relate to staff training in the public service and in specialized schools. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 294

Djibouti

Description: Canada contributes to the implementation of small-scale projects through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFH 332

Egypt

Description: CIDA seeks to influence the quality of the policies and measures adopted by Egypt to promote its sustainable development, and to encourage the emergence and consolidation of mutually beneficial partnership between Canada and Egypt. The two major themes of the program are reform (transition to a market economy) and the environment (sustainable resource management). The intervention approach centres around Egyptian capacity building and Canadian technology transfer. Key operational projects include those aimed at integrated land and water resource development, support for the protection and development of the Nile, the establishment of an industrial adjustment service, improved Agency management and training in electrical engineering, and the implementation of an environmental information system. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 344

Equatorial Guinea

Description: This country benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives. Program Record Number: IDA BFL 437

Eritrea

Description: The Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI) for the implementation of small -scale projects and food aid projects (distribution of emergency food aid and food-for-work projects). Program Record Number: IDA BFH 371

Ethiopia

Description: Main projects in Ethiopia: food aid (distribution of emergency food aid and food-for -work projects), water supply, community health care management training program, and Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFH 362

Gabon

Description: The co-operation program has two major focuses: one is technical co -operation, mainly consisting of educational activities, including a shared-cost scientific and technical training project. The other is economic co-operation, basically consisting of a CIDA/EDC line of credit. A rural electrification project is currently being implemented by means of this line of credit. This country also benefits from the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI). Program Record Number: IDA BFC 386

Gambia

Description: The bilateral activity in Gambia is to support small projects through the Canada Fund. CIDA also supports NGO activities in the country. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 390

Ghana

Description: Initiated in 1958, the bilateral development cooperation program in Ghana is the oldest of all the Canadian development programs in Africa. The current bilateral program has two main objectives: to help the rural populations in their efforts to meet their basic needs and to prevent the deterioration of the social infrastructure; and to support the economic recovery measures taken by the Government in the implementation of its structural adjustment program. Initiatives in support of the democratic process have also been developed. In addition, CIDA supports NGO and private sector activities, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 400

Guinea

Description: The CIDA bilateral development cooperation program with Guinea started in 1982. The main programming supports rural development, the development of infrastructures, especially in the energy sector, as well as a training and development program; initiatives in support of democratic development have also been financed by the program. In addition, CIDA support NGO activities, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 436

Guinea-Bissau

Description: The CIDA program in Guinea-Bissau supports small projects financed by the Canada Fund, as well as NGO activities. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 746

Ivory Coast

Description: The CIDA development cooperation program with Ivory Coast started in 1966. Over the last few years, the three main programming themes have been the support to the development of agricultural cooperatives, rural development and social and economic research. In the future, CIDA envisages continuing to maintain bilateral initiatives while favoring an increased number of regional initiatives that can benefit to Ivory Coast. CIDA also supports NGO activities, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 500

Jordan

Description: Major projects in Jordan relate to Balance of payments support (line of credit), institutional reform (vocational training and water) as well as institutional cooperation (scholarship program, income generation for women) and Canada Fund activities. Program Record Number: IDA BFM 516

Kenya

Description: The main areas of intervention are human resource development, education, agriculture, and rural development. One of the key projects is the general training program. Additional support is provided to rural development and community health care programs, as well as an AIDS program. Several local organizations and community groups also receive specific support through the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives and the special WID fund. This support complements CIDA's other contributions to NGOs and private-sector organizations in this country through the Multilateral Branch and the Partnership Branch. Program Record Number: IDA BFK 524

Lesotho

Description: CIDA's current assistance program concentrates on human resource development. Two scholarship funds are currently assisting the government in strengthening labour in areas considered critical to national development. Benefits through the regional program focus on agriculture, energy and human resource sectors. Program Record Number: IDA BFA 554

Liberia

Description: Taking into account the political situation, CIDA has no bilateral program in Liberia. CIDA provides only contributions under its international humanitarian assistance program to help the victims of the civil war. Program Record Number: IDA BFF 558

Madagascar

Description: The program for Madagascar includes a bilateral project to assist small to medium enterprises through the strengthening of local consultancy firms and assisting the government in the formulation of national policies. Assistance for small projects is provided through the Canada Fund for Local Initiatives and number of scholarships for studies at Canadian colleges and universities are provided through "la bourse de la francophonie". Madagascar also receives some assistance through Canadian NGOs, institutions and private businesses from CIDA's Partnership Branch and receives support for educational and training institutions through the regional program PRIMTAF. Program Record Number: IDA BFC 590

Malawi

Description: CIDA's assistance is currently focused on support for human resource development, with two scholarship programs providing training at regional institutions and in Canada. As coordinator for SADC's forestry, inland fisheries and wildlife sectors, Malawi has benefitted from regional projects in these sectors. Program Record Number: IDA BFA 594

Mali

Description: The Canadian bilateral development cooperation program has been in existence for more than 20 years. Over the last few years, the main areas of program concentration have been the following: support to structural adjustments, economic reforms and the private sector, grass root development and environment, the development of infrastructure, human resource development, food balance and a major support to the democratic process. In addition, a multi-year food aid program has been put in place to support the balance of payment of Mali. Mali also benefits from several regional bilateral projects including a regional telecommunication project, "PANAFTTEL", the regional training and development program (PREFEP), and the AIDS program. CIDA also funds several NGO activities, as well as small projects through the Canada Fund.

Program Record Number: IDA BFF 608

Mauritania

Description: The CIDA program in Mauritania is composed of food aid when required, and a support of many small projects through the Canada Fund. Mauritania also benefits from a project to optimize the potential resources of the Senegal River (OMVS).

Canadian International Trade Tribunal

Chapter 25

General Information

Background

Bill C-110, which established the Canadian International Trade Tribunal (CITT) and dissolved the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board, received Royal Assent on September 13, 1988. Sections of the Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act establishing the corporate structure of the CITT were proclaimed on September 15, 1988. Sections of the Act giving the CITT operational responsibilities and dissolving the Canadian Import Tribunal, the Tariff Board and the Textile and Clothing Board came into force on December 31, 1988. Pursuant to the NAFTA Implementation Act, on January 1, 1994, the Tribunal became Canada's bid challenge authority in respect of federal government procurement as contemplated under Article 1017 of NAFTA. The Tribunal succeeds the Procurement Review Board of Canada in this capacity.

Responsibilities

The CITT is a quasi-judicial tribunal responsible for conducting anti-dumping and countervailing injury inquiries, making inquiries and carrying out recommendations as directed and considering import safeguard complaints by domestic producers. It is also empowered to deal with appeals from decisions of the Minister or the Deputy Minister of National Revenue involving mainly customs and excise matters. The Tribunal also receives and decides complaints from Canadian, American and Mexican suppliers who believe that the procurement process conducted by the Canadian Federal Government was not carried out in accordance with NAFTA.

Legislation

- Canadian International Trade Tribunal Act, 1988
- Customs Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-54)
- Energy Administration Act (R.S.C., 1985, CE6)
- Excise Tax Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-E14)
- Special Import Measures Act (R.S.C., 1985, C-515)
- North American Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act, 1994

Organization

The Tribunal consists of a Chairman, two vice-chairmen, and not more than six other permanent members to be appointed by the Governor in Council. The Governor in Council may also appoint up to five temporary members, as required. The Tribunal is supported by the Research Branch, the Legal Services Branch, the Procurement Review Division and the Secretariat.

Contract Files

Description: This bank contains a record of all personal and professional service contracts entered into by the CMCC. It contains information such as the request for service by the manager, the original contractual document, and reasons for not authorizing payment if the terms of the contract have not been met. Active files are kept within the Contracts Management Section.

Class of Individuals: Information relates to individuals from the private sector under contract for services to CMCC. Purpose: For contracting services. Consistent Uses: Maintaining information on all service contracts entered into by CMCC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Six fiscal years, then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 000377 Bank Number: CMC PPU 010

Requests from Federal Investigative Bodies

Description: This bank contains requests for personal information made pursuant to paragraph 8(2) of the Privacy Act by federal investigative bodies, the replies to such requests, the records of information disclosed, any correspondence with Privacy Commissioner and all records relating to the processing of the requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals being investigated by federal investigative bodies. Purpose: To meet the requirements of the Act. Consistent Uses: Compiling statistics relating to requests from federal investigative bodies. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years after last action, then sent to National Archives of Canada for archival or historical retention. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 003456 Bank Number: CMC PPU 025

Classes of Personal Information

Some CMCC files summarized in the program records contain personal information which is not used in a decision-making process directly affecting the individual to whom it relates. Examples are inquiries about CMC and CWM collections, programmes and services, information and advice given to individuals by CMC and CWM employees about museums and museum objects, and information about individuals in documents relating to grants or proposed grants to institutions.

These classes of personal information are kept on the relevant subject files and are not identifiable by name of the individual or other personal identifier. To retrieve these classes of personal information, the CMCC would need as much detail as possible about the subject matter, the geographic location and the time the information would have come to the CMC or the CWM.

The retention periods for these classes of personal information are the same as those for the subject files containing the information.

Canadian Museum of Nature

Chapter 27

General Information

Background

The Canadian Museum of Nature (CMN), a Crown Corporation, was established in 1990 by the Museums Act, and reports to parliament through the Minister of Communications. It is administered by its own directorate under the authority of a Board of Trustees. The President is the Chief Executive Officer of the CMN.

Responsibilities

The purposes of the Corporation, as defined in the Act, are to establish and maintain for research and posterity a collection of natural history objects, with special but not exclusive reference to Canada, and to use the collection, the knowledge derived from it and the understanding it represents, to increase throughout Canada and internationally, interest, knowledge, appreciation and respect for the natural world.

Legislation

- The Museums Act, 1990

Organization

■ Business Enterprises

This programme is responsible for the coordination and implementation of a wide range of revenue-generating and cost savings programmes aimed at delivering a positive profit picture for the CMN. These objectives are fulfilled through various operations such as: Commercial Operations which includes the Boutique, and Visitor, Rental, Parking and Food services; Professional Services and Product Development which is responsible for coordinating revenue contracts in response to outside requests for Museum scientific, technical and professional expertise; Marketing and Communications division which is responsible for all museum advertising and promotion, media and public relations, market research and planning, and consultant to projects throughout the museum; Publishing division which is responsible for disseminating information about the CMN, its research, activities and results through popular and scientific publications; Community Relations division which is responsible for President's Events, Community Events, Volunteers, and Resource Development such as fund-raising and membership.

■ Capital Projects

This programme is responsible for negotiating the custody transfer of the museum's facilities from the GSC to the CMN; the planning and development of new accommodations and outgoing coordination of services for the management of current accommodations for the CMN; providing professional, technical and administrative advice and services on accommodation matters; and integrating museum priorities into accommodation planning for the achievement of the museum's mandate.

■ Directorate

The Directorate includes the President's, Executive Vice-President's, Vice-President's and Chief Operating Officer's offices, and the Board of Trustees. Their responsibilities are to provide overall direction, guidance and management of operational and administrative divisions within the Museum.

■ Environmental Issues

This programme is responsible for the direction of research, Museum involvement in science policy development, intergovernmental affairs, science information coordination and dissemination, national and international network development, and the development of Traditional Knowledge in the Museum. The main elements of the programme that seek to focus activity and create its sense of coherence are the Centres of Knowledge. These Centres form six general interest blocks through which all projects approved by the programme are funded; the Canadian Centre for Biodiversity, Polar Studies, Inter-American Studies, Planetary Evolution, Humans and Nature, and Science and Society.

■ Governance

This programme enables the Museum to be governed by the Board of Trustees by establishing an efficient and effective secretariat, monitoring and evaluating museum activities, establishing the corporate image and profile, and encouraging new ideas and initiatives.

■ National Heritage

This programme is responsible for the care and development of the national collections in natural history, their use in the interests of Canada and other nations, and leadership in the care and management of, and research on collections care. The Programme is a recognition that collections are important to Canadians, the CMN's collections responsibilities go beyond the walls of the Museum and that different types of expertise lead to excellence in collections care and research.

■ Public Programmes

This programme is responsible for the evaluation, development and maintenance of programmes and activities to increase knowledge and appreciation for the natural world using the CMN's collection of natural history objects and specimens through exhibit-based programmes and a wide variety of modern educational media.

Canadian Polar Commission

Chapter 28

General Information

Background

In September 1985 the Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development commissioned a study group to investigate the state of Canadian polar science. Based on extensive consultations with Canada's northern research community, government departments, and non-government organizations, the study group produced its report, Canada and Polar Science, in March 1987.

Among its recommendations was a call for the creation of "a national body ...to provide ongoing contact, at a senior level, between the federal government and those concerned with Canadian polar science and research".

Professor Thomas Symon's report The Shield of Achilles, which became the draft of a mandate for the Canadian Polar Commission, expressed concern that a new commission not duplicate the efforts of other institutions, but "...build upon, complement and support the work of the many diverse existing Canadian institutions, programmes, and organizations that are dedicated to the development of polar knowledge".

As a result of these efforts, the Canadian Polar Commission provides a new focus for polar scientific research in Canada. Through active interchange with industry, the private sector, governments, aboriginal people and other northern residents, the academic community, and interest groups, the Commission can reinforce Canada's existing role and reputation in the polar world.

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Commission is to monitor and to assess the state of polar knowledge in the country, and to foster the development of this important part of Canadian science. To this end, the Commission's role is to help determine scientific priorities with regard to polar regions, encourage Canadian organizations to support development and dissemination of knowledge of these regions, advise the minister responsible (Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs) on polar matters, disseminate information about polar research, and foster international cooperation regarding the sharing of polar knowledge.

It is within the mandate of the Commission to sponsor conferences, seminars and other activities, provide financial support for studies and the publication of reports, recognize achievements in polar science, support and encourage in various ways the endeavours of those who are involved in polar research.

Legislation

- Canadian Polar Commission Act (February 1991)

Organization

The Canadian Polar Commission is made up of 12 members, selected for their skills and merits. These members, who form the Board of Directors of the Commission, cannot be full-time employees in the Public Service of Canada. They are appointed for three year terms. Sub-committees have been established on indigenous knowledge, the environment, international affairs, social health and the Canadian Polar Information System. The Polar Commission itself can call on others, especially northerners, to sit on these committees.

Other details concerning the organisational structure of the Commission were not available at the time this material was submitted.

The Canadian Polar Commission offices are located in Ottawa, Yellowknife and Kuujuaq.

Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission

Chapter 29

General Information

Background

The Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) is an independent public authority established by Parliament in 1968 as a successor to the Board of Broadcast Governors, an earlier regulatory agency. Its mandate was to regulate and supervise all aspects of the Canadian broadcasting system. These responsibilities were enlarged in 1976 by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission Act, under which the Commission assumed responsibility from the Canadian Transport Commission for regulating telecommunications carriers within federal jurisdiction. On 4 June 1991 the new Broadcasting Act was proclaimed in force. On 25 October 1993 the new Telecommunications Act was proclaimed in force to replace the Railway Act and the National Telecommunications Powers and Procedures Act.

Responsibilities

In broadcasting matters, the CRTC regulates both the public and private broadcasting sectors. It has the power to issue, inter alia, renew, amend, suspend or revoke licences and to set any conditions of licence it feels necessary. With respect to federally-regulated telecommunications carriers, the CRTC has the power to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers are just and reasonable, and not unjustly discriminatory. The Commission's approval is also required for traffic and certain other types of agreements and capital stock issues.

In order to fulfil its mandate, the CRTC collects a variety of information pertaining to applicants and existing licensees operating programming, distribution or network undertakings (cable, radio and television) across the country. Financial and operating information is collected on a yearly basis in Annual Returns. Programming on radio and television is monitored: television stations, including pay television and specialty services, must submit detailed program logs monthly and radio stations must submit their program logs upon request. In the course of the public hearing process, information concerning the applications being heard is made available for public examination, as outlined in the CRTC Rules of Procedure. These public files include the text of any intervention made by anyone wishing to express his/her views with respect to particular applications or issues raised in public hearings. In telecommunications hearings, interrogatories and other more formal practices may be carried out, as outlined in the CRTC Telecommunications Rules of Procedure. The Commission receives complaints and enquiries from specific individuals or corporations, or interest group regarding both broadcasting and telecommunications. Copies of complaints relating to broadcasting matters are forwarded to the licensee concerned for comment and placed on a file available for examination by the public. In Public Notice 91-90 dated 30 August 1991, the Commission announced its support for the Canadian Broadcast Standards Council (the CBSC), which will administer industry standards and codes of conduct. In Public Notice 92-22 the Commission also endorsed the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) which will administer Cable Service Standards.

Legislation

- Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Act (1976)
- Cable TV Regulations (1986)
- Radio Regulations (1986)
- Television Broadcasting Regulations (1987)
- Pay Television Regulations (1990)
- Specialty Services Regulations (1990)
- Broadcasting Act (1991)
- Telecommunications Act (1993)

Organization

■ Broadcasting Sector

The broadcasting component is composed of three sectoral activities -Radio, Television Programming, and Cable Distribution and Broadcast Technology.

■ Radio, Television Programming, and Cable Distribution and Broadcast Technology

These Branches are responsible for content policy development, as well as operational compliance, monitoring and analysis of applications. They provide advice on operational, policy and regulatory aspects of the radio, television and cable industries respectively, assist in determining priorities and plans regarding future broadcasting developments and monitor new developments in broadcasting and cable technology.

■ Secretary General

This Sector is the official point of contact between the Commission and the public. It coordinates Commission activities commonly used by both the broadcasting and telecommunications sectors.

■ Secretariat Operations and Licensing Branch

This Branch oversees the Planning and Scheduling Section, the Decisions and Proceedings Division, and the Licensing Sector. The Branch also exercises functional direction over the five regional offices with respect to activities in the broadcasting and telecommunications fields and to federal-provincial relations. The Branch also administers the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act.

■ Regional offices

They are five in number and provide an official CRTC presence in the various regions of Canada to advise headquarters of the concerns of interested parties in their region. They provide information to provincial governments, the industry, the academic community and the public.

■ Industry Analysis Division

This Division is responsible for the Commission's marketing, financial and ownership analysis policies, as well as ownership compliance and control of the broadcasting industry.

■ Public Affairs Division

The Public Affairs Division formulates and evaluates communications strategies, policies and initiatives and is responsible for all public relations activities, as well as for the production and distribution of CRTC publications. The Division also responds to briefs, letters, written inquiries and complaints received by the Commission and coordinates the referral of complaints to the Canadian Broadcast Standard Council (CBSC) and the Cable Television Standards Council (CTSC) in the case of issues covered by industry standards administered by the Councils.

■ Telecommunications Directorate

The principal mandate of this Directorate is to ensure that the rates charged by the carriers under federal jurisdiction are just and reasonable and not unjustly discriminatory. The Directorate assesses tariffs and agreements filed for approval by carriers, assists the Commission in the development of regulatory policies, decisions and orders and identifies and analyzes regulatory issues stemming from individual applications or major hearings.

■ Economic, Social and Technical Analysis Branch

This Branch analyzes and provides advice to the Commission on rates, market structure, current and future regulatory issues, technical issues, service quality and socio-economic aspects of regulatory issues. The Branch is responsible for assessing the carriers' construction programs and for advice to the Commission regarding the depreciation, renewal and amortization of carrier equipment.

■ Financial Analysis Branch

This Branch is concerned with the financial aspects of rate regulation and the carriers' inter-corporate activities, statistical analysis, accounting and auditing carrier activities. The Branch is also responsible for the implementation of the inquiries into carrier costs.

■ Decisions and Operations Branch

This Branch plans and coordinates telecommunications staff agendas, receives and schedules applications, advises applicants on proper procedure, and formulates, drafts and edits public notices, orders and decisions issued by the Commission. The Branch is also responsible for the resolution of complaints and inquiries from subscribers and competitors of the federally-regulated carriers.

■ Corporate Services

This Section provides services to both our Telecommunications and Broadcasting branches, as well as coordination in the area of Finance, Human Resources and Informatics.

■ Legal Directorate

The CRTC's general counsel and staff provide legal services to the Commission concerning the interpretation and implementation of the CRTC Act and the Broadcasting Act, the various acts on telecommunications, statutory instruments made pursuant to these acts, and the related federal and provincial legislation. Counsel advise the Commission of the legal implications of policy matters, conduct questioning, and advise on procedural matters at public hearings. They also make recommendations and carry out legal proceedings instituted by or against the Commission.

■ Finance and Management Services Branch

This Branch provides financial, program planning, management and administrative services to ensure the most effective operation of the Commission and the most cost-effective and efficient development and use of new services and facilities. It collects broadcast licence fees and helps to formulate licence fee regulations. The Branch also coordinates informatics activities throughout the Commission, maintains a library for communications industry information in Canada and administers the Commission's records management, mail room and fleet management services.

■ Human Resources, Official Languages and Security

This Division advises the Chairman and staff on all aspects of the administration of human resources, including classification, staffing, pay and benefits, staff relations and special program administration, including employment equity and training and development. Responsibility also entails the administration of the CRTC's security function.

■ Audit and Evaluation Division

This Division performs internal audits (financial, compliance, operational), and evaluates program effectiveness. It also studies and reviews regulatory reform.

Access Request Data Bank

Description: This bank contains the access request forms sent by individuals, the replies to such requests and information related to their processing. Class of Individuals: Members of the public who have made access requests to the Commission. Purpose: The bank is used for processing access requests only, and to report on the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for two years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 TBS Registration: 001820 Bank Number: CRT PPU 060

Annual Returns

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of financial analysis and ownership information relating to individuals and/or companies authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings (cable, AM, FM or TV) in Canada. Some of the financial data contained is used in the assessment of annual licence fees to be paid by licensees. Assessments and a record of payments are maintained.

The annual returns are filed alphabetically on a national basis and are used in (a) compiling and analyzing the broadcasting industry, e.g. growth trends and industry performance; and (b) preparing financial analysis comments for the various public hearings held across the country with respect to the granting or renewing of licences for broadcasting undertakings. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for twelve years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 82-037 Bank Number: CRT PPU 015

Applicants File

The purpose of this bank is to provide information on individuals and/or companies, partnerships, and individuals doing business under a registered name, relative to obtaining, renewing and amending a licence for broadcasting undertakings. This bank contains identification of the applicant; investment (equity and/or securities) held by the applicant in a Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission licence holder, newspaper or other media publisher, theatre or cinema, advertising agency, broadcasting sales representative, broadcasting program material producer or distributor, music recording producer or music publisher, lessor of property, plant or equipment of the licensee, company owning securities in any of these categories, potential advertising client of the undertaking; staff information; service information; capital costs and facilities; and financial operations. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 035

Broadcast Correspondence Files

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of correspondence with licensees, including AM and FM radio, television and cable TV, concerning programming matters such as logs, tape records of programs, commercials, and Canadian content. Comments, enquiries, and complaints cover a wide range of topics, most of which are related to the Broadcasting Act and regulations under the Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 020

Complaints and Representations File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who wishes to lodge a complaint with or make any representation to the Commission, with respect to any matter within the powers of the Commission that is not directed to any application. The file contains the name, address, and telephone number of the person and agent, if any, lodging the complaint or making a representation and the nature of the complaint. Copies of the complaints are also placed on a file available for examination by the public. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 005

Interveners File

The purpose of this file is to maintain a record of any person who is interested in an application and who wishes to file with the Commission an intervention for the purpose of supporting, opposing or modifying an application. The file contains the name, address and telephone number of the intervenor and his or her agent, if any. Details accompany the interventions on most occasions. Interventions are public documents and are retained on a file available for examination by the public.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 040

Legal Branch

The purpose of this bank is to provide a record of legal opinions and advice given to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission by this branch and other sources and to retain some of the material upon which such advice was given. The bank provides a record of prosecutions and investigations conducted by this branch and retains some of the material upon which such prosecutions and investigations were contemplated or carried out. It also provides a record of cases in which the CRTC is involved and some other material relevant to such cases.

Bank Number: CRT PPU 045

Ownership Profiles

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of ownership profiles relating to individuals authorized under the Broadcasting Act to own and operate broadcasting undertakings in Canada. The bank contains the name of the individual ownership shareholding, together with the location and type of undertaking (cable, AM, FM or TV). The bank is established on a national basis and is used in preparing ownership comments (Factum Book) for the various public hearings held across the country with respect to the granting of licences for broadcasting undertakings.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for fifteen years. PAC Number: 91-021 Bank Number: CRT PPU 010

Personal Service Contracts

The purpose of this bank is to maintain a record of individuals who have been engaged under contract by the Commission. It contains basic data such as social insurance number, educational qualifications, employment history, appointment and termination dates, amount of fees paid and other allowable expenses and payments. The information is used to determine taxable income and to issue the T-4 Supplementary for income tax purposes and as source data for personnel required to carry out special studies from time to time. Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for six fiscal years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 86-001 Bank Number: CRT PPU 050

Telecommunications Complaints, Inquiries and Briefs

The purpose of this bank is to provide a depository for case files pertaining to complaints and/or inquiries from customers or users of telecommunications services, furnished by the telecommunications companies under the Commission's jurisdiction. Such files contain all information relevant to the submission, processing, investigation and disposition of such complaints or inquiries, and include correspondence between the individual originating the complaint or inquiry and the Commission, as well as investigative material and correspondence between the Commission and the telecommunications company against which the complaint or inquiry is directed. Complaints and inquiries deal with such matters as quality of service, rates and charges, credit and collection practices. The information in this bank deals only with the federally-regulated telecommunications companies. The files in this bank are active only during the period of investigation or inquiry, normally 30 to 60 days, after which they are closed.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Files are retained for ten years and then destroyed. PAC Number: 85-002 Bank Number: CRT PPU 025

Canadian Saltfish Corporation

Chapter 30

General Information

Background

The Canadian Saltfish Corporation (CSC) was established in 1970 under the authority of the Saltfish Act. Within its area of jurisdiction (Newfoundland and Labrador and on the Lower Northshore of Quebec), the CSC has the exclusive right to interprovincial and export trade in cured cod fish. The CSC is a federal crown corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I, of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The CSC's mandate is to improve the earnings of primary producers of saltfish while operating on a self-sustaining basis without appropriations from Parliament. As well, it has the statutory obligation to buy all saltfish offered to it, subject to price and terms and conditions of purchase (including quality provisions).

Legislation

- Saltfish Act (1970)

Organization

The CSC is managed by a nine member board of directors composed of a chairman, a President, one director from each participating province, and five other directors. The Chairman and the President are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The remaining directors are appointed by the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans with the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Directors from a participating province are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor-in-Council of a participating province.

Canadian Security Intelligence Service

Chapter 31

General Information

Background

The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) operates pursuant to the Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act.

Responsibilities

CSIS collects, analyzes and retains information and intelligence respecting activities that may on reasonable grounds be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada, and reports to and advises the Government of Canada in relation to these matters.

The Service also plays a role in providing security assessments to departments of the Government of Canada (in accordance with section 13 of the CSIS Act and government security policy) and may provide security assessments to the government of a province or any department thereof, any police force in a province, and to the government of a foreign state or institution thereof or an international organization of states or institutions thereof when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. As well, CSIS may advise any Minister of the Crown on matters relating to the security of Canada, or provide any Minister of the Crown with information relating to security matters or criminal activities that is relevant to the exercise of any power or the performance of any duty or function by that Minister under the Citizenship Act or the Immigration Act, 1976. It may also conduct such investigations as are necessary in order to provide security assessments or advice to Ministers.

Further, CSIS may, in relation to the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs, assist the Minister of National Defence or the Secretary of State for External Affairs, within Canada, in the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states or any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, or corporation.

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who have submitted a formal request under the Privacy Act or Access to Information Act for access to information originally obtained or prepared by CSIS. Included are corrections, notations, consultations with other government institutions or third parties; exemptions, exclusions, disclosures, complaints and documents prepared for Court. Documents pertaining to the processing of the request are included. Class of Individuals: Individuals or authorized agents who have submitted a "Personal Information Request Form" or an "Access to Information Request Form" to a federal or provincial institution. Purpose: To process Personal Information Request Forms and requests under the Access to Information Act. Consistent Uses: Personal information may be used for the management of CSIS, research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: As a requirement of the Privacy Act Regulations, information is retained until all avenues of legal appeal have been exhausted with a minimum retention of two years. PAC Number: 85-001 TBS Registration: 001681 Bank Number: SIS PPU 020

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Investigational Records

Description: This bank contains personal information on identifiable individuals whose activities are suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada; on identifiable individuals who are or were being managed as confidential sources of information; on identifiable individuals no longer investigated by CSIS but whose activities did constitute threats to the security of Canada and which still meet the collection criteria stipulated in section 12 of the CSIS Act, and on identifiable individuals the investigation of whom relate to the conduct of the international affairs, the defence of Canada or any state allied or associated with Canada or the detection, prevention or suppression of subversive or hostile activities. Exempt Bank Status: This bank has been designated as an exempt bank by an order under section 18 of the Privacy Act on the basis of section 21 and paragraphs 22(1)(a) and (b) of the Act. Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; activities within or relating to Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or activities directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; or any other activities described in the definition of "threats to the security of Canada" at section 2 of the CSIS Act; individuals identified relating to national security, the defence of Canada or the conduct of the international affairs of Canada; and individuals who are confidential sources of information. Purpose: Collected under section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; under section 15 concerning the collection of information for the purpose of providing advice pursuant to section 14; and under section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report, and give advice, thereto in relation to activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in its possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then it may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and Attorney General; to the Secretary of State for External Affairs, and to the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential in the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to section 13 and 14 of the

CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act, or Immigration Act. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee. All linkages are in compliance with Privacy Act provisions. Information in this bank may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to fifty years, subject to the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 TBS Registration: 002872 Bank Number: SIS PPU 045

Description: This bank contains information on individuals whose activities may, on reasonable grounds, be suspected of directly relating to espionage or sabotage that is against or is detrimental to the interests of Canada; or activities directed toward or in support of such activity; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are detrimental to the interests of Canada, and are clandestine or deceptive, or involve a threat to any person; activities within or relating to Canada directed toward or in support of the threat or use of acts of serious violence against persons or property for the purpose of achieving a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; and, activities directed toward undermining by covert unlawful acts, or directed toward or intended ultimately to lead to the destruction or overthrow by violence of the constitutionally established system of government in Canada. This bank also contains records relating to the management of human sources. This bank may also contain personal information that, in relation to the defence of Canada or to the conduct of the international affairs of Canada, pertains to the capabilities, intentions; or activities of any foreign state or group of foreign states; of any person other than a Canadian citizen or permanent resident; or, any corporation except one incorporated pursuant to the laws of Canada or of any province. Under subsection 16(2) of the Privacy Act, CSIS consistently responds to all applicants in a manner that neither confirms nor denies the existence of personal information in this bank, regardless of whether or not personal information about the applicant exists in this bank. Class of Individuals: Individuals suspected of espionage or sabotage against Canada or to the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that are clandestine or deceptive or involve a threat to any person; activities within Canada directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or activities directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada. Purpose: Collected under section 12 of the CSIS Act with respect to threats to the security of Canada; and under section 16 concerning the collection of information or intelligence relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons. Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information it obtains if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report, and give advice, thereto in relation to activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in its possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then it may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and Attorney General; to the Secretary of State for External Affairs, and to the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential in the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to sections 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act, or Immigration Act. Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee. This bank may be used as a source of information or for linking with other information sources for the purposes of fulfilling CSIS's legislated mandate. All linkages are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. This information may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to fifty years, subject to the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. At the end of the retention period files that do not meet historical criteria are destroyed. Those files that have been designated as historical may be retained for an additional period of time before being transferred to the control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 Related to PR#: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 000836 Bank Number: SIS PPU 010

Canadian Security Intelligence Service Records

Description: This bank consists of information on individuals who came to the attention of the former RCMP Security Service while carrying out its responsibilities pertaining to informing the government of national security concerns. This bank may also contain information on individuals who incidentally came to the attention of CSIS as a result of carrying out its mandate under section 12 and/or section 16 of the CSIS Act. This bank may contain information on individuals mentioned in reports related to probable unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, classified information or assets. Class of Individuals: Defectors, human sources or individuals, the nature of whose actions or activities caught the attention of CSIS or of its predecessor, the former RCMP Security Service, while investigating: espionage or sabotage against Canada detrimental to the interests of Canada; foreign influenced activities within or relating to Canada that were clandestine or deceptive or involved a threat to any person; activities within Canada that were directed toward the use of serious acts of violence to achieve a political objective within Canada or a foreign state; or activities that were directed toward the unlawful covert undermining, or the overthrow by violence, of the constitutionally established government system in Canada; individuals, other than Canadians or permanent residents, whose capabilities, intentions or activities regarding the defence of Canada or the conduct of international affairs are inimical to the interests of Canada. Purpose: Collected or obtained by the former RCMP Security Service and retained by CSIS under section 12 concerning threats to the security of Canada or under section 16 concerning the collection of information relating to the capabilities, intentions or activities of foreign states and certain persons.

Consistent Uses: CSIS may only disclose information if it does so in accordance with the controls of subsection 19(2) of the CSIS Act. First, it may disclose information for the purposes of the performance of its duties and functions under the CSIS Act or the administration or enforcement of that Act, or as required by any other law. The Service may thus disclose personal information to the Government of Canada, for example, as part of its duty to report and give advice to the government regarding activities suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada. Secondly, where the information in the Service's possession may be used in the investigation or prosecution of an alleged contravention of the law, or where it relates to the conduct of Canada's international affairs or to the defence of Canada, then the information may be disclosed to the appropriate police officials and to the Attorney General, the Secretary of State for External Affairs, and the Minister of National Defence, respectively. Thirdly, information may be disclosed where, in the opinion of the Minister, disclosure to any Minister of the Crown or person in the Public Service of Canada is essential to the public interest and that interest clearly outweighs any invasion of privacy that could result from the disclosure. Pursuant to sections 13 and 14 of the CSIS Act, CSIS may also disclose information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment, or in providing advice under the Citizenship Act, or the Immigration Act. Information in this bank may also be used to assist foreign and domestic agencies, on request, through agreements established under section 17 of the CSIS Act. (See Classes of Personal Information at the end of this Chapter) Personal information may also be disclosed to the Inspector General and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee. This bank may be used as a source of information or for linking with other information sources for the purposes of fulfilling CSIS's legislated mandate. All linkages are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. This information may also be used for audit, research, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal

Standards: Information in this bank is under continuous review and files are disposed of in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules as approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC

Complaints Against CSIS or Its Employees

Description: This bank contains complaints communicated to CSIS, the Security Intelligence Review Committee (SIRC) or the Office of the Solicitor General of Canada against CSIS or its employees, and any record generated to resolve such complaints that is under CSIS control. In addition to the requirements indicated on the Personal Information Request form, individuals must provide the location where the complaint was reported and the nature of the complaint to retrieve the information of interest for processing.

Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in complaints against CSIS or its employees. Purpose: To determine the validity of complaints and to record any corrective measures taken, including recommendations for disciplinary or misconduct proceedings. Consistent Uses: Used in disciplinary and misconduct processes under the CSIS Act. The SIRC or the Inspector General may also use information in this bank to conduct investigations of CSIS. Information in this bank may also be used for the management of CSIS, research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: A minimum of two years after the last documentation on the individual complaint file. However, letters of complaint may be destroyed after one year. TBS Registration: 002762 Bank Number: SIS PPU 035

CSIS Candidates

Description: This personal information bank contains recruitment documents or applications for employment with CSIS and any related correspondence. This bank may also contain personnel or staffing interviews, polygraph tests, psychological tests, test results, analysts' reports and security assessment advice. Class of Individuals: Potential CSIS candidates. Purpose: To meet the administrative and/or operational needs of CSIS. Consistent Uses: Information may be transferred to an employee bank if the individual is offered and accepts employment. The candidate's skills may be assessed and, if deemed suitable, may be invited to serve in a capacity other than the position or level of initial interest. This information may also be used for research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retained a minimum of two years. However, unsolicited applications are destroyed after six months. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 000839 Bank Number: SIS PPU 025

Security and Integrity of Government Property, Personnel and Assets

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS whose actions have raised concern about the security and integrity of government property, personnel or assets. This bank may contain letters, notes, facsimile copies, contact reports and related correspondence. Class of Individuals: Individuals of concern regarding the security and integrity of government property, personnel or assets and CSIS employees who were the object of such actions. Purpose: This information was compiled as an aid to internal security investigations of alleged breaches of security or in relation to the safety and integrity of government property, personnel and assets.

Consistent Uses: Information may be disclosed to the accredited police agency having local jurisdiction of an incident. Information in this bank may be matched with information from other CSIS personal information banks for the purpose of preserving CSIS internal security. All linkages are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. Retention and Disposal Standards: The records in this bank are retained for a period of five years and then disposed of in accordance with the schedule approved by the National Archivist. TBS Registration: 003632 Bank Number: SIS PPU 055

Security Assessments/Advice

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals who are or have been the subject of a request for a security assessment for pre-employment/employment with federal government departments and the private sector working under federal government contracts, when a security clearance is a required condition of employment. This includes information obtained during internal quality control investigations. Similar records are held in respect to security assessments required by a provincial government, a foreign state, or an international organization of states. This bank may also contain criminal records, credit bureau results, security analyses, security assessments and investigative reports, related correspondence and a notation of the level of security clearance granted. In addition, this bank may hold information on persons subject to security assessment or advice relative to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act. Class of Individuals: Persons for whom CSIS was asked to provide a security assessment or advice, including contract and company personnel working under federal government contracts; CSIS employees; and individuals who would seek admittance or to remain lawfully in Canada; and individuals seeking citizenship. By virtue of the screening process, personal information may be held on individuals who are not themselves the subject of the security assessment. Purpose: Collected under section 15 of the CSIS Act to provide security assessments pursuant to section 13 or advice pursuant to section 14 of the Act. Consistent Uses: Pursuant to sections 19(2), 13 and 14 the CSIS Act, CSIS may disclose information or may match information in the preparation of a domestic or foreign security assessment or in providing advice pertinent to the Citizenship Act or Immigration Act or where the information relates to the conduct of the international affairs of Canada, to the Secretary of State for External Affairs, or where the information is relevant to the defence of Canada, to the Minister of National Defence. It may also be used for data matching. All linkages for the purposes of conducting lawful investigations in matters which may on reasonable grounds, be suspected of constituting threats to the security of Canada and in other lawful investigations are in compliance with the provisions of the Privacy Act. In addition, information may be provided to the Inspector General and the Security Intelligence Review Committee, the Federal Court and the Supreme Court. This information may also be used for research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank may be retained from two years to twelve years from the last updating, and then disposed of subject to the Retention and Disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist. When files have been designated as historical, they may be transferred to the custody and control of the National Archives of Canada. PAC Number: 82-013 Related to PR#: SIS DDS 005 TBS Registration: 000835 Bank Number: SIS PPU 005

Self Protection Activity

Description: This bank contains personal information on individuals in contact with CSIS with a view of providing services directly or through contract to CSIS. The information may include the individual's name, any aliases and other personal identifiers. Class of Individuals: Individuals in contact with the Service.

Purpose: The purposes for which the information in this bank was recorded is in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. The information will allow CSIS to better protect itself from infiltration by hostile foreign services and others whose interests are inimical to the interests of Canada. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may be used in support of CSIS's counter intelligence program. Information in this bank may also be used for audit purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be retained for a minimum of ten years, and destroyed when considered to be of no further value. Related to PR#: SIS DDS 010 TBS Registration: 003297 Bank Number: SIS PPU 050

Unlawful Conduct Investigations

Unlawful Conduct Investigations

Description: This bank contains allegations, investigational reports, interviews, reports to the Solicitor General of Canada and related correspondence collected, pursuant to subsection 20(2) of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) Act, of activities by CSIS employees who may have acted unlawfully in the purported performance of the duties and functions of the CSIS under the CSIS Act. Class of Individuals: Individuals involved in investigations conducted under subsection 20(2) of the CSIS Act. Purpose: To determine the validity of allegations of unlawful conduct by CSIS employees and to take appropriate corrective measures if required. Consistent Uses: Information in this bank may be disclosed to the Attorney General of Canada and to the Security Intelligence Review Committee or Inspector General for review or to meet reporting requirements. Information in this bank may be used in disciplinary and conduct processes under the CSIS Act. This information may also be used for the management of CSIS, research, audit, planning, evaluation and statistical purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Personal information in this bank will be kept for a minimum of five years. Classes of Personal Information

In the course of carrying out the daily investigative activities and functions of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, personal information may be accumulated such as in the security assessments and crisis management programs which are not described in the specific personal information banks. This information is not used for an administrative purpose affecting an individual, and can include names, addresses and other identifying data in a record. Such information is only retrievable if full specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. The retention period for this form of information is in accordance with the retention and disposal schedules approved by the National Archivist.

Unsolicited opinions or requests for information are received by the Service. This information is not used for an administrative purpose, other than to respond in some instances to the originator. This correspondence is stored in a file associated with the subject matter, and is disposed of in a manner authorized by the National Archivist.

Some interview clips on video cassettes purchased from the Public Service Commission are being used to help English and French speaking CSIS employees to prepare for oral interaction tests conducted as an administrative measure in support of the CSIS official languages program. The personal information in the cassettes is not being used for an administrative purpose respecting any of the individuals presented in the videos.

Canadian Space Agency

Chapter 32

General Information

Background

The Act of Parliament establishing the Canadian Space Agency was proclaimed into force on December 14, 1990. The Canadian Space Agency was created from divisions of the former Ministry of State for Science and Technology (MOSST), the National Research Council of Canada (NRC), the Department of Communications (DOC) and Energy Mines and Resources (EMR).

Responsibilities

The mandate of the Canadian Space Agency is to promote the peaceful use and development of space, to advance the knowledge of space through science and to ensure that space science and technology provide social and economic benefits for Canadians.

Legislation

- The Canadian Space Agency Act.

Organization

Communications

■ Communications

The Directorate develops and implements a communications and public affairs, strategic plan to support the Canadian Space Program and to respond to public interest. This plan is based on a detailed environmental analysis which is also produced by the Directorate. A key role of the Directorate is to provide advice to the Minister, the Agency's senior management, and program managers on communications issues. In carrying out its functions, the Agency produces and distributes information and promotional materials to the media and to the general public, and monitors media coverage of the Canadian Space program. The Directorate provides an essential communications support to the Agency as a whole.

Corporate Services

■ Administration

The Administration Directorate plans, develops, and implements programs in the areas of management, maintenance and construction of facilities, telecommunications and security. This Directorate also maintains an up-to-date inventory of assets, manages custom clearances as well as the contracts and procurement services. It also advises management on all matters related to these areas.

■ Audit and Evaluation

The Directorate of Audit and Evaluation is accountable for providing Agency management with an independent capability to perform audits that are consistent with Agency and Central Agency policies, responding to Agency priorities, and enhancing the efficiency, effectiveness and economy of operations; and for providing essential input to the Agency's processes of policy/program formulation and resource allocations; also assists in carrying out evaluations of those programs/activities.

■ Finance

The Finance Directorate is responsible for the development, direction and coordination of financial policies, procedures, systems and controls within the Canadian Space Agency; for ensuring that the requirements for acquisition, control and disbursement of funds, budgets and financial assets are met; for coordinating and preparing the Multi-Year Operational Plan and Estimates; for maintaining accurate financial and management accounting records; and for designing and producing corporate financial reports for all Agency activities.

■ Human Resources

The Human Resources Directorate is responsible for the planning, development and implementation of sound, pro-active and progressive policies and personnel programs, needed to successfully locate, recruit, develop, effectively utilize and retain high calibre scientific, technical and support staff to meet the growing demands for space technology expertise within the Canadian Space Agency. The Directorate's activities focus on classification, staffing, compensation, staff relations, training and development and human resources planning. These activities assist managers in assuming their personnel management responsibilities. In addition, the Human Resources Directorate is responsible for the interpretation, application and monitoring of federal government official languages policies and programs within the Canadian Space Agency as well as for adapting these policies to the Agency's operational context.

■ Information Management

The Information Management Directorate is responsible for ensuring that the Agency is provided with efficient and effective integrated systems to support operations, research, administration and management needs, and plans, develops, and implements programs in the areas of information technologies, management of information holdings and library services. It also coordinates the Access to Information and Privacy requests.

■ Ottawa Office

The Ottawa Office is primarily responsible for facilitating the day-to-day interactions of the Canadian Space Agency with the Minister's office. This office coordinates the parliamentary liaison activities and is the custodian of Cabinet documents.

■ Saint-Hubert Project Office

The Saint-Hubert Project Office is responsible for the delivery of the Agency's Headquarters in Saint-Hubert within the approved project definition, budget and established target dates. It supervises all of the project activities, from project definition to project delivery and evaluation following implementation.

Human Space Flights

■ Canadian Astronaut Program Office

The Canadian Astronaut Program maintains and trains astronauts to encourage and support the development and execution of Canadian scientific and technological programs in space, including the international Space Station Program. Canada's Astronauts collaborate with industry, universities and other institutes to undertake research that can be classified in two broad categories; space life sciences related to the adaptation of humans to microgravity, and applied sciences research to develop hardware and experiments to fly in microgravity. This type of research contributes to the development of new medical techniques and treatments, contributes to the advancement of space exploration, and may lead to the development of new products and processing techniques.

■ Space Station Program Office

The Canadian Space Station Program Office is responsible for management and control of Canada's participation in the international Space Station project, as it relates to design, development, construction, testing, operation, utilization and evolution of the Mobile Servicing System (MSS) as well as technology transfer and intellectual property. This includes the Strategic Technologies in Automation and Robotics (STEAR) program for development within Canada's industry and research community of advanced technology capabilities to support evolution of the MSS. The User Development Program (UDP) supports the development of Canadian universities and industry as users of Space Station.

Policy Coordination and Government Relations

■ External Relations

The Directorate provides strategic direction, support and expertise to the Agency in the areas of international and federal/provincial relations. It identifies opportunities for cooperation and opens doors to the Canadian space industry in the international market. Working in conjunction with a range of foreign space agencies, industries and international organizations to expand support for Canada's expertise in space, the Directorate manages the Agency's international cooperation MOUs and is the focal point for the Agency's relations with other federal government departments.

■ Policy

The Directorate coordinates, analyses and develops policy initiatives, strategies and priorities respecting Canada's participation in national and international space programs. It serves as the focal point for coordinating space activities, coordinates the implementation of Canada's Long Term Space Plan and assesses progress made towards achieving Canada's space policy objectives.

RADARSAT

■ RADARSAT Program Office

This office is responsible for managing the design, development, construction, testing and operation of the RADARSAT remote sensing satellite system in cooperation with several provincial governments, the private sector (Radarsat International), NASA and NOAA. The RADARSAT system is Canada's first remote sensing satellite system and will utilize a synthetic aperture radar to produce map-like images of the earth regardless of weather conditions. The images will have scientific and commercial applications in the monitoring of natural resources and environmental monitoring.

Research and Applications

■ David Florida Laboratory

The Canadian Space Agency's David Florida Laboratory (DFL) is Canada's national facility for the environmental testing and integration of space systems, subsystems and components. On a fee for service basis, the DFL offers the Canadian space industry testing for their space products in the areas of thermal (thermal vacuum, thermal balance), structural (vibration, modal, static load), and RF (antenna, communications, payload, RFI/EMC) verification. Additional facilities and services available through the DFL include large cleanroom highbay integration and storage areas, expert consultation on test programs, and test technology development for modern spacecraft. On a non-interference basis, and as schedules permit, testing and test support is also provided to Canadian non-space as well as foreign space and non-space companies. The facilities and services available through the DFL are unique in Canada.

■ Space Mechanics

The Space Mechanics Directorate conducts a program of research and technology development within the Space Agency in four key technology areas: computer and intelligent systems, dynamics research, applied mechanics research and control systems.

■ Space Optics

The Space Optics Directorate conducts research and development in three technology areas: remote sensing applications, spectroscopy applications and optical and electro-optical instrumentation.

■ Space Science Program

This Division is responsible for planning, coordinating and implementing the space science activities in Canada. The Space Science Program supports five broad areas of research: astronomy, solar-terrestrial relations, the atmosphere, materials sciences in microgravity and space life sciences. The Program provides support to the Canadian science community by providing opportunities to participate in quality national and international programs through the development and provision of state-of-the-art scientific instruments and facilities. Almost all of the instrument development is contracted out to Canadian industry.

■ Space Systems

The Space Systems Directorate conducts research and development in four key technology areas: spacecraft systems analysis, RF technology, digital technology and space systems applications.

■ Space Technology

The Space Technology Branch conducts a program of research and development through three Directorates; Space Mechanics, Space Systems and Space Optical Technology. Also with the Branch is a R & D Contracts Office, with responsibility for technology transfer and intellectual property overview, as well as Earth Observation and Satellite Communication Program Offices responsible for liaison with national and international agencies involved in technology development.

■ Executive Offices

The President is the chief executive officer of the Canadian Space Agency. He is assisted by the Executive Vice-President, the Vice-President, Human Space Flights, the Director General, Radarsat, the Vice-President, Research and Applications, the Vice-President, Policy Coordination and Government Relations and the Vice-President, Corporate Services. A Director, Legal Services, a Director, Communications and an Audit and Evaluation Committee are part of the executive offices.

Topics: current research activities include: dependable processing systems, knowledge based systems, control of large space structures, robot controls, sensor technology, materials & structures, thermal control technology, composite materials, dynamics/test of space structures, robot dynamics, and in-orbit characterization of SSRMS. Program Record Number: SPA APP 060

Space Optics

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: general directorate correspondence; CRC. NRC and NSERC-Agency MOUs correspondence concerning current research activities: far infrared laser, bolometric detectors, detector passive cooling techniques, laser range finder, optical data processing techniques, optical fibre system elements, optical sensors for remote sensing, selective optical coatings, 3D-vision systems, object recognition systems. Program Record Number: SPA APP 080

Space Science Program

Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of the Space Science and User Development Programs, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. Topics: Policy; general correspondence enquiries; administration and operation of the Division; visits; lectures; papers and talks; publicity; financial records; agreements and memoranda of understanding; co-operation and liaison with associations, international organizations and countries; public relations and speaking engagements; licences and permits; security; seminars; committees; finance, shuttle operational flights, equipment, training, technical definitions; engineering studies; satellite projects; space science program Development and planning group; Canadian Auroral Network for the Observation of Plasmas in the Upper Atmosphere and Space (CANOPUS) Data Analysis Network; Suprathermal Ion Mass Spectrometer (SMS); Viking Ultra Violet Imager; Waves in Space Plasmas (WISP); Wind Imaging Interferometer (WINDII); Ultra Violet Auroral Imager (UVAL); FREJA Cold Plasma Analyser (CPA); RADIOASTRON Radio Astronomy Program; Far Ultra Violet Spectroscopic Explorer; Measurement of Pollution in the Troposphere (MOPITT); General Excitation Mechanisms in Nightglow (GEMINI); Thermal Plasma Analyser (TPA); Observation of Electricfield Distribution in the Ionospheric Plasma: a Unique Strategy (OEDIPUS); Optical Spectrograph and Infrared Imaging System (OSIRIS) for the ODIN satellite; Biocosmos; Balloon Anisotropy Measurement (BAM); Cosmic Ray Balloon Experiment (CRAYBEX); International Microgravity Laboratories (IML) I and II; Aquatic Research Facility (ARF); Torso Rotation Experiment (TRE); Neurolab/ (Visuo-Motor Coordination Facility) (VCF); Cosmic Background Radiation; Microgravity processes in Fluid Dynamics, Chemistry, Crystal Growth, Metals and Alloys, Glasses and Ceramics, Biotechnology and Combustion; Radiation Biology; Human Physiology; Canadian Float Zone

Furnace (CFZF); Canadian Advanced Protein Crystallisation Apparatus (CAPCA); Large Motion Isolation Mount (LMIM); Spacebound microgravity conferences; Canadian Space Agency Rocket (CSAR) Program; Parabolic Aircraft (T-33, Falcon & KC-135); Protein Crystallisation. Program Record Number: SPA APP 065

Space Station Program Office

Description: Information on the management of Canadian participation in the Space Station Program; the provision of the Mobile Servicing System, including international and national agreements, all technical research and development within the Space Station Program, technology transfer agreements, licences and patents. Administrative, financial and technical information on all aspects of the STEAR program; STEAR contract proposals (commercial confidential), feasibility study reports delivered under contract. Topics: Configuration management, space robotics, Space Station studies, space assembly and maintenance systems, simulation, ground control facilities, materials in space, remote sensor development, solar arrays, NASA working groups, panel meetings and document reviews, regional distribution, technology diffusion, industrial development. Program Record Number: SPA OPE 030

Space Systems

Description: Correspondence, memoranda, working papers and reports related to projects. Topics: General correspondence including administration, personnel and finance; spacecraft systems group, RF technology group, digital technology group, high-temperature superconductive multiplexer, power transistor development, Solid-state power amplifier (X-Band), digital modular (X-Band), passive intermodulation (PIM), radiation damage to gallium arsenide, space qualification of GaAs devices, satellite system modelling, remote sensing microwave instruments, dual-polarization antenna, smallsat cost reductions. Program Record Number: SPA APP 075

Space Technology

Description: Information, correspondence, memoranda and reports related to project planning, program forecasts, the management of Space Technology, international and national agreements and all technical research and development within individual projects. The holdings of the branch office include administration, personnel and finance for the Branch. There are also general files on committees, international cooperation and agreements, contracts, inter-departmental coordination and ESA programs. Program Record Number: SPA APP 070

Vice-President – Research and Application

Description: information, correspondence and working papers on visits, presentations and meetings with federal and provincial governments, private industry and universities along with international agencies. Topics: General administration, speeches, audits. Program Record Number: SPA RVP 010

Canadian Wheat Board

Chapter 33

General Information

NOTE: THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Canadian Wheat Board was established by the Canadian Wheat Board Act in 1935 to provide for the orderly marketing of wheat, and since 1949, oats and barley, produced in the area designated by the Act. The marketing of oats was removed from the Board in 1989.

Responsibilities

The Board is obliged by law to purchase wheat and barley offered to it for sale by producers at an elevator or railway car and to pay an initial payment for same in accordance with the Act. The Board is then obliged to market this grain in interprovincial and international markets. The surplus proceeds received upon sale and available for distribution are divided equitably among the producers delivering grain to the Board after the initial payment made to the producers and the Board's operation costs are deducted. The Board is also responsible for administering a delivery system which is designed to maximize marketing opportunities, as well as allocate delivery opportunity among producers wishing to deliver grain for sale in interprovincial and international markets to elevators and railway cars. The Board also administers the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act pursuant to which advance payments are made to producers undertaking to deliver wheat and barley as quotas permit.

Personal Information Banks

Grain Growers Advance Payment Records

This bank is used to record the value of cash advances issued and refunds received from grain growers under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The information gathered is used to monitor the grower's repayment of monies advanced. Repayment is conditional on the grower's delivery and sale of grain as soon as he or she is able to do so. The information is shared with grain companies that act as agents of the Board in making and collecting cash advances. The information is summarized and controlled as required by the federal government. As of August 1990, it will be shared with those lending institutions specified by the producer which have a lien against the grain. Files are retained for three years following the retirement of the advance payment. Bank Number: CWB PPU 010

Grain Growers Delivery Records

This bank contains a record of each producer certificate issued to a grower by a grain company, in payment for the grower's delivery of grain to the Board account. The growers delivery records are the basis for equitable distribution of profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information produces statistical statements by district(s), grain company and type of grain. It is shared with Revenue Canada, Employment and Immigration Canada for unemployment insurance purposes and provincial crop insurance organizations. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 015

Grain Growers Payment Records

This bank contains a record of each payment made to grain growers which resulted from an increase in the price paid for grain or from the profits realized from the sale of grain by the Canadian Wheat Board. The information is maintained to control the value of payments and monitor bank cashings, lost cheques, uncashed cheques, etc. Statements are produced showing the value of payments by district(s), kind of grain, date of issuance, date of bank clearance and for other control purposes. Information in this bank is shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada's NISA and GRIP programs, and in the case of non-resident producers with their representatives in Canada and the Bank of Montreal. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 005

Grain Growers Permit Records

This bank is used to establish and maintain a record of each grain growers' entitlement to market grain under the quota system. Under the authority of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, this bank may contain the Social Insurance Numbers of those producers who chose to supply them. The permit book application information is used to monitor and record grain growers' delivery and sale of grain to Board Account and verify grain growers' entitlement for Cash Advances under the Prairie Grain Advance Payments Act. The grower's name and address are used to distribute profits realized from the sale of grain. Summary statements are produced by district(s) and type of grain for planning purposes. Information in this bank is used to prepare voters' lists for Canadian Wheat Board Advisory committee elections. Various components of the information are also shared with Revenue Canada, Agriculture Canada (including its Special Canadian Grains Program, the Drought Assistance Program and its NISA and GRIP programs), Canada Customs for inter-provincial and export licences, provincial crop insurance organizations, various other provincial institutions, departments and related commodity groups and universities for consistent use and statistical research purposes and the grain companies who are agents of the Board. Files are retained for seven years. Bank Number: CWB PPU 020

Citizenship and Immigration

Chapter 34

General Information

Background

The new Department of Citizenship and Immigration was created by Order in Council on November 4, 1993.

The department brings together the Citizenship Registration and Promotion component of the Department of Canadian Heritage, (previously a part of the former Department of Multiculturalism and Citizenship until June 1993); the Immigration Policy, Selection and Enforcement components of the former Department of Public Security (previously a part of the Department of Employment and Immigration until June 1993); and, the Immigration Settlement component of the former Department of Human Resources and Labour (previously part of the former Department of Employment and Immigration). The Minister also has the responsibility for the Immigration Refugee Board.

The programs' authority is the Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act, the Immigration Act and the Citizenship Act, which provides the Deputy Minister, the Minister and Governor-in-Council with the discretionary authority required to develop and implement responsive and flexible policies and programs.

Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate assigned to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration under the Department of Citizenship and Immigration Act encompasses all matters not assigned by law to other departments, branches or agencies of government, relating to the administration of programs and policies in the areas of immigration and citizenship.

The major objective of the department is to administer and admit immigrants and visitors, help refugees fleeing persecution as well as Convention Refugees, assist newcomers to settle in Canada, controls persons seeking to come into or remain in the country, promote the values, rights and responsibilities of citizenship for all Canadians and administer the Citizenship Act.

Legislation

- Citizenship Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. 29, as amended, and Regulations

Organization

■ Corporate Management Sector

The Corporate Management Sector is comprised of four branches each supporting the program delivery of Citizenship and Immigration Canada. The sector's role includes providing functional direction on the provision of services to all line managers. The principal services are in the areas of financial management and reporting; human resources management; information systems and technologies; and, administration and client services. The Financial Management Branch comprises the services, advice and information provided to departmental management concerning the financial management of the department's programs. It includes: providing financial policies and systems; providing accounting services; managing the loan portfolio; developing cost recovery/revenue generation plans; developing resource management plans for securing funding approval through central agencies to fund departmental programs; and providing financial analysis and reporting.

The Human Resources Branch provides a full range of personnel services to Citizenship and Immigration Canada such as staffing and classification, pay and benefits, training and development services to staff, management of staff relations and the employee assistance program. This branch also plans, develops and manages human resources policies and programs.

The Information Systems and Technologies Branch is responsible for the design, development, implementation and maintenance of all of Citizenship and Immigration Canada's automated systems which are utilized for the effective delivery of the departmental programs and for the effective electronic departmental information holdings and ensures the integrity and accuracy of those holdings. The branch establishes and administers all policies and standards related to information technology. Finally, the branch is responsible for the effective introduction and innovative use of all information technology solutions for the department.

The Administration and Client Services Branch provides all services related to facilities and material, investigations and security, public rights administration, records services and library.

■ International Service Group

The International Service group is responsible for the delivery of Canada's immigration programs at Canadian missions abroad. This includes immigrant selection, non-immigrant processing, immigration health services, reporting and liaison, and control and interdiction. International Service plays a lead role in international, migration and refugee issues, and in the coordination of the Department's international activities, particularly with respect to relations with Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT) (formerly External Affairs and International Trade Canada (EAITC)), other countries, and multilateral organizations. The International Service group comprises four branches: International Operations, Health Programs, International Migration and Program Coordination, and Planning and Resource Management.

International Operations is responsible for the delivery of all program activities at Canadian diplomatic missions around the world. This includes all operational aspects of immigration programs such as delivery of annual immigration levels; management of immigration, visitor and refugee programs abroad; ensuring a consistent approach across geographic regions; and coordination and liaison with other departments and agencies such as Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS), Health Canada and the RCMP. International Operations is also responsible for directing the planning, coordination and implementation of the overseas immigration control and enforcement programs through specialized units and for intelligence gathering activities through Canadian missions. It ensures that the delivery of the programs is consistent with the Canadian law and policy and with Canada's bilateral and multilateral foreign policy interests.

The Health Programs Branch identifies immigrants, refugees and certain classes of visitors who are medically unfit for admission to Canada. It ensures that those admitted to Canada who are in need of medical attention have access to emergency health services. Also, in association with Health Canada (Occupational and Environmental Health Services), it ensures that federal employees and dependents are medically fit for posting abroad and helps them to remain healthy while serving abroad.

International Migration and Coordination is responsible for the development of policy options and federal government positions on a broad range of migration and immigration issues; develops or contributes to the development of immigrant, refugee and visitor programs and procedures for implementation by posts abroad; provides guidance on appeals and litigation issues affecting overseas processing and the allocation and monitoring of refugee targets assigned to posts abroad on a wide range of social affair issues.

Planning and Resource Management is responsible for the planning and allocation of resources to ensure that global immigration is consistent with levels established by Cabinet; the provision of direction for the implementation of Computer Assisted Immigration Processing Systems (CAIPS) at posts abroad; provision of overall quality of service and management strategies and objectives for immigration programs; the planning and implementation of comprehensive operational and strategic policies for the International Service activity; and the conduct of management evaluations and reviews and liaison with the departmental Internal Audit Bureau. The branch is responsible for the management of financial and human resources related to the International Operations including resources in DFAIT that support immigration programs.

■ Ministerial and Executive Services

The directorate consists of Briefing, Cabinet and Ministerial Inquiry and Correspondence Services. It is responsible for support and coordination services to the Minister's, Deputy Minister's and Associate Deputy Minister's offices.

■ National Service Sector

The National Service Sector is responsible for managing and monitoring the operational activities of the Immigration Program, providing direction to branches and offices where necessary, in an effort to meet established objectives. The National Service Sector includes: Citizenship Registration and Promotion Branch, Case Management Branch, Settlement Branch, Immigrant and Visitor Program Branch, Enforcement Branch, Business Immigration Branch, Business Immigration Branch and Regional Organization.

The Citizenship Registration and Promotion Branch is responsible for the administration of the Citizenship Act and Regulations. It also provides a national service for the granting of Canadian citizenship and the issuing of certificates of proof of citizenship; a service for record searches, the re-registration of births abroad, the retention, resumption and renunciation of citizenship; provides self instructional materials to help citizenship applicants acquire the knowledge of Canada. It also promotes public awareness and understanding of Canadian citizenship and its privileges and responsibilities through the development of promotional programs and materials. The organizational structure of the Branch includes a headquarters located partly in Hull, Quebec (executive direction, advisory services and quality control) and partly in Sydney, Nova Scotia (processing and maintenance of more than 5.5 million records). There is also a total of 32 Citizenship courts and one card centre located in cities across the country which are managed by regional Directors.

The Case Management Branch directs the development of strategies and procedures for the efficient management and coordination of cases, including the resolution of cases which have security, criminal and potentially serious public policy dimensions and which require a representation to the Minister's personal attention or for which special exemption is sought from the provisions of the Immigration Act and Regulations.

The Settlement Branch is accountable for the development, management and monitoring of programs to support the uniform and effective management and delivery of immigrant and refugee settlement programs.

The Immigrant and Visitor Program Branch directs the development of procedures, directives and guidelines for the admission and control of immigrants and visitors to Canada, provides functional direction and operational advice to Citizenship and Immigration Canada staff involved in the implementation of visitor and immigrant programs, and monitors overall program efficiency.

The Enforcement Branch directs the development of strategies, procedures and guidelines to support the implementation of the enforcement component of the Immigration Program and to monitor enforcement operations to ensure consistency.

The Business Immigration Branch directs the development of policies, strategies, guidelines and procedures to encourage and facilitate the immigration of experienced business persons from abroad. It has program delivery responsibility for the Immigrant Investor Program, including the review and monitoring of Investor businesses and funds.

The National Service Sector is responsible for delivering the Citizenship and Immigration programs in Canada through a network of local offices and five Regional Offices. Local activities are directed by the Regional Offices. (See additional information at the end of this chapter for addresses.)

■ Planning, Review and Renewal Sector

The Planning, Review and Renewal Branch supports the Deputy Minister's leadership role for anticipating and providing strategic advice to the Minister on the need for legislative, program and organizational changes, and by establishing and reviewing accountability frameworks for the Deputy's responsibilities to the Minister, to Cabinet and central agencies, and to Parliament. The branch also provides Secretariat services to the Departmental Executive Committee.

■ Policy Sector

The Policy Branch develops the policy agenda for Citizenship and Immigration Canada; assesses the domestic and international environments, anticipates emerging issues and offers timely policy advice and leadership; develops policy proposals with respect to major issues and legal and institutional frameworks domestically and internationally; provides the Minister with high quality, timely, policy advice; and supports the departmental executive team in the establishment of departmental policy agenda.

The Policy and Program Development Branch develops all policies, programs and regulations related to the selection, admission and control of permanent and temporary entrants and the settlement of newly arrived immigrants and refugees; and directs the management of federal-provincial relations with regard to the Immigration Program, including the negotiation of federal-provincial immigration agreements.

The International Refugee and Migration Policy Branch directs and guides the development and promulgation of effective policies, programs and regulations to deal fairly with refugees, humanitarian immigrants and in-Canada refugee claimants.

The Strategic Research, Analysis and Information Branch conducts research and analyses of policies and programs and supports the Immigration Program's strategic direction through planning and advice on the implementation of long-term immigration policies and programs.

■ Public Affairs Branch

The Public Affairs Branch is responsible for planning, coordinating, implementing and evaluating departmental activities in the areas of communications strategic planning, environmental analysis, issues management, media relations, publishing, public information, promotion and advertising. This includes informing the public, in both languages, about departmental policies, programs and services as well as major new initiatives. The Branch advises the Minister and senior departmental officials on all aspects of public affairs activities and is also responsible for ensuring that the department adheres to government guidelines for the provisions of communication services.

Access to Information and Privacy

Description: Policy and guidelines on Access and Privacy; statistical and other non-personal information provided by requesters in their access requests. Topics: Policies and procedures for each component of the legislation; background on legal interpretations of access rights; statistical data on requests and complaints; documents concerning jurisprudence and records of policy decisions made by the Information and Privacy Commissioners; appeals and decisions; CIC policies, procedures and measures encouraging access generally; administrative costs of public rights management.

Storage Medium: Paper and magnetic media. Program Record Number: CIC SEC 040

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

Description: Information on systems used for gathering or amending statistics and other types of information necessary for the operational support of the immigration function and programs. The Immigration Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The following sub-systems support the various immigration programs and services.

These sub-systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances. All sub-systems (except the Settlement Management Information System) are linked to each other, either by a full computer connection (interface), or by information enabling a physical check of the systems. Therefore, actions in one sub-system can and do effect the smooth running of others. Approximately 25 separate immigration forms, with a total volume of 1,000,000 documents, are processed through these sub-systems each year. (1) Immigration Data System Overseas (IDSO) (EDP-1); Immigration Data System Canada (IDSC) (EDP-2); IDSO and IDSC maintain a record of all applications for permanent resident status either at an overseas office or from within Canada. The systems produce information in support of the recruitment and selection function. The data are case-oriented and can only be accessed by providing the case serial number recorded on the landing record. Files, including microfilm records, date back to 1975. Records are kept for 15 years. (EIC PPU 225) (2) Landed Immigrant Data System (EDP-3): The Landed Immigrant Data System retains a permanent record of the granting of permanent residence to individuals. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada and abroad to verify an individual's status in Canada as well as legal proof of residence for citizenship, Old Age Security, Family allowance, welfare, etc. In addition, information from the system is the sole source for all Commission reports on permanent residents. (EIC PPU 230) (3) Visitor Data System (EDP-4): The Visitor Data System retains a permanent record of all persons who have been granted permission to enter or remain in Canada for a temporary period either as a visitor, student, temporary worker or permit holder. Its main purpose is to create an official name index which is used by immigration officers in Canada to verify an individual's status in Canada. In addition, information from this system is the sole source for all Commission reports on visitors and Minister's permit holders. Data to produce the annual report to Parliament on Minister's permits are retained in this system. (EIC PPU 285; 290;295;300) (4) Enforcement Information Index (EII)(EDP-5): See EIC PPU 265 for details.) (5) Enforcement Data System (EDS) (EDP-6): (See EIC PPU 270 for details.) (6) Field Operational Support System (FOSS) (EDP-7): FOSS is designed to provide relevant information in order to allow status checks by field offices via computer terminal. It is the basic support of the inland and port of entry function. The feeder systems are: Enforcement Information Index (EII); Enforcement Data System (EDS), the Landed Immigrant Data System, and Visitor Data System (VIDS). FOSS output is available through an on-line terminal system in Canada. (7) Settlement Management Information System (SMIS): It is used throughout Settlement as the basic tool for management of programs and services. Provides Settlement information on the contracted non-governmental organizations for monitoring the effectiveness of Settlement services as well as a record of adjustment assistance granted to newcomers in need.

The information is used in the administration of financial assistance loans. Settlement programs are: Immigrant Settlement and Adaptation Program (ISAP)(PPU 250), Host Adjustment Assistance Program (AAP)(PPU 226), Transportation Assistance and Admissibility Loans Program (TAALP)(PPU 305) and Language Instruction for Newcomers to Canada (LINC). A set of EDS (EIC PPU 270) and EII (EIC PPU 265) cases produced on microfiche is distributed to posts (embassies and consulates) abroad. (8)The Computer-Assisted Immigration Processing System (CAIPS) is an automated processing system which has replaced the processing of paper files in some visa offices abroad. Information is copied from the application forms submitted by applicants for immigrant and visitor visas, returning resident permits and student and employment authorizations. Information taken from documents submitted in support of these applications can also be copied into CAIPS. The information is used in the processing of the applications. Data from applications for student and employment authorizations are downloaded to FOSS and are available to officers at the port of entry. Data are normally retained on the CAIPS system at the mission which dealt with an application for a period of two years from the date of the last administrative action, and basic file data, such as the name of the applicant and the kind of visa applied for, can be retained indefinitely. The visa officer has the option of retaining the complete file for a longer period. (9)The STAIRS (Stand-Alone Immigration Reporting System) is designed to capture immigration and visitor information from on-CAIPS immigration missions overseas in a timely, accurate and automated manner, to produce operational reporting functionality to the mission, and to transmit this operational data to HQ for further processing in IDSO and ISIS. there are at present thirty-two STAIRS missions overseas. STAIRS enables the users to; Search by applicant and/or dependent in an automated case index; Print non-immigrant visas; Track by case status; Produce MOR (Monthly Operational Report), Key Indicators, and Operational Reports such as Pending (Bring Forward) and Cases Overdue, Wordperfect mail, merge and export capabilities to other software; Allows automatic conversion of full database to CAIPS at the time of CAIPS implementation. Topics: Immigration systems generally; standard statistical coding for completing forms; information-gathering systems (employment clearance, occupation, transportation tables, native language); data systems (immigrants processed abroad and in Canada, permanent residents, monthly program reports, special information retrieval procedures, foreign nationals visiting Canada). Storage Medium: Microfilm, magnetic tape or disk. Program Record Number: CIC IMM 110

Emergency Preparedness

Description: Information on legislation, policies, correspondence and contingency plans relating to local, regional, national or international emergency preparedness and response that affects CIC operations and its public role. Topics: Policy, legislation, publications and manuals concerning emergency preparedness and response and the administration of emergency preparedness within organizations; committee reports, briefs, submissions and plans of action on international or interdepartmental liaison and response measures; regional contingency plans in the event of disasters; references for other departments' emergency preparedness and response plans, as well as those of their committees and agencies; NATO liaison and wartime planning; specific response plans for localized disasters; training courses and civil and military exercises. Storage Medium: Paper Program Record Number: CIC FIN 050

Evaluation of Immigration Programs

Description: Information on the efficiency and effectiveness of the Immigration Program. Topics: Studies and projects on the assessment of the overall impact of the Immigration Program including an evaluation of refugee programs; examination of visa officer and port-of-entry officer decision-making processes; evaluation of the business immigration program and its impact on the Canadian economy; evaluation of the effectiveness of Primary Inspection Line (PIL); information on immigration recruitment and selection activities and subsequent labour market performance by class. Storage Medium: Paper and magnetic tapes. Program Record Number: EIC SPP 665

Human Rights

Description: Information on policies, guidelines, complaints and other human rights matters. Topics: Policies and procedures relating to implementation of legislation; reports on the human rights field; background information relating to complaint activities. Storage Medium: Paper and magnetic media. Program Record Number: CIC SEC 045

Management Data

Description: Computerized information systems of a financial, personnel, administrative and operational performance measurement nature. Topics: Correspondence; status reports; minutes of meetings. Information held in EDP systems is organized under the following titles: Immigration Program: (Accounts Receivable) – provides for the accounting, control and billing of loans granted to immigrants; Financial Information System (FIS) – financial position of commitments, advances, overall non-salary items within CIC; year-to-date financial, person-month, performance measurement information; employee information that allows production of certain personnel reports and reports for management and central agencies. Regional Personnel Services System (RPSS) – contains details of organization, positions, salaries and personnel. Storage Medium: Magnetic tapes and paper. Program Record Number: CIC SYS 555

Security

Description: Information on policies, correspondence and protective procedures relating to departmental security, its implementation and administration; information on cooperation with the RCMP, CSIS, CSE

Copyright Board Canada

Chapter 35

General Information

Background

The Copyright Board was created by a series of amendments to the Copyright Act which were proclaimed on February 1, 1989. It also has attributions under the Free Trade Agreement Implementation Act. It replaced the Copyright Appeal Board which had been responsible since 1935 for approving annual tariffs respecting the public performance of music. The Copyright Board is designated as a department in accordance with and for the purposes of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The Copyright Board is an independent administrative tribunal which has four principal attributions:

- approving tariffs for the retransmission of distant radio and television signals;
- approving tariffs for the performance or the communication by telecommunication of musical or dramatico-musical works;
- arbitrating disputes on copyright fees between licensing bodies representing copyright owners and users; and
- in cases where the copyright owner is unlocatable, approving non-exclusive licences for use of published works protected by copyright.

The Board reports annually to Parliament through the Minister of Industry.

Legislation

- Copyright Act, R.S.C. 1985, c. C-42
- Act to amend the Copyright Act, S.C. 1988, c. 15
- Act to implement the Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States of America, S.C. 1988, c. 65

Organization

The Board consists of a chairman, a vice-chairman and a maximum of three other members, all appointed by the Governor in Council. The Chairman, who must be a judge of a superior, county or district court, directs the work of the Board and apportions its work among the members of the Board. The Vice-Chairman, who is the Chief Executive Officer of the Board, supervises and directs the work of the Board's staff. The senior staff of the Board consists of the General Counsel and the Secretary to the Board.

Correctional Investigator Canada

Chapter 36

General Information

Background

The Office of the Correctional Investigator was established by Part II of the Inquiries Act. The office investigates complaints from inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act and reports upon problems of inmates that fall within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada and meet the following conditions:

- (1) The subject matter of the complaint concerns an incident occurring within twelve months of the lodging of the complaint;
- (2) The complainant has taken, in the opinion of the Commissioner, all reasonable steps to exhaust legal or administrative remedies;
- (3) The subject matter of the complaint does not involve the preparation of material for consideration by the National Parole Board.

The Commissioner need not investigate if the subject matter of a complaint has previously been investigated, or in the opinion of the Commissioner, a person complaining has no valid interest in the matter.

Responsibilities

The Correctional Investigator investigates and reports on the problems of inmates that come within the responsibility of the Solicitor General of Canada (other than those problems raised on complaint in certain defined circumstances). Investigations are undertaken at the request of the Solicitor General, on the Investigator's own initiative, or upon complaint from or on behalf of inmates as defined in the Penitentiary Act.

Legislation

- Parole Act and Regulations
- Penitentiary Act
- Penitentiary Service Regulations
- Prison and Reformatory Act

Organization

The Office of the Correctional Investigator comprises three secretarial/administrative positions, a director of investigations and five investigators.

Correctional Service of Canada

Chapter 37

General Information

Background

In 1977, the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) was formed through the amalgamation of the Canadian Penitentiary Service and the National Parole Service.

Responsibilities

Mission: The Correctional Service of Canada, as part of the criminal justice system, contributes to the protection of society by actively encouraging offenders to become law-abiding citizens, while exercising reasonable, safe, secure and humane control. The CSC provides programs for offenders from pre-admission until the expiration of their sentence. In order to carry out its responsibilities, the Correctional Service creates files to hold information on prisons, organizations and occurrences that affect or may affect it in the carrying out of its mandate. Information must be collected from and shared with numerous sources, such as the community at large, with special consideration for victims of crime, as is explained in the section "General Information on Data Matching", at the end of this chapter.

Legislation

- Corrections and Conditional Release Act, SC 1992, c. C-20
- Criminal Code RSC, 1985, c. C-46
- Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1976
- Criminal Records Act RSC, 1985, c. C-47
- Prison and Reformatory Act RSC, 1985, c. P-20
- Young Offenders Act RSC, 1985, c. R-1

Organization

Audit and Investigations Sector

This sector is responsible to the Commissioner for the convening of Investigations at the National level as well as for the conduct of operational audits. This includes the development of policy and standards as well as the training of investigators for Investigations convened at the National, Regional and Operational Unit levels. The Sector is also responsible for the implementation of The Security Policy of The Government of Canada within the Correctional Service of Canada.

Commissioner Office

This Commissioner, under the direction of the Solicitor General, manages and guides the policies and programs of the Correctional Service of Canada. Included in this office is a Senior Deputy Commissioner who supports the Commissioner in the management and direction of the Service.

Communications and Corporate Development Sector

This sector is responsible for the development and formulation of a comprehensive corporate policy framework, strategic planning and international development, and for research, program evaluation, and communications.

■ Communications Branch

The Communications Program is implemented by all managers and all employees of the Service. Communications support is provided nationally by the National Headquarters Communications Division and by five Regional Communications branches. Reporting to the Assistant Commissioner, Communications and Corporate Development, the Communications Branch is responsible for preparing strategic communications plans to support corporate objectives, and preparing and carrying out operational plans that support the strategic plan. The Branch has three separate components that work to carry out the communications function. Media Affairs deals with the media on a daily basis responding to inquiries and providing background data to media on government announcements and initiatives. Creative Services is responsible for all publications, exhibits and periodicals such as "Let's Talk" and "Forum". It is also responsible for the management of the Public Inquiries Program and ensures the provision of administrative functions to the whole of Communications Branch. The Public Participation and Consultation component educates the general public and creates links to the community by working with victims groups, provincial and municipal officials and, other community based organizations.

■ Policy Planning and International Development Branch

Responsible for developing a corporate policy framework, reviewing all policy proposals and for liaison on correctional policy issues with the agencies of the Ministry of the Solicitor General and with other external groups involved in the criminal justice system. Also responsible for strategic planning to assist the Service to identify and respond to emerging issues, opportunities and trends in its internal and external environment and to assess the Service's performance in key areas to determine opportunities for improvement. In addition, develops a framework for international development and cooperation between CSC and other correctional jurisdictions.

■ Program Evaluation and Information Analysis Branch

Responsible for the provision of program evaluation and information review and analysis within guidelines established by the Central agencies and as directed by the Commissioner. The branch provides the Commissioner and the Executive Committee (EXCOM) with advice and information to improve program effectiveness and enhance the Service's ability to meet its Mission. Evaluation studies are conducted which are diverse in scope and duration ranging from the mandate and processes of a major activity or program to a specific program support activity. The branch is also responsible for analyzing information to ensure the Solicitor General, the Commissioner, and EXCOM are aware of issues and trends relative to the management and operation of the correctional program and its mandate.

■ Research and Statistics Branch

Responsible for coordinating and executing policy and program-related research activities for the Correctional Service of Canada. The Division advises on the development of regional research plans and develops ongoing and active relationships with corrections related agencies and academic research centres. As well, the Division disseminates research findings and offender statistics through reports, briefs and the production and distributions of a quarterly research magazine.

Corporate Management Sector

The Sector provides finance and administrative services that are common to all government departments.

■ Finance Branch

Responsible for the financial administration of the Correctional Service of Canada and its systems of financial planning, control, reporting and evaluating. The Senior Full-Time Financial Officer provides functional direction to Responsibility Centre Managers and their financial staff at Headquarters and in the five Regional offices and through them, to each institution and parole office.

■ Information Technology Branch

Responsible for the functional direction and control of Information Management Planning, policy systems and administration, data and computer operations, applications development and maintenance, EDP Security and Information Holdings and Technology Planning.

■ Operational Planning and Resource Analysis Division

Responsible for developing, implementing and coordinating the Correctional Service of Canada's corporate planning and accountability systems. This division is also responsible for coordinating the development of the Corporate Operational Plan, the Multi-Year Operational Plan, the Long Range Accommodation Plan and the Expenditure Plan. As a component of the accountability framework, Operational Planning is also responsible for developing, implementing and maintaining an executive information system.

■ Technical Services Branch

This branch is accountable for proposing and establishing program priorities, performance standards, budgetary levels, funding strategies and operational policies for the technical services function, which directly affects all staff and inmates of the Correctional Service of Canada and which covers the functions of facilities planning, construction and maintenance, property leasing fire safety, non-EDP electronics systems and devises development, installation, maintenance, material management, administration and food services.

Correctional Programs and Operations Sector

■ Case Management and Community Corrections Division

Responsible for policy development, planning, operational monitoring and evaluation of the Case Management, Sentence Management, Community Facilities and International Transfers.

■ Chaplaincy Division

Responsible for policy development, monitoring and evaluation of chaplaincy services.

■ CORCAN Special Operating Agency

Responsible for the policy development, monitoring and evaluation of operations, corporate development, engineering, marketing and sales of products manufactured by offenders.

■ Correctional Programs Division

Responsible for the policy development and planning of Education, Personal Development, Substance Abuse, Family Violence and Federal-Provincial Relations.

■ Health Care Services Division

Responsible for developing policies, program objectives and standards for the provision of medical, psychiatric, psychological, dental, surgical and nursing care to offenders.

■ Institutional Operations Division

Responsible for policy development, planning, operational monitoring and evaluation of the Unit Management, Correctional Operations and Internal Security.

■ Planning and Information Division

Responsible for the coordination of planning and resource allocation, including financial administration and systems development, as they relate to the sector, as well as management information.

Executive Services Sector

This sector is responsible for daily liaison with the office of the Solicitor General; the preparation of executive correspondence for the Commissioner and Solicitor General; the development of policies and the final level of the inmate grievance system; responses to the Correctional Investigator and the Canadian Human Rights Commission; and administers the Privacy Act and the Access to Information Act.

■ Access to Information and Privacy Division

Responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act for the CSC. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to CSC officials on matters which concern the legislation.

■ Correspondence and Ministerial Liaison Division

Responsible for coordinating, preparing and vetting all matters relating to the preparation of executive correspondence to the Commissioner, Minister's Office, other Members of Parliament, Senators, and assemblies.

■ Inmate Affairs Branch

Responsible for providing advice to senior management on matters pertaining to the treatment of inmates and overall Inmate affairs. This branch also represents the Correctional Service of Canada in its dealings with the Correctional Investigator and with the inmate Human Rights Commissioner complaints. The division is also involved in the coordination of the Independent Chairperson.

■ Native and Female Offenders Division

Responsible for the policy development, monitoring and evaluation of programs for native and female offenders.

Legal Services Sector

This sector provides a variety of in-house legal services to the Commissioner and staff of the Correctional Service of Canada in connection with matters relating to the operation of the Service.

Personnel and Training Sector

The Personnel and Training Sector is responsible for the provision of services in the personnel and staff training and development areas that are common to all government departments. It comprises six divisions which have the following responsibilities:

Case Management

Description: Since 1991, as a result of the shift of case preparation from the community to the institutions, the CSC gradually introduced a major change to its case management records system. The existing three-bank case management records system, CSC PPU 035 Case Management – Institution "A", CSC PPU 040 Case Management – Institution "B", CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community was phased out; as a result of the conversion the CSC has one, single ACTIVE case management bank called "CSC PPU 042 Case Management". (a) ALL the records filed before the conversion on the CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community remain active and are transferred to the new "CSC PPU 042 Case Management", (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community disappears; (c) ALL case management records, be they generated from then on in the institution or in the community, are filed on the one, single case management bank CSC PPU 042 Case Management. Therefore, all the CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records that were held on the former CSC PPU 030 Case Management -Community are now all on the CSC PPU 042 Case Management. In order to access a CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community the requestor merely has to request the CSC PPU 042 Case Management and he will thus get all his former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community records. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion of the case management records system and who DID NOT return under CSC jurisdiction: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community remains inactive. This bank remains accessible under the Privacy Act. Status of CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community for offenders who were under CSC jurisdiction BEFORE the conversion but who came back under CSC jurisdiction AFTER the conversion of the case management records system: The CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community is: (a) retrieved from Archives, (b) the name CSC PPU 030 Case Management Community is deleted, (c) the content of this former CSC PPU 030 Case Management – Community is reactivated and the file is renamed CSC PPU 042 Case Management. Classes of Personal Information

Administrative Inquiries

This group is a class of records on incidents involving offenders, staff or members of the public regarding injury sustained while on institutional property, damage or loss of personal property or departmental property and other unusual incidents such as fires which might result in a claim against the Crown. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and the approximate date the inquiries was held. This class of records is used to process claims for and against the Crown, to establish the nature and length of disabilities and to determine the need for establishing or revising internal operating procedures. Records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Appreciation, Complaints, Inquiries

This group is a class of records generated by members of the public, or staff such as: letters of appreciation, complaints and general inquiries. The data contained in this class of records is only used for an administrative purpose in cases where a complaint or inquiry is acted upon. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the letter of appreciation, complaint or inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Complaints and Criticisms

This group is a class of records on complaints or criticisms received from staff regarding conditions of employment, including those from the Human Rights Commission and the Anti-discrimination Branch of the Public Service Commission. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date the complaint or criticism was lodged. This class of records is used to record information dealing with complaints or criticisms involving staff and to make specific decisions to resolve the matter. Records are retained for three years.

Correctional Investigator Inquiries Records

This group is a class of records on inquiries initiated by the Correctional Investigator. This class of records is used to analyze and make action recommendations resulting from these inquiries conducted by the Correctional Investigator. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with the correctional investigator.

Disciplinary Court Hearings

This group is a class of records on disciplinary court hearings. For each session of disciplinary court, audio recordings are made which contain the transcripts of the hearings on offenders who have been charged while incarcerated in an institution. This class of records is used to make decisions on the discipline of offenders resulting from the disciplinary court and during the grievances process. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the name of the institution in which they were charged and the date of the disciplinary hearing. It should be noted, however, that records may be obtained by the offender by sending a written request directly to the warden of the institution where the disciplinary hearing occurred. These records are retained for two years following the suspension of all actions relating to the disciplinary hearing. No data matching occurs.

Information Services – Inquiries

This group is a class of records on miscellaneous inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on services performed by the Department. This class of records is used to respond to requests to interview employees and offenders from external sources such as the media and provincial organizations. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the approximate date that the inquiry was initiated. These records are retained for two years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Institutional Security Threats

This group is a class of records on national and international groups, organizations and criminals. This class of records is used to provide background information on threats to institutional security and to provide reports on all security investigations to aid in preventing recurrences. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the location and approximate date of the threat or investigation. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Ministerial Inquiries

This group is a class of records on inquiries received from the public, outside organizations and other government departments on parliamentary matters, and material agendas and decisions of Cabinet. This class of records is used to prepare ministerial correspondence resulting from these inquiries. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the subject matter, and approximate date the inquiry was initiated. Records are retained for five years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada.

Research/Public Opinion Research

This is a class of records generated by research subjects, offenders or staff who participate in research, including public opinion research, on a vast spectrum of topics, conducted in the Correctional Service of Canada. Retrievable records consist of data gathering instruments such as, but not exclusively, questionnaires containing personal information that reveals the identification of the research subject. Data contained in this class of records are not used for administrative purposes. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the title of the research project in which they participated, the location and date of the research, and any other data that may help to identify and locate the personal information they are seeking. No data matching occurs.

Security Inquiries

This group is a class of records on serious security incidents. For each incident, the report includes the inquiry terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records also encompasses police reports and intelligence assessments and is used to provide documentation to prevent recurrences of security incidents. Individuals seeking access to these records must provide the type of incident, the location and approximate date of the incident. These records are retained for ten years. Historical records are transferred to the National Archives of Canada. Data matching occurs with NPB, law enforcement agencies and provincial authorities.

Special Investigations

This group is a class of records on special investigations performed by the Audit and Investigations Sector on a wide variety of operational matters. The reports of the investigations include the terms of reference, facts gathered and recommendations. This class of records is used to resolve incidents involving offenders or employees and to correct, where required, methods of operation and internal procedures. General Information on Data Matching Data Matching – Data Sharing Within the mandate of the Correctional Service of Canada (CSC) is the requirement to share data with other areas of the Criminal Justice Community, to ensure that offenders are appropriately managed in a safe, secure and humane environment, and to ensure the safety of the offender, other inmates, staff and the community at large. Also, in order to accomplish its mandate the Service needs the information provided by other agencies and therefore a match is conducted. Data Matching with Law Enforcement Agencies (Municipal, provincial, international, federal police forces or another law enforcement body). Following an offender's sentence to a federal institution, the CSC requests a Criminal record (history information from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP)). This information is used to assess the impact of the offender's criminal behaviour and to alert staff who will deal with the offender. CSC also requests a police report from the arresting and/or investigating law enforcement body in order to have a full understanding of the events surrounding the offence. Following a sentence to a federal institution in the case of foreign nationals, the CSC must also request from the Inland Service (Immigration) that they provide it with information that is relevant to the administration of the offender's sentence and to the case management process. When an offender is released to the community, there is a requirement to notify the RCMP and/or the local police force, and, when necessary, the Inland Service (Immigration), of the offender's address and the terms and conditions of the release. If an offender violates conditions of release, or is considered to be a risk, CSC will issue a warrant for the apprehension of the offender. The warrant is transmitted to the local police and entered into the Canadian Police Information Centre (CPIC) system, and also the police are requested to locate and apprehend the offender. Data Matching with the National Parole Board CSC data is matched with the National Parole Board (NPB). With the implementation of the OMS (Offender Management System) there will be one integrated system to meet the demand of both agencies. While it is CSC's responsibility to manage the offenders for the duration of their sentence, it is the NPB's responsibility to assess the offender's progress during incarceration, their risk to society, and their potential for successful reintegration into the community as law-abiding citizens. CSC information is shared with NPB pertaining to all aspects related to the offender prior to and during incarceration. Once NPB has assessed the information, and through a hearing process, makes their decision, CSC is notified. If the Board makes a decision to conditionally release an offender, it is CSC staff who are responsible for the supervision and control of the offender in the community and keeping NPB informed of the offenders' progresses. Data Matching with Provincial Authorities An offender who is sentenced to a period of incarceration of two years or more, will serve this sentence under the jurisdiction of CSC. Offenders sentenced to less than two years will serve their sentence under a provincial jurisdiction. However, the Service is doing the case preparation and supervision for some provinces who do not have a Parole Board. Often an offender will have a history of provincial incarceration, further, prior to sentencing the offender could be held in a provincial institution or a remand centre. Information collected during any period of incarceration is deemed significant and sometimes crucial to the successful management of that offender. It is for these reasons that information is routinely shared and matched between CSC and provincial authorities which include also the Boards of Education and Hospitals. Information is also requested from the sentencing judge and could also be requested from the Crown Attorney, from Provincial Parole and Probation Services. This information is used by CSC in the management of the offender and decision-making process. Method of Data Matching/Sharing In the preceding descriptions of CSC data matching/sharing, every effort is taken to ensure that the data matched/shared concerns the same individual. In order to validate that the different agencies are dealing with the same individuals, a number of personal identifiers are matched. These included Name, Sex, Date of Birth, Finger Print Series Number (FPS) and in some cases physical features. CSC may conduct or assist others in conducting ad hoc data matching for the purpose of the enforcement of any law (i.e. Criminal Code).

Organization

■ Access to Information and Privacy Division

This division is responsible for administering the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act for the Department. It processes requests submitted under the legislation, handles complaints lodged with the Information and Privacy Commissioners and responds to informal enquiries. The Division also provides advice and guidance to departmental officials on matters which concern the legislation.

■ Co-managed with the Treasury Board Secretariat

Crown Corporations and Agencies and Privatization

Crown Corporations Directorate:

Provides a focal point for the government's relations with Crown corporations by advising on the financial requirements and on the development of policy and legislation for Crown corporations and their subsidiaries.

Privatization:

Plays a central role in the privatization of federal Crown corporations, other corporate holdings and government services that no longer require government ownership or direct delivery to fulfill a public policy role. The process itself is complex, requiring consideration of a broad spectrum of public policy, financial and employee concerns to ensure the longer term viability of the entity/service in the private sector and fair treatment of the employees. The rigorous five stage process followed consists of initial analysis, in-depth review, legislation where required, preparation for sale, an implementation of the sale. Following these steps ensures full consideration of all factors and allows for decisions to be taken at appropriate intervals.

■ Consultations and Communications Branch

This branch is responsible for maintaining a comprehensive communications and consultations program for the Department.

Communications Policy and Strategy Division:

Role is to research and write major ministerial speeches, prepare departmental communications plans and strategies for economic initiatives, and monitor and analyze media coverage of economic affairs.

Consultations Division:

Responsible for planning and managing consultations with the private sector as a permanent feature of the economic policy development process.

Information Services and Media Relations Division:

Prepares announcements and departmental publications. The Division also carries out media and public relations programs.

Visits, Conferences and Protocol:

Provides coordinating expertise and service for the Department in the areas of official conferences and meetings.

■ Corporate Services Branch

The role of this branch is to assist the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Secretary of the Treasury Board in the management of the internal administration of their organizations and to provide financial, personnel, administrative and management advice to branches and divisions. The Branch consists of four divisions: Administrative Services; Informatics and Financial Services; Human Resources; Security Services.

■ Economic Development Policy Branch

The major role of this branch is to develop policies and programs for Canada's natural resources and other sectors such as industry, regional economic development, the environment and transportation.

Operations Division:

Liaises with other central agencies, government departments and branches of Finance Canada to develop policy analyses and proposals on microeconomic policy coordination, pressures management and budget preparation. Examines and evaluates proposals made by other government departments and develops proposals on energy and mineral policy projects.

Policy Division:

Provides advice on program and policy formulation of other departments in the areas of industrial and service policy, business framework, regional development, transportation, communications, fisheries, agriculture and environment.

■ Federal-Provincial Relations and Social Policy Branch

This branch is responsible for providing policy advice on federal-provincial fiscal arrangements and social policy programs.

Federal-Provincial Relations Division:

This division is responsible for the federal governments's major financial transfers to provinces. It also provides advice on all matters pertaining to the federal-provincial fiscal arrangements.

Social Policy Division:

Advises on the development of the federal government's social policies as well as on specific proposals in the major functional areas of labour market, income security and socio-economic programs.

■ Financial Sector Policy Branch

This branch provides policy analysis and advice with respect to the financial sector.

Financial Institutions Division:

Develops and analyses policies with respect to the legislative and regulatory framework applicable to Canada's financial institutions. Among its responsibilities, this Division leads work on issues related to regulatory policy issues which are relevant or require Ministerial approval. Other policy issues include clearing and settlement, payments systems, deposit insurance and policyholder protection.

Financial Markets Division:

Provides policy analysis and recommendations with respect to the management of the federal government's borrowing program, the public debt and debt issues in both domestic and foreign markets, borrowing policy relating to Crown corporations, loan guarantees, analysis and policy advice on matters respecting the exchange rate, international reserves and balance of payments, and trends and developments in Canada's financial markets.

Financial Sector Policy Division:

Develops and analyses policies applicable to Canada's financial institutions. Among its responsibilities, this Division leads work on federal-provincial issues as well as international relations and negotiations, business financing and consumer issues, and industry analyses.

■ Fiscal Policy and Economic Analysis Branch

This branch analyzes and appraises all factors affecting Canada's economic and financial situation and recommends measures to meet the requirements of appropriate fiscal policies. It also analyzes and forecasts the financial requirements of the government of Canada.

Economic Analysis and Forecasting Division:

This division has primary responsibility for monitoring and analyzing current Canadian economic conditions and the economic outlook and for the preparation of quarterly economic forecasts for the Canadian (national and provincial) and U.S. economies. It also prepares assessments of policy and other events on the Canadian economy. In addition, the division produces the quarterly publication entitled "Economy in brief".

Economic Studies and Policy Analysis Division:

Undertakes research in both macroeconomic and structural areas to assist in the development of policy initiatives.

Fiscal Policy Division:

This division has primary responsibility for advising on fiscal policy and analyzing the financial requirements of the Government of Canada and for monitoring and analyzing the developing fiscal positions of other levels of government. It also has primary responsibility for analysis and advice on the government's fiscal framework and co-ordinating the department's advice to the Minister on overall spending priorities. The division plays a key role in the budgetary process, and is responsible for the preparation of the Fiscal Monitor, as well as several budgetary papers. In addition, the division reviews the form and content of the Public Accounts and other statements for which the Minister has responsibility under the Financial Administration Act.

■ International Trade and Finance Branch

This branch has the responsibility for international trade, investment and economic and financial co-operation; the Canadian Customs Tariff and other legislation governing imports; the international monetary system, defence programs, international development assistance and export financing.

International Economic Analysis Division:

Department of Justice Canada

Chapter 40

General Information

Background

The Department of Justice was created by the Department of Justice Act, passed at the first session of Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, and assented to on May 22, 1868. This Act outlined the responsibilities of the Minister of Justice and the Attorney General of Canada and, with a few exceptions, these responsibilities have remained substantially unchanged.

Responsibilities

The work of the Department consists of litigation, provision of legal advice and opinions to the federal government of Canada on a very wide range of matters, and the drafting of legislation, contracts and other legal documents. The Department is also concerned with the legal aspects of developing government policy, and prepares recommendations or reviews recommendations, for reform of the law. To carry out these responsibilities, the Department uses federal Statutes and Regulations. In addition, contributions are made to provide financial assistance to organizations conducting studies and legal research and to other law-related programs. A limited number of grants is made in connection with legal education, and cost-sharing agreements are entered into with provincial and territorial governments in connection with young offenders, compensation of victims of violent crimes, legal aid in criminal cases for adults and young offenders, native court worker programs, and access to legal information. The Department also undertakes research in support of policy initiatives and other departmental responsibilities. The role of the Federal Department of Justice does not include the provision of legal services or advice to members of the public.

Organization

Deputy Minister's Office

The Office provides essential support services to the Deputy Minister. It ensures appropriate communication and liaison on policy and operational issues between the Deputy Minister and the Minister's Office, the Department and other government departments and agencies.

Communications and Consultation Branch

The Branch is responsible for managing and conducting all aspects of the Department's communications, both internal and external and for coordinating the Department's consultation process.

Civil Law and Legislative Services Sector

The Sector is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec and for real property and commercial law matters in Quebec. The Sector is also responsible for advising on the overall direction and management of all departmental interactions with the province of Quebec, for coordinating the participation of the Department in the Comité d'experts sur la coopération juridique et judiciaire pour la Francophonie and for evaluating the impact of the new Civil Code of Quebec on federal practices. Moreover, the Sector is responsible for the National Program for the Integration of Both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice and it includes the Legislation Branch.

■ Civil Code Section

The Section is responsible for the implementation of the program for applying the Civil Code of Quebec to federal government activities. The Section conducts research and gives consultations in Quebec civil law to support the departmental legal services, the litigation services and the departmental legislation and regulations drafting sections.

■ Civil Litigation and Real Property Law (Quebec) Section

The Section is responsible for litigation involving the federal government in the province of Quebec (except in districts within the jurisdiction of the Montreal Court of Appeal) and for real property law matters in Quebec.

■ Legislation Section

The Section prepares all government bills and motions to amend bills. It also examines all bills introduced by ministers in Parliament to ascertain their consistency with the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

■ Legislative Editing, Publishing and Data Base Management Branch

The Legislative Editing, Publishing and Database Management Branch comprises the Legislative Editing Office, Automation Services Unit and Database Maintenance Unit (formerly the Statute Revision Commission).

The Legislative Editing Office provides French and English editing services and paralegal support to the drafters of both the Legislation Section and the Privy Council Office Section (Justice) (PCO(J)). It drafts proclamations and commissions for review by legal officers of PCO(J). It reviews all government bills as they proceed through Parliament to ensure that each reprint of the bill accurately reflects amendments made to it by Parliamentary committees. It also maintains the only complete up-to-date indexed set of master copies of federal statutes and regulations, and has the additional responsibility of preparing and overseeing the printing of the 'Assented to' Acts, the Table of Public Statutes and Table of Acts and Responsible Ministers, the Table of Private Acts, Part III of the Canada Gazette and the annual volumes of the Statutes of Canada.

In all of the government of Canada, the Legislative Editing Office is the only office responsible for all official publishing of Acts of Parliament following Royal Assent, as well as for related reference Tables. This publishing is essential to the administration of justice in Canada.

The Automation Services Unit is the centre of all photocomposition coding and publishing activities for draft government bills prepared by the Legislation Section, and for the publications of the Legislative Editing Office and the Database Management Unit. The Unit is also responsible for maintaining the Legislation Composition and Publication System network and the Interleaf network, and supporting the users thereof. It also maintains the database for Statutes and Regulations.

The Database Management Unit maintains the database of consolidated federal Acts and Regulations, prepares the looseleaf edition of the Statutes of Canada and office consolidations. It is also responsible for publishing these documents.

■ Montreal Regional Office

The Montreal Regional Office provides legal services to federal departments and agencies located in Quebec, involved in civil litigation within the jurisdiction of the Montreal Court of Appeal. It represents the Department of National Revenue in taxation cases and acts in criminal cases, involving federal statutes, prosecuted by the Attorney General of Canada in most regions of Quebec.

■ National Program for the Integration of Both Official Languages in the Administration of Justice (POLAJ)

The POLAJ, a joint program with the Department of the Secretary of State, facilitates access to legal services and to the courts in either official language. POLAJ promotes the publication of material that reflects the bilingual and bilingual nature of Canada, both in the country and abroad.

■ Privy Council Office Legal Section

The Section carries out the Department's responsibilities under the Statutory Instruments Act, which includes the examination of all proposed regulations to ensure that they are authorized by the enabling legislation, are consistent with the Charter of Rights and the Bill of Rights and are drafted in accordance with established standards.

Corporate Management, Policy and Programs Sector

The Sector provides administrative support services related to finance, human resources, accommodation, security, telecommunications, computer systems, information management and all other logistical elements common to government departments. The sector is also responsible for legal and other contracts, program evaluation and management reviews, internal audits, family law assistance systems, the Central Registry of Divorce Proceedings as well as corporate services, including the Office of Corporate Counsel, the Access to Information and Privacy Office and the Departmental Library. In addition, the Sector provides policy, planning and coordination capability within the Department. This includes coordinating our forward legal planning; coordinating the Department's substantive policy agenda in support of the Minister's priorities; providing central support services to the Minister and the Deputy Minister; providing federal-provincial-territorial relations service and liaison service; the provision of legal advice on conflict of interest under the Conflict of Interest and Post-Employment Code for the Public Service; management and undertaking a fundamental review of the cost-shared programs with the provinces and territories. The Sector is also responsible for research and development, as well as programs administered by the Department.

■ Corporate Management Policy, Systems and Services Directorate

The Directorate provides effective support services to departmental officials, managers and employees in support of program delivery and the achievement of program objectives in the areas of strategic resourcing, finance, administration, public programs and security. The Directorate is involved in the following main activities: providing resource management services (e.g., financial planning and strategic resourcing analysis and advice, operational planning, development of strategies, identification of required level of resources); developing, implementing and maintaining financial policies and systems and providing accounting services; providing administrative services (e.g., providing assistance and directives related to material, records and facilities management, contracting and forms design); managing public programs (e.g., providing services related to legal contracting, administering FOAEA, DRDP systems and the Contravention Project and providing assistance in these areas); and providing physical, personnel, awareness and informatics security advice and services and implementing corporate security programmes in these areas.

■ Corporate Policy and Planning Directorate

The Directorate consists of four divisions: the Law and Policy Division, the Federal-Provincial Relations and External Liaison Division, the Law Reform Division and the Corporate Planning Division. It was created to bring together a variety of activities requiring central coordination. The Directorate serves the Department by fostering a shared corporate direction, a forward-looking and adaptive culture, and effective partnerships within and outside the Department. It is responsible for corporate policies, policy planning and coordination, management of the law, federal-provincial relations, liaison with key national organizations, managing the Department's law reform program, and corporate planning. It also provides both substantive and secretariat support to senior intradepartmental and interdepartmental committees.

■ Executive and Departmental Services

The Directorate comprises seven units: the Briefings and Speeches Unit is responsible for the preparation of speeches and briefings, the coordination of information material and any other related liaison activities for the Minister; the Cabinet and Parliamentary Affairs Unit plans and organizes for the Minister the logistics concerning his participation in Cabinet and standing parliamentary committees; the Coordination unit gathers material for Question Period, briefing notes relating to judgments and Supreme Court decisions and prepares information for the Department concerning questions from the House of Commons; the Ministerial Correspondence Unit prepares replies to correspondence addressed to the Minister in consultation with various sectors; the Access to Information and Privacy (ATIP) Office responds to requests submitted to the Department pursuant to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act; the Library offers reference and information material on-site and through inter-library loans, thus giving a range of services required by lawyers and other employees of the Department; Special Projects and Conferences coordinates logistical arrangements for corporate events, for example, the annual meeting of the Management Committee and the Legal Trends Conference.

■ Programs Directorate

The Programs Directorate develops and administers programs aimed at supporting federal social justice policy objectives through the following three major program areas: Young Offenders, Legal Aid and Access to Justice (Native Courtworker, Public Legal Education). The programs allow for the provision of financial assistance to organizations and provincial and territorial governments to support the development, promotion and maintenance of basic standards in the justice system and to improve the delivery of justice services to the public. The financial assistance is provided through cost-sharing agreements with other governments, grants contributions and scholarships.

■ Research and Statistics Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for assisting departmental policy-makers and decision-makers by bringing a multi-disciplinary approach to the identification, tracking and analysis of current and emerging corporate and sectoral issues; the production and dissemination of quality research findings and statistical information and the development of innovative justice projects and programs.

Criminal and Social Policy Sector

The Sector plans, develops and implements government justice policies dealing with criminal and family law, aboriginal justice, crime prevention, gender equality and multiculturalism. Two special projects within the Sector are the Firearms Control Task Group and the Sentencing Project Team.

■ Aboriginal Justice Directorate

The Directorate is responsible for activities to address the criminal justice aspects of the federal Native Agenda, which includes policy consultation, enhancement of existing programs, cross cultural training, and funding for innovative community-based pilot projects that address alternative approaches to the administration of justice, research, and public legal education.

■ Criminal Law Policy Section

The Section identifies and analyzes emerging criminal justice issues, and develops and implements government policies dealing with criminal justice. The Section monitors the development of the criminal law, advises the Minister and senior officials and proposes amendments to the Criminal Code and related statutes, where necessary. The Section consults on an ongoing basis with provincial and territorial officials responsible for criminal justice and, as needed, with international and non-governmental organizations for the purpose of identifying emerging issues, sharing information and coordinating activities in areas of mutual interest.

■ Family, Children and Youth Section

The Section identifies and analyzes emerging legal and related issues relating to the family, children and youth, and develops policies and legislation to address them with respect to the criminal law, family law and related Charter issues. The Section monitors the development of the law, provides advice to the Minister and senior officials and proposes changes, where necessary, to the statutes for which the Minister is responsible in these areas.

■ Social Policy Section

The Section seeks to ensure that the administration of justice is consistent with national priorities and that the justice system is inclusive, fair, rational and efficient. It initiates, formulates and monitors policies, especially in the areas of gender equality and multiculturalism.

Legal Services Sector

The Sector provides a variety of in-house legal services to federal departments and agencies, as well as specialized legal advice on property, commercial, environmental, intellectual property and trade law matters and the development and coordination of departmental policy and activities in relation to alternative dispute resolution.

■ Commercial Law Division of the Department of Industry's Legal Services

The Commercial Law Division, which reports to the Assistant Deputy Minister (Business Law), integrates the work of the former legal services of the Department of Industry, Science and Technology with parts of those of the former Departments of Consumer and Corporate Affairs, and Communications and Investment Canada into one legal services unit in the Department of Industry. The new Legal Services Unit principally provides legal advice to Industry Canada and a number of small agencies of the government. It also has horizontal responsibility for ensuring the provision of consistent legal advice on commercial law matters to the government and acts as a source of both advice and assistance to other legal services units.

Intellectual Property Secretariat:

Located in the Legal Services Sector and reporting to the Assistant Deputy Minister (Business Law), the Secretariat ensures that there is a consistent, coordinated Justice management of intellectual property issues. The Secretariat is responsible for disseminating information on developments in intellectual property law, providing advice and expertise to all other legal service units and for assisting government departments in the strategic management and exploitation of their intellectual property resources, in conjunction with their respective legal service units.

■ Dispute Resolution Project

The Project is concerned with the use of Dispute Resolution mechanisms within the sphere of jurisdiction of the federal government. It studies and advises on the use of Dispute Resolution mechanisms by federal government departments.

■ Environmental Issues Secretariat

The Secretariat, comprised of a group of experts in the environmental area, ensures that the Department of Justice manages environmental law and policy issues in a coordinated and consistent fashion. The Secretariat identifies environment trends and issues and brings them to the attention of the Minister, Deputy Minister and Senior Assistant Deputy Minister responsible for this area. On an ongoing basis the Secretariat disseminates environment related information to Justice officers engaged in the practice of environmental law, liaises with other federal departments, law organizations and others in this area and maintains an infrastructure to ensure a timely departmental response to environmental issues and concerns.

■ Property Law Section

The Section has general responsibility for providing functional direction to all lawyers in property law matters, and for providing policy and legal advice to federal departments and agencies in matters of property law.

Litigation Sector

The Sector is responsible for all litigation for and against the Crown, except for civil law litigation in Quebec. The Sector is divided into three main branches, dealing with civil, criminal and tax litigation. Regional offices across the country are part of this Sector, except the Montreal Regional Office.

■ Civil Litigation (Common Law) Branch

The Branch represents the Attorney General of Canada in civil litigation which arises anywhere in Canada (except in Quebec), for or against the Crown in such matters as contracts, negligence, the Constitution and Human Rights.

Admiralty and Maritime Law Section:

The Section is responsible for admiralty litigation, maritime legislation, maritime commercial law, marine casualty investigations and marine international law, and provides specialized legal advice and expertise in these fields.

■ Criminal Law Branch

The Branch discharges, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada and the Minister of Justice, the obligations, duties and responsibilities imposed on the Minister by legislation, Treaty and under the common law.

Crimes Against Humanity and War Crimes Section:

This section is responsible for prosecuting Criminal Code offences involving war crimes and crimes against humanity committed outside Canada; litigating citizenship cases where wartime activities or crimes against humanity committed abroad have fraudulently been hidden; advising immigration officials in cases involving allegations of war crimes or crimes against humanity; and advising and providing direction to the RCMP in war crimes and crimes against humanity investigations.

Criminal Law Section:

The Section is responsible for the prosecution of infractions under the federal statutes excluding the Criminal Code in the Outaouais region (Ottawa, Hull, etc.), and Supreme Court of Canada litigation involving the Attorney General of Canada. As well, the Section is responsible for extradition and fugitive offender cases, and mutual legal assistance. The D.N.A. Resource Centre also falls under this Section's responsibility.

National Security Group:

This group is responsible for advising the Assistant Deputy Attorney General (Criminal Law) on national security and intelligence matters.

Office of National Strategy for Drug Prosecutions:

This office has the primary Headquarters responsibility for providing assistance and direction on all drug and proceeds of crime investigations and prosecutions. Its main task is to support Regional Office counsel in the development of a strategic approach to the drug prosecution work of the Department.

■ General Counsel Group

The Group conducts, on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, litigation which requires counsel of particular seniority and expertise. Members of the group often participate in legal education, such as panel discussions and seminars arranged by the Department or by provincial and local bar associations.

■ Tax Law Branch

The Branch is responsible for providing functional direction to all lawyers in tax law matters. It also acts on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada in all civil appeals from assessments of income tax, appeals under Part IX of the Excise Tax Act (GST), and some litigation pursuant to the Unemployment Insurance Act and the Canada Pension Plan. The litigation work is divided between the tax litigation sections at headquarters and the Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver regional offices.

Public Law Sector

The Sector advises the government on legal and policy issues in the public law field. Specifically, it advises on matters relating to constitutional, international, administrative, native, information and privacy, judicial affairs, regulatory affairs, human rights law and official languages law, as well as on matters relating to the machinery and operation of government.

■ Administrative Law Section

The Section provides specialized advice to government departmental legal services on administrative law, Crown law and related matters. The Section also provides legal policy advice on the development of new government institutions and agencies, administrative processes and regulatory schemes and is frequently called upon to comment on government initiatives involving changes in the structure of government, federal administrative tribunals and the Federal Court. In terms of law reform, the Section is involved in a wide range of regulatory reform projects, and in the development and coordination of administrative and Crown law reform initiatives, with a view to streamlining of processes and procedures and modernization of legal immunities and privileges enjoyed by the Crown. The Section organizes the annual Administrative Law Seminar for Justice and other federal government lawyers and publishes an Administrative Law and Crown Law Digest of Canadian and Commonwealth cases three times a year. This Section also includes a Regulatory Affairs Unit concerned with modernizing implementation policies and practices associated with approximately 200 federal statutes. It studies and advises on departmental and agency programs designed to influence public behaviour and to obtain compliance with the law.

■ Constitutional and International Law Section

The Section provides policy and legal advice to the government on constitutional (non Charter) issues and international law. It participates in federal-provincial negotiations, the legislative process, the development and implementation of international instruments and litigation involving constitutional (non Charter) and international law questions. It supports the Associate Deputy Minister, Public Law Sector in her role as coordinator of international issues in the Department and coordinates Canadian participation in international law organizations dealing with international trade law and private international law.

■ Human Rights Law Section

The Section gives legal opinions to the Crown on the interpretation and application of constitutional provisions, federal legislation and international instruments having human rights implications. The Official Languages Law Group within the Section gives opinions on language law, develops and coordinates the government's position in language litigation and advises on the implementation of the government's official languages policy. Provides policy advice on human rights issues.

■ Information Law and Privacy Section

This Section deals with a wide range of legal issues relating to information held by the government and is a centre of legal expertise in respect of access to information, privacy legislation and related areas. The Section is responsible for providing training and information to Justice counsel on the ATIP acts. It also participates in training activities of the Treasury Board Secretariat, of the Canadian Centre for Management Development, etc., and has recently participated in a number of private sector conferences.

■ Judicial Affairs Unit

The Unit provides legal and policy support to the Minister and the Department on issues relating to the federal judiciary.

■ Native Law Section

The Section provides legal and policy advice on native affairs, especially on the development of aboriginal self-government, on comprehensive claims policy, and in support of native litigation issues. As a specialist resource, it advises on constitutional and international issues affecting natives, and carries out legal and policy research on many native issues. It also provides support with respect to the federal role of Métis interlocutor and participates both in tripartite discussions on off-reserve self-government and constitutional discussions.

Management Effectiveness Survey (Upward Feedback)

This class of information contains employees' attitudes regarding Legal Services Sector management effectiveness with regards to work supervision, communications, training and development. The results of questionnaires serve as a catalyst to improve management practices within work units. Information from the questionnaires without respondent identifier is retrievable by location (client department) except for units having five employees or less, in which case the information is available by groups of three units without respondent identifier.

Subject Files and Routine Correspondence

Some departmental programs and activities result in the accumulation of personal information which is not contained in the personal information banks described above. This personal information is stored within subject files described as part of department's Information Holdings where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of enquiries concerning particular justice matters, as well as requests for publications and reports. The information is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Environment Canada

Chapter 41

General Information

Background

The Department of the Environment was established by the Government Reorganization Act, 1970-71-72, ch. 42 on June 10, 1971. The Department, also known as Environment Canada, has as its primary duties renewable resources management and the protection of Canada's air, water and land resources. The departmental organization has three principal services: Environmental Protection which concentrates on response strategies and behavioral changes to prevent pollution of air, land and water ecosystems; Environmental Conservation which focuses on sustainable development of environmental resources; and Atmospheric Environment which focuses on integrated monitoring, atmospheric sciences, and services to Canadians.

Responsibilities

The primary objective of the Department of the Environment is to preserve and enhance the quality of the environment for the benefit of present and future generations of Canadians. Departmental programs are designed to promote the establishment or adoption of objectives and standards relating either to environmental quality or pollution control, ensure the wise management and use of renewable resources and to provide Canadians with environmental information in the public interest. As well, the department ensures that new federal projects, programs and activities are assessed early in the planning process for potentially adverse effects on the environment.

Organization

Atmospheric Environment Service

This Service provides services to Canadians in the areas of weather, climate, air quality, ice and hydrology. The Service has the following sub-activities: Canadian Meteorological Centre, Climate and Atmospheric Research, National Weather Services and Policy, Program & International Affairs.

■ Canadian Meteorological Centre

The Center gathers, archives, analyses and disseminates data related to climate, stratospheric ozone, ultraviolet radiation, air quality and water quantity and quality.

■ Climate and Atmospheric Research

Climate Research and Prediction, Air Quality Research, Meteorological Services Research, Climate Applications Research.

■ Meteorology and Hydrology Centre

Development, Operations, Informatics, Climate Information, HYDAT.

■ National Weather Services Directorate

Responsible for the coordination, national implementation, and ongoing development of the four main activities of the Atmospheric Environment Program: data acquisition, communications, forecasting and the provision of atmospheric and ice services

■ Policy, Program and International Affairs

Operational Policy Development, International Affairs, Environmental Integration, Science and Economic Integration and Assessment.

■ Weather Services

National Programs Support, Business Planning, Major Capital Investment, Ice Services, Education Services, Commercial Services, Water Survey.

Corporate Secretariat

Ministerial Briefing, Ministerial Planning and Scheduling, Cabinet Liaison, Parliamentary Relations, Management Board Secretariat.

Corporate Services

Finance, Systems & Informatics, Corporate Management & Review and Administration.

■ Administration

Information Holdings; Material Management; Facilities and Security; Local Shared Support Services; Access to Information and Privacy; National Capital Region Operations.

■ Corporate Management and Review

Operational Planning and Program Integration, Corporate Accounting and Review, Audit and Evaluation.

■ Finance

Financial Planning and Resource Analysis; Financial Policy, Systems and Accounting; Service Financial Advisors.

■ Systems and Informatics

Information Planning and Coordination, Client Services, Applications Development, Communications Network and Product Evaluation and Capacity Planning.

Environmental Conservation Service

The Environmental Conservation Service (ECS) is communicating to Canadians what is necessary to sustain ecosystem health and biodiversity in Canada. The Service is organized into four areas: State of the Environment, Ecosystem Conservation, Biodiversity and Canadian Wildlife Service.

■ Biodiversity Directorate

Coordination of Canada's response to the Convention on Biological Diversity including national coordination of the development of a Canadian Biodiversity Strategy and follow-up to the Strategy including coordination of the federal Action Plan.

■ Canadian Wildlife Service

Biodiversity Response Strategies, Wildlife Conservation, Water and Wetlands.

■ Ecosystem Conservation

Ecosystem Science, Science Policy, Conservation Strategies, Flagship Program, Guidelines and Protocols, National Water Research Institute, National Hydrology Institute.

■ State of the Environment

State of the Environment Reports, Sustainable Development Indicators.

Environmental Protection Service

This Service is the focal point for understanding the underlying causes of environmental pollution and for leading the development of response strategies which promote environmentally responsible decision-making. The broad objective is to sustain the long term health and integrity of ecosystems within the framework of a sound and prosperous economy. Pollution Prevention is the key long term strategy; however, controlling pollution from existing sources and remediation of existing polluted sites are also important activities. The Service is organized into eight areas: National Programs, Pollution Prevention, Program Integration, Technology Development, Response Assessment, Citizenship, Canadian Environmental Protection Act Office (CEPA) and Corporate.

■ National Programs

Environmental Assessment, Enforcement, Environmental Citizenship, Emergencies, Environmental Choice.

■ Pollution Prevention

Industrial Pollution Prevention, Hazardous Waste Management, Commercial Chemicals Evaluation.

■ Program Integration

Results and Accountability, North American and Global Strategies, Issues and Priorities.

■ Response Assessment

Economic Analysis, Inventories, Stakeholder Partnerships, Options Evaluation.

■ Technology Development

River Road Environmental Technology Centre, Waste Water Technology Centre, National Laboratory for Environmental Testing.

Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

The Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office (FEARO) administers the federal environmental assessment and review process (EARP) for the Minister of the Environment. The process is used to predict and mitigate, early in the planning stages, the potential environmental and directly-related social impacts of government or other proposals requiring a federal decision. The process has two possible phases: an initial assessment of proposals by departments and/or an independent panel review. FEARO advises departments and provides secretariats to panels and to the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council.

Human Resources Directorate

■ Classification and Staff Relations

Classification; Policies, Procedures and Guidelines.

■ Human Resources Management and Development

Human Resource Planning, Staffing and Work Force Adjustment, Continuous Learning, Official Languages.

■ Personnel Services (NCR)

Service to all NCR Clients, Management of the Executive Group.

National Round Table on the Environment and the Economy

The National Round Table was created in 1989 in response to the Report of the World Commission on Environment and Development (Brundtland Commission) and the recommendations of the National Task Force on the Environment and the Economy. In addition to its advisory role to the Prime Minister on issues relating to environment and the economy, the National Round Table plays a special catalytic role in Canada and abroad by attempting to reach a consensus among competing economic and environmental interests concerning sustainable development.

Policy & Communications

Policy & Economics, International Affairs, Federal-Provincial Relations, Planning & Coordination, Communications & Consultation.

■ Communication and Consultation

Strategic Analysis, Public Affairs, Consultations, Departmental Correspondence, Service Communications.

■ Federal-Provincial Relations Branch

The Branch is the departmental focal point for federal-provincial-territorial relations.

■ International Affairs

The International Affairs Branch is organized into small teams that address functional areas: policy and coordination; global issues; Western Hemisphere; Asia/Pacific; and Europe.

■ Planning and Coordination

Planning and Priorities, Liaison and Integration.

■ Policy and Economics

Policy Development, Economy and the Environment.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Atmospheric Environment Service

AES HQ – Forecast Project

Description: Information on the development of forecast methods and techniques for AES forecast systems (including models – numerical, statistical). Topics: Weather prediction methodology; snow squall modelling; ice and sea state models; oil spill trajectory models; freezing spray; investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 420

AES – Wind Tunnel

Description: Information on wind tunnel experiments, operations and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 395

Contracts – Sea State

Description: Information on contracts for ice, oil spills on water and sea state models. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 405

Data Acquisition Networks

Description: Information on atmospheric environment operations, overall policy, operational performance, procedures and standards. Program Record Number: ENV AES 480

Forecast Procedures

Description: Information on meteorological models, procedures and techniques in support of forecast production. Topics: Maps, charts and forms; professional training and development; satellite operations; plans and programs. Program Record Number: ENV AES 430

Ice Information, Consultation and Advice

Description: Information on ice forecasting and services, ice research, climatology and Observing Program (reconnaissance). Program Record Number: ENV AES 465

Instruments and Instrument Systems

Description: Information on instruments; general, humidity, evaporation, precipitation, marine, physical phenomena, pressure, radiation, atmospheric sounding wind. Program Record Number: ENV AES 485

Meteorology Training

Description: Information on satellite meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 365

Policy – Private Sector Meteorology

Description: Information on initiatives and policies related to the development of private sector meteorology. Topics: Atmospheric Environment Service activities related to private sector meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 313

Water Quality Management Data

Description: Information and interpretive reports on the quality of surface and ground waters based on analysis of samples; information on field surveys and analytical methods, and on quality control; water quality guidelines for protection of uses, and water quality objectives for specific surface waters. It does not include water quality objective work done under specific international or federal– provincial basin studies, nor research related to water quality management. Topics: Water pollution, water quality surveys, analytical methods, quality of surface waters, rain water and snow water quality, water quality guidelines, water quality monitoring programs.

Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and title; water quality parameters are accessed on-line through NAQUADAT. Storage Medium: Magnetic tapes. Program Record Number: ENV AES 185

Water Quantity Management Data

Description: Information on data collection, hydrometric and water levels, and sediment, as well as the management and operation of data systems and interpretive reports. These data include data collection under specific international or federal-provincial water management or planning studies and data collection carried out as an integral part of other studies. Topics: Gauging stations, international gauging stations, gauging stations inventory, hydrometric investigations, hydrologic interpretive and analytical reports, sediment links to water quality, sediment surveys, remote sensing, watershed research, tidal gauge records, tidal surveys.

Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location, river and site location. Storage Medium: Computer printouts, magnetic tapes, microfiche, interactive on-line access to the national database known as HYDAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 200

Weather Services

Description: Information on policies, standards, procedures and guidance concerning the provision of weather services. Topics: General weather services; public weather services; air, marine and road transportation; agriculture; forestry; climatology; preflight weather information service; radio and television broadcasting; scientific support units; weather service outlets. Program Record Number: ENV AES 435

Environmental Conservation Service

Biodiversity

Description: Information on biodiversity conservation and the sustainable use of biological resources. Topics: Wide range of biodiversity related issues including Agenda 21, agriculture, biotechnology, business and economy, ecosystems, education, extinction, fisheries, forestry, genetic resources, parks and protected areas, population and consumption, and sustainable development. Also, includes national and international biodiversity strategies. Access: Files are arranged by subject and listed by author or subject. Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office (BCO). Program Record Number: ENV CAP 125

Biometrics

Description: Information on the biometry of migratory birds. Topics: Migratory game birds hunting permits; waterfowl surveys; data processing. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 105

Canada-United States and Interjurisdictional Waters

Description: Information on all activities carried out under specific Canada– United States agreements or arrangements such as investigative, control, or surveillance board activities for the International Joint Commission (IJC) or in other bilateral Canada-United States situations; studies and implementation programs under formal federal-provincial arrangements; and Canada-United States activities on shared river basins. Policy development, data collection and research carried out as a part of any of these formal arrangements are included as well as specific federal-provincial agreements required to carry out Canada's obligations in boundary waters (the Canada-Ontario Agreement on Great Lakes Water Quality) and interprovincial arrangements (Prairie Provinces Water Board). Information is also available on water use for selected years and geographic areas. Topics: Great Lakes connecting channels, Great Lakes programs and studies, International and Interprovincial Waters, Prairie Waters, Lake of the Woods, Ottawa River Regulations. Access: Files are arranged by subject and project title; many reports are referenced in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 175

Canadian Biodiversity Strategy

Description: Supporting documentation for Canadian Biodiversity Strategy and the Convention on Biological Diversity. Topics: Reports on ten expert focus groups convened to provide input into the CBS; a compilation of recommendations relevant to biodiversity already being undertaken by governments; an inventory of current government policies, programs and legislation relevant to biodiversity; and preparatory documentation for the drafting of the convention on Biological Diversity. Access: Available at the Biodiversity Convention Office. Storage Medium: Inventory information is available on computer database. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 130

Ecological Applications Research

Description: Information on production of nationally consistent spatial data on the ecological characteristics and resource potentials of land; dissemination of scientific knowledge, methods and techniques used for surveying and classifying land, including wetlands, by ecological characteristics, for assessing resource potentials, impacts and hazards and for increasing knowledge of land and land/water process linkages of concern in environmental management; the assessment of potential climate change of the vegetative and land base of Canada and consequent implications for resource management. Topics: General correspondence; public awareness; inter-regional projects; wetlands and acid rain sensitivity; climate change; land use information mapping series; Canada Committee on Ecological Land Classification; Canada Committee on Ecological Areas. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 160

Environmental Information Systems and Services

Description: Information on the development, maintenance and operation of a computerized Canada Geographic Information System (CGIS) capable of storing, processing and retrieving geographic-specific bio-physical, socio-economic and ecological data on land capability, land use, resource management and environmental issues of national or regional significance; the development, assessment, improvement and recommendation of computerized technologies designed to enhance the performance and efficiency, while promoting greater use, of spatial information systems in State of the Environment planning and management; the provision of data on processing and advisory services in support of the establishment of a national Environmental Informatics System and the solution of environmental planning and management problems; and the provision of a training program on the use of the CGIS for existing and potential clients. Topics: Canada Land Inventory, Canada Geographic Information System projects. Storage Medium: EDP systems and maps. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 170

Flood Damage Reduction

Description: Information on all activities under federal-provincial flood damage reduction agreements, including flood risk mapping, construction of physical flood control works, and flood forecasting. It also includes policy development, data collection (hydrometric and other data collection programs and research for many water management purposes) carried out as an integral part of these agreements, or in support of anticipated new agreements, and guidelines or methodology development and information programs directly in support of the program. Topics: Conservation and floods, flood damage reduction. Access: Files are arranged by subject, geographic location and project title; many reports are referred to in AQUAREF. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 180

Habitat and Land Use Research

Description: Information on habitat strategies, plans and data banks; research on habitat impacts from toxic substances, climate changes and land use changes; remote sensing techniques and methodologies to monitor habitat changes/impacts; provision of land management services and advice to federal departments and agencies responsible for administering federal lands located in the provinces or specially dedicated lands located in the territories. Topics: General correspondence; habitat planning and management; resource management data; federal land data; public awareness; policy research and coordination. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 165

Land Use Policy

Description: Information on the development and assessment of federal land use objectives, policies and guidelines; the coordination of interdepartmental and intergovernmental activities on land use policy and program matters; the analysis of land use policy instruments with recommendations on their effectiveness in addressing sustainable development and land use issues of national significance; the identification and assessment of the impact of federal programs on the sustainable use and management of Canada's land resources, and the recommendation of mitigating measures to offset any adverse effects; the provision of advice and policy positions on sustainable development concerning land quality, land use and other related environmental issues; the provision of advice and assistance in developing or assessing policies in which land resources and environmental matters are important considerations; the representation of Environment Canada on the Treasury Board Advisory Committee/Federal Land Management and the coordination of the discharge of the Department's responsibilities under the Federal Policy on Land Use; assistance in representing Canada's land resource interest in bilateral relations with other countries and international organizations; and assistance in foreign aid technical exchange and advisory programs. Topics: General correspondence; environment/economy integration; public awareness; Canada land use policy research and coordination; policy advice to federal departments and agencies; and sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 155

National Wildlife Areas

Description: General correspondence on policies and regulations as they affect land use in designated areas.

Topics: Agreements; policy; regulations; rentals; leases.

Program Record Number: ENV CAP 135

Native People

Description: Information on correspondence on native harvest surveys and native land claims. Topics: Hunting and fishing rights, treaties, acts and regulations, Council of Yukon Indian, Inuit Tapirisat of Canada, Northern Quebec Cree, Inuit, Naskaps, Western Arctic Inuit-COPE. Access: Files are arranged by name of individual. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 115

North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP)

Description: Information on the development, coordination and planning of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan (NAWMP). Topics: Joint ventures; implementation agreements (multilateral, internal); NAWMP committees; long-term and annual work plans; funding arrangements; communications and general correspondence. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 173

Ornithology

Description: Information on all aspects of waterfowl. Topics: North American Waterfowl Management Plan; bird banding programs; reports, studies and surveys; sanctuaries; migratory bird sanctuaries regulations; permits for bird sanctuaries; delegation; agreements; leases; damage to crops by birds; agreements with provincial governments on compensation for crop damage; diseases and parasites; effects of sprays; predation; use of drugs; lead poisoning repellents; ornithology permits; taxidermist licences; propagation and agriculture; research on species; use of birds; commercial shooting of birds; plumage of birds; public shooting grounds; waterfowl kill statistics; waterfowl populations; breeding ground survey; breeding bird survey; brood production survey; waterfowl status reports. Access: Files are arranged by name and geographic locations. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 120

State of the Environment Reporting

Description: Information and interpretive reports on significant conditions and trends related to environmental components (air, water, land and wildlife) and human activities (agriculture, forestry, fisheries, etc.) to meet the requirements of the Federal Environmental Quality Policy Framework and Canadian Environmental Protection Act; development, assessment and recommendations for selecting and utilizing key environmental indicators; development and dissemination of scientific methods and techniques for State of the Environment (SOE) Reporting, identifying emerging issues; development of methods and guidelines for storage, manipulation and transfer of environmental data vis-à-vis the SOE centralized database and referral system. Topics: General correspondence; SOE publications; state of the environment data; scientific methods; indicator research; inter-regional projects; publication guidelines; Canada Land Inventory and a wide range of land, water and other resource data. Storage Medium: Files, maps,

EDP systems. Program Record Number:

ENV CAP 167

Sustainable Development

Description: Program for implementation of sustainable development within the government; development of federal conservation strategy; coordination of federal-provincial links on conservation strategy development; coordination of intergovernmental activity on land policy and program matters; development of sectoral resource management policies (e.g. wetlands); assessment of impact of federal programs on environment and economy; analysis of links between environment, resources, and economic development; development of means to build environmental criteria into economic development policies and programs; assessment of the value of environmental resources; analysis of success stories of sustainable development as models for further implementation; application of sustainable development criteria to federal land transactions; development of means of measuring success towards sustainable development. Responsibilities include provision of scientific and technical advice to other departments, other countries and international organizations with respect to sustainable development implementation. Topics: Sustainable development; wetlands policy; federal policy on land use; environment/economy integration; federal program impact; Sustainable Development newsletter; success stories of sustainable development. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 156

Technology Development – Waste Water

Description: Information on development and demonstration of waste water pollution control technology; technology development assistance programs; technical training; technology transfer; program planning and evaluation. Topics: Program planning and evaluation; technology assistance program; waste water technology. Access: Files are arranged by company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 265

Water Management Research

Description: Information on water resource research, including the study of the impact of pollutants and nutrients on the environment, sediment composition, water quality and quantity modelling, groundwater quality and sub-surface disposal of wastes, pathways, fate and effects of pollutants, dispersion and energy transfer processes in lakes and rivers, urban runoff processes, ice dynamics, hydrological forecasting, groundwater movement, biological and chemical techniques for water quality analysis, snow and ice hydrology, glacier dynamics, sociological, geographical, legal, institutional and economic aspects of water management. Also included is research management and coordination and research contracts. Topics: Ground water; ground water quality; ice river breakup; new analytical techniques; improved methodologies for aquatic studies; predictive technique on models for toxic substances; pathways and fate of pollutants; hydraulic variables; drought; floods; climatic changes; restoration of lakes and polluted waters. Access: Files are arranged by subject and location. Most information is readily available.

Storage Medium: Microfiche, magnetic tapes, computer printouts, punchcards. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 205

Water Pollution Programs

Description: Information on federal/provincial programs; pollution control in coastal areas; International Joint Commission programs; data management; Arctic water programs coordination; program evaluation; interservice and interagency program coordination; program planning and development. Topics: Program coordination and evaluation; coastal zone; data management and analysis. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 270

Wildlife Management

Description: Information on the federal participation and responsibilities in the management of wildlife. Topics: Hunting performance program; transboundary wildlife; bird hazard to aircraft; problems at airports; restricted material on birds and aircraft; correspondence from Air Canada; bird strike bulletins; bird strike field notes; bird strike reports; reports on visits to airports; RCMP reports; application for species; Eastern Arctic-Scientific Research; scientific collection of specimens; transplant. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 150

Wildlife Toxicology

Description: Information on toxic substances and their effects on birds and mammals; also related research and studies. Topics: Advice to outside agencies on chemicals and pesticides; National Registry of Pesticide Residues; registration of agricultural chemicals; toxic substances program; analytical data quality program; chemical analytical services; forest spray operations; heavy metals; Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD); wildlife sampling program; study of fish-eating birds. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 145

Environmental Protection Service

Abatement and Compliance

Description: Information on inventories of pollution services and cost of abatement; state of the art of pollution abatement by industry; regulations development; policy and technical advice on enforcement programs; technical audits of incentives programs; energy-related studies. Topics: Pulp and paper industry; mining and metallurgical processes; petroleum and industrial organic chemicals, inorganic chemical processes; toxic chemicals emission/release controls; control options, evaluation of their costs and effectiveness; food and allied industries; municipal waste and miscellaneous industries; power generation; legal services; pulp and paper modernization program. Access: Files are arranged by company, product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 260

Chemical Process Sources

Description: Information on chemical industry pollution; producers, emissions, products, development of industrial studies questionnaires, guidelines and codes and regulations. Topics: Chemical products; pulp, paper and wood products; forest products operations; pulp and paper processes; textiles and related manufacturers; woods and allied products manufacturing; petroleum, petrochemical, polymers and plastics; surface coating industry. Access: Files are arranged by name of company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 220

Combustion Sources

Description: Studies and surveys; assessments; questionnaires; analytical reports; information on emissions and emission controls; investigations; codes and regulations. Topics: Interdepartmental programs; thermal power-fuel; thermal power-fuel processing and storage; combustion systems; internal combustion engine; emission calculation and analysis; emission data; air quality surveillance; air quality criteria; incinerators; investigations, studies and surveys. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 235

Contaminants Control

Description: Information on predicting and evaluating environmental effects of new chemical substances; determining amounts and end uses of chemicals in Canadian commerce; regulating substances which pose a significant threat to human health and environment; reviewing pesticide registrations; and coordinating tests of chemicals for environmental effects. Topics: Studies and surveys; chemical elements compounds; Canadian Environmental Protection Act; toxicology assessment and ecological protocols; regulation development; enforcement and compliance; transportation of dangerous goods; response to notices; mandatory reporting; automated information system; pesticides-control programs – registration, re-evaluation, research and trade information; research permits; compendium; non-chemical pesticides; mercury program. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 275

Data Analysis

Description: Information on air pollutants; emissions source categories; industrial questionnaires; studies and surveys and air pollution costs. Topics: Emission inventory; air pollutants, source categories; effects of regulations; socio-economic impact studies and surveys; industrial, geographical; economy impact studies and surveys – pollutants; analytical concepts and methodology – statistical and economic. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 240

Enforcement

Description: Information on the enforcement of Migratory Bird Convention Act, Migratory Bird Regulation, Migratory Bird Treaty. Topics: General correspondence; authority to purchase migratory birds; authority to issue permits; payments of fines; Migratory Birds Conviction List, report convention; legal fee; appointment of game officer; appointment of agents; protocol with U.S.A.; enquiries and questions; Indians and Inuit; treaties and letters of understanding with foreign governments. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 110

Environmental Emergency

Description: Information on environmental accidents; emergency teams; reporting and alerting operating procedures; special studies; research and development; contingency plans; pollution clean-up agents for collection and dispersal. Topics: Environmental emergency teams; operations and procedures; resource inventory; accident prevention; transportation; accident detection; pollution abatement; pollution containment; disposal; restoration; analysis – prediction, research and development projects; information. Access: Files are arranged by individual environmental accidents.

Program Record Number: ENV CAP 285

Federal Activities

Description: Information on the regulation of emissions/effluents from federal departments and agencies as well as on waste management at these institutions; information on the evaluation of federally funded pollution control projects; demonstration of technology at federal facilities; environmental impact assessment of nuclear facilities, and radioactive waste facilities. Topics: Federal projects; clean-up program; methods, techniques and refinements; nuclear programs. Access: Files are arranged by company, subject and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 295

Fuels

Description: Information on fuel types, composition and use. Topics: Fuel producers; types; composition; resources marketing and processing; pollution investigations; pollution control equipment, and regulations on fuels and components of fuels; guidelines development; synthetic fuels, gasoline; natural gas; coal; petroleum producers; petroleum marketing; energy conservation; sulphur and by-products; fuels and fuel additives composition; fossil fuel resources. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and product. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 230

Mining, Mineral and Metallurgical Industries

Description: Information on mining and metallurgical production, refining, and smelting operations and the significance of such processes in terms of pollution; mineral, and metallurgical industry studies; and emission control requirements such as codes and regulations. Topics: Mining operations and processes; mineral products processing; primary metallurgical industries; secondary metallurgical industries. Access: Files are arranged by subject, product and plant type. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 225

Mobile Sources

Description: Information on vehicle emission data; test methods and procedures; test results; studies and surveys; standards and regulations. Topics: Abatement programs; engineering and evaluation; fugitive emissions; fleet programs; mobile source compliance; special studies. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company, and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 215

Planning, Assessment and Policy

Description: Information on the development of an environmental protection strategy; program, planning and systems development; socio-economic analysis of proposed major regulations. Topics: Program planning system development; activity program development; operational plans; activity management reports; policy development and analysis; program evaluation; program development; organization and systems project; economics; socio-economic program; socio-economic impact analysis – Canadian Environmental Protection Act, Fisheries Act. Access: By subject. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 290

Program Activity Structures and Objectives

Description: Information on systems for strategic and operational planning and program evaluation, management practices and controls, performance measurement, priority settings, resource-based economic strategy and perspective, socio-economic and scientific development studies, implementation of integrated programs. Topics: Program activity structures and objectives, surveys and studies, Improvements in Management Practices and Controls (IMPAC), toxic substances, Co-operative Projects with Industry (COPI), Pilot Industry Laboratory Program, Shore Zone Program, Biomass. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 100

Program Coordination

Description: Information on regulations development; monitoring of agreed implementation schedules, program evaluation and acid rain control strategies. Topics: Acts and legislation; regulations enforcement; federal/provincial programs; international activities; international organizations; intradepartmental activities; long range transport of air pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 245

Surveillance

Description: Information on national air pollution surveillance monitoring equipment; monthly and annual summary reports; source testing methods. Topics: National air pollution surveillance; operations and maintenance; equipment testing and evaluation; source testing procedures; studies, surveys and investigations; specific pollutants. Access: Files are arranged by subject, location and specific pollutants. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 250

Technology Development – Pollution Abatement

Description: Information on development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology (DPAT); instruction in air pollution control; pollution analysis and instrument testing. Topics: Development and demonstration of pollution abatement technology; educational activities; chemistry files. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 255

Toxic Chemicals

Description: Information on toxic chemical management. Topics: Inventory; assessment of DSL substances for toxicity; control throughout the life cycle of toxic chemicals; regulations; guidelines; codes of practice. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 300

Waste Management

Description: Inventory of commercial and industrial hazardous wastes; technology development; studies and surveys; handling, storage and environmentally safe transportation; disposal of industrial and hazardous wastes; inventory sources and amounts of hazardous wastes; regulations development. Topics: Wastes and types; waste management and disposal; waste management systems – disposal; resource recovery and reclamation, materials; information and training; solid waste information retrieval system, inventory; regulations; guidelines and codes of practice; consultation services; technical evaluation. Access: Files are arranged by subject, company and project. Program Record Number: ENV CAP 280

Federal Environmental Assessment Review Office

Environmental Assessment Projects

Description: Information on projects undergoing review by environmental assessment panels. Access: Files are arranged by project. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 490

FEARO – Policy

Description: Information on the development and implementation of the EARP process. Access: Files are arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 495

FEARO – Research

Description: Information on the Canadian Environmental Assessment Research Council. Program Record Number: ENV FRO 500

Policy & Communications

Acid Rain

Description: Information on Canada's domestic, bilateral and international acid rain initiatives, including committees, negotiations, controls and effects. Topics: Canada's joint federal-provincial abatement program, federal-provincial LRTAP Steering Committee meetings and reports; Canada-U.S. bilateral negotiations, and general information on U.S. initiatives; international European Economic Community LRTAP conventions and protocols; files dealing with acid rain effects, communications, and the Special Parliamentary Committee on Acid Rain. Access: Files are arranged by subject in a central registry. Program Record Number: ENV POL 525

AES Headquarters – Projects Research

Description: Information on computerized and man-machine mix system; module component development and design; research data set development; also implementation and joint projects with forecast operations. Topics: Systems design for automated weather forecasting procedures; creation of research data sets for weather forecasting research. Program Record Number: ENV AES 400

AES HQ – Projects

Description: Information on satellite activity reports; data collection platforms; SDL Staffing; SDL GOES; Meso-met Network; Wind Energy Field Studies investigations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 370

AES, Research Management and Policy

Description: Meteorological, atmospheric, air quality, ice in navigable waters, remote sensing and other related environmental and technological research and development; research and related support activities of a general management nature – decisions and large-scale agreements; training for research and grants for research outside the federal government which support the goals, objectives and policies for atmospheric research in Canada; mechanisms for better transfer of technology to and from government research laboratories, contracting-out of federal research and development. Topics: Agreements; treaties; studies; projects; federal activities; committees; plans and programs; fellowships; training and development; grants; unsolicited proposals; contracting; technology transfer. Program Record Number: ENV AES 310

Air Quality Research Projects

Description: Information on research dealing with the quality of air. Topics: Field studies; wind energy; LRTAP Programs (Acid Rain); federal– provincial co-operative projects; IFYGL; Alberta Oil Sands; hazardous and toxic chemicals; air quality assessment processes; regional and international studies of meteorological potential for air pollution; boundary layer processes; experiments; analyses; scientific papers; program planning and international co-operation; air quality sampling; siting; analytical methodology for ambient atmospheres; workspace atmospheres and instream emissions. Program Record Number: ENV AES 315

Atmosphere – High Atmospheric Vehicles

Description: Information on weather ice and other related environmental satellite research and development, ground receiving stations, data processing and distribution, and related hardware, instrumentation technology; aeronautical meteorology, aviation studies, marine meteorology and meso-meteorology, wind energy, weather radar and radar satellite combined system; wind tunnel experiments, related field experiments and wind engineering. Topics: Canadian space policy; repairs of satellite receivers; high atmosphere vehicles; satellite data lab operations; satellite meteorology research and development projects (TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS); Aeromet Facility; Rockcliffe STOL project; Meso-met Network; data collection platforms; GOES Wind Energy Field Studies; radar satellite system; ICS Submission; AES Satellite

Program; NOSS; SURSAT; wind tunnel experiments, operation and maintenance. Program Record Number: ENV AES 325

Atmospheric Research

Description: Information on weather modification, cloud physics, weather radar, ozone monitoring, stratospheric pollution, solar radiation and energy. Activities aimed at increasing precipitation (rain, snow) or suppressing hailfall; research in the physics of clouds and precipitation and in the detection of precipitation by weather radar; research conducted into the processes of the stratospheric ozone layer and its depletion by trace constituents (typically chlorofluorocarbons); calibration of solar radiation instruments and development of new solar radiation instrumentation and development of specialized solar radiation database. Topics: Weather Modification Policy; Agreement (with U.S.) and co-operative projects; WMO PEP program; weather radar and cloud physics; ozone instruments; World Ozone Data Centre; stratospheric pollution; solar radiation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 320

Climatology

Description: Information on applied climatology; climatological data and studies; information and requests; monitoring and prediction; numerical modelling. Topics: General climatology; climatology normals; recreation and tourism; station history system; National Parks; agrometeorology; ice accretion studies; biometeorology; energy; Canadian Climate Program; climatic change. Storage Medium: Microfilm, magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 455

Communications

Description: Information on communications in general and on communications—programming. Program Record Number: ENV COM 530

Communications – Computing Services

Description: Information on communications and communications—programming. Program Record Number: ENV AES 470

Communications – Facsimile

Description: Information on Satellite Data Laboratory Operations. Program Record Number: ENV AES 330

Contracts – Satellites

Description: Information on contracts for satellite systems; also contracts for satellite research and development – TOVS, RAINSAT, ICE STATUS. Access: Files are arranged by subject and company. Program Record Number: ENV AES 335

Data Acquisition

Description: Information on land surface networks; upper air and aerological networks; Voluntary Observing Ship Program; remote sensing; environmental network. Topics: Station classification; site information; meteorological and aerological instruments; codes; data standards; data reduction; quality assurance; equipment supply; development and testing; lists of ships participating; satellite ground stations; APT, weather radar; signal processing; data transmissions; maintenance; plans and policies. Program Record Number: ENV AES 440

Environment Economy

Description: Information on departmental policies, programs, economic instruments and activities related to the integration of environmental considerations into economic decision-making; associated information on events, reports, studies, announcements, expertise and other agency involvement; preliminary information on the characteristics and capabilities of environmental industries, related associations and the nature of market availability within and outside Canada; and related information from the Groups of Economic Experts (GEE) of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). Topics: The departmental environment/economy strategic direction, action plans and activities carried out by the Department; sustainable development; events, agreements, mechanisms, announcements, reports and expertise; statistics on the environmental industry (employment, economic impact, number of firms, market potential, promotion); various subject areas such as risk assessment, technologies to control and prevent pollution, etc.; OECD reports which are available for public distribution. Access: Information is available by subject area in soft-cover copies. Program Record Number: ENV POL 515

Federal-Provincial Relations

Description: Information on the broad policy aspects of the relationship between the federal and provincial governments on environmental issues. Topics: Federal-Provincial Agreements and Accords; Canadian Council of Resource and Environment Ministers; Sustainable Development. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 505

Hemispheric Observations

Description: Observed data, hemispheric surface synoptic reports. Storage Medium: Coded forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 450

Hydrometeorology

Description: Information on development of hydrometeorological techniques for measurements and analysis; application of meteorological techniques and data to hydrology and marine problems (hydrology, water resources, oceans, lakes and reservoirs); hydrological time series data; climatology of water temperature. Topics: International Hydrological Decade; hydrometeorological projects; investigations, research, studies and surveys; wind wave studies, evaporation. Storage Medium: Magnetic tape. Program Record Number: ENV AES 460

Ice

Description: Information on regional ice models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 410

Ice Observing Programs – Reconnaissance

Description: Information on verification of satellite data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 340

Instruments

Description: Information on Aeromet Facility Instrumentation. Program Record Number: ENV AES 345

International Affairs

Description: Information on broad policies and strategies relating to Environment Canada's International relations, key international organizations, meetings and agreements dealing with the environment. Topics: International agreements; environmental organizations Access: Files arranged by subject Program Record Number: POL 540

Marine Meteorology

Description: Information on TOVS. Program Record Number: ENV AES 355

Meso-meteorology

Description: Information on the Meso-met Network. Topics: Operation; data. Program Record Number: ENV AES 360

Meteorology Aviation

Description: Information on the Rockcliffe STOL Project. Program Record Number: ENV AES 350

Meteorology Training

Description: Information on professional training, development, technical training in meteorology. Program Record Number: ENV AES 475

Northern Affairs

Description: Information on the policy aspects of the management of the northern environment and federal-provincial-territorial co-operation on environmental issues. Topics: Circumpolar co-operation; wildlife; endangered species; migratory birds. Access: Files arranged by subject. Program Record Number: ENV POL 510

Oil and Gas Exploration and Development

Description: Information on oil spill trajectories, freezing spray, ice and sea state models. Program Record Number: ENV AES 415

Program Evaluation

Description: Evaluation frameworks, assessments and studies of departmental components, and related data. Topics: Departmental components that have been subject to one or more of these evaluation activities. Access: Reports are classified by evaluation component. Storage Medium: Hardcopy. (In many cases, only single copies exist.) Program Record Number: ENV POL 520

Radar

Description: Information on the MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 375

Satellites

Description: Information on satellite programs. Topics: Cost recovery; staffing the SKL; ICS Submission; AES Satellite Programs; SDL Operations; NOSS; SURSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 380

Telecommunications

Description: Operational, alpha-numeric and facsimile information distributed by dedicated or dial-up communication lines. Topics: Facsimile contracts; installations; procedures; traffic; teletype contracts -installations, procedures, traffic; computer aspects. Program Record Number: ENV AES 425

Weather Forecast

Description: Information on analyses and forecasts; hemispheric analyses, heights (pressure) temperature, moisture, winds from surface to 100 mbs; analyses of surface, 850, 700 and 500 mb levels from 1957 to date; historical data; verification statistics. Storage Medium: Computer files – grid point data, microfilm, printed WX charts, charts and teletype message forms, written and graphic forms. Program Record Number: ENV AES 445

Weather Service

Description: Information on RAINSAT. Program Record Number: ENV AES 385

Weather Service – Air Transportation

Description: Information on MOT Radar and Satellite System. Program Record Number: ENV AES 390

Personal Information Banks

Access Request Data Bank

Description: Contains the access request forms sent by persons requesting access to their files, the replies to such requests, and information relating to their processing. Class of Individuals: Individuals making Access to Information Act and Privacy Act requests. Purpose: To process access requests only, and to determine the number of access requests received annually. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001401 Bank Number: ENV PPU 075

Applications for Research Grants Science Subventions

Description: Each entry in the bank contains information of the following type: educational, financial support for research, new scientific concepts, personal statement of productivity, third party evaluation of the entry. All assessments and grants are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters from Canadian university faculty members. Class of Individuals: Faculty members of Canadian universities in the environmental sciences or faculties related thereto. Purpose: To provide information used in the annual selection of research proposals to be funded by this institute. Consistent Uses: To assess research proposals in order to award research funds. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records kept less than five years, usually two years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001394 Bank Number: ENV PPU 010

Applications for Studentship in Meteorology or Atmospheric Science

Description: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection for the provision of studentships at Canadian universities. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have graduated with 3.5 courses in physics and 4.5 courses in mathematics with a 66% average. Purpose: To assess potential recipients of studentships. Consistent Uses: To assess applications for AES Studentships. Retention and Disposal Standards: Two years. If the applicant becomes an employee, the application is placed on his/her personnel file. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001397 Bank Number: ENV PPU 025

Applications for Visiting Fellowship Awards

Description: Contains information of the following types: demographics, employment, educational, personal references, third party evaluations. All assessments are processed at Atmospheric Environment Service headquarters. Awards are granted to visiting fellows for their work at headquarters. Class of Individuals: Generally restricted to environmental scientists who have recently completed their doctoral degrees. Purpose: To provide personal and academic information used in the annual selection of visiting fellows to this institute.

Consistent Uses: To assess potential candidates for visiting fellowship awards. The file is shared with NSERC. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are kept for less than five years, usually for three years. PAC Number: 78-001 Related to PR#: ENV AES 310 TBS Registration: 001395 Bank Number: ENV PPU 015

Employment Applications

Description: This bank can contain employment applications, personal information and curricula vitae from people wishing to work for the Department. All the applicants are registered in the bank. It is established on a regional basis, by service. The bank is used to hold information sent by the candidates. Class of Individuals: Anyone applying for employment with the Department. Purpose: The information contained in this bank is used for staffing purposes. Consistent Uses: Limited to present and future staffing purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Maximum five years, normally destroyed after two years. PAC Number: 78-001 TBS Registration: 001402 Bank Number: ENV PPU 080

Information Disclosures to Investigative Bodies

Description: This bank contains copies of privacy requests and replies as well as requests for disclosure to federal investigative bodies, forwarded by investigative bodies as listed in Schedule II of the Privacy Act under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the same Act. This bank also contains the replies to such requests and gives information related to their processing. It is used to verify the conditions of disclosure to federal law enforcement bodies which are stated in paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act, and to report to the Privacy Commissioner on the number of access requests received annually. This bank is comprised solely of requests concerning persons for the purpose of law enforcement, and the replies to such requests. Class of Individuals: Individuals about whom requests for personal information have been received pursuant to paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act from federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province, or carrying out a lawful investigation. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to permit the Privacy Commissioner to review disclosures made under paragraph 8(2)(e) of the Privacy Act to federal investigative bodies for the purpose of enforcing a law of Canada or a province or for carrying out a lawful investigation. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for five years and are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002326 Bank Number: ENV PPU 072

Post-graduate Fellowships

Description: Post-graduate fellowships are intended to provide financial assistance to Canadian citizens and permanent residents who are enrolled in an MSc or PhD program in Meteorology and Atmospheric Services. Class of Individuals: Canadian citizens and permanent residents who have completed undergraduate degrees.

Purpose: To provide information in the annual selection of candidates for post-graduate fellowship awards.

Consistent Uses: Primary use is to assess fellowship applications. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Records kept less than five years, usually two years.

University Research Support Fund

Description: Contains evaluations of proposals submitted by researchers at Canadian universities for funding consideration through the Canadian Wildlife Service. This bank contains an outline of projects, names of professors and personal data. Class of Individuals: Researchers at Canadian universities.

Purpose: To evaluate and select proposals submitted by Canadian university researchers. Retention and

Disposal Standards: The unfunded project files are kept for two years. Approved project files are retained for six years after completion of project. PAC Number: 78-001

TBS Registration: 001399 Bank Number:

ENV PPU 035

Water Resources Research Support Program (WRRSP)

Description: Contains project details including research plan, state-of-the-art reviews, budgetary requirements, progress reports, project reviews and assessments as well as personal data such as name and curriculum vitae. All files relate to scientists at Canadian universities.

This bank is established and maintained at headquarters and is restricted to management personnel and research scientists within the directorate, but is occasionally extended to the service level, other services of the Department and to other departments. Class of Individuals: Scientists at Canadian universities.

Purpose: To evaluate proposals submitted by researchers at Canadian universities for funding consideration. Retention and Disposal Standards:

Unfunded project files are retained for two years, then discarded; funded project files are retained for six years after completion of project. The program was discontinued in 1986. Bibliographic data on funded reports are stored in Environment Canada's WATDOC.

Wildlife Permit Information

Description: This bank contains information gathered from permits required by Act of Convention for the purposes of protecting, managing, and regulating the use of certain species of birds or animals and their habitat. Specific information includes the Migratory Birds Permit information, which is gathered under the legal requirements of the Migratory Birds Convention Act such as avicultural permits, taxidermists permits, scientific permits, migratory bird damage permits, airport permits, eiderdown permits, Cap Tourmente hunting permits, Migratory Birds Convention Act permits; banding and collecting permits, migratory game birds hunting permits and special permits. Information gathered by permits for the import, export or transit of endangered species is also contained in this database. Class of Individuals:

Information such as names, addresses, telephone numbers, occupations, and type of permit requested are kept on individuals applying for Migratory Birds Permits in the five Canadian regions (Pacific and Yukon, Western and Northern Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic Regions).

Purpose: To compile information under the Migratory Birds Convention Act if any enquiries are made for legal or other purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retention of 15 years; active for five years and dormant for ten years, then transferred to the National Archives of Canada for selective retention. PAC Number: 84-024

General Correspondence and Enquiries

Personal information is also stored within subject files where records are not normally retrieved by the name of the individual or other personal identifier. This form of personal information consists of requests for publications, reports etc. and enquiries for information of a general nature. It is normally retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter. Retention of this form of personal information is controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Ministerial Correspondence

This class of information contains correspondence addressed to the Minister and/or the Deputy Minister and received by the Departmental Correspondence Unit from external organizations and individuals in the form of requests for information, complaints, opinions and other submissions related to a broad range of policy issues pertaining to Environment Canada's activities, wherein some unsolicited personal information has been provided by the correspondent. This form of information would be retrievable only if specifics of name, date of communication and subject were provided; it is not arranged or retrievable by personal identifiers. The retention period of these classes of personal information are controlled by the records schedules of the subject files in which the information is stored.

Export Development Corporation

Chapter 42

General Information

PLEASE NOTE: THE EXPORT DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION IS NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACCESS TO INFORMATION ACT.

Background

The Export Development Corporation (EDC) was established on October 1, 1969, by the Export Development Act. The Export Development Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty in right of Canada and is a Crown corporation whose shares may be owned only by Canada. It is accountable for its affairs to Parliament through the Minister for International Trade. Both the Export Development Corporation and its predecessor, the Export Credits Insurance Corporation which commenced operations in 1944, were created to facilitate and develop trade between Canada and other countries.

The Corporation achieves this through a wide range of insurance, guarantee and financing services not normally provided by the public sector.

The Export Development Corporation's services are provided to help Canadian exporters who offer products competitive in price, quality, delivery and service, to compete internationally.

chronological order under the name of the individual requesting the information. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records retained for two years or until such time as the individual has had the opportunity to exercise all his or her rights under the Privacy Act. TBS Registration: 000150 Bank Number: EDC PPU 005

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Export Development Corporation, categories of personal information not used for administrative purposes may be accumulated. Such personal information includes, among other things, general biographies of individuals in relation to EDC's program services. This form of personal information is retrievable if specifics are provided concerning transactions filed e.g. names of exporters, countries and projects, rather than by name of individual or other personal identifier.

Other information provided by or about individuals may also be found in corporate record holdings such as information services, telecommunications, accounts payable and library files. This class of personal information is retrievable only if the requester identifies, in sufficient detail, the subject of the information that they wish to access. The retention periods are controlled by the record schedules of the general subject files in which they are stored.

Farm Credit Corporation Canada

Chapter 43

General Information

Background

The Farm Credit Corporation was established in 1959, under the Farm Credit Act, as a Crown agency reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Agriculture. Its objective was to provide long-term mortgage credit to farmers and to syndicates of farmers. The Farm Credit Corporation Act became law in April, 1993, repealing the Farm Credit Act and the Farm Syndicates Credit Act. The Farm Syndicates Credit Act remains open until such time as all advances are repaid by the Corporation or otherwise forgiven or written off.

Responsibilities

The Corporation makes and administers farm loans under the authority of the Farm Credit Corporation Act to enhance rural Canada by providing specialized and personalized financial services to farming operations, including family farms, and to those businesses in rural Canada, including small and medium-sized businesses, that are related to farming. As well, it administers programs as directed by the federal government.

Legislation

- Farm Credit Corporation Act
- Farm Syndicates Credit Act (Section 8.1)

Organization

In order to fulfil its mandate, the Corporation has established a network of offices to serve the farming community. Corporate headquarters is located in Regina. Regional offices correspond geographically with provincial boundaries except for Atlantic Canada, where the four provinces are served by a Regional Centre located in Moncton, N.B., and the Yukon, which is served by the Alberta/British Columbia regional office located in Edmonton, Alberta. The regional offices are functionally organized into a lending services group, including all field operations, and a loan administration group. In addition to the six regional offices, the Corporation has 100 district and field offices.

Corporate headquarters is organized into six component groups.

■ Executive Office

This Office consists of the Chairman and the President. The Chairman is Chief Executive Officer of the Corporation, is a member of the Board of the Corporation and is responsible for the supervision and direction of all work and staff of the Corporation. The President is a member of the Board of the Corporation and exercises all of the powers and duties of the Chairman in his absence. As Chief Operating Officer, he directs the business of the Corporation and exercises all other powers and duties as may be assigned to him by the Chairman or the Board of the Corporation.

■ Planning and Credit

Planning and Credit consists of:

Lending – responsible for the Corporation's overall lending activities, which include lending and administration of loans, client services and regional operations,

Policy Approval and Training – responsible for approval of lending and for loans in excess of regional limits and administration exceptions,

Loan Administration and Systems Design – responsible for administration of accounts and maintenance of monitoring systems,

Approval and Environmental Management – responsible for quality of appraisals and environmental policy and control,

Portfolio Management – responsible for loan monitoring, economic information and corporate planning, research and development.

■ Financial Services

Financial Services is responsible for the overall financial management of the Corporation including financial risk management, funding, cash management, corporate accounting, financial reporting and internal controls. It also ensures that the financial provisions of the Farm Credit Corporation Act and the financial management provisions of the Financial Administration Act are effectively employed by the Corporation.

■ Corporate Audit

Corporate Audit has a comprehensive audit plan. It performs regular regional loan portfolio audits and conducts periodic reviews of systems and practices related to head office and regional operations. It is also responsible for the coordination of all audit activities: internal audits, external financial attest audits and special examinations.

■ Corporate Management Services

Corporate Management Services directs, controls, and advises on management information, communications, administrative and human resources services.

■ Agri-Land

Agri-Land is responsible for managing FCC's land holdings in Saskatchewan. It manages and markets FCC's land holdings in Saskatchewan through tenant search and selection, lease negotiations, land and rental valuations, appraisals, environmental assessments and land sales.

Federal Business Development Bank

Chapter 44

General Information

Background

The Federal Business Development Bank (FBDB), a Crown corporation, was established by the Federal Business Development Bank Act (proclaimed in force on October 2, 1975) to succeed the Industrial Development Bank (IDB), which was formed in 1944.

While the IDB was primarily concerned with the provision of financial assistance, the Federal Business Development Bank was created to promote and assist in the establishment and development of business enterprises in Canada by providing financial assistance, management counselling, management training, information and advice, with particular consideration to the needs of small businesses. The Bank provides small business enterprises with a single source from which both financing and information suited to their unique requirements may be obtained. A network of branches across Canada provide the full range of the Bank's services to small businesses located in each branch territory.

Responsibilities

The Bank is responsible for acting as a supplemental lender, providing funds by means of loans and equity financing to small and medium-sized businesses that cannot obtain the funds elsewhere on reasonable terms and conditions. It often caters to the needs of firms that may be either too small, too far from commercial centres, or too specialized to be able to attract the attention of conventional lenders. Through its Venture Capital Division, the Bank is also responsible for providing equity capital in addition to, or in place of, loans and guarantees.

Legislation

- Federal Business Development Bank Act

Organization

The Bank has a network of branches across Canada organized into five regions: British Columbia and the Yukon, Prairies and Northern region, Ontario, Quebec, and Atlantic. The Bank's head office is located in Montreal and there are regional offices in Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax.

The regional offices provide guidance to branches with respect to the application of established Bank policy and procedures. They also process financing applications for amounts exceeding branch limits. They are responsible for all management services activities in the region, and for ensuring that the general public within the region has access to the Bank's management training services, management counselling and financial and strategic planning services.

The branches provide financing, counselling and management training services to small business located within their particular territory. Enquiries and applications for financing are received by branch personnel and processed in accordance with established policy and procedure. The branches are also responsible for the efficient operation of management services activities in their geographical area, and for ensuring that the general public has access to the Bank's services.

The various services and departments of the Bank include the following:

Financial Services

■ Loans Division

Establishes and oversees policies and procedures with respect to the provision of financial assistance to small and medium-sized businesses. In addition, the Division oversees the management of the Bank's loan portfolio for the entire life of all accounts. Most financing is provided in the form of loans for such purposes as purchasing fixed assets, replenishing working capital, refinancing, and financing a change of ownership. Guarantees may be provided to other financial institutions to enable a business to obtain an adequate line of credit.

■ Venture Capital Division

Responsible for all equity and venture capital financing. Its role is to act as a catalyst in stimulating the formation of risk capital for companies with high growth potential. It ensures that all proposals satisfy Bank policy and are financially viable. This Division assesses, on a continuing basis, the adequacy and suitability of investment policy and procedures and, when necessary, recommends changes. The services of this Division include direct purchase of a minority ownership interest, underwriting of private placements, joint ventures, syndication of proposals to other venture capitalists and financial institutions, as well as assistance in mergers and acquisitions.

Head Office Departments

■ Corporate Affairs

Responsible for short and long-term strategies, analysis of existing activities and corporate development. It also provides information on economic conditions and the impact of the Bank's activities upon the economy. This department is responsible for advertising and public relations to promote the role and activities of the Bank and also for the coordination of communication between the Bank and the Minister, the government and members of Parliament, and has responsibility for international relations.

■ Corporate Secretariat

Responsible for the Board of Directors, its Committees, and responses to Parliament.

■ Finance and Administration

Responsible for all accounting in the Bank, payroll services and overall administration support services including lease administration of the Bank's premises.

■ Human Resources

Provides the Bank with corporate-wide human resources management. It is also responsible for official languages.

■ Insurance

Responsible for insurance related to loan security and corporate insurance.

■ Internal Audit and Programme Evaluation

Conducts periodic reviews of systems of internal control over Bank operations.

■ Legal Services

Provides legal advice to the Bank in connection with its specific program activities and support departments.

■ Management Systems

Develops and maintains business systems (manual and computerized) to support the operational functions and management information needs of the Bank.

■ Treasury

Responsible for funding of corporate cash requirements, monitoring of cash flow, deposit and investment of corporate funds and interest rate forecasts.

Management Services Division

The Management Services Division is responsible for promoting and assisting the establishment and development of small business in Canada by providing management counselling, management training and financial and strategic planning services.

■ Management Counselling Service

Counsels business persons on how to engage in small business in Canada through the facilities of the Counselling Assistance to Small Enterprises (CASE) program. Strategic Planning is a service designed to help businesses methodically plan each stage of their development. The Financial Planning service involves the Bank undertaking an analysis of business proposals and completing a report to be used by financial institutions and government agencies to properly assess the entrepreneur's application for funding.

■ Management Training Service

Presents a continuing program of small business and management seminars to the general public across Canada. In conjunction with business associations and small businesses, the Service presents management seminars oriented toward specific industries to groups of business people. It also writes, publishes and distributes a series of adult education courses on small business management (owner/manager courses) for provincial and territorial ministries of education. Finally, it organizes and supports workshops, conferences, and clinics for the promotion of good management practices with small businesses. It also writes, publishes and distributes to the public a continuing series of booklets on small business topics.

Organization

The Federal Office of Regional Development (Quebec) is headed by the Deputy Minister, who is assisted by three Assistant Deputy Ministers responsible for Operations, Ministerial Services, and Policy and Liaison, respectively.

■ Operations

The Operations Sector is responsible for FORD(Q) program development and delivery in the regions and the coordination and management of federal-provincial agreements. Three branches and a network of regional offices carry out the various activities in this sector.

- Technological and Industrial Development Branch
- Development – Service Industries Branch

In its particular sphere of activity, each of these branches attempts to ensure that the policies and measures put forward by various federal departments adequately address the needs of Quebec. They propose any necessary adjustments or correctives to such policies and measures. If required, the branches may initiate additional measures to be carried out by FORD(Q), other federal departments or jointly with the government of Quebec.

■ Operations Coordination Directorate

The Directorate provides operational support and serves as a clearing house for FORD(Q) programs. It helps to formulate policies on the provision of programs and the interpretation of terms and conditions. In addition, the Operations Coordination Directorate provides quality control and ensures the integrity and consistency of program delivery.

■ Regional Offices

Regional Offices located in the different regions of Quebec are the nerve centres for the delivery of FORD(Q) programs and services. They play an active role in setting departmental priorities and policies and in adapting programs to the regional context. The FORD(Q) teams working in the regions represent the Department in dealings with local bodies and hold consultations in the community on specific issues. The regional offices are, among other things, a vehicle for the federal government to publicize its policies and actions in the area of regional economic development.

Ministerial Services

■ Corporate Secretariat

The Corporate Secretariat is responsible for the administrative mechanisms set up to respond efficiently to the needs of Parliament, the Minister, the Deputy Minister and management. The Secretariat coordinates the preparation of an integrated set of briefings for the various activities in which the Minister and Deputy Minister are called to participate, as well as the preparation and forwarding of submissions to Treasury Board and Memorandum to Cabinet for the Minister's approval. It also serves as a focal point for the business community and the general public, for the distribution of its other functions including the management of the policy related to the Access to Information Act and the Privacy Act, and the management of ministerial correspondence. Other functions, which are concentrated in the Hull office, include parliamentary relations.

■ Finance, Administration and Corporate Services

The Finance, Administration and Corporate Services Directorate provides notification and advice with regard to budgetary planning. It is responsible for preparing the multi-year Operational Plan, Part III of the Principal Budget, and Public Accounts. Its mandate is to conduct an independent review of the contribution payments file and to ensure liaison with the Auditor General of Canada. This unit develops and manages the technology within the department, as well as the information management systems and the data bases. It is also responsible for the management of all administrative and technical services.

In order to fulfil this mandate, the Directorate has negotiated working agreements with Public Works and Government Services (PWGS), Government Telecommunications and Informatic Services (GTIS), as well as Info-entrepreneurs, for purchasing numerous services in several of the domains related to its operations.

■ Human Resources Branch

This directorate offers a whole range of services to managers and employees. It provides professional services, in collaboration with his partner, Public Works and Government Services Canada, with regard to classification and staffing, manpower and job equity planning, initial and on-going training, work relations, official languages, remuneration and fringe benefits. The directorate also offers access to a career assistance and orientation program.

The Human Resources Directorate is also responsible for providing the Deputy Minister and higher Management with advice and recommendations on the implementation of major programs, policies, and initiatives which affect the personnel of the FORD(Q). These programs and policies reflect the policies and guidelines of the central agencies.

Its role is also to facilitate strategic and operational changes, to formulate recommendations in several sectors of responsibility, and to ensure that all personnel are treated equitably.

■ Polycy and Liaison

The Analysis and Partnership Directorate is responsible for defining the Office's approach to regional development in Quebec and for program evaluation. It is also in charge of federal-provincial cooperation in Quebec. It develops partnership strategies with the various federal, provincial and private bodies operating in the area of regional development. Finally, it analyzes the state of, and trends within, the economy of Quebec and its regions.

The Liaison and Regional Representation Directorate, whose office is located in the National Capital regional in Hull, has the mission of defending and promoting Quebec's interests within the federal structure through developing national policies and initiatives. The Directorate also aims at maximizing, within Quebec, the industrial and regional benefits resulting from public purchases and major federal projects. It is also responsible for monitoring free trade issues at the international (GATT-OMC agreement), continental (NAFTA) and national (Domestic Trade Agreement) levels. Finally, it ensures parliamentary liaison with Cabinet.

■ Communications

One of the main roles of the Communications Branch is to advise the Minister, senior management and program managers on communication matters. The Branch develops and implements strategic communication plans and public relations and promotional programs with a view to ensuring appropriate visibility for the Department's achievements.

The Communications Branch organizes and invites the media to public events in connection with projects to which the Department contributes. In addition, it produces advertisements, represents the Department at fairs and symposiums and publishes material on the programs and services offered by the Department, coordinates regional communication activities, and provides strategic advice on promotional matters. The Branch also maintains liaison with other federal departments and agencies, other levels of government and the private sector.

Fisheries and Oceans

Chapter 46

General Information

Background

At the time of printing the Department of Fisheries and Oceans was undergoing significant organizational changes. For current information on the organizational structure of the Department please call Communications Directorate at 993-0999.

The Department of Fisheries and Oceans (DFO) is responsible for a wide range of activities that support Canada's economic, ecological and scientific endeavours in the oceans and inland waters. Providing for the conservation, development and sustained economic utilization of our nation's fisheries resources in Canadian waters and beyond, rests with DFO. Also a part of DFO's mission is the coordination of the Government of Canada's policies and programs respecting oceans.

Responsibilities

In carrying out Fisheries and Oceans' mandate, DFO personnel are engaged in diverse and challenging tasks and activities, working from coast to coast, including the Arctic, in various capacities. The activities of the Department are varied and multi-dimensional. Employees work from offices, field camps, ships and helicopters. Their talents range from native and community liaison officers, to enforcement officers, fish inspectors, patrol and research vessel officers and crew, scientists with a wide range of disciplines, and policy analysts and advisors. To ensure that Canadians obtain the maximum economic and social benefit from their fisheries resources, DFO must maintain effective control of domestic and foreign fishing within Canada's 200-nautical-mile fishing limit. Preventing over-exploitation and depletion of fish stocks requires constant surveillance from land, sea and air and readiness to enforce rules when necessary. Surveillance and enforcement are important, not only to the offshore and coastal fishery, but to the inland fishery as well, where fishery officers must watch for threats to habitat, violations of net or area regulations and survey salmon streams and spawning grounds. Quality and safety of domestic and imported fish and seafood products are the concerns of DFO fish inspectors, who work in laboratories and in the field to ensure that stringent national standards are met. Their work covers all links in the production chain including vessels, landings, facilities for unloading, handling and transportation, processing plants and finished products. In essence, the work of DFO employees involved in scientific programs is to develop and communicate a better understanding of Canada's marine and freshwater environments. The scope of fisheries and aquatic research ranges from studies of primary production to physical oceanography and limnology (studies in freshwater) to hydrographic surveying and charting. DFO science programs also address pressing environmental issues of consequence to Canada's aquatic resources including acid rain and the behaviour and effects of marine contaminations. These examples are the tip of the iceberg. Departmental responsibilities span many other areas, including the administration of commercial fishing and recreational small craft harbours, fisheries development and fish marketing and initiatives in support of international fisheries negotiations. Information on these activities is summarized elsewhere in this publication.

Organization

OUR REGIONS

Most of DFO's employees work in a network of regional offices, research establishments and laboratories throughout Canada. About eleven per cent work in the National Capital Region.

DFO's effectiveness in fulfilling its mission depends first and foremost on the strength of our regional operations units and the ability of these front-line units to meet specific resource and geographic needs across Canada.

Following are thumbnail sketches of each of DFO's six regions.

■ Central and Arctic

DFO's Central and Arctic Region represents 64 per cent of the area of Canada, encompassing four provinces and the Northwest Territories. The region contains about 67 percent of our country's freshwater and seven of the 14 largest lakes in the world.

DFO's science activities in this region are internationally recognized. They support activity in four areas of the federal fisheries mandate: conservation, management and protection of the Arctic fishery resources; development and rehabilitation of the fishery resources throughout the region; protection of freshwater fish habitat; and support of cleanup and preservation initiatives in the Great Lakes.

Recreational fishing is particularly important in this region, which accounts for 60 percent of Canada's recreational anglers. Indeed this is a region in which recreational fishery landings exceed the commercial catch.

About 50 per cent of the commercial catch is marketed through a crown corporation the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation.

■ Gulf

DFO established the Gulf Region in 1981. This was done in recognition of fact that the Gulf of St. Lawrence constitutes a single ecological and social-economic complex that requires its own management regime.

The region, geographically one of DFO's largest, comprises the Gulf coasts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island.

The region's fishery is the traditional source of livelihood for 1,000 or more small towns, villages and other settlements on the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

■ Newfoundland

The Newfoundland Region comprises the province of Newfoundland and Labrador and adjoining marine waters.

For more than four centuries, the socio-economic history of the province – as a colony, as an independent region and as a member of the Canadian Confederation – has been dominated by the fishery. Perhaps in no other part of Canada is there such a deep sense, in virtually the entire population, of the vital importance of this historic industry.

The commercial fishery is overwhelmingly a groundfish fishery with cod the dominant species.

Newfoundland also has a small but growing high-tech oceans science and technology industry.

■ Pacific

The Pacific Region oversees west coast marine resources and the inland fisheries of the Yukon Territory. Because the region is entrusted with managing and protecting Pacific salmon, it is involved with 105 river systems in B.C. as well as two transboundary northern rivers: the Stikine and Taku.

Salmon is the best known and most valuable west coast fishery, the management of which presents Pacific Region with an immense challenge. Among the key priorities for this Region are the conservation of the salmon resource, and management of the native fishery.

The DFO region is home to a large segment of Canada's oceans science and technology industry.

■ Quebec

The Quebec Region covers more than 6,000 kilometres of coastline. In 1993, the Region served a fisheries sector which included 5,170 fishermen, 1,907 vessels and 109 fish processing plants. The Region manages more than 380 small crafts harbours. It furnishes hydrographic services for navigation and respond to the research needs of industry in matters related to exploitation of ocean resources. A total of 56,000 tonnes of fish valued at $88 million were landed in 1990.

DFO's newest marine science research centre, the Maurice-Lamontagne Institute is located in the Region at Mont-Joli, and is active in the areas of fisheries, oceanographic and hydrographic research. An ultra-modern and highly sophisticated fish inspection centre, the René-Poirier Laboratory, is located near Montreal, the second largest point of entry and export of fish in Canada.

Since 1984, DFO has assumed the entire responsibility for managing the marine fishery in Quebec, except for anadromous and catadromous species which are managed by the province. This federal/provincial arrangement is new for Quebec and has brought about an unprecedented restructuring of the Quebec Region's marine fisheries.

■ Scotia-Fundy

The Scotia-Fundy Region covers a land area of 72,124 square kilometres, with 3,452 kilometres of coastline. The Region manages fish resources for the commercial, native and recreational fisheries, and provides fisheries science, fish inspection and harbour support for the Scotia Shelf, Bay of Fundy and Georges Bank. It also maintains habitat management in inland rivers, streams and lakes within the regions boundaries in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The Region is also responsible for hydrographic surveying and charting, and physical, chemical, and biological process studies throughout the Atlantic and Eastern Arctic zones.

The Region has a year-round, highly diversified fishery. In 1993, the Scotia-Fundy commercial fishery included 1,6042 fishermen, 5713 fishing vessels, 300 active fishing harbours, and over 350 federally registered fish processing plants employing 11,000 workers. The rural distribution of much of the fishery makes an important contribution to the economies of small communities.

In 1993 the Scotia-Fundy commercial fishery landed 441,000 tonnes of fish, valued at $452 million. Processing this catch approximately doubles this value. Provincial export income for fisheries products in 1993 was $751 million for Nova Scotia and $338 million for New Brunswick. Added to this is the growing value from the recreational fishery.

The oceans science and technology industry is strongly represented in Scotia-Fundy and relies on DFO scientific support and science programs.

■ Biological Sciences

This sub-activity is responsible for conducting stock assessments and related research on all major fisheries resource species to provide the scientific basis for managing the fisheries resource for its sustained utilization. Research is also conducted on the dynamics of marine and freshwater ecosystems. In addition, this sub-activity is responsible for research and experimental development to provide the necessary scientific advice and services for aquaculture in Canada; for augmenting the production of wild stocks of fish, aquatic invertebrates and marine plants; and for curbing the introduction and spread of communicable fish diseases. In the area of fish habitat, this sub-activity is responsible for the development of scientific knowledge and the provision of scientific advice and services needed for managing the habitat of fish, aquatic invertebrates, marine mammals and marine plants.

■ Capital assets management

This sub-activity involves the management of DFO's capital assets, which comprise Small Craft Harbours and all other departmental assets, such as special-purpose buildings and other facilities, vessels and a wide range of equipment. These assets are indispensable to the delivery of Fisheries and Oceans' management, inspection and science programs.

■ Communication

Responsible for the Department's corporate communications activities. It develops communications strategies and supports the initiatives of all sectors as well as scientific publications.

■ Corporate Services

To provide executive direction and coordination and corporate administrative services and human resource planning in support of DFO's program objectives. This includes directing acquisitions and providing the framework for management of the department's capital resources and assets.

Corporate Services' function is to ensure that the Department is served by a well organized and coherent management process and is provided with the information needed for planning, control and decision-making. The organization also provides administrative, personnel, information and technical services, internal audit, evaluation, and financial support to all DFO sectors.

■ Crown Corporations

The Minister of Fisheries and Oceans is designated as the Minister responsible for a Crown Corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act: the Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC). Advice and analysis of issues relating to the operations and mandate of this Crown Corporation are provided to the Minister on an ongoing basis. The Department coordinates on an annual basis the development and approval by Treasury Board and the Department of Finance of the Corporate Plan and Operating and Capital Budgets of this corporation.

■ Finance and Administration

Provides advice and services to the departmental executive, program managers and regional finance and/or management services officers in the areas of resource management, financial planning and reporting, accounting, policy and systems, contracting and procurement, asset and facility management, and administration.

■ Fisheries Management includes

Resource conservation and allocation involving the development of fishery management plans, policies, programs and regulations that protect the biomass to ensure self-generation of stocks and the fair distribution of harvestable surpluses among user groups to ensure an orderly and equitable harvest. Also included are marine mammal stock assessment and surveys, cooperative management of marine mammal resources in the Arctic, coordination of the annual seal hunt, and management of a $2.8M Assistance to the Sealing Industry Program.

Licensing as the means for regulating participation in and access to the fishery to ensure that the harvest remains within conservation limits and promotes economic viability for individual participants.

Atlantic Fisheries and Pacific Region Licence Appeal Boards (AFLAB and PRLAB) were established to hear appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions. The Boards also consider general problems on licensing policy and make recommendations to the Minister.

■ Fisheries Prices Support Board

The Fisheries Prices Support Board, subject to approval of the Governor-in-Council, is authorized to purchase fishery products at prescribed prices, to sell or otherwise dispose of such products, or to make deficiency payments to fishers or fish producers on specific species. Currently there are no deficiency payment programs in place. The Board also procures fish products on behalf of the Canadian International Development Agency to meet the needs of bilateral and world food-aid programs. Currently, the FPSB is finalizing the procurement of canned mackerel for CIDA.

■ Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan

The Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan was established in 1953 by an Appropriation Act, to assist fishers to meet abnormal capital losses. The current objective of the Plan is to provide insurance coverage and benefits at reasonable rates for all eligible fishing vessels in Canada regardless of risk or location. The Plan operates from a National Headquarters located in St. John's, Newfoundland, and four regional offices (St. John's, Nfld., Halifax, N.S., Moncton, N.B., and Vancouver, B.C.)

■ Habitat Management and Sustainable Development

Includes defining the department's environment and habitat management and sustainable development strategic priorities to be consistent with overall government objectives and priorities. Also includes carrying out operational responsibilities in the areas of Habitat Management and Environmental Protection.

■ Hydrography

The mission of the Canadian Hydrographic Service is to promote and facilitate safe use of Canada's navigable waters. Its work includes bathymetric, tide and current surveys and the preparation and distribution of bathymetric maps navigational charts, tide and current tables, sailing directions and related publications. These activities are essential to commercial mariners, fishermen, recreational boaters and the Canadian Navy.

Technological development is an important aspect of all DFO Science activities. This is particularly true of aquaculture and resource development, ocean sciences and hydrography. DFO routinely transfers proven technology it develops to the Canadian oceans industry.

■ Information Management and Technical Services

Provides the National applications and infrastructure to support the Program objectives and administration needs of the Department.

Provides functional direction to Information Management and Technology activities throughout the Department to ensure operational, research, administrative and management information needs are met economically, effectively and efficiently.

■ Inspection Branch

To achieve and maintain a fish harvesting and processing industry and market where consumers and industry alike are assured of the value, wholesomeness and marketability of fish and fish products, whether produced for export or for domestic consumption. This includes development and promotion of appropriate product and process standards that contribute to the achievement of acceptable quality, safety and identity of fish and fish products, and providing reasonable assurance of compliance with these standards. These functions are fulfilled through the operation of DFO's National Fish Inspection Program. The program is conducted under the authority of the following statutes and regulations: The Fish Inspection Act and Regulations and the Management of Contaminated Fisheries Regulations (under the Fisheries Act). DFO also enforces parts of the Food and Drug Regulations and the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Regulations that apply to fish and shellfish products.

■ Internal Audit and Program Evaluation Branch

Advises on the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls, and identifies areas where improvements are needed. Responsible for undertaking specific evaluation studies and making recommendations for the discontinuation, modification or confirmation of policies and programs.

■ International Affairs

To advance Canada's international fisheries interests in conservation and trade.

This DFO activity, conducted in cooperation with Foreign Affairs and International Trade and other federal government departments, includes negotiation and administration of international fisheries treaties and agreements. International Fisheries also participates in the formulation and representation of Canada's position regarding fisheries trade policy, settlement of boundary disputes and market-access questions. Staff of the directorate also participate in nine international scientific and conservation fisheries commissions.

■ Native Affairs

Includes the development of Native fisheries policy and administration of the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy, a program for the negotiation of agreements with First Nation in British Columbia, the Atlantic provinces and Arctic Canada on Aboriginal involvement in all aspects of Fisheries and fish habitat management. This Directorate is also responsible for negotiations under the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy of the participation of First Nations in commercial fishing and related economic opportunities.

The Native Affairs Branch is also responsible for participating in the negotiation of fisheries provisions of land claims settlements in British Columbia, the Northwest Territories, Newfoundland and Quebec offshore, in the implementation of the land claims of the TFN, and the CYI and the Aboriginal self-government negotiations as appropriate.

■ Personnel Directorate

Provides a full range of human resource management advice and services to the departmental executive, program managers and regional personnel officers for such areas as human resource planning, classification and organization, staffing and workforce adjustment, executive resourcing, staff relations, compensations, training and development, employment equity, official languages, occupational health and safety, incentive/merit awards, employee assistance program and career counselling, and personnel management information systems.

■ Physical and Chemical Sciences

Activities under this heading encompass the study of the ocean's physical and chemical properties, processes and phenomena as they relate to: living marine resources; safety and efficiency of marine operations; climate and the effect of the oceans on climate; behaviour of organic and inorganic materials and their impact on fish and ecosystems; and monitoring and study of contaminants and their occurrence in fish and fish habitat.

DFO scientists provide data to clients in government and industry, including regulatory agencies. They also develop and transfer marine technology to the ocean industry.

■ Policy, Strategic Planning and Consultation

The Sector is responsible for strategic policy, planning and cabinet affairs, economic policy and analysis, legislative review, federal/provincial relations, recreational fisheries and aquaculture, native affairs, habitat management and sustainable development and the Atlantic groundfish strategy.

■ Recreational Fisheries and Aquaculture

Includes the promotion of fish and fish habitat conservation in the recreational fishery, and the promotion of sustainable development of recreational fishery potential.

Aquaculture is working in conjunction with other federal agencies to develop a Federal Aquaculture Development Strategy. The Strategy is being developed in close consultation with industry and the provinces. The Department has the critical role of facilitating private-sector development in the aquaculture sector by creating a climate for entrepreneurship and innovation.

■ Regulations and Enforcement

To ensure compliance with the legislation and policies and programs that relate to the conservation of Canada's fisheries resources and to ensure their best use by present and future generations.

These services include the development and implementation of national and regional compliance policies and programs in support of legislation and management initiatives, to encourage compliance by user groups and the public. Compliance is promoted by information and education activities and enforcement programs are delivered through air, sea and land surveillance programs. There is interaction and coordination with other federal and provincial agencies, eg. as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, intensive training programs, the most visible interaction is demonstrated by the activities of 750 Fishery Officers. Fishery Officers enforce compliance in all of Canada's tidal waters and in the inland waters of Canada with the exception of Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces. In those areas, responsibility for ensuring compliance with federal legislation has been delegated to provincial conservation officers.

■ Resource and Industry Development

Programs contribute to the stability and viability of fishing and fishing related industries. Activities are aimed at more cost-efficient exploitation of the fisheries resource; productivity and quality related improvements to fish harvesting and processing practices; new product development; introduction of more selective harvesting technology and value-added processing technology; and resource development such as that achieved under the Pacific Salmonoid Enhancement Program.

■ Science

To ensure that the highest standard of scientific information is available to the Government of Canada for use in developing policies, regulations and legislation regarding the oceans and aquatic life, and to other government departments, private industry and the public for use in planning and carrying out aquatic activities.

■ Strategic Policy and Planning

Includes corporate policy development and coordination, strategic planning, economic analysis in support of policy development, market analysis and intelligence, federal/provincial relations, and legislative review, regulation and Atlantic groundfish strategy initiatives.

■ Structural Adjustment Programs

Activities include the development and implementation of jointly funded federal/provincial income replacement programs that contribute to structural adjustment in the industry by assisting older plant workers and fishers to leave the industry. This involves negotiations, liaison and coordination with provincial governments and other federal departments, and program delivery. Programs include the Plant Workers Adjustment Program (PWAP) and the Northern Cod Early Retirement Program (NCERP).

■ The Atlantic Groundfish Strategy

The TAGS Directorate has the responsibility for the development and implementation of DFO policies and programs responding to the Atlantic groundfish crisis and mandated through the $1.9 b strategy which began May 16, 1994. Responsibilities include support to Human Resources Development Canada (HRDC) in the assessment of fishermen's eligibility for the income support and training benefits provided under TAGS, and for the designation of groundfish plants to allow HRDC to assess the eligibility of plantworkers. Specifically, the Directorate has been mandated to implement a harvesting capacity reduction plan which comprises both licence retirement and early retirement programs for groundfish fishermen. Advice on the implementation of capacity reduction will be provided through regional Harvesting Adjustment Boards (HAB). Activities are carried out in the three DFO Atlantic Regions and in Quebec and involve consultation with provincial government, fishermen's organizations, as well as with the other federal departments and agencies.

Information Holdings

Program Records

Arctic and Inland Fisheries

Description: Information on policy and program coordination and delivery in the Arctic and Inland Fisheries sector of the Department. Topics: Marine mammal stock assessment and surveys; inland fisheries management; fish habitat disruption; conservation of fishery and marine mammal resources in the Northwest Territories. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 033

Atlantic Groundfish Strategy Directorate

Description: Information on fishermen who applied for income support benefits under TAGS, and fishermen who applied for licence or early retirement benefits under the Strategy. Information includes name, address, SIN, FIN, VIN as well as other information which is also available through the Commercial Fishing Licence Database of other data bases in the department. The information is used to assess eligibility for benefits under the strategy. Program Record Number: DFO PPP 041

Capital Assets

Description: Information on the design, construction, purchase and operation of the departmental fleet, and on the development, construction and operations of small craft harbours, and other capital assets. Topics: Ship acquisition; berthing and wharfage; certificates; licences and acceptance papers; navigation; repairs; refit; harbour management and property administration; commercial fishing harbours; recreational harbours.

Storage Medium: Paper, micrographics, and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 120

Economic Policy and Analysis

Description: Information on policies, programs and activities in the areas of socio-economic research and analysis. Topics: Socio-economic research and policy; statistics; bank of information relating to Survey of Atlantic Fisheries, 1984. Program Record Number: DFO EPP 045

Enforcement

Description: Description: Conservation and protection of fisheries, surveillance and enforcement records. Topics: Offshore, inshore and inland surveillance and enforcement activities. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 115

Federal-Provincial Relations

Description: Information on federal-provincial -territorial consultations and deliberations and on strategies and negotiations adopted by the Department relating to the conduct of federal-provincial-territorial affairs. Topics: Economic and regional development agreements; frameworks for federal-provincial consultation and liaison; federal-provincial-territorial economic and constitutional issues. Program Record Number: DFO PPP 055

Fish Habitat Management

Description: Information on administration of the habitat protection provisions of the Fisheries act and activities related to habitat management, protection enforcement, restoration and development. Also information relation to DFO's involvement in federal environmental assessment. Topics: Habitat protection and operations, habitat planning, habitat restoration and development; resource rehabilitation and enhancement. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 025

Fish Inspection

Description: Inspection of fish products in export (including interprovincial trade) and import for safety and quality, inspection of industry Quality Management Program, and fairness of marketing. Topics: Product inspection and certification for export; monitoring of industry processing and grading practices; inspection of fish harvesting, handling, transportation, storage and processing facilities; introduction of quality improvement initiatives; development and testing of grade standards; development and enforcement of regulations. Access: Records are arranged numerically by subject. Storage Medium: Records in paper, micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 070

Fisheries and Biological Sciences

Description: Acquisition of the knowledge base and provision of scientific advice relative to the management and development of fisheries and biological sciences. Topics: Resource assessment; aquaculture and resource development; habitat assessment and development; and the many scientific disciplines included in research related to the above topics. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 010

Fisheries Licence Appeal Board

Description: Information on fisheries licences. Topics: Appeals from fishermen dissatisfied with departmental licensing decisions; licensing policy; recommendations to the Minister. Program Record Number: DFO AFS 018

Fisheries Operations

Description: Management of the fisheries, including habitat resource rehabilitation. Topics: Resource management; allocation and regulations development; licensing; native affairs – food fisheries; land claims and agreements; employment; band by-laws. Program Record Number: DFO PFF 030

Hydrographic Service

Description: Bathymetric data, navigational charts and other information on Canada's navigable waters and geophysical-hydrographic surveys. Navigation charts – surveys, chart production; tides, currents and water levels; sailing directions; ocean mapping; navigation. Topics: Navigation charts – surveys, production; tides, currents, and water levels; sailing directions; ocean mapping; navigation. Storage Medium: Full size graphics. Micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 080

Industry Services – Gear Technology Programs

Description: General Information on programs relating to, 1) the development of new technology and the improvement of existing fishing gear technology; and 2) the transfer of this technology to industry. Programs include, Northern Shrimps Selectivity, Deep Water Fishing, Review of Gear Technology Program. Topics: Specific information on each Program project by project Contract Number, geographical area, year and funding source. Access: Records arranged numerically by contract number, area, year. Some financial information on EDP data base. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 138

INDUSTRY SERVICES – 1) Underutilized Species, 2) Atlantic Fisheries Development Programs, 3) Atlantic Groundfish Adjustment Vessel Support Program

Description: 1) Information on under-utilized species including reports, studies, marketing and technological development; 2) Information on Atlantic Fisheries Development Programs; 3) Information on program design and implementation. Topics: Criteria, guidelines, audits, etc. Access: 1) by species and/or category; 2) binders by year; 3) chronological holdings. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 139

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Atlantic Fisheries Adjustment Program and Quebec Federal Fisheries Development Project

Description: General information on the programs and specific information on each project by Project Number. General information on programs relating to, 1) the development of new technology and the improvement of existing fishing gear technology; and, 2) the transfer of this technology to industry. Programs include, Northern Shrimps Selectivity, Deep Water

Fishing Program, Review of Fishing Gear Technology Program. Topics: Terms of reference, dollar value of the project, approval form and memo, ADS on the project. Specific information on each Program project by project Contract Number, geographical area, year, and funding source. Access: EDP data base and records arranged numerically by Project Number. Records arranged numerically by Contract Number, area, year. Some financial information on EDP data base. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 137

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Cooperation Agreement on Recreational Fisheries Development for the Atlantic Provinces

Description: Information on administration of Cooperation Agreements such as expenditures and projects supported by the various programs. Topics: Habitat enhancement, economic and commercial development of the industry, Commercial Salmon Licence Retirement Program. Access: Regional holdings. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 140

INDUSTRY SERVICES – Marketing and Market Development

Description: Statistical information describing national and international markets, catches, landings and production as provided by national and world organizations. Various national and international trade publications. Topics: Statistical fishery publications from throughout the global fishing community (both private and public), Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations publications and online databases, studies exploring world market conditions for various species, Canadian Embassy seafood market reports (Japan), fishery trade/market publications. Access: Publications and records arranged by subject. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 141

Informatics and Administration

Description: Informatics and Administration Directorate records. Topics: Development and implementation of national information and administrative systems to meet operational, research, administrative and management information needs. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 130

Internal Audit

Description: Internal Audit Directorate records. Topics: Advice on the efficiency, economy and effectiveness of internal management policies, practices and controls; improvements required. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 135

International Relations

Description: Development and implementation of policy and provision of expertise on matters involving international fisheries and fisheries trade relations. Topics: International relations; international trade and development. Access: Files arranged numerically by subject. Storage Medium: Micrographics and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO INT 065

Native Affairs

Description: Information on native policies, programs and issues. Topics: Native issues and programs; land claims. Program Record Number: DFO PSP 051

Physical and Chemical Sciences

Description: Studies which support the management of renewable and non-renewable marine resources.

Topics: Physical oceanography; chemical oceanography; marine ecology; freshwater ecology; ocean dumping; university subventions; ocean engineering and technology transfer. Storage Medium: EDP format and data files. Program Record Number: DFO SCI 075

Program Evaluation

Description: Information relating to program evaluation policies, mandate, objectives, and guidelines. It also covers individual program evaluations conducted by the Branch. Topics: Subjects covered include departmental programs which have been reviewed. A five-year program evaluation plan is prepared and updated regularly. Some surveys of clients of federal fisheries and ocean science programs have been conducted and are included as banks of information. Storage Medium: Computer and paper files. Program Record Number: DFO CRP 050

Resource Allocation (Atlantic)

Description: Management and conservation of the fisheries for over twenty six groundfish, pelagic, shellfish and anadromous and marine mammals species and the harvesting of marine plants in coastal waters; categorization of fishers. Topics: Fisheries resource management; allocation among user groups; policy for and issuance of licenses to Canadians and foreigners; and registration of fishers and vessels. Records are arranged numerically by subject. Access: Records in paper, microfiche, and EDP format. Program Record Number: DFO RAD 015

Resource Allocation (Pacific, Arctic and Inland)

Description: Conservation, protection and enhancement of the commercial, Native and recreational fisheries resource; and marine habitat rehabilitation. Topics: Management of finfish, shellfish, marine mammals and marine plants in fresh and tidal waters; consultation and negotiation, both domestic and foreign; commercial, Native and harvesting arrangements; individual quota monitoring programs; regulations development; licensing; foreign and domestic observer programs; test fisheries. (Implementation of Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy Agreements. Salmonoid Enhancement Program. Stock enhancement, habitat rehabilitation [SEP]. Personal Information Banks

Atlantic Commercial Fishing Licence Database

Description: The bank contains an alphabetical listing of Atlantic commercial fishermen with complete licensing and fishing vessel profiles for each. The data are supplied to the Department by fishers on their licence application forms. The Key data elements are name, address, homeport, fishing category (full-time or part-time), fees paid, vessel name, vessel specifications, species licence entitlements, individual quotas, and DFO identification number. The data are used in developing fishing plans and some information is provided to the Canadian Coast Guard for vessel safety inspections and in cases of emergency. This bank may be used as a source of information for other banks such as Surveys (DFO PPU 075), Catch and Effort Data (DFO PPU 055), Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan (DFO PPU 015). For the purposes of enforcement and conducting investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data from Catch and Effort (DFO PPU 055) and DFO Violations (DFO PPU 060) are linked with this bank. Data from this bank is also shared with various provincial departments under s. 8(2)(f) of the Privacy Act, for the purposes of administering a law or conducting a legal investigation. Class of Individuals: Commercial fishermen Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to contribute to the process of establishing annual fishing plans. Retention and Disposal Standards: Retention standards are to be established. TBS Registration: 003621 Bank Number: DFO PPU 010

Catch and Effort Data

Description: The Department collects "Catch and Effort Data" through fish sales slips and fishing logbooks from commercial fish buyers and vessel skippers. The information identifies individual vessel and commercial buyer, species sold/purchased, amount paid, area of catch and fishing effort where applicable, on a trip by trip basis. For various purposes, including enforcement and conduct of investigations in accordance with Canadian fisheries legislation, data is linked with the Commercial Fishing Licence Database (DFO PPU 010) and DFO violations (DFO PPU 060). The Department's catch and effort data system is a decentralized one operated in coastal regional offices. Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation and Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources are responsible for catch statistics on inland fisheries in Prairie Provinces (including N.W.T.) and Ontario, respectively. Information in this bank relates to commercial fish buyers and vessel owners/skippers. The catch and effort data are used by the Department primarily for fish stock assessment purposes. Some personal information maintained in the bank is shared with the Nova Scotia Department of Fisheries with the written consent for disclosure from the individual to whom the information relates. In all the above areas, data are produced in reports containing no personal information. However, personal information is maintained in the bank. Class of Individuals: Commercial fish buyers and vessel skippers. Purpose: Used for stock assessment purposes. These data are also needed for economic analyses and program evaluations of various segments of the fisheries and for fisheries management purposes as authorized by the Fisheries Act and other acts of Parliament under the responsibility of the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information in this bank will be held indefinitely due to the historical value of the information. TBS Registration: 003622 Bank Number: DFO PPU 055

Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade

Chapter 47

General Information

Background

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade had its origin in an Act of Parliament in 1909 to deal with Canada's relations with other governments within the British Empire and with foreign states. In 1981, the foreign operations of the immigration service were brought into the Department. In January 1982, there was a fundamental reorganization to include the foreign trade policy and international trade component of the Industry, Trade and Commerce Department. In 1992 the Immigration component of the foreign service was transferred to Employment and Immigration Canada and certain other non-core functions, such as the World Exhibition program and international sport program, were transferred to other departments. In 1993 the Investment Development Division of Investment Canada was merged with the Department.

The Department of External Affairs Act, which came into force on December 7, 1983, sets forth the mandate of the Department and provides for three ministers, the Secretary of State for External Affairs (SSEA), a Minister for International Trade, and a Minister for External Relations. Since June 25, 1993 there has been no appointment to the latter position. The name of the Department was subsequently changed to External Affairs and International Trade Canada. In the fall of 1993 the Department assumed its present title, the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade (DFAIT), and the SSEA's title became Minister of Foreign Affairs. Two new Secretaries of State were appointed, for Latin America and Africa, and for Asia-Pacific.

Responsibilities

The Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade has the primary responsibility for the promotion and protection of Canada's interests abroad and the conduct of Canada's relations with other countries. Its main functions are: to ensure the effective representation of Canada in other countries and in international organizations including close contact, communications and negotiation with other governments and organizations through Canada's extensive network of representatives abroad; to evaluate information about political, economic and other developments likely to affect Canada's interests; to give advice to the government, often in consultation with other departments, on the formulation and implementation of policies and programs with international dimensions; to ensure the coordination of the external aspects and application of national policies for export trade promotion, defence and security, development assistance, immigration, and cultural and scientific exchanges; to reflect to peoples abroad the bilingual and multi-cultural character of Canadian society; and to provide protection and assistance to Canadian citizens abroad.

Organization

Department headquarters in Ottawa supervises missions abroad, and provides service to the public and support to Ministers and the Prime Minister in the area of foreign policy and trade policy. Within Canada, the international trade centres co-managed by the Department and the Department of Industry support the Government's export promotion program.

Missions abroad:

There are at present 110 Canadian Diplomatic Missions abroad (including Embassies, High Commissions, Consulates-General and Consulates), a figure which may vary slightly from time to time. Many ambassadors and high commissioners are accredited to several countries in the same region. There are, in addition, 47 Honorary Consuls in cities with no other resident Canadian representative. Full details may be found in the publication Canadian Representatives Abroad, issued annually. 112 countries have diplomatic missions in Ottawa and another 41 have non-resident accreditation. In addition, a number of countries have consulates in principal cities throughout Canada.

International Organizations:

Canada has permanent missions to a number of international organizations. There are missions to the United Nations (UN) in New York and in Geneva, the latter also accredited to the Secretariat of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and to the five UN specialized agencies located there. There are permanent representatives to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) in Vienna; to the UN Centre for Human Settlements (HABITAT) and to the UN Environment Program (UNEP), both in Nairobi; and to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) in Rome. There is also a permanent delegation to the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in Paris. There are permanent missions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Brussels; to the European Communities (EC), also in Brussels; to the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) in Paris; and to the Organization of American States (OAS) in Washington. There is a representative to the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), with headquarters in Montreal.

Autonomous agencies:

Reporting to Parliament through the Minister of Foreign Affairs include the Foreign Claims Commission, the International Boundary Commission, the International Joint Commission, the Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, the Canadian International Development Agency, the International Development Research Centre, and the Asia-Pacific Foundation. With government-wide restructuring, the Export Development Corporation has been added to the responsibilities of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Ministerial responsibility has been delegated to the Minister for International Trade.

Headquarters organization:

The Department's headquarters in Ottawa is organized into the Office of the Under-Secretary and 10 branches, each under an assistant deputy minister, which supervise the work of the Department on a geographic, functional or administrative basis. Each branch is divided into bureaux under directors general; the bureaux in turn are separated into divisions, each under a director. Most branches also have divisions and work units that do not form part of bureaux.

■ Office of the Under-Secretary

The Under-Secretary, as Deputy Minister, bears general responsibility for departmental policy and objectives. An Associate Deputy Minister works in tandem with the Deputy Minister in day-to-day management of the department. There is also a Deputy Minister for International Trade who has general responsibility for the trade and investment development functions of the department. There are special ambassadors, based in Ottawa, for Fisheries Conservation, the Environment and Sustainable Development, for Disarmament, and for Air Negotiations.

■ Office of the Senior Coordinator for Federal-Provincial Relations

Works closely with the provinces and territories, providing an information service which keeps them abreast of international developments affecting their interests and ensuring that those interests are taken into account in decisions reached by the Department. The Office assists provinces wishing to open or close international offices and coordinates the co-location of provincial trade and/or immigration offices in Canadian missions abroad. In addition, it acts, when necessary or appropriate, as point of contact for provincial requests for departmental services.

■ Office of Protocol

The Chief of Protocol is the principal point of contact between the Government of Canada and foreign representatives accredited to Canada. The Office of Protocol is responsible for the accreditation and appointment of foreign diplomatic and consular representatives to Canada, and that of Canadian heads of diplomatic and consular missions to other countries. The Office manages all questions of privileges and immunities in respect to both foreign representatives in Canada and Canadian representatives abroad, as set out in the Foreign Missions and International Organizations Act, the State Immunity Act and the Vienna Conventions on Diplomatic Relations. The Office plans, organizes and manages state and official visits to Canada and participates in the logistical planning and conduct of travel abroad by the Governor General, the Prime Minister, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the Minister for International Trade. The Office also organizes, arranges, and manages official hospitality functions for ministers and senior officials of this and other departments at Foreign Affairs Headquarters and at 7 Rideau Gate, the official Government guest house.

Policy Staff

The Staff performs a variety of policy related functions. It has a responsibility for analysis, evaluation, and formulation of policy options, and provides advice to senior management in both the political/security and the trade/economic policy areas. The Staff provides support for the department's management of relations with Parliament and the Cabinet system. It is also responsible for coordination of Canadian participation in the G-7 Summit process.

Communications Bureau

The Communications Bureau consists of the Media Relations Office, the Foreign Policy Communications Division, the Trade Communications Division, and the Corporate Communications Division. The Bureau is responsible for increasing awareness and understanding of Canada's foreign policy and trade agenda, and of the department's role in shaping and carrying out that agenda; ensuring quality communications advice to ministers and officials on issues, events and initiatives; ensuring Canadian and foreign media, as well as other groups and individuals, receive timely and accurate information; providing the department with environmental research data to assist in understanding public opinion; liaising with the Privy Council Office communications secretariat; promoting public understanding of the historical background of Canadian foreign relations; and managing an internal communications program.

Geographic Branches

For the conduct of external relations, the world has been divided into five geographic branches, each under an assistant deputy minister. These are: Africa and the Middle East; Asia and the Pacific; Europe; Latin America and the Caribbean; and the United States. Each branch is divided into sub-regional bureaux, with further separation into divisions. The responsibilities and activities of the geographic bureaux have much in common and are best described together.

Each bureau is responsible for the management and coordination of the full range of relations with its region. Included are the operations of the Canadian posts abroad in its area, their guidance and instruction, and the provision and allocation of resources to them. Under the Department of External Affairs Act, a head of mission is defined as responsible for the management and direction of the mission and the supervision of the official activities of the various Canadian departments and agencies in the country in question.

The work of the geographic bureau is generally distributed into two types of divisions: relations and trade development. The relations divisions handle bilateral political and economic relations; country, sub-regional and regional analysis and policy; and, where appropriate for developing countries, aid relations. Trade development divisions, which are the main point of contact for the Canadian business community, handle export promotion and country-specific market access and trade policy issues. Most of them undertake tourist promotion in conjunction with Tourism Canada, fairs and trade missions, and some are concerned with investment development and science and technology. Some branches also have divisions or units dealing with regional or specialized issues. Within the Europe branch there is a Bureau dealing with bilateral technical assistance, and humanitarian and multilateral assistance, to Central and Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union.

Corporate Services Branch

This Branch provides central administrative support services for the Department's headquarters operations and the 150 missions and offices worldwide. These services include resource planning and management, financial, administrative and personnel services, information storage and retrieval, informatics development and support, audit and evaluation and physical resources (real property) services.

■ Client Services Bureau

The Bureau provides personnel and financial administration services to employees and responsibility centres. It comprises six divisions: Financial Services; Foreign Service Directives and Travel; Compensation Services; Staff Relations; Data Management; and Administrative Services. The Bureau also includes a Services Centre which provides one stop shopping to employees across the entire range of services offered by the Bureau.

■ Information Systems Bureau

The Bureau provides secure and unclassified communication services for voice, electronic mail, fax, data and telex for all Government of Canada communications abroad. Its new SIGNET system provides secure global communications to all departmental employees at missions, headquarters and wherever they travel abroad. The implementation of this system continues and by 1995 will provide interconnection to some 8,000 Canadian and locally-engaged staff through personal computers.

■ Information Resources Bureau

The Bureau is responsible for the Ministry's data banks and electronic and conventional registries. It supports the production, retrieval and delivery of timely information to staff and outside clientele. It is also responsible for mail management, diplomatic courier and messenger services for the Ministry and all the departments with officers abroad.

■ Physical Resources Bureau

The Bureau is a Special Operating Agency which is responsible for the Department's Long Range Capital Program directed at increasing Crown ownership of properties abroad, and for the provision of chanceries and official residences through lease, purchase or design and construction. In addition, the bureau is responsible for interior design services for accommodation abroad; the acquisition of all material assets; and supervision of maintenance of overseas government properties. It performs a number of administrative functions relating to staff quarters at missions, and administers the Department's collection of Canadian works of art.

■ Office of the Inspector General and Internal Audit and Evaluation

This division ensures the full accountability of ministerial employees and efficient operation of management systems and policies.

Human Resources Development Bureau

The Bureau, which is concerned with the whole range of the Department's human resources, handles recruitment, training and development, staffing and service abroad, appraisal and promotion. Some headquarters personnel are classified as non-rotational but many of the Branch's functions relate specifically to the operations of the Foreign Service, such as assignment to missions outside Canada. One division is responsible for all aspects of the Department's official languages program. The Branch is also responsible for personnel policy and planning.

■ The Canadian Foreign Service Institute

The Institute plans and delivers training and development programs to departmental employees. The programs are designed to facilitate career development and improve the effectiveness of employees in the delivery of the department's programs in Canada and internationally. They include training in official and foreign languages and a broad range of work-related skills. Organizational Development services are also provided to assist the Department in managing change. A research function also exists.

■ Resource Planning and Management Secretariat

This unit provides corporate resource planning and management services, including resource allocation, salary and position control and management, financial analysis and reporting and support to senior management through the Program Management Board of the Department.

International Business Development Branch

■ Trade Commissioner Service Strategic Planning Division

The division engages in medium to long term strategic planning for international business development. It works with other divisions to evaluate existing programs, to generate new programs and services and to develop alternate methods to deliver TCS services. It provides analysis and advice on the allocation of international business development resources within the department and across government to develop more focus and complementarity.

■ Trade Planning and Operations Bureau

The Bureau, through its two divisions and two secretariats, builds partnerships to bring international business opportunities to Canada and to help Canadians compete in world markets. It establishes and manages the dialogue within the federal government to coordinate and rationalize resources dedicated to international business development. It represents sectoral interests in international business development program issues. It manages the consultative process which develops the strategic direction of the International Trade Business Plan (ITBP), including the coordination of the sector strategies. The ITBP is the strategic partnership between the private sector and all federal government departments active in support of Canada's international business development objectives abroad. The bureau liaises with and provides functional direction to the TCS both at home and abroad. It develops guidelines on the TCS roles, responsibilities, standards and levels of service. It manages the Canada Export Awards Program, and export awareness and preparedness programs as well as the Centre for International Business Studies Program. It manages, coordinates and is the secretariat for the International Trade Advisory Committees (ITAC) and the Sectoral Advisory Groups on International Trade (SAGIT), including interdepartmental liaison. It prepares and disseminates globally aggregated market information reports and capability guides and publishes Global Market Opportunity Reviews.

■ International Business Programs Bureau

The bureau is responsible for development and implementation of policies on market intelligence. Through its four divisions, it advises on the creation and management of international business programs and services, international technology services and fairs and missions. The bureau creates and maintains productivity and performance tools for efficient delivery and measurement of these programs and services. It is responsible for all aspects of the Program for Market Development (PEMD), World Market Trade Fund (WMTF), the Investment Development Program (IDP) and the Technology Inflow Program and the Going Global Investment Program (GGIP). It manages the gathering and dissemination of information and intelligence on R&D collaboration and foreign technology acquisition. It also coordinates and manages the Investment Counsellor/Science and Technology officer networks abroad. It works with the Export Development Corporation (EDC) and the Canadian banking community to enhance export financing and provides input on EDC's corporate plan and priorities. It formulates policies on international arrangements for officially supported export credits (OECD consensus) and advises the Minister for International Trade on the management of the Canada Account. It assists Canada's business community to improve Canada's share of procurement at International Financial Institutions and advises on related policy issues. It develops and manages the department's trade informatics applications including the World Information Network (WIN) Exports, the Trade Planning and Tracking Systems and tools to manage the Fairs and Missions Program. It develops the department's Market Intelligence and Information policy as well as supports its computerised systems. It develops and manages an international business program for Canada's tradeable services. It formulates policies for and participates in bilateral air services negotiations and maritime and surface access negotiations. It manages a matchmaker/trading house program, sovereignty access program (air, maritime) and economic sanctions (transportation services only).

■ Investment Bureau

The Bureau is the focal point for the Federal Government's efforts to attract international business investment to Canada and to assist Canadian companies in expanding through international investments and investment partnerships. Through its three divisions, it monitors and analyzes investment trends and perceptions of Canada as an investment site. It assists Canadian companies in finding international investment partners and in accessing international sources of capital. It supports the efforts of CEOs of Canadian subsidiaries of multi-nationals seeking to attract manufacturing and R&D mandates to Canada. It supports the posts' corporate liaison program and responds to enquiries regarding opportunities in Canada. It prepares company-specific briefs which make the case for investing in Canada and, with provincial and municipal governments, assists potential investors in defining their requirements, in visiting potential sites and meeting with potential partners. It introduces sources of international venture capital to Canadian opportunities and works with the CEOs of Canadian subsidiaries to attract manufacturing and R&D mandates to Canada. It assists Canadian companies in finding investment partners. Such opportunities are brought to the attention of international investors through a full suite of communication approaches including multi-media technology. It monitors and analyzes investment trends, competitor programs, and perceptions of Canada. It creates and disseminates a variety of promotional materials. It provides investment briefings to media specialists and publicizes Canadian investment success stories.

■ Legal and Consular Affairs Branch

In addition to the Bureaux listed below, the Legal and Consular Affairs Branch includes a unit of the Department of Justice which provides general legal services to the Department and is the central authority for the administration of the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction.

Classes of Personal Information

In the course of conducting the programs and activities of the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, categories of personal information may be accumulated which are not contained in the specific information banks described in this entry. This information exists in a fragmented form throughout the subject files of the Department, which are described in the program records. This information is stored as part of the general subject files, where records are not normally retrieved by name of individual or other personal identifier. This form of information is retrievable only if specifics are provided concerning the subject matter, related departmental activity, the date on which the information was received by the Department and to whom it was addressed. The personal information contained in these subject files is retained for the same period of time as the related subject information and is disposed of according to the appropriate subject record schedules. The classes of personal information listed below describe particular program records which, because of their nature, are more likely to contain personal information.

Legal Affairs Bureau

The Legal Affairs Bureau handles a number of important functions including multi-lateral legal issues, peace and security law, humanitarian law, economic law, trade agreements, treaties, international law and individual legal and legal-protocol cases. Personal information held by the bureau may include enquiries from Canadian residents seeking advice about international and foreign legal systems, and claims by Canadian citizens for possible support by the Canadian government. Other personal information would relate to specific issues handled by the bureau. Persons seeking access must specify the subject of the enquiry, as well as country and/or city, legal firm, contacts, incidents, dates and circumstances which may have led to the development of a record.

Office of Protocol

The Office of Protocol is responsible for the administration of protocol-related programs of the Department and for the development of policies and procedures which direct the administration of protocol programs. Personal information in this class would pertain to individuals who have participated in, or have been the subject of protocol-related activities within programs such as accreditation and ceremonies, privileges and immunities, government hospitality, protection of foreign representatives and foreign decorations, and awards and honours to Canadians. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, visits, conference, delegation, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

International Security, Arms Control and CSCE Affairs Bureau

Personal information may be held by the bureau concerning individuals who have been involved in defence activities with NATO, NORAD, or other international defence or arms control organizations, or in conferences or visits. Personal information might include personal biographies, tours of defence colleges, military travel and training, and nominations of Canadians for positions in international defence organizations concerned with defence or arms control. Persons seeking access should specify the subject of the enquiry, country and/or city, contacts, incident, conference/organization, visits, dates and circumstances which may have led to the establishment of a record.

Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation

Chapter 48

General Information

Background

The Freshwater Fish Marketing Corporation (FFMC) was established in 1969 under the authority of the Freshwater Fish Marketing Act. The Act gives the FFMC the exclusive right to interprovincial and export trade in designated products of the freshwater fisheries supplied from the three Prairie Provinces, the Northwest Territories, and part of northern Ontario. The FFMC is a federal crown corporation listed under Schedule III, Part I of the Financial Administration Act.

Responsibilities

The objectives of the Corporation are: to market fish in an orderly manner; to increase returns to fishermen; and to promote markets and export trade in fish.

The Act requires the FFMC to purchase all legally caught fish offered for sale by licensed fishermen, subject to price and terms and conditions of purchase (including quality provisions). It must conduct its operations on a self-sustaining financial basis without appropriations by Parliament.

Legislation

- Freshwater Fish Marketing Act (1969)

Organization

The FFMC is managed by an eleven member board of directors composed of a Chairman, a President, one director for each participating province/Territories and four other directors. The Chairman and the President are appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The remaining directors are appointed by the Minister of Fisheries and Oceans with the approval of the Governor-in-Council. Directors from a participating province are appointed on the recommendation of the Lieutenant Governor in Council of the participating province. The board of directors is supported and advised by an Advisory Committee composed of fifteen members appointed by the Governor-in-Council.

Great Lakes Pilotage Authority Canada

Chapter 49

General Information

Background

As a result of recommendations made by a Royal Commission on Pilotage in Canada, the Pilotage Act was assented to by Her Majesty and the Governor-in-Council and proclaimed in force February 1, 1972.

The Pilotage Act created four pilotage regions with specific authorities, thereby replacing a large number of local pilotage districts. The four Pilotage Authorities – Atlantic, Laurentian, Great Lakes and Pacific – are Crown corporations, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited was established and incorporated in 1972 as a subsidiary of The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority. For the purpose of the Financial Administration Act, the Authority is a Crown corporation specified in Schedule III, Part I of that Act.

Responsibilities

The role and objectives of the Authority are to establish, operate, maintain and administer, in the interest of safety, an efficient and economical pilotage service within its geographical boundaries; all waters in the Province of Quebec south of the northern entrance to St. Lambert Lock and all Canadian waters in and around the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba. (Pilotage in the international waters within the boundaries is shared with United States of America Pilot Corporations, which are under the direction of the United States Coast Guard, as agreed under a memorandum of arrangements between Canada and the United States.) Further, the Authority prescribes tariffs of pilotage charges that are to be fair, reasonable and consistent with providing revenues sufficient to permit the Authority to operate on a self-sustaining financial basis.

Legislation

- Authority By-Laws
- Canada Shipping Act, RSC, 1985, c. S-9
- General Pilotage Regulations
- Great Lakes Pilotage Regulations
- Memorandum of Arrangements between the Minister of Transport, Canada and the Secretary of Transportation, U.S.A.
- Pilotage Act, RSC, 1985, c. P-14

Organization

The Great Lakes Pilotage Authority, Limited consists of a chairman and six members appointed by the Governor in Council. The Authority's head office is located in Cornwall, Ontario. The Eastern District operations office is located at headquarters and the Western District operations office in St. Catharines, Ontario. All management, administrative, personnel, financial contracts and purchasing services are provided by the Cornwall office. The Authority is a Crown corporation, responsible to Parliament through the Minister of Transport.

Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission

Chapter 50

General Information

Background

The Hazardous Materials Information Review Commission was established by the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act, assented to on June 30, 1987 and proclaimed on October 1, 1987. The Commission is part of the Workplace Hazardous Materials Information System (WHMIS) which requires that information about the hazards of materials produced or sold in Canada or used in Canadian workplaces be provided by suppliers to employers and, in turn, by employers to employees.

Responsibilities

The mission of the Commission is to ensure the balance between industry's right to protect confidential business information and workers' right to know about the hazardous materials they are exposed to and their corresponding preventive health and safety measures.

To achieve its mission, the Commission carries out the following mandate under the authority of the Hazardous Materials Information Review Act: it makes decisions concerning the validity of claims for exemption on the basis that the information is confidential business information; it makes decisions on the compliance of labels and material safety data sheets of products related to a claim; and it convenes independent boards to hear appeals on the Commission's decisions and orders.

Legislation

- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act, S.C. 1987, c. 30 (Part III)
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Act Appeal Board Procedures Regulations (SOR/91-86, January 7, 1991)
- Hazardous Materials Information Review Regulations (SOR/88-456, August 25, 1988; amendment: SOR/88-510, September 29, 1988; SOR/89-288, June 1, 1989; SOR/91-419, June 20, 1991; SOR/93-234, May 11, 1993)

Organization

The Commission is headed by a President, appointed by the Governor-in-Council, and is governed by a Council of Governors consisting of members nominated by representatives of the federal, provincial and territorial governments and suppliers, employers and workers. The Council is responsible for recommending, to the Minister of Health, regulatory changes to the Commission's fee structure and procedures for the screening of claims and procedures to be followed by appeal boards. The Commission is organized around two principal activities: reviewing and making decisions on claims for exemption and administering an independent appeals process. These activities are carried out through three organizational units: The Operations Branch, which includes claims registration, application assessment, management services and communications; the Compliance Branch, which is responsible for reviewing the claims for exemption and making decisions on their validity, as well as deciding whether labels and material safety data sheets comply with WHMIS requirements; and the Appeals Branch, which is responsible for convening independent, tripartite appeal boards to hear appeals on decisions or orders of screening officers filed by claimants and affected parties, in addition to providing administrative support to appeal boards.

Organization

■ Corporate Services Branch

Provides services to the Department in the areas of planning and financial administration, human resources, information management, internal audit and assets management.

Assets Management Directorate:

This Directorate focuses on all activities associated with physical assets management. The Directorate is responsible for the development and maintenance of policies, systems, procedures and services governing the management of material, real property and accommodation in support of departmental programs. The Directorate is also responsible for advising and assisting the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister, CSB and other departmental managers on all matters affecting general material and real property administration, and Occupational Health and Safety and Security functions.

Departmental Planning and Financial Administration Directorate:

The focus of this Directorate is the management of financial resources. Its role is to implement, interpret and administer the regulations, policies and processes associated with resource planning and utilization and financial administration across the Department. Directorate activities include the provision of direct services such as financial planning, accounting, functional and advisory assistance to managers, and financial systems support and training to all branches.

Human Resources Directorate:

The focus of this Directorate is on all activities associated with management of people, such as Human Resources Planning, Employment Equity, as well as Learning and Development. The Directorate provides advice and a range of services to assist departmental managers with their personnel management responsibilities. The Human Resources Directorate also administers the delegation of classification, staffing and other personnel authorities to management.

Information Management Directorate:

The focus of this Directorate is information management. The Directorate provides electronic data processing (EDP) services and functional guidance in the form of informatics planning and development. It provides coordination and advisory services on informatics issues to most Branches, and is also responsible for the development of guidelines and standards on electronic data processing, telecommunications and office automation, and for the development and operation of automated systems. The Directorate also has the responsibility for document management and departmental library services.

Internal Audit Directorate:

The role of Internal Audit is to ensure that the Department has an independent review of its operations, activities, systems and functions which support the delivery of departmental programs to make sure that they are conducted in an economic, efficient and effective manner. Internal Audit coverage, objectives and scope, as well as follow-up on findings, and the monitoring of the implementation of approved appropriate action is overseen by a Departmental Audit and Evaluation Committee.

Office of the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister:

The Office of the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister is responsible for providing overall direction to CSB Directorates, for coordinating Branch input to departmental initiatives, and for liaising with the offices of the DM, ADMs and RDGs on a range of issues. The SADM provides guidance and advice to senior management on the management and administration of the Department.

Program Planning:

This unit provides support to the Senior Assistant Deputy Minister with respect to the planning of Departmental programs, as well as the planning of corporate management and support services. Working closely with Departmental managers and with central agencies, activities include the development of program service measures and the monitoring and reporting of progress made relative to plans.

■ Health Programs and Services Branch

The responsibilities of the Branch are to develop, promote and support measures designed to preserve and improve the health of Canadians by encouraging and assisting them to adopt a way of life that enhances their physical, mental and well-being. The Branch also provides leadership and coordination in assisting the provinces and territories to bring their health services to, and maintain them at, national standards. This includes the administration of federal contributions to the provinces with respect to hospital insurance, medical care and extended health care services programs.

Canada's Drug Strategy Secretariat:

The Secretariat is responsible for coordinating the implementation of the Strategy; facilitating information sharing and networking among partners, including six federal departments and leading a formal evaluation process directed at both the strategic and program levels.

Children's Bureau:

The Bureau's primary role is to ensure consistency and integration of federal policies and programs relating to children. It enables the federal government to focus attention on children's issues and ensure that they are examined with the best interests of children in mind. As a voice for children within the federal government, the Bureau takes an active role in bringing together partners and promoting public awareness, understanding and support for the well-being of children and their families. The Bureau is also responsible, with the Department of Justice, for preparing and coordinating the federal portion of the First Report on the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, which is to be presented to the United Nations in 1994.

Extramural Research Programs Directorate:

National Health Research and Development Program (NHRDP) is the major source of funds within Health Canada for the support of extramural research activities. NHRDP's mission is to fund innovative national health research and development which is strategically driven to support the functions and responsibilities of Health Canada. NHRDP also supports the training and career award development of Canadian applied health researchers. In addition to its regular programs, NHRDP administers funding for the health research portion of various government policy initiatives. Current interests include research related to health services, health promotion and illness prevention as well as the support of studies of the mechanisms of translating research results into policy development and practice.

Family Violence Prevention Division:

Responsible for coordinating the Federal Family Violence Initiative (1991-1995) which addresses the abuse of children, women and seniors. It is also mandated to: liaise with the provinces, other federal departments and national non-governmental organizations; develop national policies and programs; provide information services to government officials and the public; provide funding for activities aimed at the prevention of family violence and the improvement of protection and treatment services.

Fitness Directorate:

The mission of the Fitness Directorate is to maintain and increase participation in physical activity at a level sufficient to improve the health and well-being of Canadians, by providing leadership and mobilizing key partners in the development and implementation of supportive national strategies and programs. In support of its federal role, the Fitness Directorate's core functions are to provide: federal policy development and leadership; planning and evaluation; knowledge development; infrastructure / capacity development; inter / intra-departmental and federal / provincial / territorial coordination and cooperation.

Health Promotion Directorate:

Develops and implements programs which promote health and encourage the avoidance of health risks. Its focus encompasses health issues (tobacco, alcohol, and other drug use; nutrition; cardiovascular health; and AIDS), the special needs of certain population groups (families; children and youth; women; seniors; the disabled) and health settings (communities, schools and workplaces). Major program activities include social marketing, education and training, intersectoral consultation / coordination / negotiation, research, funding of field projects, and the development of health promotion concepts and models. With respect to funding, the Directorate administers five funding streams to encourage national organizations and community groups to become involved in health promotion. Health promotion programs are developed and implemented in co-operation with provincial and territorial governments, professional and voluntary organizations, universities, and community groups.

Health Services Directorate:

The Health Services Program works with provincial and territorial governments, national non-governmental organizations including national voluntary health organizations and the academic community to ensure and improve capacity for preventive health practices, disease treatment, quality and appropriateness of health and health care services, and in this regard, to respond to client needs.

National AIDS Secretariat:

Works to co-ordinate and monitor activities/initiatives under the National AIDS Strategy; support to Minister's Advisory Committees on AIDS; liaison with International AIDS Organizations; as well as providing policy advice to senior management and Ministerial Staff.

Seniors Directorate:

The Seniors Directorate consists of a number of key interrelated programs and activities focused on aging issues, particularly on the needs of the most vulnerable seniors. The Directorate is responsible for the national management of Seniors Community Programs (SCP), components of the Seniors Independence Research Program (SIRP) and the Secretariat to the National Advisory Council on Aging (NACA). The Directorate, within the federal government, serves seniors and aging Canadians as a centre of expertise and catalyst for change by providing advice, education, research and innovative programming with other sectors.

■ Health Protection Branch

The mandate of the Health Protection Branch is to protect the Canadian public from life- and health-threatening hazards in the food supply, pharmaceuticals and cosmetics, medical or radiation-emitting devices and the environment, and against health and safety hazards associated with consumer products and hazardous materials in the workplace. The mandate encompasses regulatory and field inspection activities conducted primarily from regional and district offices located across Canada, the investigation of disease outbreaks and product hazards, surveillance and research, voluntary agreements and other initiatives with industry, contacts with provincial, regional and municipal public health authorities, health care agencies such as hospitals and poison control centres; consumer associations and media in communicating health hazards to the public.

Drugs Directorate:

The Drugs Directorate's mission is to assure that drugs sold in Canada are safe, effective and of high quality. This is done by assessing effectively, efficiently, and continually the benefits and risks of drugs, by managing the risks appropriately, and by developing and disseminating information that encourages the rational use of drugs. Inspection of the field inspection component includes the pharmacies, manufacturers and distributors, and hospitals engaged in the legal distribution of psychoactive substances. A Drug Analytical Service for suspected illicit drugs is provided on behalf of police forces across Canada. The Directorate's major result areas include: safe and effective drugs; a public that is well informed as to the risks and benefits of drug use; the timely evaluation of drug products; the rational use of psychoactive substances; the effective implementation of the provisions of international drug treaties; international harmonization of regulatory activities; recognized leadership in scientific research and drug regulation; promotion of pharmaceutical research and development of drugs for critical diseases; safe cosmetics; and an efficient and effectively managed scientific organization.

Environmental Health Directorate:

The function of the Environmental Health Directorate is to protect the public from health and safety hazards associated with chemicals in the environment, radiation, medical devices, consumer products, tobacco and hazardous materials in the workplace, and thereby improve the well-being of Canadians. To achieve this, the Directorate investigates, monitors and assesses the health risks arising from both natural and technological hazards and then provides Canadians with health and safety information. The Directorate's work revolves around main project areas involving such subjects as environmental pollutants, tobacco, electromagnetic fields (e.g. power lines), medical devices including inspection of medical device manufacturing plants, drinking water, air quality and product safety and emergency response to major nuclear accidents affecting Canada – all issues of great concern to the public.

The Directorate is responsible for the development and implementation of programs for radiation safety and medical devices under the Radiation Emitting Devices Act, the Food and Drugs Act and the Canada Labour Code. The prohibition or regulation of hazardous consumer products, and the development of mandatory labelling and material safety data sheet requirements to inform workers of the hazards associated with products used in the workplace are done under the Hazardous Products Act. The potential risks of environmental chemicals are evaluated under the Canadian Environmental Protection Act. The Directorate is responsible for the administration of tobacco legislation. The Directorate is also responsible for coordinating the federal response to a major nuclear accident affecting Canada under the Federal Nuclear Emergency Response Plan.

Food Directorate:

The Food Directorate's function is to protect and improve the health and well-being of the Canadian public by defining, advising on and managing risks and benefits associated with the food supply. Areas of work include food additives, agricultural chemicals, veterinary drugs, chemical and microbiological contaminants, nutrients, novel foods and food components and food processes, such as irradiation.

The Directorate is responsible for the development of appropriate policies, procedures, regulations and guidelines directed towards the achievement of a high standard of safety and nutritional quality of foods. These responsibilities are carried out through coordinated programs of scientific research, evaluation, inspection, analytical and regulatory activities under the authority of the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations; including the promotion and enforcement of food industry compliance with regulations, guidelines or codes of practice such as the Good Manufacturing Practices.

Laboratory Centre for Disease Control Directorate:

The Laboratory Centre for Disease Control (LCDC) is Canada's only national public health agency which monitors, investigates and manages risks to the health of Canadians, protecting the public from health risks posed by microbial, foodborne, drug-related and environmental hazards. Expert surveillance and investigative abilities in microbiology, epidemiology and disease prevention and control, as well as the Centre's disease control networks ensure significant national leadership in public health. LCDC is an active participant in and plays an important communication role for well established national public health networks encompassing provincial public health laboratories and epidemiologists, acute care hospitals, research agencies, public health units and international agencies alike.

■ Medical Services Branch

The objective of the Branch is to promote, improve and preserve the health of Canadian citizens whose care, by legislation or custom, is the responsibility of the Department. The clients include the Inuit and status Indians, all residents of the Yukon, federal public servants, international travellers, civil aviation personnel, and disaster victims.

Health Advisory Services Directorate:

Responsible for the provision of services and advice in the fields of civil aviation medicine, emergency services and provides medical advice to Human Resources Development.

Indian and Northern Health Services Directorate:

Responsible for community health services, hospital services, dental services, a National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program. Also responsible for the Native component of the Brighter Futures Initiative, the Canada Drug Strategy Initiative and the AIDS strategy. Direct program delivery is through eight regions across the country.

Non-Insured Health Benefits Directorate:

Manages the Non-Insured Health Benefits which are a limited number of health-related goods and services not provided to Inuit and Registered Indians by provincial and territorial health insurance plans or programs or through other third party coverage.

Occupational and Environmental Health Services Directorate:

Provides environmental health services to First Nations and occupational health nursing, medicine and employee assistance services to the Public Service. In addition, OEHS provides a range of regulatory services and health services to visiting VIPs. Provides medical advice on policy aspects of the immigration program to Citizenship and Immigration.

Program Transfer, Policy and Planning Directorate:

Supports the transfer of resources for community health programs to First Nations and Inuit communities south of the 60th Parallel and provides support to the transfer of health services to the Yukon Territorial Government. It also provides assistance, advice and coordination on policy issues, the Branch planning cycle, audits and evaluations, informatics and executive services.

■ National Forum on Health

The Forum, chaired by the Prime Minister and co-chaired by the Minister of Health, is comprised of 22 citizens, volunteers, professionals and consumers, who are knowledgeable about health and the health care system. The mandate of the Forum is to: develop a new vision for Canada's health system for the 21st century; promote a dialogue with Canadians about their health system in order that renewal processes will maintain and improve the health system and lead to better health while respecting the principles on which the system was built; and identify priorities for the future and develop greater consensus for change.

■ Policy and Consultation Branch

The Branch provides advice and support to the departmental executive and to program branches in the areas of policy development, information and strategic planning via research on health, well being, income and economic policy issues. Policy proposals are developed and analyzed, and recommendations are made to the Deputy Minister and the Minister.

Communications Directorate:

The Directorate is responsible for public awareness of the Department's objectives and programs and for development of departmental communications objectives and plans. It also provides communications advice, coordinates departmental communications activities, conferences, ministerial speeches and media relations and provides audio-visual services in support of the Department's communications responsibilities.

Health Insurance Directorate:

The Directorate's main functions are the administration of the Canada Health Act, the provision of advice to the Minister on matters pertaining to the interpretation of the Act, and making monthly transfer payments to the provinces and territories in respect of the Established Programs Financing (EPF) arrangements.

Health Policy and Information Directorate:

The Health Policy Division of the Directorate initiates and coordinates research and analyses of health, income policy issues in support of the policy development responsibilities of the Department.

The Health Information Division of the Directorate plans, develops, and operates health national information systems that support the planning, management and evaluation of health policies and programs. Its analytical and data products go to a wide range of government and non-government clients at the provincial, national and international levels.

Information Access and Coordination Division:

Coordinates corporate activities related to the collection and dissemination of information, including the administration of the Access to Information Act and Privacy Act.

International Affairs Directorate:

The Directorate has responsibility for the coordination, monitoring and, where required, initiation of departmental policies and strategies on international issues in the health field.

Policy Coordination Secretariat:

Monitors and provides strategic advice on matters related to consultations generally, and on federal-provincial relations in particular, and provides logistical support for meetings of federal-provincial Health Ministers and Deputy Ministers.

Program Evaluation Division:

Reviews and assesses departmental programs for the purpose of providing objective information and advice about the effectiveness of departmental activities and services.

Strategic Planning Division:

Responsible for the development and coordination of a corporate strategic planning process and for providing functional advice and support for the development of strategic planning process at the branch level.

Women's Health Bureau:

Coordinates, monitors and advises on departmental policies and programs as they relate to women and their families, especially women's health.

Description: This bank contains diagnostic and other information from physicians on the perceived medical needs, for designated amphetamines. Class of Individuals: Only patients for whom designated amphetamines have been prescribed for non-listed conditions are included. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to regulate the non-approved uses of a restricted class of drugs. The bank is part of the monitoring of the use of this class of drugs in conformity with the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations. Consistent Uses: Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Practitioner files are kept two years after the death of a doctor; five years after the last correspondence or last record of registration if there is no history of drug-related problems; and ten years after the last correspondence or last record of registration if there is a history of drug-related problems. TBS Registration: 002731 Bank Number: HWC PPU 065

Canadian Accident Injury Reporting and Evaluation

Description: This bank includes the chart number, institution, age of victim, admittance date, number of days hospitalized, injury nature and cause, place of occurrence, disposition and product involved. Formerly CCA PPU 025. Class of Individuals: General public. Purpose: The bank was established to assist in setting of priorities and is used for internal and external data retrievals and regular publications. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records are retained for a minimum of two years. TBS Registration: 002110 Bank Number: HWC PPU 025

Canadian Communicable Disease Surveillance System (CCDSS)

Description: This bank contains information provided by provincial health departments relating to socio-demographic characteristics of the patients, diagnostic information and treatment history. Class of Individuals: the information relates to individuals with a diagnosed occurrence of a notifiable communicable disease. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide a database to monitor the incidence of notifiable communicable diseases for use in epidemiological studies in support of disease control and prevention measures. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. TBS Registration: 003150 Bank Number: HWC PPU 078

Canadian Hospitals Injury Reporting and Prevention Program

Description: This bank contains information provided by injured persons and by the hospitals at which they were seen. The following personal information is in the bank: the hospital name, injured person's medical record number, date of birth, sex and postal code and the first three letters of the individual's family name. In addition there is information on the circumstances in which the injury occurred, the nature of the injury and how the case was handled in the emergency room. Class of Individuals: The information relates to individuals who seek care for injuries at one of the 10 pediatric and 3 general hospitals that participate in the program.

Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to provide an ongoing surveillance of the circumstances in which injuries occur and, by making the information available to those who develop and evaluate injury prevention programs, to make an important contribution to reducing the number and severity of injuries in Canada.

Consistent Uses: A postal code conversion program developed at Statistics Canada will permit linkage of CHIRPP data with grouped census data and analysis of the associations of sociodemographic factors with injuries. Retention and Disposal Standards: The files are retained for 100 years. TBS Registration: 003452 Bank Number: HWC PPU 066

Cancer Risks Among Laboratory Workers

Description: This bank contains personal information, work history information (including area of work, job assignment, chemical, biological and physical agents handled), information from medical records and information related to personal environmental exposure of workers in laboratories. The bank is used in a multinational research project sponsored by the International Agency for Research on Cancer to monitor the incidence of cancer among laboratory workers in relation to various physical, biological and chemical exposures. In addition to cancer incidence, the bank is used to monitor general morbidity and congenital anomalies of offspring born to laboratory employees.

Class of Individuals: Employees of biology, chemistry and hospital laboratories. Purpose: The information was collected for use in a multi-national study of cancer incidence among laboratory workers. The study is coordinated by the International Agency for Research on Cancer and was initiated after preliminary findings among laboratory workers in three European locations showed significant increases in brain, prostate and lymphatic cancer. Consistent Uses: The information collected will be used to determine the rate of cancer incidence and general morbidity among laboratory workers, as well as congenital anomalies among their offspring. Morbidity will be studied in relation to work exposure factors as well as personal environmental factors. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for 10 years. Upon expiry of the retention period, the files are destroyed. TBS Registration: 002750 Bank Number: HWC PPU 077

Child Acute Respiratory Effects Study

Description: This bank contains information on the respiratory illnesses and pulmonary function measures and the ages of 100 females aged 7 to 15 years attending a girl guide camp (Camp Kiawa) in July and August of 1986. Data on parental smoking habits, education and other home characteristics were collected. Allergy test and heart rate monitoring results are also recorded. Class of Individuals: Girls aged 7 to 15 years who attended Camp Kiawa from July 1 to August 10, 1986. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to examine the relationship between transported air pollution and respiratory health in children. Consistent Uses: There will be no disclosure of any personal information from this data bank. Only summary statistics and conclusions drawn from the study will be publicly disclosed. There will be no linking and matching of information in this data bank with any other information or data bank presently existing. Retention and Disposal Standards: Information will never be destroyed. TBS Registration: 001822 Bank Number: HWC PPU 036

Drug Investigation (Users and Distribution) Files

Description: This bank contains information on people investigated under the Narcotic Control Act and Regulations, and the Food and Drugs Act and Regulations. It consists of reports prepared by the police departments, the Department of Justice, the Department of the Solicitor General, Crown counsel and lawyers on investigations concerning persons involved in illicit drug use and distribution. It also consists of information received as a result of the monitoring of drug importation, manufacture, distribution and prescription. It includes the following personal information: name, address, date of birth, fingerprints, sex, occupation, drug involvement, and details of the investigation, arrest and the case disposition, details of drugs, things, and assets seized and their disposition. Class of Individuals: In addition to the requirements indicated on the Record Access Request Form, requesters must provide their full name, date of birth and place of birth. In cases where the information is deemed to be of a sensitive nature enquirers will be required to provide appropriate identifying information about themselves at the time of access to ensure the personal information relates to them and not to another person of similar name and description. Purpose: The purpose of this bank is to ensure that the use of narcotic and controlled drugs is limited exclusively to medical and scientific purposes, to prevent diversion of those drugs to other uses and to facilitate administration of asset disposal. The information in the bank is used in making decisions in enforcing the regulations concerning the prescribing and dispensing of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists and the receipt and use of such drugs by individuals; in making decisions in connection with the disposition of drugs and things (including money, conveyances and other assets) seized under the authority of the Narcotic Control Act and Food and Drugs Act; to prepare statistics (drug use and conviction) for health planning purposes, on drug use in Canada and in the preparation of the annual report required by the United Nations Narcotic Commission. This information is not used for any administrative purpose and is not retrievable by the name of the individual.

Consistent Uses: Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Cannabis cases where assets or other drugs are seized are kept five years from the date of final disposition or last correspondence, whichever is later. Cannabis cases with international implications which are reported to the United Nations are kept until a final report is submitted to that organization. Such reports are kept for two years after the last action taken. Offence reports dealing with cannabis-only offenses, where no assets are seized, are kept for only two months or until the information has been extracted on a depersonalized basis and recorded for statistical purposes. Reports are then destroyed. TBS Registration: 002729 Bank Number: HWC PPU 055

Great Lakes Health Effects Cohort Study

Description: This bank contains basic personal information, fish consumption patterns, household income, current employment information (kind of work, exposures in the workplace), and medical history data on a sample of Ontario Sport Fish Licence holders (1988) and their families. Class of Individuals: Phase I: 1988 Ontario Sport Fish Licence holders (approximately 1,000,000). Phase II: A sub-sample of Phase I, plus adult and child members of their household (approximately 100,000 records). Phase III: Further data on a sub-sample of Phase II. Purpose: The data will be used for research and statistical purposes. The information was collected for use in a study designed to investigate the adverse health effects of Great Lakes water pollution as bio-concentrated by fish. Consistent Uses: The data collected will be used to determine the risk of cancer, adverse reproductive outcomes (for example, birth defects) and mortality from certain causes associated with consumption of fish caught in the Great Lakes Basin. The individuals identified in the data bank may be followed up over time by linkage to cancer incidence, congenital anomaly or mortality registries.

Retention and Disposal Standards: Information is retained for 30 years. TBS Registration: 002789 Bank Number: HWC PPU 076

Methadone Program

Description: This bank contains the names and addresses of practitioners authorized to purchase, prescribe or dispense methadone. Class of Individuals: Practitioners. Purpose: It is used to monitor those physician practices where methadone is administered, including the treatment of narcotic addicts and to develop a profile of narcotic addiction treatment in Canada. Consistent Uses: Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Practitioner files are kept two years after the death of a doctor, five years after the last correspondence or last record of registration if there is no history of drug-related problems, and ten years after the last correspondence or last record of registration if there is a history of drug-related problems. TBS Registration: 002730 Bank Number: HWC PPU 060

National Dose Registry for Occupational Exposures

Description: This bank currently includes information on occupational exposures to radiation. Records are kept on an individual basis and include, in addition to personal identifying information, cumulative radiation exposures and a record-by-record account of the entries into the Registry. Exposure records are inputted from the National Dosimetry Service and from organizations that have their own radiation monitoring programs. Persons requesting records should include their SIN on their request form. Class of Individuals:

Occupationally-exposed radiation workers. Purpose: To keep records for individuals whose occupational radiation exposure has been monitored. The records are used for epidemiological and statistical studies, informational purposes, and in support of the regulatory control of occupational radiation exposures. Consistent Uses: The Registry is designed and used primarily for epidemiological and informational purposes. It is also used to advise the individual, his or her employer and the appropriate regulatory authorities when the record shows that the maximum permissible dose has been exceeded or is about to be exceeded, as described in relevant provincial Acts, the Canada Labour Safety Code or Treasury Board recommendations for federal employees, and the Atomic Energy Control Act. Information is supplied to federal and provincial authorities responsible for the control of occupational radiation exposure and may be used in subsequent litigation relating to matters of non-compliance by industry. Upon request, it is also supplied to the Workers' Compensation Board in relation to a compensation claim. Retention and Disposal Standards: Kept for 80 years. PAC Number: 72-004 Related to PR#: HWC EHD 200 TBS Registration: 000038 Bank Number: HWC PPU 080

Ontario Farm Family Health Study

Description: Information collected from 1200 farm families, including name, address, race, colour, religion, age, sex and country of birth. Class of Individuals: Ontario Farm Families. Purpose: Information is collected for use in a study designed to assess potential relationship between pesticides and other hazardous exposures on the farm. Consistent Uses: Research and Statistical Purposes. Retention and Disposal Standards: To be determined. Related to PR#: HC HPB 165 TBS Registration: 002953 Bank Number: HWC PPU 037

Practitioner and Pharmacist Files

Description: This bank contains information concerning the prescription, utilization and distribution of narcotic and controlled drugs by practitioners and pharmacists. It also contains reports prepared by Drugs Directorate inspectors and enforcement agencies concerning the misuse and abuse of drugs by health professionals, and investigations with respect to such diversion. Class of Individuals: Practitioners and pharmacists. Purpose: It is used in connection with drug control programs to ensure that narcotic and controlled drugs are used for legitimate medical purposes and are not diverted to illicit avenues. Consistent Uses: It is also used as a basis to make decisions concerning notifications to pharmacists and licensed narcotic and controlled drug dealers not to supply narcotic and/or controlled drugs on the strength of orders issued by certain pharmacists and orders and prescriptions issued by certain practitioners. It also serves as a basis for decisions concerning prosecution action relating to health professionals. Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health profession. Information may also be provided to provincial licensing authorities in the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Practitioner files are retained for two years after death; if retired or lapsed registration, for five years with no history of drug-related problems; and for ten years with a history of drug-related problems. Pharmacist files are retained for two years after death; if currently registered for five years after last correspondence if retired or lapsed registration; and for ten years after the last date of correspondence or registration. TBS Registration: 002728 Bank Number: HWC PPU 050

Purchase Records of Hospitals, Licensed Pharmaceutical Companies, and Provincially-Registered Practitioners and Pharmacists

Description: This bank contains purchase records of narcotics and controlled drugs made by licensed pharmaceutical companies and hospitals as well as currently registered practitioners and pharmacists who are entitled to purchase and/or prescribe narcotic and controlled drugs under the "Narcotic Control Act" and "Food and Drugs Act". Class of Individuals: Pharmacists, physicians, dentists, veterinarians, hospitals and licensed pharmaceutical companies. Purpose: This bank is used to ensure that licensed narcotic and controlled drugs dealers supply narcotic and controlled drugs only to authorized persons. Consistent Uses: It is also used to monitor and assess purchases of narcotics and controlled drugs made by pharmacists, physicians, dentists, veterinarians, hospitals and licensed pharmaceutical companies. Information from this bank may be released to provincial licensing authorities of the health professions. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records on individual cases are held for two years for pharmacy sales reports and for three years for licensed dealers sales reports. TBS Registration: 002727 Bank Number: HWC PPU 045

Record of Researchers

Description: This bank provides a list of persons authorized to use, and who are using narcotic, controlled and restricted drugs in research work. Class of Individuals: It is primarily concerned with scientists and medical and paramedical professionals. Purpose: The bank is used to ensure that persons using narcotic, controlled and restricted drugs for research purposes have been authorized to do so. Retention and Disposal Standards: Records in individual cases are held for ten years. TBS Registration: 002726 Bank Number: HWC PPU 040

The Canadian Congenital Anomalies Surveillance System (CCASS)

Description: The bank contains information on incidence of birth defects in Canada. Participating provinces provide machine-readable information including the infant's name, date of birth, sex, nature of birth defects, parent's name and dates of birth, municipality of residence and a provincial registration number. The system was initiated in 1966. Class of Individuals: All infants born in participating provinces and diagnosed as having a birth defect in the first year of life since January 1966. Information also collected on parents. Purpose: The purpose of this data bank is to provide a database to monitor the incidence of birth defects in Canada and to serve as a register for epidemiological research studies. Consistent Uses: Use of this bank is consistent with the purpose specified in section 5. Retention and Disposal Standards: To date no individual records have been discarded. It is expected records will be retained for 100 years from birth date. Requests for information which might identify individual persons are directed to the province in question where original documents are retained. TBS Registration: 002733 Bank Number: HWC PPU 075

Chapter 52

General Information

Background

This department consists of various components from Employment and Immigration, Health and Welfare, Labour and Secretary of State with ten regions corresponding to the ten provinces.

Responsibilities

The specific federal mandate discharged by HRDC encompasses a broad range of matters related to labour market programs and policies in the areas of employment and unemployment insurance; income security programs; labour standards for organizations under federal jurisdiction; social services programs and education support programs.

Four major objectives dominate the work of the Commission/ Department: to realize the full productive potential of Canada's human resources, it administers a national unemployment insurance program while supporting the initiatives of individuals to pursue their economic needs and, more generally, their self-fulfilment through work; promote a fair, safe, healthy, stable and cooperative work environment to all Canadians; promote and strengthen the income security of Canadians; assist Canadian students to take advantage of educational opportunities.

Organization

Communications

The Communications Group plans, coordinate and implements HRDC activities in the areas of communications planning and evaluation, internal communications, public opinion research, promotion, information, media relations, publishing and advertising.

The Group informs the public, in both official languages, about HRDC policies, programs and services related to Unemployment Insurance, Employment, Social Development and Education, Labour and Income Security.

■ Transition and Renewal Secretariat

The Secretariat is organized into four teams which work on the following corporate Renewal priorities: Completing Transition, Exemplary Workplace, Service Delivery Improvement, and Knowledge Product/Strategic Information Strategies. The Secretariat is mandated to identify and solve problems and to ensure the integration of all aspects of the transition and renewal exercise. It advises on the process of organization building on the development of the HRDC mission, shared values and management practices.

Corporate Secretariat

The Secretariat consists of Briefing, Cabinet and Parliamentary Affairs, Executive Services, Executive Correspondence Centre, Executive Management Information Services, Corporate Committees and Partnerships, Information Access and Human Rights. It is responsible for support services to the Commission and the senior management, the coordination of corporate issues and activities and the administration of the Privacy, Human Rights and Access to Information Acts.

■ National Council of Welfare

The National Council of Welfare was established by the Government Organization Act, 1969 as a citizens' advisory body to the former Minister of National Health and Welfare. Since the reorganization of federal government departments in 1993, the council advises the Minister of Human Resources Development. Its mandate is to advise the Minister on matters pertaining to welfare. The council consists of 21 members drawn from across Canada and appointed by the Governor in Council. All are private citizens and serve in their personal capacities rather than as representatives of organizations or agencies.

Employment Group

The Employment Group is responsible for the efficient functioning of the Canadian labour market. One of the objectives of this group is to match job opportunities with available qualified workers and to ensure that employers can get the skilled workers they need in a timely and effective manner.

It also encourages human resource planning by the private sector, the adjustment of enterprises, and assistance to individuals in adjusting to changing labour market conditions.

The Employment Group provides assistance where it is most needed, by focusing programs on individuals, employers and communities that would benefit most from government support.

The legislative authorities for the activities of the Employment Group are contained in the National Employment Service Regulations, the National Training Act, the Annual Appropriation Act, the Department of Labour Act and the Unemployment Insurance Act and Regulations.

Targets and means of monitoring are established to ensure the equitable participation by women in all labour market programs. There are also special approaches tailored to the needs of individuals with employment disadvantages, and to the special needs of Canada's Aboriginal peoples

The Employment Group uses an integrated clerical, manual and EDP system to deliver its programs and services. The systems support the various employment programs. These systems may support information banks already described and include computer systems, associated databases and documentation as well as providing a source of historical information on the programs associated with the former Labour Market Development Group.(5) Labour Force Development Strategy (LFDS) (May 1991) – Consolidates all the elements of the Canadian Jobs Strategy (CJS) and Employment Services.(6) Information and Special Initiatives Program (July 1991) – Labour Market Information; Service Needs Determination; Labour Exchange; Special Labour Market Initiatives; Labour Market Research (September 1990).(7) Employability Improvement Program (July 1991) – Employment Counselling; Project Based Training; Wage Reimbursement; Purchase of Training/Income Support; Youth Initiatives; Employment Assistance, Outreach and Delivery Assistance available under Job Search Strategies; Job Finding Clubs; Group Employment Counselling; Diagnostic Assessment; Community-Based Employment Assistance; Special Approaches; Outreach and Mobility Assistance.(8) Labour Market Adjustment Program (July 1991) – Human Resource Planning; Employer Client Services; Foreign Worker Recruitment Activities; Agricultural Employment Services; Workplace-Based Training Work Sharing; Re-training; Employment Equity; Industrial Adjustment Service; and Labour Market Adjustment Grants.(9) Community Development Program (July 1991) -Community Futures Committees; Business Development Centres; Community Initiatives Fund; Self Employment Assistance; and Local Projects. (1) Employment Systems – Employment Client Services (EDP-1): This system supports the administration of Employment Client Services. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk.(2) Information Systems – Advanced Systems (EDP-2): This system uses data from the former HRDC PPU 020 to make client data available via computer terminals located in local and regional offices and to run National Employment Services System (NESS). NESS is a computerized information system to provide faster service and more accurate information for our worker and employer-clients.(3) Canadian Jobs Strategy Programs – Job Development, Job Entry, Skill

Shortages, Skill Investment, Innovations and Community Futures.(4) Labour Market Development Programs – Canada Community Development Projects; Canada Community Services Projects; Canada Works/Young Canada Works; Employment of the Disadvantaged; Local Employment Assistance Program; Portable Wage Subsidy Program; Summer Youth Employment; Summer Canada; Local Employment and Development Program; Canada Works Program (83-84) (84-85); Career-Access Program; Summer Career Access; New Employment Expansion and Development (NEED) Program; Jobs Corps; Summer Employment/Experience Development Program 1985, Critical Trades Skills Training; National Industrial Training Program; Institutional Training; and the Youth Training Program. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk.

■ Older Worker Adjustment Branch

Responsible for the policy, planning, management and monitoring of the Department's labour adjustment programs: the Labour Adjustment Benefits Program, the Program for Older Worker Adjustment, the Plant Workers' Adjustment Program (co-administered with Fisheries and Oceans Canada), and the Income Supplement Program for Older Workers. The Branch also contributes to the overall policy, planning and program development work of the federal government in the area of labour and industrial adjustment.

Financial and Administrative Services

This group provides financial, administrative operational and management support services to HRDC's operations in NHQ and in the regions to ensure accountability, control and security.

Human Resources

This group provides a full range of personnel services to HRDC.

Income Security Programs Branch

The objective of the branch is to develop, deliver and administer programs for seniors and their spouses, the disabled, survivors, families with children, and migrants, that promote and strengthen the income security of the people of Canada. The Assistant Deputy Minister directs five major directorates: the Canada Pension Plan, Programs Policy and Legislation, Branch Executive Services, International Benefits and Foreign Affairs, and Systems and Technology Management.

Regional offices exist in each province (with the Yukon and Northwest Territories included in the British Columbia and Alberta regions respectively). They support a network of 12 regional processing centres, full-time and part-time itinerant client service centres throughout Canada. These centres provide information and services to the public in all matters relating to income security program benefits, including the distribution of applications for such benefits. Each Regional Office provides administrative and operational support for the network of client service centres under its jurisdiction.

■ Branch Executive Services Directorate

This directorate, through six divisions, provides a number of services to the branch including the coordination of responses to client CPP and OAS appeals; the assessment of the risk of monetary error and fraud and recommendation for preventive and corrective measures; operational and administrative support; planning and information analysis; training and development; resolution of problems and preparation of responses to ministerial enquiries on Income Security Program issues, coordination of Access to Information and Privacy functions for the branch, and providing appropriate training to staff to ensure conformity with legislative requirements; provision of translation and text revision services; and organizing in-house language training.

■ Child Tax Benefit and Children's Special Allowances

A monthly Special Allowance is paid to child care agencies, government departments and institutions, and sometimes to foster parents who are caring for children under the age of 18. Legislation was enacted effective January 1, 1993 to replace the Family Allowances Program, the Refundable Tax Credit and the non-refundable Dependent Child Credit with the Child Tax Benefit Program, consisting of a single social benefit delivered through the income tax system. ISP is phasing out the administration of the Family Allowances Program. It currently retains the responsibility for determination of eligibility for the Child Tax Benefit. Revenue Canada is responsible for determination of benefit amount and authorization of payment. ISP is responsible for all aspects of the Children's Special Allowances program for children in foster and institutional care. All Child Tax Benefit information holdings are the responsibility of the Minister of National Revenue.

■ International Benefits and Foreign Affairs Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the negotiation of international Social Security agreements; management of Canada's involvement in international social security organizations; provision of technical assistance and training in response to requests from social security institutions in developing countries; adjudication and processing of all applications covered by established international agreements; and liaison with foreign organizations and governments.

■ Old Age Security Program (OAS)

This program consists of the following benefits payable under the Old Age Security Act: the Old Age Security Basic Pension, the income-tested Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS) for pensioners who have little or no income, and the income-tested Spouse's Allowance (SPA) for spouses, between the ages of 60 and 65, of pensioners in receipt of the GIS as well as Widowed Spouse's Allowance for spouses between 60 and 65, who are widowed and who meet the established income test and legal residence in Canada criteria.

■ Programs Policy and Legislation Directorate

This Directorate, through two divisions, is responsible for the examination of income security-related issues, related policy planning and development; development and interpretation of ISP policy and legislation; federal/provincial negotiation on CPP amendments; provision of advice to senior management and the Minister on program policy matters; dealing with challenges to ISP legislation under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Human Rights Act; providing secretariat support to the Canada Pension Plan Advisory Board and its Committees; maintenance of program statistics and forecasting program expenditures and beneficiary estimates for policy initiatives.

■ Systems and Technology Management Directorate

This directorate is responsible for the management of information and technology to support all aspects of benefit delivery and administration of the Branch. This entails the maintenance, enhancement, development, testing and implementation of Branch application systems including the Old Age Security System, the Canada Pension Plan System, the International Agreements System, and the Children's Special Allowances System.

■ The Canada Pension Plan (CPP)

A compulsory, contributory social insurance program which provides a measure of protection to Canadian workers and their families against the loss of earnings due to death, disability or retirement.

■ The Canada Pension Plan Directorate

For purposes of program integrity and efficiency, a number of CPP functions are carried out in National Headquarters. Functions are carried out by six divisions and include the determination, through the evaluation of an applicant's medical history and profile, of eligibility for CPP disability benefits; the processing and maintenance of disability accounts; the processing of dual accounts (those workers whose contributions were made to both the CPP and the Québec Pension Plan); the maintenance of the Records of Earnings file consisting of all CPP earnings and contributor information on some 20 million Canadians; the processing of all accounts requiring manual processing benefits; and the reconciliation for CPP financial accounts, Headquarters payment authorization and Dual Billing.

Insurance Group

This group develops and executes legislation, policies, programs and systems with respect to benefit payments and control of payments according to the Unemployment Insurance Act, administered by the Commission, including regular, sickness, maternity and parental unemployment insurance benefits, benefits paid to claimants referred to approved training, benefits paid to claimants in approved work sharing and job creation projects, and labour adjustment benefits. The group represents the Commission in submitting or contesting appeals with respect to decisions concerning such benefits. It is also responsible for the development of financial parameters under the Unemployment Insurance Act as well as for policy development with respect to the Supplementary Unemployment Benefits Program, the Interstate Claim Program, Social Insurance Number Program, the Government Annuities Program and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction Program.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

The Insurance Group uses integrated clerical, manual and EDP systems to deliver its programs and services. The following systems support the various insurance programs. These systems may support several of the information banks already described; the numbers of the corresponding banks are given in all instances.(1) Benefit Pay Systems (EDP-1): These systems support the administration of the unemployment insurance benefit program and may be used to produce payments, update status of claims, maintain a history of overpayments, produce monthly and quarterly statistical reports on operations, overpayments and accounting, produce T4U/TP4Us showing benefits paid and income tax deducted for each claimant, and support associated enquiry functions in local and regional offices. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk.

(HRDC PPU 150;155;170;180).(2) Employment and Benefits Systems (EDP-2): These systems use data from the above banks to make available claimant benefit and overpayment data via computer terminals located in local and regional offices. (HRDC PPU 005; 150; 155; 180).(3) Benefit Systems – Control (EDP-3): These systems support the Insurance Group control activities and may be used for detection of unreported work and earnings by unemployment insurance beneficiaries; to track debtors from HRDC records; to compare Social Insurance Numbers issued/used to identify misuse; and for micrographic listings for the general control of insurance programs. Information is held on magnetic tape/disk. (HRDC PPU 210; 215).

■ National Services

National Services is responsible for the administration of the Social Insurance Number, the Canadian Government Annuities and the Unemployment Insurance Premium Reduction programs.

Electronic Data Processing (EDP) Systems

National Services uses integrated clerical, manual and electronic data processing systems to deliver HRDC's services. The following systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number program and the Government Annuities program, which are administered by the group, as well as the Record of Employment (third copy) and U.I. Premium Reduction programs. (1) Information Systems – Social Insurance Number Registration (EDP-1): These systems support the administration of the Social Insurance Number (SIN) program by maintaining a database of all SINs issued in Canada which is used to validate SIN data, produce reports and micrographics. Information is held on hard disks. (HRDC PPU 390) (2) Information Systems -Annuities (EDP-2): These systems support the administration of the Government Annuities Program, and are used to produce payments; T4 slips for annuity contracts in payment; related financial, actuarial and administrative reports; and a database for contracts not yet in payment. Information is held on high speed cartridges. (HRDC PPU 395) (3) Insurance Systems - Control (EDP-3): These systems support the insurance control activities by using information from the Record of Employment, Report on Hirings, U.I. Premium Reduction Programs and other HRDC control systems to identify fraud and abuse of insurance programs. Information is held on hard disks. (HRDC PPU 385)

Labour

The Department of Labour (Labour Canada) was established in 1900 under the Conciliation Act. It now operates under the Depart of Labour Act. The Labour program is now delivered as part of the Department of Human Resources Development Canada. The department is responsible for the administration of the Canada Labour Code, the Fair Wages and Hours of Labour Act, the Penitentiary Inmate Accident Compensation Regulations, the Government Employee Compensation Act, the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act and the Labour Adjustment Benefits Act. The Labour program collects and publishes information on labour conditions and conducts enquiries into important industrial questions.

■ Arbitration Services Branch

Responsible for effecting the ministerial appointment of grievance arbitrators under collective labour agreements, of adjudicators to hear complaints of alleged unjust dismissal made by non-unionized employees and the appointment of referees with respect to wage recovery appeals. The Branch also maintains an inventory of all arbitration/adjudication decisions. These decisions are analyzed, indexed and summarized in scope note format in the monthly publication, Arbitration Services Reporter.

■ Bureau of Labour Information

Collects, analyses, publishes and disseminates information relating to industrial relations and labour. Particular consideration is placed on information pertaining to major collective bargaining settlements, including developments in negotiated wage increases and the incidence of various provisions in collective agreements. Information on work stoppages due to strikes and lock-outs, labour organizations and union constitutions is also available. As well, the Bureau maintains a computerized database containing information on major agreements and an extensive library of collective agreements from all jurisdictions in Canada. The Bureau provides direct service to clients seeking information on the above matters. The Bureau also retains copies of non-confidential labour union returns received under the Corporations and Labour Unions Returns Act (CALURA). These are available for public viewing.

■ Communications Directorate

The Communications Directorate informs workers, employers and the general public on a wide range of labour-related matters, including the Department's objectives, programs and services. It advises the departmental management on all aspects of communications and co-ordinates communications activities including strategic and operational planning. It is also responsible for media relations, audio-visual services, editorial and creative writing services, and publishing, advertising and development of promotional/special events plans.

■ Corporate Management Services

Corporate Management Services consists of Corporate Planning Resourcing and Reporting, Safety and Security Services, and Information Management Branch. It is responsible for the implementation of corporate systems and policies in the general area of administration, finance, safety and security and information.

■ Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service consists of the Mediation and Conciliation Branch, the Arbitration Services Branch and the Legislative Development and Operational Research Branch. The Service is responsible for the administration of the dispute resolution provisions of the Canada Labour Code.

■ Federal Workers Compensation Service

Responsible for policy development and provision of compensation for work-related injury for federal employees, penitentiary inmates and merchant seaman.

■ Fire and Property Protection Branch and the Fire Commissioner of Canada

Provide policies and programs to promote fire prevention. The unit also provides fire protection services to the Treasury Board, as the employer such as building plan reviews, standards development, fire inspections and investigations.

■ Industrial Relations and Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service

The Industrial Relations and Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is responsible for the administration of the dispute resolution provisions of the Canada Labour Code, the adoption of dispute prevention initiatives to maintain stable labour-management relations, the provision and analysis of labour-related statistics and information on industrial relations and the collective bargaining process and the support of initiatives promoting productive and innovative workplaces, and improved labour-management relations. Component areas are the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the Bureau of Labour Information and Consultation and Client Services.

■ Industrial Relations Services

The objective of this sub-activity is to promote effective relationships between labour, business and government by providing financial assistance and practical advice through the Labour-Management Partnerships Program (LMPP) for joint projects involving new approaches to industrial relations, employee involvement/participation in the operation of the firm, reorganization of work and innovative labour-management approaches to issues such as employment security, work and family, working time and distribution of work, etc. As well, under the Labour Education Program (LEP), financial assistance is provided to the Canadian labour movement to conduct internal training activities in areas such as leadership, health and safety, collective bargaining and public policy issues.

■ International Affairs

Manages Canada's participation in the International Labour Organization (ILO), coordinates the department's involvement in other international labour activities and monitors international labour affairs trends and developments. As well, the Office promotes and coordinates visits to Canada of high-level delegations from other countries interested in learning more about various aspects of Canadian labour laws and practices.

■ Labour Regional Operations

Responsible, through its 6 regional and 23 field offices, for delivering the Department's programs that cover occupational safety and health, conditions of work, fire protection services, education and injury compensation. They also serve as focal points for information about other Department activities.

■ Labour Standards and Equal Pay Branch

Concerned with improving working conditions in the federally regulated private sector through the interpretation, application and periodic review of Part III (Labour Standards) of the Canada Labour Code. As well, the Branch promotes, educates and provides technical advice and guidance to employers and unions, and makes inspections for the implementation of equal pay for work of equal value.

■ Legislative Development and Operational Research Branch

Carries out a variety of activities intended to ensure the maintenance of an appropriate framework for collective bargaining in the federal jurisdiction and assists in the resolution and prevention of industrial disputes by providing operational research support. The branch has responsibility for legislative initiatives undertaken by FMCS and for advising senior officials, other Labour programs and other government departments on a wide variety of departmental and government initiatives concerned with industrial relations issues. Branch members analyze labour board and court decisions and monitor client views and legislative developments in the federal and other jurisdictions to assess their implications for labour relations. Staff members also conduct research on current and emerging industrial relations problems and issues and provide expert analysis and advice to assist in the formulation of dispute resolution strategies.

■ Management Policy Analysis and Liaison

Consists of the Women's Bureau, the International Relations Branch, Policy Analysis and Liaison and the Office of the North American Agreement on Labour Cooperation. It is responsible for advising officials on labour policy and it co-ordinates the Department's relations with provincial governments, international organizations and the Canadian private sector on labour-related issues.

■ Mediation and Conciliation Branch

Provides neutral third-party assistance to labour and management to resolve disputes arising during the negotiation of collective agreements by appointing conciliation officers, conciliation commissioners or boards and mediators under Part I of the Canada Labour Code. It also helps improve ongoing relationships and the communication channels between labour and management through a preventive mediation program that provides information, advice, training, facilitation and grievance mediation, and the general labour relations climate through the appointment of Industrial Inquiry Commissions.

■ Merchant Seamen Compensation Board

The Merchant Seamen Compensation Board administers the Merchant Seamen Compensation Act, which provides workers' compensation coverage for seamen who are employed on vessels registered in Canada and who are not covered by a provincial workers' compensation act.

■ Occupational Safety and Health Branch

Develops policies and programs to promote safe and healthy working conditions through the application of Part II of the Canada Labour Code (Occupational Safety and Health). It also provides industrial safety and hygiene engineering and laboratory services.

■ Office of the North American Agreement on Labour Cooperation

The Office is responsible for implementing the North American Agreement on Labour Cooperation and coordinating all aspects of Canada's participation in the Commission for Labour Cooperation. The mandate includes working with its U.S. and Mexican counterparts in compiling and exchanging information, responding to enquiries and concerns from the Canadian public, and supporting the federal-provincial Governmental Council, as well as the private sector advisory body. The Office also coordinates and supports Canadian participation in the trinational and tripartite Cooperative Work Program which is developed and carried out on an annual basis. The Cooperative Work Program includes initiatives in the areas of occupational safety and health, employment and job training, productivity and quality and labour law/worker rights.

■ Operations Program

The Operations Program consists of the Labour Standards and Equal Pay Branch, the Occupational Safety and Health Branch, the Fire and Property

Protection Branch, the Program Services and Systems Branch. The Program is responsible for implementing policies and delivering services designed to foster the economic and social well-being of working Canadians, for administering the labour standards and occupational safety and health provisions of the Canada Labour Code and other legislation under the Department's labour jurisdiction, and minimizing fire risks to life and property. Its work is conducted at departmental headquarters in the National Capital Region and across Canada through the Department's ten regional offices.

■ Policy Analysis and Liaison

Policy Analysis and Liaison analyzes and develops labour-related policies on economic and social issues, maintains effective working relationships with other federal departments, employee and employer organizations and the provinces and territories, as well as providing policy advice. The Branch provides analysis of labour laws and regulations existing at the federal and provincial/territorial levels and in other countries as required. It also maintains an information base on labour law covering federal, provincial and territorial jurisdictions. As well, it provides secretariat services to the Canadian Association of Administrators of Labour Legislation (CAALL) and manages the initiative on the harmonization of occupational safety and health legislation/regulations in co-operation with provincial/territorial governments and employer and labour groups.

Policy Analysis and Liaison prepares publications that summarize labour legislation and regulations throughout Canada, which it markets on a cost-recovery basis. These reports contain information on industrial relations, occupational safety and health and employment standards. Publications include Labour Law Update, a review of new legislation in Canada published six times a year, and Employment Standards Legislation in Canada and Industrial Relations Legislation in Canada, reference works published every two years.

■ Policy and Strategic Analysis Branch

Studies major economic and social issues and ensures that labour concerns are fully integrated into the government's policy-making process. Among other responsibilities, Policy and Strategic Analysis provides information and analysis from a labour perspective on issues that are likely to be discussed at Cabinet meetings.

■ Women's Bureau

Established in 1954, the mission of the Women's Bureau is to advance the full and equal participation of women in human resources development by working with key partners to effect changes in relevant policies and practices. The Bureau regularly consults and collaborates with unions, employers, women's groups and other federal departments, provincial and territorial governments, and international bodies and agencies. The Bureau administers the Marion V. Royce Memorial Grants Program and the Workplace Equality Fund which encourages labour-management cooperation on projects that promote equity in the workplace. Current initiatives of the Bureau focus on work and family responsibilities, occupational segregation and non-traditional occupations, women's occupational health and safety, sexual harassment, and older women workers.

Social Development and Education

Social Development and Education develops, administers, promotes and supports programs and policies that address the basic financial, social and rehabilitation needs of the disadvantaged people of Canada; to improve the quality and accessibility of child care services; and, to facilitate, on behalf of provinces, the adoption of children from other countries. The program tests, through the Strategic Initiatives Activities, innovative and cost effective ways of reforming our social security programs in the areas of employment training, income support and services; and, provides opportunities for program coherence and integration to reduce the jurisdictional and structural barriers between labour market/training/ education and social services.

The program also improves the economic integration and effective participation of persons with disabilities, and the equity of women in Canadian society; increases awareness and participation of all Canadians in the area of literacy; and, improves the relevance of applied social research.

Through the education support activity, the program promotes particularly at the post-secondary level, a concerted national approach to education based on excellence and equality of opportunity, through fiscal transfers to provincial and territorial governments, and financial assistance to students.

■ Alcohol and Drug Treatment and Rehabilitation Program (ADTR)

The Alcohol and Drug Treatment and Rehabilitation (ADTR) is a cost sharing program and an element of Canada's Drug Strategy which enables the federal government to share 50% of the cost to provinces for new alcohol and drug programming in Canada, with special emphasis on Youth. Cost sharing under ADTR extends to the full range of conventional treatment and rehabilitation services and also includes awareness and

■ Canada Assistance Plan

A compulsory, contributory social insurance program which provides a measure of protection to Canadian workers and their families against the loss of earnings due to death, disability or retirement.

■ Canada Student Assistance Branch

Manages the Canada Student Loans Program (CSLP). Established in 1964, the program is designed to make post-secondary education more accessible to needy Canadians by providing loans to full-time students, an interest relief program for unemployed and temporarily disabled ex-borrowers, and a provision to allow the forgiveness of loans to permanently disabled borrowers. The Branch also conducts research and analysis on the needs of Canadian post-secondary students for financial assistance. The Branch answers questions on student assistance from members of Parliament, interest groups and the public. It consults with interest groups (through a national advisory group) and provincial directors of student aid (through the intergovernmental Consultative Committee on Student Financial Assistance). In 1994, major reforms were introduced with Royal Assent being given to the Canada Student Financial Assistance Act. The reforms are based upon new financing arrangements with lending institutions and the principle of lenders risk-sharing. The new measures include increased loan limits for full and part-time students, special opportunity and deferred grants, revised eligibility criteria and need assessment for students.

■ Child Care Programs Division

Created in December 1987 as a part of the National Strategy on Child Care, is committed to enhancing and sustaining high-quality child care in Canada. It is responsible for administering the Child Care Initiatives Fund, a contribution program, for innovative research and development projects and public awareness programs; and providing consultation and information services on child care (through the National Child Care Information Centre) to government and non-government offices, associations, professionals, individuals, and the daycare community at large.

■ Cost Shared Programs Directorate

The Cost Shared Programs Branch is responsible for the administration of three main sub-activities: Cost Shared Programs, Child Care Program and National Adoption Desk.

The Cost Shared Programs division administers, in cooperation with the provinces and territories, four specific programs: Canada Assistance Plan (CAP); Vocational Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons (VRDP); Alcohol and Drug Treatment and Rehabilitation (ADTR); and Federal-Provincial Agreements to Enhance the Employability of Social Assistance Recipients; and two main demonstration projects: New Brunswick Works (NB Works) and Deinstitutionalization.

The Canada Assistance Plan (CAP) is a cost-sharing program through which Canada contributes to the eligible costs incurred by provinces, territories and municipalities of providing social assistance, welfare services of a preventive, supportive or rehabilitative nature, and work activity projects intended to improve the employability of persons who have employment difficulties.

The Vocational Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons Act (VRDP) is a cost-sharing program through which Canada pays 50 per cent of the costs incurred by the provinces in providing a comprehensive program for the vocational rehabilitation of physically and mentally disabled persons.

The Act also enables Canada to make direct contributions to individuals and non-governmental organizations for vocational rehabilitation research.

■ Deinstitutionalization Initiatives

The Deinstitutionalization Initiatives are the largest single element of the 1991-96 National Strategy for the integration of persons with disabilities. Federal transition funding is being provided for development of community based alternatives for persons with intellectual disabilities who are now in institutions or unstable community settings. Costs of essential services, during and after the projects, will be shared equally with the provinces under provisions of CAP and VRDP. Each project involves a partnership between federal and provincial governments and national and provincial associations.

■ Disabled Persons Participation Program (DPPP)

The creation of Human Resources Development Canada resulted in several disability funding programs being brought together in one department. As of April 1, 1994, three of these programs, the Disabled Persons Participation Program, the Abilities Program and the Workers with Disabilities Fund were amalgamated into one program and named simply the Disabled Persons Participation Program. The DPPP consists of two funding components: the Disability Organizational Fund and the Partnership Fund. Project funding and technical assistance from the Disability Organization Fund have helped organizations of persons with disabilities work to change the attitudes, systems and practices that have kept them from getting jobs and gaining access to buildings, goods, services and information.

In 1991, as part of the National Strategy for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, the Program was expanded to include a Partnership Fund allowing other relevant organizations an opportunity to join with groups of persons with disabilities to affect change. Through these two funding components, the program addresses six priority areas: employment, community participation, independent living, family violence, workers with disabilities and children and youth.

■ Education Support Branch

The Branch administers post-secondary education payments to the provinces and territories under the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements Act and the Federal Post-Secondary Education and Health Contributions Act (1977). It co-operates with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade in ensuring the effectiveness of Canada's participation in international educational activities. It conducts research and analysis related to the development of national education issues. It develops responses to questions from institutions related to education, from Parliament and from the public. It works with Statistics Canada to collect statistics concerning education, maintains a database on information relevant to education, consults with federal and provincial departments, and produces an annual report to Parliament on Federal and Provincial Support to Post-Secondary Education in Canada.

■ Education Support/Student Assistance Branch

Education Support and Student Assistance have been joined to form one branch.

■ Federal-Provincial Agreement to Enhance the Employability of Social Assistance Recipients

The Federal-Provincial Agreements to Enhance the Employability of Social Assistance Recipients is an initiative which resulted in negotiated agreements between the federal government and provincial social service and labour market counterparts to provide training and employment programs to assist social assistance recipients in making the transition to the labour market. Under the agreements, provinces and the federal government spend equal amounts on programming.

■ National Adoption Desk

The National Adoption Desk provides services related to International adoptions to provinces and territories. The Desk's primary activities are the development of new and maintenance of existing Intercountry Adoption Programs; coordination of intercountry adoption cases on behalf of the provinces and territories; and coordination of information and intercountry adoption matters among the provinces/territories, other federal departments and foreign authorities. The Desk represents all provinces and territories except Quebec which manages its own relations with other provinces and foreign countries through the Secrétariat à l'adoption internationale du Québec.

■ National Literacy Secretariat

Was established on a permanent basis in 1988 as part of a national literacy strategy to help ensure that Canadians have the literacy skills necessary to participate fully in the social and economic life of Canada. The Secretariat acts like a catalyst and facilitator in this national effort to make Canada a more literate society. It directs its efforts to forging more cooperative relationships with a variety of partners — all the provinces and territories, voluntary organizations, business and labour — in support of five types of activities: developing learning materials; improving co-ordination and information-sharing; increasing public awareness; improving access and outreach; and supporting research. The Program has four funding streams. Through its federal/provincial/territorial stream, it sponsors projects which are directed to regional or local needs. Through its national funding stream, it supports projects in partnership with a variety of non-governmental and voluntary organizations, both literacy and non-literacy groups and business and labour organizations. Broadly speaking, initiatives with these groups address an issue or concern of relevance to literacy in Canada from a national perspective. Through the Atlantic Groundfish Strategy (TAGS) funding stream, it sponsors projects that are directed to regional or local needs of TAGS recipients. And, through its Literacy Corps funding stream, it encourages the training of volunteer tutors who in turn offer literacy training to youth in their respective communities. The National Literacy Program does not fund the provision of direct, on-going literacy services.

■ National Welfare Grants Division

National Welfare Grants Division (NWG) is a National Social Research and Development Program that develops and promotes knowledge and resources which address significant social development issues facing Canadians and Canadian society. NWG provides project contribution funds to non-profit organizations to address priority social development issues which contribute significantly to the social and economic well-being of Canadians. National Welfare Grants Fellowships are available for full-time study leading to advanced diplomas or doctoral degrees in social welfare or a closely related field. Grants are provided to national voluntary social service organizations as partial funding for national office activities.

■ New Brunswick Works (NB Works)

New Brunswick Works (NB Works) is a joint federal-provincial demonstration project to support social assistance recipients in educational upgrading and skills training in order to help them make the transition from welfare to work through a Memorandum of Understanding. The project involves a long term commitment (up to 49 months) focusing on the individual's training needs. The clients receive income support by combined means of provincial wage subsidies and UI development uses and course purchase assistance through a special Training and Development Fund (TDF) operated by HRDC and the provincial Department of Income Assistance.

■ Status of Disabled Persons Secretariat

Promotes collaboration and partnership among federal and provincial governments, business, labour, academics, service providers, and persons with disabilities in order to achieve equal access, economic integration and full participation for person with disabilities. It plans and co-ordinates initiatives of the federal government, such as the National Strategy for the Integration of Persons with Disabilities, the review of federal legislation, and provides advice and support to federal departments and agencies regarding policy initiatives which impact on Canadians with disabilities. It also provides information to all Canadians through the Canadian Clearinghouse on Disability Issues.

■ Strategic Initiatives Program

The Strategic Initiatives Program, established in May 1994, is a key element of social security reform. It provides a unique mechanism for governments working in partnership to take action in high priority areas of employment, learning, income support and services. Projects selected under the SI Program are funded on a 50/50 basis with the province or territory, and will last two, three or four years depending on the nature of the initiative. A limited amount of Strategic Initiatives funding has been allocated to address the particular needs of Aboriginal peoples. Initiatives aim at addressing the needs of children and families; supporting the school to work transition; enabling working adults at risk of long term dependency to contribute as productive members of society; and ensuring that persons who experience barriers to employment and full participation in community living can achieve equality, independence, and full participation. Initiatives will also provide opportunities for program coherence and integration to reduce the jurisdictional and structural barriers; demonstrate ways of reducing reliance on government assistance; and demonstrate innovative approaches to job creation.

■ Women's Program

Responsible for providing financial and technical assistance to voluntary organizations working towards equality for women. Its objectives are: to increase public understanding in order to encourage action on women's equality issues; to promote the organizational development of women's groups in order to increase their effectiveness in working towards equality for women; and to promote action by institutions to incorporate women's equality issues in their decision-making structures, policies and programs.

Strategic Policy

This group has broad responsibility for developing and maintaining statistical information banks which may be used for research, evaluation, policy and program analysis, and development in support of the various EIC programs and services. The data are frequently extracted from the personal information banks described in the previous sections and they may be supplemented by questionnaires, surveys or other research tools. These data may be of interest to several groups within HRDC. The group is also responsible for Intergovernmental Relations.

Systems Group

This group is responsible for the development and operation of the manual and electronic data processing systems required to execute HRDC's programs.

Youth Affairs Group

The Youth Affairs Group is the organizational branch of HRDC which supports the office of the Minister of State for Youth by providing a broad advisory and coordination role for youth issues and concerns.
